Trust Commissioners To Be Elected For Five Years

One of The Changes Asked For By The City From The Legislature—At Present They Are Elected For Life

REPORTS WERE ADOPTED

The city council celebrated its last meeting of the year by a four hour session last night. The aldermen met first in committee of the whole, and although only four or five matters were taken up the discussion was so lengthy that it was eleven o'clock when the council met, and by that time the city fathers were too tired to walk up stairs, and finished the business in the committee room. The business of the committee of the whole is treated elsewhere, and the principal thing in connection with the council session was the reading of reports, that of the Legal Committee treating with the legislation to be asked for by the city, and at the next meeting of the Legislature. It was not until ten minutes after the midnight hour had sounded on the night air that the council of 1907 finished its last business of the year, and left the city hall, some of them, perhaps, not to return.

There were present the Mayor, Ald. Phelan, Morrow, Wilson, Tovey, Leary, Stevenson, Bradburn, Morgan, Elliott, Duncan and McIntyre.

The City Engineer reported that Mr. Chard, was not capable of carrying out the snow ploughing contract in the north end and recommended that one of the tenderers should be appointed.

On motion of Ald. Wilson, seconded by Ald. Bradburn, Mr. E. Flaherty was awarded the contract. — Carried.

On motion of Ald. Morrow, seconded by Ald. Bradburn, the chairman of the Property Committee was authorized to wait upon Mr. Hall with a view of securing permission to place an isolation hospital tent in Jackson Park, in case of emergency.

Finance Committee

The Finance Committee reported, and recommended as follows:

1. That an account from Dr. Halliday be paid when certified to by the Board of Health.
2. That $1 erroneously paid for a dog tag be refunded to Mr. James O'Brien.
3. That owing to the extra work the Court of Revision has had this year the chairman of the court be paid a bonus of $100 and the other members of the court $75 each.
4. That one copy of Seagar's Magistrate's Manual be ordered for the use of the Clerk of the Police Court.
5. That the following accounts be paid:

Board of Works

The Board of Works reported and recommended as follows:

1—That $6.28 be paid on Mr. H. C. Stabler's account, provided he accepts this amount in settlement.

2—That Wm. Davidson be refunded the sum of $20 deposited for a sewer connection, but that in future the City Engineer be instructed to impose a fine of $10 on any person opening a street without permission before accepting a deposit for a sewer connection, and that a bylaw be passed to authorize the same.

That $100 worth of stone be purchased and broken by hand, and that the City Engineer call for tenders, and that the stone and cost of breaking be paid for on the certificate of the Engineer.

Legal Committee

The Legal Committee reported and recommended as follows:

1—That the City Solicitor be instructed to prepare a bylaw to comply with the request of Mr. Malcolm Buchanan to be assessed as a Public School supporter upon Mr. Buchanan supplying the necessary proofs of the facts.

2—That the City Treasurer be authorized to issue a cheque for $12.80 to the City Solicitor to settle the claim of H. S. Hodder for injury received by his child on the sidewalk, and to obtain a release.

3—That the City Solicitor be instructed to give notice of the intention of the Council to apply for legislation for the following purposes:

To authorize the election of aldermen for two years, one-half retiring each year.

To authorize the Water Commissioners to spend $20,000 for five years on extensions and improvements of the waterworks, or to authorize the Council to issue debentures to the amount of their contingent fund.

To amend the law to provide that the Water Commissioners pay the interest and sinking funds on waterworks debentures directly to the City Trust Commissioners.

For confirmation of bylaws fixing assessments of certain manufacturing concerns as the Council may direct.

For the confirmation of the bylaws fixing a charge for connections with trunk sewers or when property is not specially assessed for the sewer.

To change the method of appointing the City Trust Commissioners and to enlarge their powers.

There was some discussion over the clause in regard to the appointing of City Trust Commissioners. At present the Commissioners are appointed for life by the Council, and by the new scheme, which is a suggestion of the Mayor, it is provided that they be appointed for five years only.

Ald. Morrow was opposed to passing the clause until the matter had been discussed with the Commissioners, but did not move an amendment to the motion that the report should be adopted, which was carried.

It was moved by Ald. Bradburn, seconded by Ald. Duncan, that the offer of Dennistoun, Peck & Kerr, on behalf of Miss McMahon, for $1,200 to pay for her property on the extension of George street, be accepted. —Carried.

The Council then adjourned for the year, unless an emergency arises.

Snow Cleaning Apparatus Failed To Do Work Well

And as a Result Citizens Did All Kinds of Kicking—Business Men After Shovelling Snow Down Street Had to Wade Up To Their Knees

SOME REASONS ARE GIVEN

The first big snow storm of the season caught the city's snow cleaning staff unawares, and in many of the streets Saturday night and yesterday, no snow ploughs were in evidence, and the wrath of the citizens increased as the snow got deeper. Many and loud were the complaints heard yesterday, especially from the business men who had toiled with shovel and scraper on Saturday night to keep the pavement in front of their premises clear of the flakes, only to find when they started for home that they had to wade through snow to the knees once the business section was left beind.

Several reasons are given for the work not being done properly. One of the contractors Street Commissioner Evans waited upon to see why he had not been working, stated that he was "waiting until the snow stopped falling," seemingly ignorant of the fact that he should have been out and at work. Another of the contractors hired by the city, it was found, had no horse. He had taken the contract intending to hire a horse when needed, but for some reason he did not do so on this occasion and was not out at all. To make matters worse, there was an argument between the Fire Department men and the Board of Works, and the result was that the central section was not half done.

The Mayor and Street Commissioner Evans were busy this morning in trying to straighten out matters.

Two Fixed Assessments Will Go To Legislature

Committee of The Whole Council Decides That Cases of Auburn Woollen Co'y and Peter Hamilton Co'y Shall be Submitted—Others Have to Wait

MR. KENDRY WAS HEARD

The Committee of the Whole Council last night decided to apply to the Legislature for power to fix the assessment of the Auburn Woollen Company and the Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company. What the assessment will be placed at will be settled by next year's council, the committee taking the step last night to ensure that the notice should be in within the legal time called for by the legislature.

The question of the fixed assessments asked for by the Auburn Woollen Company, the Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company, the McDonald Estate Lumber Company, the Peterborough Canoe Company and the Peterborough Lock Company were gone into at some length and it was finally decided that the first two should be included in the legislation to be submitted in the legislature while the others could wait inasmuch as their case was not nearly so strong in the opinion of the council.

Mr. Kendry was heard in regard to the matter and stated that the Auburn Company had had to spend a large amount of money to put in water works and had go improvements on that side of the river. The woollen business had been go through some trying times, but his company were not begging anything but only asked that they should be placed in the same position as other people. The company had increased their machinery and out-put and had never asked anything of the council. The company was one of the oldest concerns in the city and were entitled to the same consideration as the newer concerns. He explained that the competitors of the company in other cities had advantages of fixed assessments. The company spent in wages from $70,000 to $75,000 per year, and they had never even had fire protection.

In answer to a question he stated that the company was assessed at $57,000.

A letter was read from the Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company in which the advantages enjoyed by some of their competitors was pointed out. It was shown that in Smith's Falls, Frost & Wood were assessed at $10,000 on an investment of $500,000 and had also been assisted by a bonus. In Hamilton the Deering people were assessed at $16,000, on which they only paid 8 mills on the dollar.

In the discussion that followed in regard to fixed assessments the Mayor stated that he thought the two had pretty strong cases, but was not so sure about the others whom he thought were in a different position.

Ald. Leary moved that application be made to the Legislature for power to fix the assessment of the Auburn Woollen Company and Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company.

Ald. Wilson seconded the motion.

Ald. Morgan on the other hand thought that the matter should be left over and the whole question should be taken up early next year and moved in that direction. There was no seconder and Ald. Leary's motion was carried by a large majority.

The Mission Sale And Social

Held at St. John's Church in Connection With Junior Auxiliary

HAIR SOFT AS SILK

New Scientific Treatment Kills Dandruff Germs, and Makes Hair Soft.

It is an accepted fact, a proven fact, that dandruff is a germ disease; and it is also a demonstrated fact that Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ. Without dandruff falling hair would stop, and thin hair will thicken. Herpicide not only kills the dandruff germ, but it also makes hair as soft as silk. It is the most delightful hair dressing made. It cleanses the scalp from dandruff and keeps it clean and healthy. Itching and irritation are instantly relieved and permanently cured. There's nothing "just as good." Take no substitute. Ask for "Herpicide." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50c and $1. The Market Drug Store, Special Agents.

SOMETHING SHOULD BE DONE

What is Causing the Increase in Catarrh in Peterborough?

In spite of the best efforts of medical men, catarrhal troubles are increasing not only in Peterborough but all over the country.

Catarrh is a germ disease, and to cure it germ life in the breathing organs should be destroyed, and to do this no other treatment has such positive and beneficial action as Hyomei.

When the mucous membrane is irritated and raw, and the system weakened, there is an ideal breeding place for catarrhal germs. Breathe Hyomei, and see how quickly it soothes the membranes, vitalizes the tissues and destroys all the disease germs, rendering catarrh no longer possible.

There is no dangerous stomach drugging when Hyomei is used; no tablets or liquid mixtures destroying digestion.

Breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every Hyomei outfit, the healing balsams penetrate to the most remote air cells of the throat, nose and lungs, destroying the catarrhal germs so that quick recovery follows.

Mr. Madill agrees to refund the money to any purchaser of Hyomei who does not find that it does all that is claimed for it. The complete outfit costs but $1.00.

DODGED THE BULLETS.

The Count de Hubner tells in his memoirs a thrilling story of an adventure in the Italian city of Brescia during the days of the revolution of 1848. When the trouble began in the streets he contrived to get into a house, taking with him two or three other persons, including the wife of a minor official who had intrusted the lady for awhile to the count's care, but who was to have certain news of her as soon as possible.

The firing grew heavier, and the rebels soon had possession of almost every house in the street.

On the 19th of March Count de Hubner decided that he must do something toward bettering his position in case of an assault, and he forced his only remaining servant to make a dash across the street to the palace where the Austrian general, Rath, was quartered, two blocks away and on the other side. The man was merely to let the general know that De Hubner himself was coming and to ask that the gates be held ready for him.

"Myself, prudence and my honor had a long and heated argument," says Count de Hubner. "Finally I pulled myself together. I had to let Prince Metternich know about myself, to make a last report and to keep my word about poor Mme. M. I undid the door, drew a long breath and plunged down the street.

"The bullets flew all around me, spattering in leaden showers from the stone pavement. As I arrived at the gates of the palace they swung inward, and in a second I was inside, unscathed. But only half my journey was done. I had still to go back again.

"A letter—my last report—was soon completed for Metternich and my message to the husband of Mme. M. was given. I had to return.

"Again the gates were opened and I bounded forth. A veritable fusillade followed. From every window and housetop came the spurts of white smoke, and I tried to dodge forty bullets at once. In a minute I had reached my own door, and as I did so I turned to look back.

"Another man left the palace gates at full speed, but before he had half crossed the street a puff of smoke shot out of a window and he fell flat and was instantly lying like a log across the gutter. The fire stopped at once—what use would even an Italian see in shooting a dead man?

"But on the second that all became quiet to my great astonishment I saw this 'dead man' rise to his legs like a cat and dash across the street into the half open door waiting for him. The sharpshooters were taken by surprise and he escaped."

Beggars in Italy.

As the natural beauties of Italy increase toward the south so do the beggars in numbers and persistence. The lame, the halt and the blind confront one everywhere in Naples. Mothers exhibit the ailings of pitiable children, and strong, well children follow the foreigner about, begging for soldi. They stick like leeches to the traveler unaccustomed to the country's ways, sometimes even laying hands on him to call attention to their needs. This nuisance is in no small degree due to the careless generosity of tourists who scatter coppers to be struggled for by ragamuffins in the streets or whose hearts are touched by pitiable spectacles. It is, however, better to make a firm rule not to give. In the first place your money when given to manifestly needy beggars is often extorted from them by ablebodied loafers. Besides, if you give one you'll soon find a crowd after you. If you must give, give little. A soldo (equivalent of our cent) is sufficient. Knowledge of methods of dismissing importuning beggars, touts and venders will be found useful on reaching Naples and other cities of the south. The word "niente" (nothing), spoken firmly, is the first to use. If this does not suffice try what Baedeker describes as "a slight backward motion of the head, accompanied by a somewhat contemptuous expression." "Va via!" (Italian for "Get out!") may also be found useful.—Travel Magazine.

AFGHAN WOMEN.

High Caste Mothers Have a Lonely, Lazy Time of It.

If there are any women in the world who have a right to die of ennui it is those poor creatures of Afghanistan, the upper class dames. They spend their days doing absolutely nothing, for they disdain sewing, cooking and general household duties. They leave the care of their children to slaves, and they can neither read nor write.

Generally in a rich house there is one chief slave, a sort of housekeeper, rather a grand person, whom it is always wise to conciliate if you intend having many dealings with that establishment. In summer she is always dressed in purest white. In winter velvets and brocades are not beyond her reach. She is generally an elderly person, with considerable influence and a good deal of authority.

Then there is another who is a sort of maid to the lady of the house. She is another person with whom it is not wise to quarrel. She is always very much in evidence. She it is who prepares everything for her mistress' toilet, as also for her master's. It is the wife's special duty and privilege, however, when the things are prepared to wait upon her husband when he is dressing, to pour the water over his hands and feet during his religious washings, to spread his prayer carpet, to put his favorite dish before him, and so on.

It is difficult to appreciate the exact position of these Afghan women until one sees the way in which mothers are treated by their sons. They may nurse them when they are sick, tend them when they are young, but let the boys grow to be eleven or twelve years old and you will hear them tell their mother to "chup sho" (shut up), send them to fetch their caps and expect to be addressed by the mothers as "agha gul," or "agha jon," which means "my precious master," "master dear."

Kabul mothers seldom have much affection for their children or their children for them. They do not nurse them as babies, and their babyhood is a particularly long one, for they are very backward. They belong to their nurses more than to their mothers till they are two and one-half years old, and after that it is their father who notices them and not their mother.—Exchange.

She Liked Sailing.

The following true tale is a most curious instance of living well on nothing a year without breaking the laws of the land. Many years ago a steam packet company of Liverpool wished to buy a piece of land which was owned by a "stay at home spinster," as her neighbors described her. She sold her land at a very low price, but insisted upon a clause being inserted in the agreement giving her the right at any time during her life to travel with a companion in any of the company's vessels.

When the agreement was closed she sold her furniture and went on board the first outgoing ship belonging to the packet company. For years this wise spinster lived nearly all the time upon one ship or another, frequently accompanied by a companion, according to the agreement. This was always a person who otherwise would have been a regular passenger, but who purchased her ticket at reduced rates by paying the spinster instead of the packet company. The company offered her more than twice the value of the land if she would give up her privilege, but this she would not do. Her reply was, "You got the land cheap, and I like sailing, so we both should be satisfied."

An Anonymous Tombstone.

"Speaking of gravestone inscriptions," said the commercial traveler, "about the most independent and defiant I have ever read I discovered in the quaint little southern town of Cheraw, S. C.

"While waiting for a train a fellow traveler and I strolled over to a deserted little cemetery across the way from the railroad station for the purpose of whiling away the time by reading the inscriptions on the weather stained tombstones. The cemetery was all grown up with weeds and vines.

"We discovered nothing of particular interest till we came across a stone almost entirely hidden in the weeds. Though it was getting dark, we managed to make out the following inscription:

"My name, my country, what are they to thee,
Whether high or low my pedigree?
Perhaps I far surpassed all other men;
Perhaps I fell below them all—what then?
Suffice it, stranger, that thou seest a tomb;
Thou knowest its use; it hides no matter whom."

Two Great Poets Who Were Blind.

In the roll of the great poets of the past two who hold the very highest places were for an important period of their lives unpossessed of the power of vision—Homer and Milton. Happily these renowned followers of the muses made good use of their eyes in youth; otherwise it is scarcely possible that they could have left to us the finished pictures of natural scenery and other visible objects of creation which are to be found among their compositions. Homer had reached manhood and had written a considerable portion of the "Iliad" before he was attacked by that disease of the eyes which robbed them of their wonted powers. But the whole of the "Odyssey" was composed after the occurrence of this great mishap. Milton is stated by most biographers to have permanently lost his sight in 1654 after a progressive and warning decay of several years' duration. "Paradise Lost" was not published till 1667, and it was composed when the poet was perfectly blind.

CURES ECZEMA!

Dr. Agnew's Ointment can count its cured patients by the thousands.

But in no one skin disease has it so many almost marvellous cures as in cases of Eczema—this tenacious skin disorder which has baffled many a physician in seeking after a cure. One application puts out the fire, takes away the itching, stinging sensation, and after a few applications the eruptions begin to dry up, diminish, and eventually disappear entirely. The beauty of the treatment is, it leaves no scar or trace of the trouble—but a skin as soft as baby's. Cures piles in four to six nights. 35 cts. (4)

HORSESHOE CRABS.

The Necessity For Turning Them Over in the Aquarian Pool.

It is not an unusual occurrence at the aquarium for some humane visitor to approach an attendant and say:

"There's a horseshoe crab turned over on its back in the pool here, and it can't get back again. Won't you please come and turn it over?"

The attendant gets a dip net and climbs on to the coping around the pool in which the big horseshoe crabs are kept and reaches down in the water with it and turns the horseshoe right side up, whereupon the crab moves off comfortably.

This, however, as done in such case upon request, is only what sooner or later the attendant would have done of his own accord, for they here keep an eye on the horseshoes as they do on all the other impounded creatures.

It might perhaps be wondered if the horseshoe crab has to have a man to keep it turned over here what it does in the broad open water in which it finds a home, quite apart from man and where it can't have any such assistance. The answer is that in its natural home the conditions are very different and that there it is able to turn over itself.

The horseshoe crab has a long, stiff, spikelike tail, which is joined to its body with an attachment that works like a hinge. In the sea when a horseshoe gets turned over on its back it digs the point of its tail into the sand or mud on the bottom, and with that to hold by it raises the tail end of its body up off the bottom. In that more advantageous position and with the tail helping some as a lever the horseshoe is able to turn itself over.

In an aquarium pool, which is lined with porcelain tiles so that it can be kept clean, the horseshoe crab can't do this, because there it can't find sand or mud to stick its tail into to get a brace. Occasionally a horseshoe that has been overturned will by chance get the tip of its tail into the angle formed by the floor and the wall of the pave and so, with something to hold against, get leverage enough to turn itself over, but generally the big overturned horseshoes lie on their backs in the pool until they are righted.

The righting up of the horseshoes always interests the people standing around the pool, among whom there are likely to be some who view it with a more serious pleasure. A woman said to an attendant who had just turned over two big horseshoe crabs:

"I am glad to see that you treat them with kindness."

A Woman's "No."

There are plenty of happy marriages which have begun with "no" and ended with "yes." It frequently happens that the woman who refuses the first time consents willingly upon the second or third. Nor is the reason for this far to seek. The woman who answers with a negative often does so believing that if her suitor really means what he says he will not accept dismissal without making an effort to reverse her decision. The astute lover, when declined as a husband, begs humbly for friendship and proceeds to make himself necessary to his ladylove's comfort and happiness. He studies her tastes, humors her whims, is always on hand when needed, yet never in the way. In short, he plays the part of "cavalier servant" so adroitly that some day when he betakes himself to Japan or Paris his ladylove wakes up to the knowledge that he has become indispensable to her, a part of her life, which, withdrawn, leaves a sense of lack, a void. Most fortresses will capitulate if the siege be long enough and well conducted, and the rule holds good in love as well as in war.—Chicago Tribune.

A Hero Worshiper.

There is testimony to Sir Walter Scott's popularity with all classes in the "Burford Papers," a chronicle of former days and doings in England and Scotland.

In 1831 Scott was invited to a breakfast at an Edinburgh house. He was so pleased with the Yarmouth bloaters that were served piping hot that one of the feminine guests went to the market the next day to order some for him to be sent to Sussex place, where he was staying.

"I don't send so far," said the fishmonger.

"I am sorry," said the lady. "The order was for Sir Walter Scott."

The rough fishmonger started back, then pushed forward to the lady through his piles of fish.

"For Sir Walter Scott, did you say, madam? Sir Walter Scott? Bless my soul, he shall have them directly if I have to carry them myself! Sir Walter Scott! They shall be with him tonight." Then pausing, "No, not tonight, for tomorrow morning a fresh cargo comes in, and he shall have them for his breakfast. Sir Walter Scott!"

A young constable arrived in a certain borough in Scotland and in the course of duty found it essential to apprehend a very old offender. Arrived at the police station, he ushered him into the cells with the comment, "Mind the step."

"Gae awa', man," said the prisoner, with contempt. "I kent the step afore ye was born."—Dundee Advertiser.

APPETITE OUR BEST GUIDE.

It Will Not Lead Us Astray In the Matter of Overeating.

It is the systematic practice of civilized people to thwart, pervert, defy and then abuse their appetites—with lamentable consequences. Let me briefly describe what this admirable guide of ours will do for us if it be given a chance.

The appetite of the properly brought up child is simply invaluable. A child needs a great deal of sugar, and if its appetite for this substance be regarded as reasonable and not a symptom of original sin the child will take just so much sugar as it needs, neither more nor less, and will not gorge itself with sweets when it gets a chance.

I am not talking at random, for I observe daily in a small child of my own, and it is the experience of all parents endowed with sufficient sense. The food which the child dislikes, such as fat, is the food which the child's stomach has the most difficulty in digesting.

In adult life, if the appetite be not cheated by the cook, it is our constant mentor and guide and friend. When we are taking much exercise it is abundant. When we take little exercise it diminishes, as it should.

As old age comes on much less food is required and appetite correspondingly diminishes. In short, at every period of life and in all circumstances a properly respected appetite will guide us in the fashion for which appetite was designed.

But we are much too clever to be run by our instincts, are we not? We deprive the child of the sugar which it craves and then find it a little nuisance and a pig because it makes itself ill with sweets. It is we who should be scolded and should squirm.

When our own appetites fail we never dream of asking ourselves whether this is a morbid failure due to illness or is a normal diminution telling us that we do not need food at present or that we are not in a fit state at the moment to digest it.

When warm weather comes most of us use every device of cookery in order to produce an artificial appetite, which we will then satisfy. Thereafter we will complain of the heat. But since we have just piled unnecessary fuel on the furnace, can we wonder that we find hot weather oppressive?

Then, as the years go on and we obtain more leisure and free cash, perhaps we are liable to devote ourselves more and more to the pleasures of the table, seeking ever new devices to promote that hunger which is the best sauce—the sauce which all other sauces are designed to produce. All doctors know the results.

If we turn to the lower animals and observe how wisely and well their unvitiated appetites guide them we begin to see the point of the saying that "ignorance is bliss."—C. W. Saleeby, M. D., F. R. S. Edin., in London Mirror.

Art Roosts High.

A number of women founded a club for the purpose of dabbling in literature and artistic pursuits. The two having the most leisure were delegated by the other members to look for clubrooms. A week later they reported that they had made a selection.

"On the third floor of this building," said the house hunters, and they spread out on the table a number of exterior and interior views of the building they had chosen. But their club associates refused even to look at the pictures.

"If the rooms are on the third floor it isn't worth while to consider them even for a minute," they said. "It is an unwritten law that all clubrooms dedicated to aesthetic and artistic pursuits must have an aerial location. Nothing below the eighth floor can be thought of. It is all right for political clubs and other organizations devoted to material interests to house themselves in first, second and third floors, but the higher the aims of any society the higher the altitude demanded for its clubrooms."

The house hunters looked sorely puzzled.

"Why?" they asked.

But not even the most enlightened woman present could tell why.

"We only know that it is so," they said. "Look up the location of all really soulful societies, and you'll find that the law is faithfully observed."

The Burning of Green Wood.

Every one who enjoys sitting by a wood fire must have observed how the wood sputters and hisses and frequently gives off little jets of flames and how the pieces crackle and fly off at a considerable distance. This is caused by the water in the wood, which, confined in the cells, becomes heated and generates steam. It is a curious fact that intense heat and intense cold produce fractures in various substances. In the most extreme cold weather it is not uncommon, especially if the cold has come on suddenly, to find trees that are split from the ground to the top by the action of frost. Freezing expands the water in the cells of the wood, and so suddenly is this done that the trees burst as would a pitcher or mug in which water was confined.

HANDY TO THE THEATRE, RAILWAYS AND BOATS

Katherine's Lessons.

.....By CECELY ALLEN.

Copyrighted, 1907, by P. C. Eastment.

It was Katherine Morgan's first week at the Settlement's house. It was also a week of revelations. She was now alive to the fact that, despite her father's wealth, her liberal education, her years abroad, she knew little or nothing of the great mystery of life.

Katherine had plunged into settlement work most impulsively directly after her quarrel with Arnold Gresham. If a war had been in progress she felt sure she would have gone out as a field nurse. She had thought seriously of entering a nunnery, but, being a Protestant, this would have taken time, and at that particular moment Katherine did not want time to hang heavily on her hands. She wanted action, and a different action from the usual round of teas, dances and dinners. Moreover, she wanted action apart from the world where she would meet Arnold Gresham, and, somewhat bitterly, she remarked to her tear stained image in the dressing table mirror that unquestionably Arnold never would find time to visit a Settlement house!

Neither wealth nor careful chapesonage had been able to protect Katherine Morgan from the shafts of one Dan Cupid. Hesetofore the wealth at least had bought her everything that she desired, but it could not buy the slavish devotion which, in her unthinking way, she demanded of Arnold Gresham. Other men had apparently been willing to spend their days and a large portion of their nights in serving her smallest ends, meeting her least important desires, but grave eyed Arnold Gresham, who had asked her to marry him and placed the betrothal ring on her finger, had actually insinuated that he was not sufficiently enamored of her to play the role of doormat.

To be sure, it was not Arnold who had spoken those words literally, but Katherine's brother Bob, and the words rankled. Arnold had merely refused to break important business engagements to follow her in sudden flight to Mrs. Croxton's house party in the Adirondacks. And on various occasions when she had called up his office on the phone he had been out when he had said that he fully expected to be in all morning. If, during their engagement, he was so indifferent, what chance had she to queen it over him after marriage? And Katherine down in her willful heart wanted to queen it over him as she had queened it over all who had come her way since babyhood.

"It's fierce to get all your plans laid and then have the boss turn 'em all upside down," Maggie was saying, with tears very close to her big gray eyes. "I wouldn't care so much for myself, but Tom, he's sort of run down, and he needs fresh air. We was going out to Ridley's park, where you can get a boat for 25 cents an hour, and the music's fine. Tom he always takes a nap under the trees, and then we have a row and a bite to eat, and he feels just fine for dancing. The dancing pavilion at Ridley's is just grand."

"Are you fond of dancing?" inquired Katherine mechanically.

"Do I love to dance? Well, I guess yes," answered Maggie enthusiastically. "And since Tom and me are engaged it seems sort of different. When the band plays, 'I'd Rather Twostep Than Waltz, Bill,' seems like it ought to be 'Tom' instead of 'Bill.' I could just dance right through life with Tom. Funny what a difference it makes when you know some one loves you!"

She looked up inquiringly at her companion's lovely face, but there was no answering enthusiasm.

"I really don't know how it feels," replied Katherine as if her body beside the young factory girl had suddenly been unlinked from the soul which answered the question.

"Of course I know it ain't Tom's fault, but if he's ever going to make a home for me and take me outen the factory he's got to stand in with his boss. Ridley's or no Ridley's, we'll take a trolley ride after supper anyhow, so I guess I'll be moving on and make a new stock out of that lace you gave me. Say, that's a lovely piece. I had a mind to save it for my trousseau, only it will please Tom if I have something pretty and new on. Might as well chirk him up a bit. He's worse disappointed than me."

The daughter of the rich and the factory worker went out of the door together. At the corner they paused before separating.

"I wish you'd take this to your Tom," said the impulsive young heiress. "There's a lovely little restaurant in the park. Tell him to take you there for dinner." She opened her gold mesh purse and hauled out a crisp, clean bill. The factory girl flushed and drew back.

The young heiress saw her mistake. "Well, then, give it to some one you think might not be able to afford a half holiday trip—some one who has no Tom to take her out." And she sprang on board a waiting trolley car before Maggie could reply. The car stopped at the next corner.

"This car goes to Ridley's park?" demanded an elderly woman.

"Yes'm. Step lively!" yelled the conductor.

"Ridley's park!" Why, that was where Maggie and Tom had planned to go. Katherine felt a sudden whim to see the pleasure ground of the young people among whom she had worked during the past week. She would go to Ridley's park.

Away the car bowled, stopping now and then, but less frequently as the suburbs were reached. And it seemed to Katherine that at every stop more Maggies and Toms scrambled aboard, all with an air of golden anticipation that she had never felt at prospect of an automobile tour or garden party. So absorbed was she in watching the half holiday crowd that she did not notice the attention she was attracting from a group of half tipsy youths who had dubbed her "the queen" and were daring each other to "pick up the peach."

At Ridley's park she felt oddly dizzy with the confusion. Perhaps she had worked a bit too hard at the Settlement house. Perhaps she had not eaten enough. At any rate, when they reached the park entrance, and the crowd shoved her this way and that, and the three youths clustered around her and paid her loathsome compliments, she wondered whether she should faint or scream aloud. Suddenly a man in uniform shoved the leering youths aside and touched her elbow deferentially.

"Where do you want to go, miss?" inquired the trolley inspector, for such he was.

"Home, home," exclaimed the tired girl, with a touch of hysteria in her voice.

"Car on the third track," said the inspector laconically, and he put her aboard.

Once out of the crowd, with the cooling west wind fanning her face, Katherine felt better. She understood now why Maggie felt that Tom—big, protecting Tom—had given the girl a new view of life.

It must be dreadful to be alone and unprotected in the world. Now, if Arnold had only been different, if he had not been so absorbed in business. Then suddenly a feeling that had never come to Katherine Morgan before obsessed her. Had Arnold ever really neglected her? Had he ever refused her his attendance save when she wilfully changed her mind or made childish demands on his time? She remembered, too, that her father said something about a shaky market, possibilities of a panic, the need of conservatism, etc. They had all been meaningless terms in her moment of anger, but now she understood. If Arnold meant to take her "outen the factory" he must stand in with his boss, too, and Arnold's boss was "the street." Something bright and round fell from Katherine's eye to the gloved hand she raised hastily as a screen, and then it happened—crashing beams, crackling glass, shrieking women and groaning men.

When Katherine woke up she was in Arnold Gresham's big touring car and Arnold Gresham's face was very close to hers.

"How did you get off?" she inquired dully, feeling as if she had been changed into Maggie Delany and Maggie's Tom had come to the rescue.

"I went down to the Settlement house for you, found you had left with one girl, and another told me she had seen you board the car for Ridley's park. I was just following you out—when I saw the collision and thought I might be of some service to the injured. Katherine, why in the world did you go out like this alone?"

"Because I needed to know that—I could not get along without you. Arnold, dear, take me home."

LAKE CHAD, IN AFRICA.

Incidents of Its Exploration by an English Officer.

Some queer adventures and many hardships were encountered by Lieutenant Boyd Alexander in his exploration of the broad but shallow and reedy waters of Lake Chad, in Africa. Of one incident he writes: "By now we found that our provisions had run out, so to procure food we frantically waded up to our waists in mud after duck, which before so strange an invasion immediately took refuge in flight. We therefore had to pay our attention to the flocks of kittiwake gulls which often circled about us, and it was not long before we had spitted and roasted some before the fire in our boat. The following evening, however, our plight became serious, for cartridges were almost finished, and we were obliged to make for rats, which abound on the islands, digging them out of their holes and making humble pie of them, and this is how we lived for another six days."

Great parts of Lake Chad average four feet deep even where fully twenty miles wide. Sometimes the reeds are enormously thick and high, through which the travelers had to force their way. "The next cutting, six miles in length, occupied two days. During these operations we were obliged to spend the nights huddled up in the boats. Sleep was out of the question. We were attacked by hordes of mosquitoes, and we prayed for the morning to come. Many of the men, maddened with pain, preferred to sit up to their necks in water all night. I observed three species of mosquito, one as large as a small fly, very dark and with a transparent body, which grew to enormous proportions when distended with blood. In spite of all these mosquitoes I never experienced a day's fever when on the lake."

Of another experience he writes: "On the outward journey we came upon a large Buduma fishing fleet for the first time. At first they mistook us for other Budumas, whom they considered as easy prey, for it is their habit to plunder one another when they get the chance. Accordingly they closed up ready for attack. But soon they realised their mistake, and the tables were turned. Before we could get up to them—and the crews of the boats were straining every nerve—many of the boats burst out into flames, and the Budumas, swimming like otters underneath the water, disappeared into the reeds. The banks were piled up with dried fish, and hidden underneath straw mats we found four slave boys who were the victims of traffic carried on between the Budumas and Tabus."

Pyrotechnic Metallurgy.

The curious phenomena of alloys are only beginning to be known. Seeking an alloy that would give an iron interior with a bronze veneer, a thing that proves to be not at all impossible or impracticable, C. Vickers, a British metallurgist, made a series of experiments, in the course of which iron was melted in a crucible and alloyed with aluminium. It was desired to learn the effect of adding a small percentage of zinc. A two ounce bit was cautiously tossed upon the molten mass, when after a few seconds a series of muffled explosions ensued, and the mixture in the crucible was shot upward toward the roof of the shop, giving a beautiful pyrotechnic display, the iron producing stars and the zinc yielding dazzling blue lights, while flakes of molten metal glowed between. This continued until the crucible was emptied.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Suspicion and jealousy never did help any man in any situation.—Lincoln.

A Haughty Queen.

Holland's queen, Wilhelmina, has exhibited notions of her royal authority. She is said to interfere in a most personal way with the conduct of Dutch foreign relations. She looks upon the Dutch colonies as in some sort the private appanages of the house of Orange. Her prodigious personal popularity with every class of her subjects saves her from some of the consequences of her unconstitutional tendencies.

"Don't Neglect a Cough or Cold."

It can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the medicine you need. It is without an equal as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Pain in the Chest, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Quinsy and all affections of the Throat and Lungs.

A single dose of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will stop the cough, soothe the throat, and if the cough or cold has become settled on the lungs, the healing properties of the Norway Pine Tree will proclaim its great virtue by promptly eradicating the bad effects, and a persistent use of the remedy cannot fail to bring about a complete cure.

Do not be humbugged into buying so-called Norway Pine Syrups, but be sure and insist on having Dr. Wood's. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and price 25 cents.

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS

Mr. Wm. O'Hara, Souris, Man., writes: "Having suffered for a long time with a severe attack of Chronic Bronchitis, which I could not get cured, I eventually tried your Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and I am glad to state it has given me a complete cure."

Stanfield's Underwear

(Chapter 6)

Cutting and Sewing

After the best wool has been selected, washed, shrunk, combed, spun and knitted—the pure woolen fabrics go to the cutting room. Just as the tailor and dressmaker cut out garments by hand, so in the Stanfield mills, all the cutting is done by hand.

Some Underwear is cut out by machinery. Now, we have machines which do what human hands can't do. 18 of our spinning machines spin as much yarn as 16,546 spinning wheels. 88 of our knitting machines knit as much underwear as 17,234 women with needles—and do it without a dropped stitch or broken thread.

But we have never seen a machine that could cut out cloth as well as it can be done with shears in the hands of a skilled cutter. This is why Stanfield's Underwear is cut by hand.

On the other hand, all Stanfield's Underwear is sewed by machinery. It is quicker and better, because the sewing machines are run by electricity and because they sew inter-locking stitches, which make it impossible for seams to ravel.

As fast as garments are completed, they go to the laundry, to be washed by being revolved in big machines for an hour to determine that they are absolutely unshrinkable. Then each garment is tested on models—which range in size from 22 to 70 inches chest or bust measure—and its size thus exactly determined.

—made of the purest, strongest wool
—that can't rip or ravel
—that won't shrink or stretch
—that fits perfectly
—that wears longerst.

Your dealer has all sizes and weights or can easily get them for you.

DOES THIS INTEREST YOU?

A prominent physician, famous for his success in the treatment of kidney and bladder diseases, contributes a great deal of his success to the following simple vegetable prescription:—

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;

One ounce Compound Saltrates;

Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mix, shake well, and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

Your druggist can supply the ingredients, and the mixture can be prepared at home at very little expense.

This, the doctor says, acts directly on the kidneys, assisting them to filter the poisons from the blood and expel same in the urine, at the same time restoring the kidneys to healthy, normal action.

We feel that a great many readers will be pleased to learn of this simple prescription, and knowing the ability of the physician whose formula it is, we do not hesitate to recommend it to any sufferer.

YOU CAN EASILY OPERATE THIS TYPEWRITER YOURSELF

Don't worry your correspondent.

Don't write him anything by hand that takes him time to make out—that may leave him in doubt, that he can't easily read.

And don't fill out legal papers or card memos—or make out accounts or hotel menus in your own handwriting.

You can write out your letters—make out an indent—fill in an insurance policy—enter your card memos—make out your accounts, or hotel menus—or do any kind of writing you need, on any kind, size or thickness of paper, and spell any way you want on

The OLIVER Typewriter

The Standard Visible Writer

You can write any of these things yourself if you do not happen to have a stenographer.

For you can easily learn with a little practice to write just as rapidly, and as perfectly as an expert operator on the Oliver. Because the Oliver is the simplified typewriter. And you can see every word you write. About 30% more durable than any other typewriter, because it has about 30% less wearing points than most other typewriters.

30% easier to write with than these other complicated, intricate machines that require "humoring"—technical knowledge—long practice and special skill to operate.

Than machines which cannot be adjusted to any special space—with which it is impossible to write abstracts, insurance policies, round-up figures that you buy extra type specially to accomodate—machines requiring experts to operate.

You can adjust the Oliver to any reasonable space—you can write on any reasonable diameter, thickness of paper, right out to the very edge without the aid of any expensive attachment or special skill, and your work will be neat appearing, legible and clear.

For the Oliver is the typewriter for the doctor the lawyer, the insurance agent, the merchant the hotel proprietor—or any man that does his own writing.

Write us now for our booklet on the simplified features of the Oliver. The Oliver Typewriter Building, Chicago, Illinois.

BLIND MAN'S BUFF.

Blind man's buff is of French origin and of very great antiquity, having been introduced into England in the train of the Norman conquerors. Its French name, "Colin Maillard," was that of a brave warrior, the memory of whose exploits still lives in the chronicles of the middle ages.

In the year 999 Liege reckoned among its valiant chiefs one Jean Colin. He acquired the name Maillard from his chosen weapon being a mallet, wherewith in battle he used literally to crush his opponents.

In one of the feuds which were of perpetual recurrence in those times he encountered the Count de Touraine in a pitched battle, and, so runs the story, in the first onset Colin Maillard lost both his eyes.

He ordered his esquire to take him in the thickest of the fight, and, furiously brandishing his mallet, did such fearful execution that victory soon declared itself for him.

When Robert of France heard of these feats of arms he lavished favor and honors upon Colin, and so great was the fame of the exploit that it was commemorated in the pantomimic representation that formed part of the rude dramatic performance of the age. By degrees the children learned to act it for themselves, and it took the form of a familiar sport.

The blindfolded pursuer, as, with bandaged eyes and extended hands, he gropes for a victim to pounce upon, in some degree repeats the action of Colin Maillard, the tradition of which is also traceable in the name "blind man's buff."—London M. A. P.

HER ECONOMY.

She Wasn't Ashamed of It, but Didn't Like It Advertised.

"Of course," said the pretty schoolteacher who had just returned from her long vacation trip to Europe—"of course foreign labels slapped all over a suit case may give it an interesting look, and they certainly indicate that one has been abroad, but I don't feel very proud of the record pasted on my bag. The trouble with it is that I had to economize frightfully while I was in Europe in order to have the trip at all, and I had to stop at the very cheapest hotels I could find. It seemed as if those Europeans were determined to conduct a large advertising campaign through the medium of my suit case, for I couldn't escape their labels.

"I tried in every possible way to prevent the porters from getting hold of my luggage long enough to take it out from under my eyes, but they would grab it up, run away with it to some secret place and come back proudly displaying another huge label stuck to it. In every case I noticed, with additional pain, that the cheaper the hotel was the larger the label it used. It happens that I have a few really swell acquaintances in New York, who know Europe like a book, and they'll take it all in at a glance. Of course I'm not ashamed of having economized, yet I don't exactly care to flaunt my poverty. I only wish the foreign hotels would allow us a choice in the matter."—New York Press.

He was a gallant colonel of militia, but scarcely a good horseman. Owning even large and popular emporiums in even the best of Edinburgh's best streets does not of itself breed centaurs.

His mount was fresh to an extreme, and the silent figure of Sir Walter Scott, looking down upon the assembling troops from its marble pedestal, may well have expected to see an accident. That, too, was probably the thought of a small street urchin who loitered just out of reach of the prancing hoofs.

"Boy, get away!" exclaimed the ruffled rider testily. "Have you never seen a war horse?"

"Aye," came the answer, "but never a waur rider."—Dundee Advertiser.

In the Smoker.

"What's my state? Wash.—and the cleanest state in the whole Union."

"According to that," remarked the traveler from Pittsburg, "I hail from one St only for pigs—or literary men."

"Wealthy singers ought to settle in my state," was the contribution of the Bostonian.

The man from Nashville closed the conversation. "This is too smart a crowd for me," he said, "and yet my state can beat any nine others you fellows can pick out."—New York Times.

Look, but Do Not See.

Passengers on a Staten Island ferryboat were watching a large ocean liner that steamed slowly up New York bay. The steamer was too far off for her name to be made out, but she was flying the German flag. For the space of fifteen minutes a hundred pairs of eyes were fastened intently upon the ship. After awhile the silence that prevailed on the deck of the ferryboat was broken by a woman's voice.

"Say," she said, "what has become of that flag? It was there when we first began to watch the ship."

Excited by the woman's exclamation, everybody in her immediate neighborhood put forth various conjectures as to the mysterious disappearance of the flag.

"They took it down ten minutes ago," volunteered a man finally. "Didn't any of you folks see them haul it in?"

Everybody looked sheepish. It was a fact that no one else had seen it. Although scarcely a glance had been diverted from the steamer during the greater part of the trip across the bay, the flag had been hauled down under the passengers' very eyes and only one man in the crowd had observed the maneuver.

What She Was After.

"Of course," said the earl, "everybody will say that you married me for my title."

"Well," replied the beautiful heiress, "what do we care? I got it, don't I?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

At the Foreign Hotel.

Bessie—They charge an awful price for board here, don't they? Billy—Oh, it isn't for the board. That is cheap enough. But they charge an awful lot for the air and scenery.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Spoonful and Mouthful.

Heaven forfend that with rash hand I should rip open the chronic controversy as to the proper plural of spoonful et hoc genus omne. At present and for the present that controversy is happily slumbering, and I would say non molestar il can che dorme. It is very sure to wake up ere long and vex us. Yet I cannot refrain from citing one word of that class which, strange to say, has hitherto been overlooked in the controversy and which yet ought to be decisive of it. That word is mouthful. Now, if the advocates of spoonsful, etc., have any pretensions to consistency they must doubtless maintain that the proper plural of this word is mouthsful. Well, if so I would only submit that if any person should be directed to take a few mouthsful of milk or tea he would be tempted to ask, like Sydney Smith when enjoined by his doctor to take an occasional walk on an empty stomach, whose?—London Notes and Queries.

His Idea of Lunch.

It was the hour of spelling lesson, and the teacher of the primary grade was pronouncing the words while the small persons in front of her laboriously wrote them down. According to the usual custom she called for volunteers to define each word as it was pronounced.

"Lunch. Now, who can tell me what a lunch is?"

There was a long period of silence, then a hand went up.

"Well, Johnny, you may tell us what a lunch is."

"A lunch," said Johnny—"a lunch is what you have for dinner when your father is away."—Harper's Magazine.

Corrected.

It was at a reunion of a gallant Irish regiment, and in due course a member rose to express his carefully rehearsed sentiment.

"Here's to th' ould Fifty-ninth," he began hotly, "th' last in th' field an' th' first to lave it!"

"Ye muddler!" shouted a compatriot, springing to his feet. "Here's to th' ould Fifty-ninth, equil to none!"—Youth's Companion.

The Spread of Alfalfa.

Throughout the west alfalfa has been found very valuable to farmers, as it is easy to raise, flourishing in different soils and climates, and is excellent food for stock. It requires no cultivation, growing rapidly after getting well started. Alfalfa entered this country from Mexico many years ago, but it was not until comparatively recently that its value as a food for live stock was recognized. Its hardy nature makes it an ideal crop for the dry lands of the west, and it thrives there without irrigation. It is now spread all over the country, growing from New York to California and everywhere apparently making its way as a permanent addition to the nation's agricultural products.—Baltimore News.

Bohemia's Rocky Maze.

The Rocky maze of Prachov, near Jacin, in northern Bohemia, is a veritable natural curiosity. It has been well described as a gigantic "freak in stone." To enter the labyrinth without a guide is a perilous proceeding, for an unwary adventurer would probably speedily be lost in the tortuous windings of the maze, where the paths are so narrow and crooked and the cliffs on the side so high that the explorer soon loses all idea of locality. In days of fiery persecution the Moravian and Bohemian brethren's secret prayer meetings used to be held here, just as the early Christians assembled to worship in the catacombs. The cliffs are honeycombed with cells, and at the far end of the maze is a rock castle, where in the old days a robber baron lived and took toll of all wayfarers. The shape of some of the rocks is very curious. There are, for instance, the "bishop and miter," the "Madonna and the child" and many others.—London Scraps.

A Red Headed Match.

While in a tobacconist's shop a gentleman asked a girl behind the counter, who happened to have red hair, if she would oblige him with a match.

"With pleasure, if you will have a red headed one," she promptly replied, with a suggestive, demure smile that aroused his interest.

Further conversation proved her to be a person worthy of regard, and eventually the red headed match was handed over.—London Punch.

Peace In Central America.

Washington, Dec. 16.—The Central American peace conference practically concluded its labors Saturday when it was announced the delegates had agreed upon, and were ready to sign, seven treaties. The most important step towards the preservance of peace in Central America consisted in the agreement on the treaty establishing a permanent court.

The other treaties will be one of extradition, one for the establishment of a Central American pedagogical institution, one for the establishment of an international Central American bureau, similar to the bureau of American republics at Washington; a financial convention, a treaty for the establishment of better communication between the countries, and a general era of peace and amity. On Friday the delegates will formally sign these treaties.

Russia May Cancel Agreement.

Pekin, Dec. 16.—The policy of Japan in China is threatening to bring about a new crisis in Manchurian affairs, and as a result of the course pursued by the Tokio Government, there is danger of Russia canceling the Russo-Chinese telegraph convention, signed last October.

Japan has ten telegraph stations in Manchuria in violation of the treaty, and she has also committed other acts of aggression.

The Pekin Government is being urged by Japan to relieve the Manchurian financial situation by means of loans to the native banks.

Chief Drew Burglar's Blood.

Tillsonburg, Dec. 16.—There was a desperate attempt made Saturday night to effect an entrance into the jewelry store of Mr. Davis. Two burglars were seen by the chief attempting to gain an entrance at the back of Broadway. When the chief came upon them he was ordered to hold up his hands. Not doing so, they fired twice at him. The chief answered by firing upon them, but they made their escape. Yesterday morning there were traces of blood upon the snow.

Abe Hummel Dying.

New York, Dec. 16.—Abraham Hummel, the lawyer who is serving a year's sentence in Blackwell's Island Penitentiary for conspiracy in connection with the Dodge-Morse divorce case, is near death from kidney affection. He collapsed Saturday, after exercising in the prison yard. Dr. Matz, the resident physician, says that Hummel's condition is such that he is likely to die at any moment. Hummell's sentence at Blackwell's Island will expire within a few weeks.

Sawmill Burned.

Springfield, Dec. 15.—About 7.30 Saturday evening the valuable sawmill of D. R. McGarvie, formerly of Chatham, was totally destroyed by fire; value $10,000; loss partially covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Fires at Parry Sound.

Parry Sound, Dec. 17.—The town was visited with two more fires last night. The first broke out at 9.30 in a workshop and store house owned by E. S. Pratt. While the firemen were engaged here the alarm was given of another in a boarding-house near the Parry Sound Lumber Co.'s mill. Most of the contents were saved. Loss to building about $500, insured.

Poison In Woman's Stomach.

Quebec, Dec. 17.—The analysis of the stomach of Mrs. Rochette, whose body was exhumed owing to rumors of foul play, showed arsenic in quantity large enough to kill ten persons. Her husband married two days after and cannot now be found.

Kills Two and Self.

Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 17.—Otto Schmigler, a Hungarian tailor, Sunday shot and probably fatally wounded Mrs. Caroline Webster, and seriously wounded Miss Myrtle Spence and then killed himself. He had been out of employment for some time and was despondent. He was infatuated with Miss Spence.

Open to Saskatoon.

Saskatoon, Dec. 17.—The city is now connected with Winnipeg by the C. P. R., the first train having arrived Sunday night from the east.

The new transcontinental is now ready for traffic as far west as Asquith, and it is expected that grain will be hauled in a few days.

Mrs. Fetterman's Sentence.

MacLeod, Alta., Dec. 17.—Mrs. Fetterman, found guilty of shooting her husband with intent to kill, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Scott to three years' imprisonment. Her husband pleaded for her, but the judge said the crime was a most unnatural one.

Drowned In the St. Clair.

Port Huron, Mich., Dec. 17.—Edward Brown, aged 24, of Corunna, Ont., a sailor, attempted to take off his overcoat in a row boat while crossing the St. Clair River seven miles below here and was thrown into the river by a gust of wind and drowned.

Struck Overhead Bridge.

Stratford, Dec. 17.—Knocked unconscious by a steel overhead bridge while standing on top of a moving freight train, Lorne Smith, Grand Trunk brakeman of this city, now lies at death's door in the General Hospital.

A blinding snowstorm prevailed and Smith did not see the bridge. He was struck on the forehead, almost totally scalped and his skull crushed in. Bleeding and senseless he was found several minutes later, when the train arrived at Sebringville, five miles away, and was brought back to the city.

HAD A STAB-LIKE PAIN THROUGH THE HEART.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS CURED HER AND SAVED HER LIFE.

There is no one, we imagine, who cares about deliberately to do injury to the heart, yet in the excitement and excesses of present-day living, the nervous system is done violence to, and the heart and nerves being so intimately bound up with one another, disorganization of the one means disease and disorder of the other.

When you find your heart the least bit out of rhyme, your nerves unhinged, don't wait until you are prostrated on a bed of sickness. Take Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They'll put you in such condition you'll never know you have a heart, make your brain clear and active, your nerves strong, your blood rich and pure, and your whole being thrill with a new life.

Mrs. John O. Yeozen, Little Rocher, N.B., writes: "I was troubled with a stab-like pain through my heart. I tried many remedies but they seemed to do me more harm than good. I was advised by a friend to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after using two boxes I was completely cured. I cannot praise them enough for the world of good they did me for I believe they saved my life."

Price 50 cents per box or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

POPE IS RESENTFUL OVER IMPIETY

Says Modernists Are a Menace to the Church.

CREATES FOUR CARDINALS

His Holiness Calls Press Vulgar and Impious—Blames Newspapers For Disorders — Papal Decrees Still Defied—Rebellion Persevered In to Detriment of Church—Several Bishops Precanonized.

Rome, Dec. 17.—Piux X. yesterday held a secret consistory in the Vatican, in which he created four new cardinals and precanonized several bishops.

The new cardinals are: Mons. Pietro Gasparri, secretary of the Congregation of Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs; Mons. De Lai, secretary of the Congregations of the Council; Mons. Ludovic Henry Lucon, Archbishop of Theims; and Mons. Paul Pierre Andrieu, Archbishop of Versailles.

The Pope delivered an elecoution, in which he made reference to the tenacious persecution of the Redeemer and said that his church had been attacked from all sides in a warfare open or dissimilated. The rights and laws of the church had been trampled on even by those who should safeguard them, and the impious and vulgar press had fought her even to the extent of disturbing the public quiet.

In conclusion the elecoution reads: "The Episcopacy has accepted the Papal direction with eagerness and has applied them with zeal, but the modernists persevere in their rebellion and give manifest proof of their attitude even in the press. May God enlighten these misled ones."

STEAL ART TREASURES.

Paris, Dec. 17.—Almost a million francs' worth of pictures and art objects disappeared this week from French museums. Following the robbery of the museum in Rouen, when many priceless treasures of eighteenth century culture disappeared, the extremely rich museum in Amiens was also entered. Here, too, the robbers devoted themselves to works of the eighteenth century, picking out works of the greatest value with the skill of expert connoisseurs.

The Amiens museum, in view of the art robberies reported by other museums and churches throughout the country, has been provided with an elaborate system of burglar alarms, and the usual force of night watchmen had been doubled. In spite of these precautions the burglars clambered up a water pipe to the roof, broke through the skylight and descended into the room reserved for eighteenth century masters by means of a knotted rope.

The police are nonplussed. They do not know whether the miscreants are professional cracksmen or art enthusiasts suffering monomania. The former theory is considered the most likely, because at all the recent art sales in Europe the works of the eighteenth century painters have commanded fabulous prices.

Epsom Salts an Anesthetic.

New York, Dec. 17.—An announcement of the discovery of a new anesthetic will soon be made by the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

The new anesthetic is nothing else than plain, common epsom salts. Its great value is that it permits any sort of an operation without any danger to the heart of the patient.

Either local or general anesthia, it is said, may be produced by the injection of a 20 per cent. solution of the familiar drug into the nerve tract governing the sensations of the part to be operated upon.

Prosecuting Booking Agent.

London, Dec. 17.—Bruce Walker, superintendent of Canadian emigration, has notified all booking agents regarding the new regulation requiring emigrants coming to Canada to have a certain amount of Canadian currency in their possession. Mr. Walker is also taking legal proceedings against a London booking agent who, through misleading advertisements, has been endeavoring to induce mechanics and other artisans to emigrate to Canada.

Seven Men Badly Burned.

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 17.—Seven men were badly burned by a hot air and gas explosion of a blast furnace here Sunday night.

The victims will likely recover, but will be disfigured for life. The flesh on one of the victims' hands peeled completely off, while others were burned seriously about the face and hands.

KILDONA A TOTAL LOSS.

Thomson Liner Stranded on Brazil Rocks Breaks Up In Storm.

St. John, N.B., Dec. 17.—The steamship Louisburg, having on board Captain Roberts, the officers and crew of the wrecked Thomson liner Kildona, reached port at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

The Louisburg arrived about 11 and made an attempt to pull the Kildona off, but she was hard aground, and as the captain saw she could not long hold together in the heavy seas pounding over her, he gave orders to launch the boats. One was smashed, but three others got away, making several trips to the steamer Louisburg and placing on board all the crew and their effects. Between 4 and 5 o'clock, when Captain Roberts and first officer left the Kildona, she was fast breaking up and has probably totally disappeared.

MOTORMAN NOT GUILTY.

Jury Acquit Hamilton Man of Culpable Negligence.

Hamilton, Dec. 17.—Abraham Davis, was yesterday found guilty at the sessions of snatching a purse from Mrs. Burgoyne, Toronto. It took the jury only 15 minutes to arrive at that verdict. He was remanded for sentence.

James McIlraith, the street railway motorman on the car that collided on Nov. 12 with a G. T. R. train at the corner of King street and Ferguson avenue, and who was charged with criminal negligence, was acquitted. Judge Monk charged in his favor. He said the jury had to consider two things—did McIlraith attempt to do anything to prevent the accident, and, did he do it wilfully. A man cannot be a criminal unless he has a criminal intent. The Street Railway Co. could not appoint electricians to run its cars, but it ought to see that its men were competent. In jumping from his car 40 feet before it collided with the train, McIraith was to be severely criticized, and if they found that he did it wilfully they would have to bring in a verdict of guilty.

TREASURER SHORT $200,000.

Montreal Railway Official Sent to Pen For Five Years.

Montreal, Dec. 17.—The defalcations of A. H. Anderson, treasurer of the Quebec Central Railway, turns out to be more serious than was supposed, and they are said to be nearly $200,000. The defalcations cover a period of eighteen years, and amount to about $10,000 a year. The railway is almost entirely an English company, and the directors sent their own auditors from London.

His method was to show in the books the railway as owing a couple of thousand more than they did. The Quebec Central Railway being connected with a number of other roads in the United States and Canada there is constant counter accounts, and Anderson falsified this, but apparently did not forge vouchers.

He was sent down yesterday for five years.

Ape Chewed Up Thief.

New York, Dec. 17.—While a burglar was filling his pockets with jewelry in the house of Miss Catherine Baman, at Amsterdam avenue and 154th street, he was suddenly confronted by her pet ape, Napoleon Bonaparte, who attacked him ferociously with teeth and claws.

During the battle, which raged all over the parlor of Miss Baman's house, two valuable canvases were destroyed and the furniture lost much of its polish. Incidentally, the burglar lost much of his clothing and skin, besides his loot. It was with difficulty he escaped into the hallway and out the front door.

Honore Mercier Elected.

Montreal, Dec. 17.—There will be a Mercier in the Quebec Legislature when Mr. Speaker takes his seat next session. Ald H. Mercier, son of the ex-Premier, was elected yesterday in Chateauguay by the handsome majority of 230, and the anti-English cry had, as intimated Sunday evening, very little effect, as some of the English polls gave the straight Liberal candidate good majorities.

For instance, Mercier leads the poll in Howick by 36 and in Ormstown by 21. Poissan, Independent Liberal, polled 300 votes.

Threw Stick at Premier.

Vienna, Dec. 17.—There was a riotous scene in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday afternoon. Members of the Ruthenian party saw fit to interrupt the proceedings, and a Ruthenian deputy threw a piece of wood at the Premier. The Christian Socialists then retaliated by attacking the Ruthenians, using chairs as weapons. Several deputies sustained injuries before order was restored.

Burned Ten Thousand Dollars.

Marion, Ohio, Dec. 17.—John Gordon, a wealthy farmer of this county, burned $10,000 in bills yesterday, a short time before he died. The charred remnants of the bills were found by members of his family. Gordon was 85 years old, and in the last few weeks had grown childish.

CATTLE MARKETS.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—London cables are firmer at 11c to 12½c per lb., dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 9½c to 10c per pound.

Toronto Junction Live Stock.

TORONTO JUNCTION, Dec. 16.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 25 carloads, composed of 559 cattle, 2 hogs, 145 sheep and 20 calves.

Exporters.

There were a few loads of light exporters, but not much demand for them. T. Halligan bought two loads, 1240 lbs. each, at $4.45 to $4.50. Export bulls sold at $3 to $4.25 per cwt.

Butchers.

Picked butchers' heifers sold at $5 to $5.25; loads of good, $4.50 to $5; medium, $4 to $4.25; common, at $3.50 to $3.75; canners, at $1 to $1.50 per cwt.

Veal Calves.

Veal calves were in demand at $4 to $6 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep sold at $4 per cwt.; lambs, at $5 to $5.25 per cwt.

Hogs.

Gunn's, Limited, quoted hogs unchanged, at $5.50 per cwt. for selects, and $5.25 f.o.b., cars, at country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Dec. 16.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards, west end market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Dec. 14 were 3079 cattle, 2305 sheep and lambs, 2701 hogs and 207 calves, while the offerings this morning consisted of 1350 cattle, 500 sheep and lambs, 800 hogs and 200 calves.

The display of cattle was not as large as expected, but was quite ample to fill all requirements and the quality of the stock was of the choicest. A feature was the demand from Quebec buyers, who bought several car loads of choice steers at 5¼c to 5½c, and Belanger secured the finest steer on the market, which weighed 1320 lbs. and cost 7⅛c per lb. Extra choice beeves, sold at 5¼c to 5½c; choice, at 5c to 5¼c; good, at 4½c to 4¾c; fair, at 4c to 4½c; common, at 3½c to 3¾c; inferior, at 2½c to 3c per lb., and canners, at 70c to 90c per cwt. A stronger feeling developed in the market for lambs and prices show an advance of ½c per lb., which was due to a smaller run and the fact that the quality was better than usual for the Christmas trade. There was also a firmer feeling in the market for sheep, but prices show no actual change from a week ago. There were a few very choice milk-fed calves on the market, which met with a good demand. One lot of five weighing 2360 lbs., sold at 8c per lb. The demand for hogs was good from packers and dealers and an active trade was done at $6 to $6.25 per cwt. for selected lots, weighed off cars.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Dec. 16.—Cattle—Receipts, 5000 head; slow and 25c lower; prime steers, $5.25 to $5.75; shipping, $4.60 to 45.25; butchers', $4 to $5; heifers, $3.25 to $4.75; cows, $3.00 to $4.15; bulls, $3.50 to $4.50; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4; stock heifers, $2.25 to $2.75; fresh cows and springers, steady, $30 to $55.

Veals—Receipts, 1200 head; active and steady, $5 to $6.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 23,000 head; active and 15c to 25c lower; heavy, $4.65 to $4.70; mixed and yorkers, $4.60 to $4.65; pigs, $4.45 to $4.50; roughs, $4 to $4.15; stags, $3 to $3.50; dairies, $4.25 to $4.60.

CARD OF THANKS

SOUTH MONAGHAN,
Lorenz P.O., Dec. 14th, 1907

Messrs. DAVIS-THOMPSON COMPANY, Limited, Agents Guardian Assurance Co., Peterborough

DEAR SIRS:—

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of cheque for $500.00 in full settlement of my loss by fire to Dwelling House at Garden Hill.

I appreciate the fair and liberal treatment which I have received from the Guardian Assurance Company, as well as from yourselves as Agents. It is a pleasure to do business with Agents who take a personal interest in your Insurance when a loss occurs.

Yours respectfully,

(SIGNED) M. E. FAIR

The Following Letter Speaks For Itself

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. MORROW, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the options available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $3000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $3000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

Any person contemplating taking out Life Insurance will find it to his advantage to secure our rates before placing the risk.

W. G. MORROW,

CHANGES IN TARIFF.

Effect of Revision of Australian Tariff —News Paper Goes In Free.

Ottawa, Dec. 17.—Mr. Ross, Canada's Trade Commissioner at Melbourne cables that the following changes have been made in the Australian tariff: News paper, free; wall paper, 20 per cent., preferential 15 per cent.; bicycles, 30 per cent., preferential, 25 per cent.; motor cars, 35 per cent., preferential, 30 per cent.; vehicles, 35 per cent., preferential, 30 per cent.; harvesters, £12, shippers, £6; pianos, 30 per cent., preferential, 25 per cent.; organs, 20 per cent.

Assaulted by a Gang.

Kingston, Dec. 17.—Action is to be taken against a number of men who assaulted a man named Blakely at Stone's Corners in Frontenac County a few day's ago. Blakely's head, shoulders and body were badly injured by the beating received. It is charged that he assaulted a girl, whose friends planned to thrash Blakely. The latter was caught and left unconscious after the attack. He knows some of his assailants and was here yesterday to swear out warrants. He is still in a bad condition, being scarcely recognisable.

Strapped Down Aboard Ship.

New York, Dec. 17.—The Times yesterday says: Pierre Feityu, the French sculptor, who arrived on the Lorraine, amused the passengers by making a clay model of Miss Piney Sutherland, of Montreal, who was on board, and had to be strapped in position, owing to the rolling of the steamer, while he modelled her features. After it was completed the model was disposed of for $100, half the money realized being given to the musicians. The remaining $50 will be paid for having the work bronzed here.

Took Overdose of Pills.

Montreal, Dec. 17.—Employes of the Queen's Hotel rooms at 10 o'clock Sunday found Alfred M. Lynch, commercial traveler, between Montreal and Toronto, lying unconscious on the bed. On the bureau was an empty box that had contained 25 cocaine tablets. He died at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

The pills had been prescribed to him by a local physician in order to relieve acute bronchitis. His death was evidently due to an overdose.

Hubby Spanked Her.

Waterbury, Conn., Dec. 17.—Charging her husband with taking her on his knee upside down and spanking her with his slipper every day while intoxicated, Mrs. Rachel A. Hamlin obtained a divorce from him yesterday in the Supreme Court.

She alleged that hubby's only pleasure was drink, and each day he would demand money from her, and, when she refused, he spanked.

Queen Carola Dead.

Dresden, Dec. 17.—The body of Dowager Queen Carola of Saxony, who died yesterday, is lying in state in the winter garden of the villa where the end came.

It will be transferred to the Catholic Court Church in Dresden this evening.

It will there lie in state a second time until the funeral, which has been fixed for Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock.

SIXTY MINERS WERE KILLED

Terrible Explosion in Colliery at Yolande, Alabama.

ONLY FOURTEEN ESCAPED

Many Survivors Severely Burned—Terrific Heat Near the Entrance of the Mine—Men Crawled Out of Shaft After Disaster — Huge Baulks of Timber Blown Out —Probably Caused by Dust.

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 17.—Advices last night from Yolande indicate that about sixty men met death by an explosion in the mines at that place early yesterday. The work of recovery is slow, and while hundreds of miners from adjacent mining camps are present to assist, it is thought that all of the dead cannot be taken out before to-morrow. Only 12 bodies had been recovered up to dark yesterday. Fewer than 100 men were in the mine.

The cause of the explosion had not been officially determined. The mine has been pronounced free from gas by state inspectors and it is supposed that the explosion was caused by dust. For two hours after the explosion it was impossible to venture even near the mouth of the mine, so hot was the air that rushed out.

The explosion was below the second right sub-entry. The mines go down something like 1,500 feet. There was a terrific explosion; the force was made known outside by the dust and timbers that were blown out in great quantities, destroying small buildings nearby and landing some distance away.

Officers of the mining company immediately took steps to start a rescue party to get to the men on the inside. Their fans were started and other means employed to eliminate the bad air. Within a half hour fourteen men had crawled out of the mine and their description of the interior conditions was terrible. Several of these men were severely burned.

Yolande mine is a few miles from Virginia City, where a similar explosion occurred two years ago, when 112 men were killed. Yolande is 35 miles south of Birmingham. The Yolande Coal & Coke Co., owners of the mine, is headed by Dr. G. R. Crowde of Birmingham.

HAD WEALTHY RIVAL.

So Walter Fitzgerald Stole Cash to Buy Gifts For Sweetheart.

Windsor, Dec. 17.—Somewhat of a romance was revealed yesterday when Walter Fitzgerald appeared before Judge McHugh on charges of forgery and embezzlement.

No attempt was made to deny that he secured $3,000 by raising checks while employed by a Walkerville firm, but according to the story told in court he had a rival for the hand of the lady who became his wife.

Chatham Youths In Court.

Chatham, Dec. 17.—Three local youths, Ernest Lamon, Frank Miller and W. Farrel, were brought up in the Police Court yesterday, charged with breaking into and committing petty burglaries at several stores in town. The thefts were very small and as one of the young lads at least comes of a well-to-do family, it would appear that the robberies were committed more in a spirit of bravado rather than for the sake of monetary gain.

Young Miller was found to be wearing a pair of steel knuckles when he was arrested. All three were remanded till next Monday for sentence.

Sunfield Must Hang.

Hamilton, Dec. 17.—The Minister of Justice has informed the solicitor of Jake Tamillo (Sunfield) that he has no power to order a new trial for the murderer, who is to be hanged on Dec. 27.

ADVISES EXCLUSION OF THE JAPS

Mr. Ralph Smith's Motion Discussed in Parliament.

MENACE TO THE DOMINION

British Columbia Members Speak Their Mind Without Reserve—Evils of Oriental Competition in Labor Market—Canada Must Be White Man's Country — Exclusion Must Be Insisted Upon.

Ottawa, Dec. 17.—Nominally yesterday was private members' day; in reality it was British Columbia's. Of the opportunity afforded of discussing the question of Oriental immigration the members from the Pacific province made full use, and the result was a statement of the case from the western point of view at once comprehensive, clear, and instructive. The speeches of Messrs. Smith, McPherson, Sloan, Ross, and Kennedy were firm in urging upon the Government the necessity of the restriction of Japanese immigration, although the speakers were not at one as to the form of the remedy required to meet the case. Thus while Mr. McPherson laid it down as his view that the Natal Act would be of no avail, Mr. Duncan Ross advocated the adoption of that measure, with Kipling's solution of "pumping in the whites" as an alternative. All those who took part in the discussion, however, were united in the contention that British Columbia should be a white man's country. The debate was adjourned.

Just before adjournment, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, replying to Mr. Borden, said Government bills will be taken up to-day. The introduction of Mr. Fielding's insurance bill and the bill respecting old age annuities are the principal items of the bill of fare.

Asiatic Immigration.

The Opposition yesterday welcomed with vociferous applause John Stanfield, member-elect of Colchester, N. S., who was formally introduced to Mr. Speaker by R. L. Borden and George W. Fowler. Afterwards there were some questions of more or less public interest answered by the Ministers and the consideration of the Jap immigration resolution of Mr. Smith (Liberal-Labor) of Nanaimo, B. C. This is the strict wording of Mr. Smith's kick:

"That in the opinion of this House steps should be taken to restrict the influx of Oriental immigrants into Canada, and inasmuch as the policy of the Government concerning Chinese immigration has proved entirely satisfactory, a definite policy should be immediately put into operation looking to the accomplishment of equally satisfactory results with regard to all other Oriental immigrants."

It was easy, Mr. Smith said, to associate the question with provincialism, but he was prepared to say that he would advocate nothing in the House in the interests of British Columbia that he was not convinced would be in the interests of the whole people. There always had been a race prejudice. He had been trying all his life to destroy and break down this race prejudice, but this prejudice had been fostered by the privileges granted the Orientals in British Columbia; an unrestrained system of spoilation and injustice against the British people. There was a tendency to consider small and local interests, and not to look out and recognize the national and international aspect of the case. Some had tried to use the question in the interest of petty politics, but so far as he was concerned he was prepared to discuss it as a national question. It was an Empire problem, and what was good for the Empire was good for Canada. The strength of the Empire depended on equality and the conditions of the elements composing the Empire. It was the prerogative of the Empire to go out and seek relations that will promote trade and commerce. But in promoting treaties with Oriental races there had been a disposition on the part of the Empire to bring the Empire into closer relations with the Oriental races. The two races in his opinion could not be assimilated. It would take centuries to obliterate their many diversities.

Mr. Smith took no stock in stories of Japanese plans of military invasion of this continent, but he believed that there would be a labor invasion. Over the Pacific there were 300,000,000 starving people within a few days' reach of a land flowing with milk and honey. Could they not see if the barriers were down the possibility of an overwhelming invasion of Orientals?

Mr. McPherson.

R. G. McPherson (Vancouver, B.C.), seconding the resolution, said the only mistake that was made when the Anglo-Japanese treaty was ratified was in putting faith in the promises of the Japanese Government. When the treaty came into effect the understanding that one person a month from each precinct of Japan would be permitted to come to Canada, at the most 600 or 700 a month.

The Provincial Government had gone outside of its jurisdiction when it passed the Natal Act and it was to the Federal Government alone that the people of British Columbia looked for the restriction of Japanese immigration.

Mr. McPherson said the yellow peril was closer than many thought. If the influx kept up there would soon be more yellow people than whites in British Columbia, and in the event of a struggle between Britain and Japan that part of Canada would be lost to the Empire.

Comox-Atlin's Member.

Mr. Sloan (Comox-Atlin) said that after having spent a period of his life in the Orient, he would deal with the question from a not altogether local point of view and discuss it from the standpoint of loyalty to Canada and the flag.

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier has stated," declared Mr. Sloan, "that the solution as far as Japan is concerned is different. I agree with him fully in that statement, but from the very fact that it is different and more difficult, it is the more dangerous and the remedy must be the more drastic. It might be true that labor was scarce in British Columbia, but so it had been in the other provinces of Canada owing to prosperous times. But labor should not be robbed of its legitimate share in prosperity by unjust competition.

"England," said the member for Comox-Atlin, "has made an alliance with this new world power, but this alliance and all other treaties or compacts of a European-Asian complexion can never endure. They can at best possess the elements of expediency, never thorough permanence or stability. It is impossible. It is improbable; nay, more, it is unnatural. As individuals, the races do not, and never will, associate. A nation, their ultimate destiny, their world-wide interests, their undying ambitions centre in channels as opposite as the poles."

DEFRAUDED BANKER OF $300.

Mrs. Hamilton Sentenced to Eight Months' Imprisonment.

St. Catharines, Dec. 17.—"You should have thought about your little children who are even now asking when their mother is coming back, before you started such things as this," said Police Magistrate Comfort yesterday to Lillian Hamilton, the Buffalo young woman, who had just pleaded guilty to swindling L. M. Collard, the private banker here, out of $300 by forging a local merchant's signature to a note.

"I will take your children into consideration in passing sentence, but I cannot let you off," continued the magistrate. "You will be confined in the Mercer Reformatory for eight months."

The woman took the sentence stolidly, evidently expecting a longer term, but she said it was her first and last offence.

HOT TIME IN COUNCIL.

London Deputy Returning Officer Removed After Lively Debate.

London, Dec. 17.—There was excitement last night in the London council.

L. A. Jones, the manufacturer, who figured in the recent election trial in Toronto, having confessed to holding envelopes in the notorious London election, had been appointed by the city clerk as deputy returning officer for the municipal election.

The mayor received about 25 written objections from voters in the polling sub-division, and asked that Mr. Jones' name be struck off.

The debate that followed was hot enough to melt the snows of winter, and about midnight, on a straight party vote of 7 to 5, the name of Mr. Jones was struck off and a new bylaw prepared.

St. Thomas, Dec. 17.—Following a football injury, which resulted in blood-poisoning, Master Henry Wallace Abbott, aged 15, died yesterday morning.

PIPER McDONALD REFUSES TO GIVE THE WOLVES ANOTHER OPPORTUNITY

Warsaw, December 17th. — (Special) — Donald McLean, otherwise known as Piper MacDonald, arrived in the village last night after spending some weeks in the north country following his daily occupation as a painter. MacDonald, of course, brought his bagpipes with him, and made some amusement for the boys, and by way of parenthesis, again recounted the hair-raising tale of the night he spent up north, when a pack of hungry wolves surrounded him, and again told of how the skirling of the bagpipes had kept them at bay.

He states that he had made a contract there to paint two houses but all Christendom wouldn't entice him back to where the wolves roam about in ravenous packs, looking for human blood. He is firm in his resolve to remain farther south after this, and will under no consideration imperil his life for the sake of the "filthy lucre."

MISS HELEN DAVIES AT MASSEY HALL

Miss Helen Davies, Peterborough's popular soprano, appeared at Massey Hall, Toronto, last night in conjunction with the National Chorus, and the celebrated New York Symphony Orchestra. The able critic of the "Mail and Empire" says this morning: "It was a pleasure to many to hear again Miss Helen Davies of Peterborough, whose beautiful high soprano voice is too seldom heard on local platforms. Only one of the brief solos allotted gave her a fitting opportunity to display the superb quality of her voice, and the beauty and distinction of her utterance. This was the narrative of Hiawatha's grief, beginning with the line, "On the bed of Minnehaha," in which she overcame difficulties of phrasing, and the tenderness she imparted to the melody stamped her as an artist who should go far indeed."

An interesting and graceful act was the presentation to Miss Davies, on the conclusion of her numbers, of a beautiful bouquet of American beauty roses, with the congratulations of St. Paul's Church choir of Peterborough, with whom she is deservedly popular, having occupied the position of soloist in that choir with conspicuous acceptance for the past four years.

The Globe says: 'Miss Helen Davies has broadened in her voice and methods since she was last heard here; her voice is more even throughout its compass, and her interpretation is more authoritative."

WHAT THE ASSESSMENT REDUCTION MEANS; DECREASE OF $5950 IN TAXES

The Court of Revision has completed its labours. The long list of appeals from the assessors' figures have been considered and judgment has been passed with sweeping results. The city's assessment has been decreased almost $340,000 and is now $2,262,030 greater than last year instead of $2,602,030 greater as the assessor's figures published on October 14 indicated.

The decrease in the assessment of $340,000 at the rate of 17 1-2 mills means a decrease in the amount of taxes, which would have been collected if the original assessment figures had stood the test, of $5,950.00.

In other words this is a decrease in taxes of about 37 cents per head of the entire population of the city.

Almost every appeal was allowed, or partially allowed, the majority of the complaints coming from wards 1 and 2.

Such is the havoc made by the Court of Revision in its recent record sitting upon the assessors' figures which now bear little resemblance to those that decorated the books some few weeks ago.

As stated above the increase in the assessment over last year, taking into consideration the revised figures is about $2,262,030 which means an increase in the amount of taxes at 17 1-2 mills of $39,585.

The total assessment is now about $9,850,000 which means about $175,000 taxes as compared with $136,414.26 a year ago at 17 1-2 mills.

Did Not Tear Up The Streets Without The Permission

So Says Mr. Davidson in Referring To Sewer—Work Done According to Instructions

THE MAYOR'S STANDING

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I notice in the report of the Council meeting held last Monday evening, and also in the report of the meeting of the Board of Works on Thursday last, that the Mayor accuses me of having torn up the streets of the city without having first obtained proper permission.

In order that the public may know the facts I wish to make this explanation.

Before commencing the work I applied to the City Engineer for permission to do so. I saw the City Engineer upon two or three occasions and received from him instructions as to how the work was to be done.

I then went ahead and did the work according to his instructions.

In the face of these facts, which could easily have been learned, the Mayor makes the public statement that I tore up the city streets without permission, and gives that as his reason for opposing my application for a refund. I was not asking any favour from the Council; all I asked was a return of the deposit required to be made by the city bylaw.

The Mayor seems to have taken extra pains to explain that he had no personal feelings in the matter. After learning the facts I leave that for the public to judge. If the citizens of Peterborough are to be denied their rights on account of the petty spite of the Mayor, then we had better take the first opportunity of selecting a man to that high position who will attend to the citys' business and not waste his own time and the time of the Council in looking for opportunities to annoy those against whom he may have any personal feelings.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space.

Yours truly,
W. DAVIDSON.

FROM THE PLACE WHERE THE BUFFALO ROAMS THE FOREST

Mr. Robert Harrison of Lamonte, Alta., formerly manager of the H. S. Macdonald drug store here, arrived in the city last night and will spend a few weeks before returning to the west again. Mr. Harrison lives in the unique spot which contains the only big buffalo herd that is left to roam the western prairies. The herd, it will be remembered, was purchased in Montana some time ago from the United States Government by the Canadian Government. It consists of between 400 and 500 animals, which are now being preserved in Lamonte by the game inspectors.

That great herd is the central attraction in that district and of course it is visited by all western travellers there. Some of the animals are of a large size, and are majestic representatives of the historic tribe to which they belong.

WOMAN DROPS DEAD IN KITCHEN WHILE PREPARING THE SUPPER

The call of death came with startling suddenness to Mrs. Margaret Scriver, who dropped dead on the floor of her kitchen while getting supper ready last night.

In the room at the time of Mrs. Scriver's sad death were Fred Langton, a Mr. Wright and a lady and they were all talking and laughing and when they asked Mrs. Scriver how she was feeling, were told that she had never felt bettr for some time. The deceased lady had hardly uttered the last word when she gave a gasp and fell across the kitchen floor. The occupants of the kitchen were shocked by the lady's sudden fall and thought she had only fainted, but Mr. Wright hurried to the residence of Dr. Cameron and told him to come with all haste to the lady's residence as he believed she was dead. The doctor arrived at the house a few minutes later and found that Mrs. Scriver had passed away, her death being caused by heart failure.

The doctor then sent Mr. Wright to the National Hotel to tell Miss Effie, a daughter of the deceased of the death of her mother. The young lady was overcome with grief on learning the sad news, having left her mother in splendid health the last time she saw her.

Mrs. Scriver has been an old resident of Peterborough. She was fifty years of age and lived in a lane between Bethune and Stewart streets. The deceased had been suffering for some time with heart failure and dropsy, the former being the cause of her death.

The deceased leaves behind her a daughter, Effie, and one son, Roy. She had one sister, Mrs. Mary Cleaver, and four brothers, Alfred, Henry, John and Cornelius all of Hastings.

The funeral will be announced later.

THE COUNCIL TO ASK ANDREW CARNEGIE FOR $35,000 GRANT FOR A NEW PUBLIC LIBRARY

HOCKEY PRACTISE BUT NO SKATING TO-NIGHT

There will be no skating at the Brock street rink to-night, except for a hockey practice. Between 7.30 and 8.30 o'clock, the Strathcona Q. H. A. hockey team, including all aspirants, will hold forth, and if cold weather lasts until to-morrow night the rink will be open for skating. The hockey practice to-night is intended to wear off the few rough edges on the surface of the ice. Mr. C. G. Graham, the secretary of the Peterborough Hockey Club, will be at the rink to-night to accommodate those wishing to get season tickets.

After Discussion With the Public Library Board They Decided To Do That Step Last Night—Opposition Was Almost Unanimous in Opposition

ALDERMAN WILSON OPPOSES

The City Council meeting in Committee of the Whole last night decided to ask Mr. Andrew Carnegie for a grant of $35,000 to build a new public library in Peterborough. The Dunsmore street property donated by the executors of the estate of the late Charlotte Nicholls will be sold and the proceeds used in maintaining the library which will be built with Mr. Carnegie's assistance in the east part of the city on some suitable site near Central Park, it is probable. The council was nearly unanimous in the opinion that to apply to ask Mr. Carnegie was the best thing to do and in this they were supported by the Board of Directors of the Peterborough Public Library, a deputation from which waited upon the council and expressed the view that an application to Mr. Carnegie was the only feasible plan. It was felt that it was useless to think of submitting a bylaw to the people asking for $15,000 or $20,000 for a library and at the same time asking upon them to accept the responsibility for its maintenance.

There may be some hitch in the matter owing to the fact that the deed transferring the Dunsmore street property to the city specifies that the Library shall be called the Nicholls Library. It is stated that Mr. Carnegie would have no objections to it being known as the Peterborough Library, but there is some reason at least to believe that he might not be willing to build a library to be called after some one else. This of course remains to be seen upon the result will not be known until Mr. Carnegie's representative has been heard from when it may be necessary to make other arrangements.

When the matter was introduced, the Mayor explained that at the last meeting a resolution had been passed, asking the co-operation of the Public Library Board. The position as far as the council was concerned was very simple inasmuch as they had to decided between two schemes. The smaller scheme would be to sell the building given by the Nicholls estate, and use the proceeds to secure a suitable building for a library. The other was to build a library building which would cost $35,000 or $40,000 to give Peterborough a library that would compare to other cities. This would mean $15,000 or $20,000 more than would be secured from the Nicholls property. To get this would require a vote of the people or else secure it from Mr. Carnegie. It was altogether improbable that the people would vote the money and pay for the maintenance as well and therefore the best course would be to ask Mr. Carnegie. The Mayor explained that he had written Mr. Carnegie in respect to the matter and had received a letter in reply asking for information. The only feasible scheme for a large library would be to apply to Mr. Carnegie.

Ald. Elliott asked if Mr. Carnegie would give $20,000 to a library to be known as the Nicholls Library.

The Mayor thought it be was not agreeable to this that he might co-operate in naming the library.

Ald. McIntyre said in Collingwood there had been similar conditions and the library there was called the Long-Carnegie Library.

The Mayor said that the library could be called the Peterborough Public Library and two tablets placed therein showing that the building had been built by Mr. Carnegie and endowed by Mrs. Nicholls.

A Slur Upon People

Ald Wilson thought it would be a slur upon the people of Peterborough and on the Board of Directors that had been handling the Nicholls estate if they applied to Mr. Carnegie. He thought that they would want a library of their own and that the best scheme would be to sell the Nicholls property and do the best they could with the proceeds.

At this juncture, Messrs. W. Hill, J S Knapman, Wm. Prust, John Corkery and Jas English of the Public Library Board arrived and the Mayor explained the situation to them. It would be foolish for the council, he said, to act without the full co-operation of the Library Board.

Mr. Hill was heard and presented the following resolution:—

Mr. Hill's Views

Mr. Hill stated that if the people were in favour of a free public library the Board were in favour handing over all they possessed which included 16,000 volumes, on the understanding that a new building should be erected. He was in favour of applying to Mr. Carnegie for a grant for the library. It would take at least $3,500 per year to run a free library and there was no hardship in asking Mr. Carnegie for money. They were no different from other people of Ontario who had gained his assistance. Mr. Carnegie was no worse than other millionaires. If he applied to Mr. Carnegie the city would only have to spend about

THE COUNCIL TO ASK ANDREW CARNEGIE FOR $35,000 FOR A LIBRARY

$1,500 per year for maintenance. A good library was needed more than ever in Peterborough now, with a new Collegiate Institute, Normal School and Public Schools. It could still be called the Nicholls Library, even if Mr. Carnegie supplied the money. In reply to a question, Mr. Hill stated that the present library cost about $1,200 per year for maintenance.

Mr. Knapman in Favour

Mr. Knapman stated that the Board was generally in favour of a new building. If the grant from Mr. Carnegie did not go through he thought the city should spent $4,000 or $5,000 more to erect a building that would be suitable. To convert the Ontario Bank building or the Menzies School into a library would not mean a new building.

Mr. Pringle agreed with the remarks of the previous speakers and advanced the opinion that a new building would be better. In regard to the Menzies property, it was too far from the centre of the city. He did not think the people of Peterborough should have any scruples about applying to Mr. Carnegie. Other Canadians had done so, and they were just as loyal and patriotic as the citizens of this city.

The Board was of the opinion that the Simcoe street store would not be suitable for a library. He strongly supported the scheme to ask Mr. Carnegie for assistance.

Opposition to Scheme

Mr. English, on the other hand, was very much opposed to the scheme of getting Mr. Carnegie's aid. He thought the Bank of Montreal building was suitable for a library, inasmuch as it was all fitted out with heating and plumbing. He thought the library should be called the Nicholls Library, and was very much against the proposition to ask Mr. Carnegie for money.

The Mayor said it was not necessary to call the building the Carnegie Library, but Mr. Carnegie might object to building a library to be called after somebody else.

Mr. English said the Board had been notified that it must leave its present premises, and that was one reason why he favoured securing the Montreal Bank building, because it was all ready to be used.

Mr. Corkery was in favour of applying to Mr. Carnegie, and expressed the opinion that a building should be erected especially for Public Library purposes.

Bylaw Would Not Pass

The Mayor asked if it was the opinion of the Board that the people would vote $15,000 or $20,000 and also undertake the responsibility of maintaining the library.

The members of the Board, however, did not think the people would do this.

"It is a question whether they would vote the maintenance alone," remarked Mr. Pringle. He further stated that the members of the Board did not want to show lack of appreciation of the generosity of Mrs. Nicholls, and if the building could not be called the Nicholls Library they would not be in favour of going on with the question of a grant from Mr. Carnegie.

Ald. Phelan moved that the Council ask Mr. Carnegie for $35,000 to erect an up-to-date Public Library in Peterborough.

Ald. Morrow seconded the motion, saying that he was sure that if a bylaw was submitted to the people for $15,000 or $20,000 it would be voted down.

Ald. Leary thought that, in view of the fact that it was the last meeting of the Council, it might be well to leave the matter over until next year, as it did not look right to over-burden next year's Council.

Ald. Elliott said that the Council was appreciative of Mrs. Nicholls' generosity, but he was in favour of Ald. Phelan's motion.

Ald. Stevenson thought all the circumstances of the case should be submitted to Mr. Carnegie. If the latter should insist that the name "Nicholls Library" should be dropped he would not be in favour of the scheme.

Ald. Bradburn said that there were just two schemes—apply to Mr. Carnegie or buy the Bank of Montreal building. He was in favour of the first proposal.

Ald. Wilson was in opposition to the scheme. He was of the opinion that the Council should secure the Bank of Montreal building, which could be turned into a good library.

Ald. Tovey was in favour of a new library, but opposed going to Mr. Carnegie for the money.

Should Not Ask Outsider

Ald. Wilson did not think the Council should ask any outsider for money. It should be purely a Nicholls Library.

Ald. McIntyre thought it would be a big mistake to try to convert the Montreal Bank building into a library. "It would always be a one-horse affair," he said.

Ald. Phelan's motion was then put and carried by a large majority.

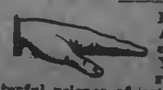
Palmistry



Madame Laurel Ayres, World Renowned Psychic Your entire life read by the masterful science of palmistry; no cheap tricks, but a plain statement of facts. In the science of reading one's life by the signs of the human hand madame stands the recognized mistress through America. Her wonderful gift of second sight enables her to lift the veil of mystery and reveal to you all important matters of your past, present, and future life. Her prediction of future events is marvellous, and has created a furore everywhere. She has been consulted by thousands well and favourably known in Peterborough. Beware of unscrupulous persons who are travelling and who are copying my advertisements to mislead the public. They are humbugs. I do not use cards or globes, nor go into a trance, but by the art of palmistry and gift of second sight, which is a sixth sense, give truthful advice on all affairs of life. If you are disappointed by the efforts of others, judge not all alike, as madame can convince the most skeptical. This wonderful lady is now located in this city. Knowledge is power; seek before too late. One price to all—dollar readings reduced to 50 cents during holidays. Hours—10 a.m. to 10 p.m. (230 Water street; opposite Market.

Rings As Gifts

THE ONE YOU RING may be the man you'll be "banded" with for life, or it may be "just an old friend." In either case, he or she will be lucky to get such a good ring, and you'll be fortunate in getting it at our price.

FITTED ALL AROUND

A flash of exquisite beauty beyond the mere play of words is our $25.00 DIAMOND SOLITAIRE.

Snow Ploughing Fiasco Was Aired in the Council

Some of the Aldermen Had Things To Say About the Way in Which The Work Was Done or Rather Not Done—Committee To Investigate

TO ARRANGE THE MATTER

The fiasco over the snow ploughing on Saturday night and Sunday, which has called forth such indignation on the part of the citizens who had to wade up to their knees in the beautiful, was aired at the meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council last night, and some of the members expressed their opinion vigorously. The trouble was discussed at considerable length, with the final result that Ald. Bradburn of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and Ald. Duncan of the Board of Works, were appointed a committee to rearrange matters, so that the snow ploughing in the central part of the city shall be done properly hereafter. The investigation into the matter arose over the fact that Foreman Pakenham rigidly adheres to the rule which enacts that he shall have two men always at the fire hall, and refuses to allow them to attend to the snow cleaning.

Ald. Phelan, who brought up the matter, said that the condition of affairs on Saturday night in the centre of the city was ridiculous. There were no snow ploughs on the streets at eight o'clock, while the horses were standing in the stable. He said some one should be held responsible.

Ald. Bradburn stated that west of St. Peter's cathedral there had been no snow plough out until 8.30 o'clock on Sunday morning.

Ald. Wilson advanced that on Saturday night he tried to reach the city engineer, and the street commissioner, but couldn't get into communication with them, whereupon he had ordered Mr. Wainwright to get out with the snow plough.

Ald. Tovey said that there was one crossing in the south end where the snow was two feet deep, where it had been thrown up by the street railway company.

Ald. Duncan remarked that the people seemed to think that the chairman of the Board of Works should get out and shovel the snow himself. There were more men than ever at the fire hall but they wouldn't get out and clear off the snow. Mr. Pakenham would not let them go. In regard to the contract of Mr. Chard in the north end, the Board was going to ask that he be released, inasmuch as he did not turn out until 11.30 on Saturday night.

Reasons For Trouble

The Mayor explained that four of the contractors had done their work well, while two had failed; one was Mr. Chard, who had not enough horses to do the work. The other was Mr. Hayes who had informed the Street Commissioner that he did not think that he had to get out until the snow had stopped falling. With regard to the centre of the city it was supposed to be done by the men at the fire hall. Mr. Pakenham said he was supposed to have two men always at the fire hall, and he objected to have them going out and doing snow ploughing. He had four men at the fire hall, two of whom remained there at night. The main difficulty was in getting the men away from the fire hall in the morning or at night, when generally they are most required for snow ploughing.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Morrow that the matter be left in the hands of Ald. Bradburn and Duncan.

"I don't want Ald. Bradburn and Duncan to go down there and bulldose Mr. Pakenham for the sake of the Street Commissioner," remarked Ald. Morgan.

Ald. Morgan is trying to bull-dose the council," retorted the chairman of the Board of Works. "We didn't bulldoze anybody but went down to the hall and settled the matter quietly."

Ald. Leary didn't see why they couldn't run the fire hall with a man short in the winter as they did in the summer. He moved in amendment that the Board of Works and Street Commissioner Evans be given full control of Mr. Matchett and one of team, with authority to secure another team, when necessary, for the purposes of snow ploughing.

There was no seconder to the motion, nor to Ald. Morgan's, which was to the effect that the matter be left to the street commissioner and foreman of the fire hall to settle.

Ald Phelan's motion leaving the question to Ald. Bradburn and Duncan was carried.

Kidney Troubles From the Liver

COMPLICATED CASES WHICH LED TO THE DISCOVERY OF THAT GREAT MEDICINE

In his study of kidney disease, Dr. Chase found that fully 90 per cent. of the cases arose as a direct result of liver and bowel disorders, and it was working on this idea that led to the discovery of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Through over-eating, irregular meals, or food that does not agree the liver is deranged, poisonous bile is left in the blood, and the digestive system is upset. Headaches, biliousness, pains in the back and limbs, ill-temper, and general out-of-sorts feelings result.

These are among the symptoms of liver complaint, but during such attacks the kidneys are overworked and after a while there is pain and smarting when passing water, the urine is highly coloured and contains deposits, the pains in the back become more severe, you have rheumatic pains it may be, and are gradually falling a victim of Bright's disease of the kidneys.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were prepared for the express purpose of effecting cure in every stage of such cases. They enliven the liver, regulate the action of the bowels, and invigorate the kidneys.

In this regard they are entirely different to any treatment you ever used, and are successful in complicated cases in which ordinary kidney medicines have little or no effect. There are people in every neighbourhood in Canada ready to certify to this statement.

Mrs. John Shanahan, 319 McDonel street, Peterborough, Ont., states:—"I was troubled with pains in the back, and dropsy, and was subject to fluttering and palpitation of the heart. In order to set my kidneys right I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and I also used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food at the same time.

"The combined use of these two preparations has done me a world of good. I used to have rush of blood to the head, dizziness, and headache, but I am thankful to say that all these symptoms have disappeared, and I have been cured by Dr. Chase's remedies."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose; 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.—5.

CONCERT AT PARK STREET CHURCH

Annual Report Shows Successful Year at Park Street Baptist Church

THE OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

The Mission Band of the Park street Baptist church sustained its reputation at its annual Tea and Concert. The church was packed and standing room occupied. Master Harold Hatcher was a special favourite and was called back twice. The dialogues were instructive and amusing and the choruses were good.

The Rev. A H Brace occupied the chair and Miss M. Mann and Mr. T G Gillespie took part in the opening exercises and the following report was read by Miss Nelly Hudson:

In reviewing the work of the year we feel very thankful for what has been accomplished and for the spirit and zeal for missions which seems to be instilled in many of the members hearts. During the year we have held 10 meetings. The months of July and August being excepted owing to the warm weather and the absence of many from the city. The meetings held at 4 p.m. on the first Sunday in the month were fairly well attended and very interesting. The subjects taken up have related to our work both at home and abroad. We have 57 names on the roll. In January it was decided instead of our annual election of officers we still retain the officers of last year, viz:—

Hon. President—Rev. A H Brace.
President—Miss M Mann.
Vice-President—Miss Maud Evenson.
Treasurer—Miss M Gillespie.
Secretary—Miss Nelly Hudson.
Organist—Miss Gertie Buntin.
Assist. Organist—Miss E Gillespie.

In May we were pleased to welcome back Mr. Alex. Haddow and Mr. Roy Jackson from Woodstock College for the summer months, who worked faithfully while with us.

At this meeting Miss Mabel Gillespie and Mr. Roy Jackson were nominated as delegates to the Association held in Port Hope. They brought back a very interesting and instructive report.

In Sept. 24th, the Band met at Mrs. Thos. Aikins' to consider new plans for increasing the membership with the following result:—

Roll to be revised.

Band to be divided into five or six companies, having a captain over each, responsible for his company.

The companies to be appointed by the officers of the Band.

To take up a country as a topic for two or three meetings. Each company to take turns in preparing the programme.

That we support a native student by special offerings.

And now, as we enter upon another year's work our desire is that we may not only support a student but that we may double our contributions to missions.

N. HUDSON,
Secretary.

The following programme was very heartily enjoyed:—

Recitation—Mary Barrie.
Recitation—May Corsey.
Dialogue, "A Bag of Wishes"—Seven girls.
Recitation, "The Afternoon Tea"—Rena Johnston.
Recitation—Vida Palmer.
Solo—Harold Hatcher.
Recitation, "Two Offerings"—Gertie Killingback.
Dialogue, "Unjust Suspicions" —Six young ladies.
Solo—Harold Hatcher.
Recitation—M Gillespie.
Dialogue, "The Pumpkin Pie"—Four boys.
Reading—Miss Edith Gillespie.
Dialogue, "Grumbling at Lessons" —Seven girls.
Recitation—"Mike's Prayer" — Lillian Tranter.
Recitation—Mr. Chas Barrie.
Dialogue, "Mrs. Muggins" —Three young ladies.

BOIL THE WATER

Lame back and urinary troubles arise from a poison in the system affecting the urinary organs An old woman's recipe for the driving out of this poison is quite simple and inexpensive It consists of four ounces syrup of rhubarb, one ounce compound extract of sarsaparilla, and one ounce of sweet spirits of nitre Buy these at any drug store and mix at home After meals and at bedtime take a dessertspoonful in a little water Boil all drinking water and drink lots of it. Don't eat any acid products such as raw fruit, pickles, and above all, no liquor must be used —12.

Holiday Buying Should Be Done Now

Every days delay means that you must choose from a smaller selection.

We have hundreds of Christmas articles especially selected for this particular time of the year and especially for you.

Unless you personally look over our stock you cannot possibly know of the great variety of goods, nor can you imagine how beautiful they are either in value or attractiveness.

Purchases will be laid away if desired until Christmas Eve.

THE APPEAL FOR WORKERS IN EAST

Annual Meeting of St. Paul's Woman's Foreign Missionary Society

OFFICERS WERE ELECTED

The thirty-first anunal meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of St. Paul's Church was held on Friday, December 13, Miss Dickson, the president, occupying the chair.

Miss Dickson gave a most interesting address, reviewing the work that has been accomplished by our missionaries, and the report of the society, prepared by Miss Martha Dickson, secretary pro tem, was read by the secretary.

Mrs. McKee, the assistant treasurer, presented the financial statement, showing the total receipts for the year to be $567.98, of which $45.84 was used to clothe a boy and girl in the Alberni School, B. C., leaving a balance in the bank of $522.14.

Reports were read from the Fraser Mission Band by Miss Florence Hamilton, and from the Faithful Workers by Miss Aleitha Davidson. Mrs. Jeffrey of Toronto, vice-president of the W.F.M.S. Board, gave an interesting report on the work of the W.F.M.S. in the different fields. The great revival in India had resulted, she said, in the change of life of many of the people. Signs point to the breaking down of caste, those of different castes mingling more together. Famine is again threatening the land. The missionaries in China during the past summer suffered terribly from the intense heat, and Mrs. Jeffrey implored all to ask God to call out those whom He knows and whom he can use for His glory for the work in China, as well as in India. Good reports come to us from Honan of the splendid work carried on by Miss Pike in the boarding school for girls. Mrs. Jeffrey also touched on the good work being carried on in our other fields, making special mention of Miss Jamieson, the travelling secretary. Mrs. Jeffrey spoke earnestly to the girls of the Mission Bands. In closing, Mrs. Jeffrey made an appeal for individual prayer.

The offering was then received, during which Miss Moore sang a solo.

Mrs. Garvin moved that a hearty vote of thanks be tendered Mrs. Jeffrey, Mrs. Mason seconding the same.

Greetings were received from the auxiliaries of St. Luke's, Murray Murray street Baptist, Mark street Methodist and St. Andrew's. Mrs. Keith expressed the hope that next year she would be able to bring greetings from Knox Church.

Rev. Mrs. Pogue gave a short address after the hymn, "Blest be the tie that binds," was sung. Mr. Pogue offered the dedicatory prayer, closing with the benediction.

Report of the Secretary

The thirty-first annual report of St. Paul's Woman's Foreign Missionary Auxiliary was as follows:

In presenting the annual report of our auxiliary, we do so with gratitude to our Heavenly Father for the success which has attended the work of the auxiliary.

Meetings have been held regularly with the exception of August. The average attendance has been a little higher than the previous year. The custom of having the January meeting specially for prayer was again followed.

The study of "Christus Redemptor" has increasingly grown in favour, and we are sure that all who have prepared papers can testify to the personal benefits derived from this work.

The society was asked to supply clothing for a boy and girl in the Alberni School, B.C. Suitable outfits were provided, also a large quantity of supplies needed for the boarding school. These were valued at $59.18 and were shipped in August.

Early in the year a letter was received from Mrs. Motion, matron of the school, whose home was in Peterborough at one time. She also sent photos of several of the pupils, the school building and church, all of which helped to increase our interest in this department of the work.

Month by month the "Foreign Missionary Tidings" has come, telling of the work which our missionaries, as our representatives, are doing in the Mission Fields. Could this organ of the W.F.M.S. not be placed in every home during the coming year?

In October the annual thank offering meeting was well attended. Mrs. Keith gave a most interesting address on her experiences in India. The offering amounted to $402.50—the largest in the history of the auxiliary.

One thing which strikes me very forcibly in the minutes of the monthly meetings is the repetition of the same names of those who have led in prayer. No appeal comes to us so frequently from our missionaries as this one, "Pray for us." They know something of the wonderful power there is in prayer and how useless and ineffective their work is without it.

The report, after referring in terms of high commendation of departed members of the society, Mrs. Fairbairn and Miss Roger, and paying tribute to Mesdames Torrance and McKay, removed, went on to say:

May we refer especially to the very efficient services rendered by our late secretary, who spared neither time nor energy to promote the welfare of the society.

Our thanks are due to Miss Cameron who has so kindly filled the office of secretary pro tem.

The record of the year is closed, the results are with Him, Who seeth not as man seeth. "Man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart."

If we could individually realize and act upon the old proverb, "I am only one, but I am one; I cannot do everything, but I can do something; what I can do I ought to do; what I ought to do, by the grace of God, I will do," many of the difficulties would be surmounted, and the problems solved in missionary work.

(Signed.)
MARTHA DICKSON,
Secretary pro tem.

SOCIAL BIBLE CLASS WAS FORMED

At a Social Evening at Mark Street Methodist Church Last Night

At the Mark street Methodist church last night, a "Social Bible Class" was formed for the men and older boys of the church. About twenty-five young men were present, and, after refreshments served by the Ladies' Aid, were partaken of, the class was formed, with the following officers:

President, Mr. Jos. Sucee.
Vice-President, Mr. John Spear.
Secretary, Mr. Kent Throop.
Treasurer, Mr. Stanley Matchett.

A feature of the class will be a meeting on Sunday afternoon at the time of the Sunday school meeting, and on Tuesday nights the social and literary side of the class will be developed.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound, or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube resored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Why Beauty Fades
Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and the nerves become exhausted, beauty fades, wrinkles show themselves, and the glow of health disappears and beauty curves give place to leanness and angles. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative, is woman's greatest blessing from youth to old age. A few weeks' use of this treatment will do wonders for any woman who is pale, thin, weak and nervous.

THE COW'S HORN.

Various Ways in Which it is Made Useful by Man.

Have you any conception of how useful that horn is to us? Scientifically it is known as a combination of phosphate of lime, gelatin and albumen, and, like all nature's products, the ingredients are in the right proportion to make the article useful to man as well as to the animal that bears it.

The lime makes the horn hard, but there is just enough lime to make it hard without making it brittle, and there is just enough gelatin to make the horn easy to cut and shape. The core of the horn is bone, and to get that out the horn is soaked in water for several weeks. When the core is taken out it is ground up and made into crucibles which are used for melting gold and silver in.

The outer end of the horn is hard and solid, and that is used for making knife handles and other things. The hollow part of the horn is soaked for half an hour or so in boiling water, when it becomes soft and may easily be split with a knife.

It is then spread out flat and put between iron plates. There was a time when these horn plates were made very thin by hard pressure and used in windows and lanterns as we now use glass. They may be made quite translucent.

When the horn is heated it may be molded into almost any desired form. That is the way knife handles, buttons and other articles are made.

Terrors of the Skies.

In the aerial war of the near future man will be staggered not by the spectacle, but by the slaughter. For the spectator there will be little to see beyond a number of faint gray linear objects like whetstones silhouetted against the sky. But each of these drab colored objects is an airship which can easily carry from ten to fifty torpedoes weighing from 110 to 165 pounds. The havoc wrought by a small fleet of Zeppelin airships would be frightful. It could pursue the fastest battleship and send it to the bottom. The battleship is at a terrible disadvantage. It is easily damaged from above. It has a speed of twenty-five knots against a speed of nearly thirty knots possessed by its adversary. Pursue the comparison to questions of cost and of crew. The Patria, costing $60,000, with a crew of three, and Count Zeppelin's giant airship, costing $125,000, with a crew of six, are each capable of annihilating a battleship, value $40,000,000, with a crew of nearly 1,000 men.—Dr. Rudolf Martin in London Magazine.

PALMIST ALLEGED TO HAVE PROPOSED MARRIAGE TO WELL KNOWN LOCAL YOUNG LADIES

Prof. Shepherd Charged With Having Undertaken To Tell Fortunes Seems to Have Been a Gay Lothario According to Evidence Heard This Morning---So Credulous Women in Peterboro' Evidently "Would Be Happy in Three Rooms"

THE PRISONER IS SAID TO HAVE POSSESSED MAGNETISM.

There are a good many credulous women in Peterborough, according to the evidence that was brought out in the police court this morning, in the charge against Professor Shepherd, who styles himself a palmist, of having unlawfully undertaken to tell fortunes by going into trances, and by other means, contrary to the criminal code. Shepherd arrived in the city some weeks ago, and inserted advertisements in the local papers to the effect that he was a palmist, and was prepared to give readings. As usual in such cases the majority of his clientele were women, and, according to the evidence, the professor has not confined himself strictly to the lines laid down in his advertisements, and, in addition to palmistry, has talked of a subject that is infinitely more attractive and interesting to the feminine mind, i. e., matrimony. The evidence would seem to show that Shepherd is more advanced than his brothers in the craft in this particular, inasmuch as one of the witnesses, a lady well known in Peterborough, swore this morning that not only did he promise marriage, but even offered to assure it by marrying her himself. He told her they would be happy living in three rooms, and even went so far as to consult her mother about the proposal. According to the witness he had a "kind of magnetism which made it hard for her to leave him.

There was nothing in the prisoner's appearance this morning, either magnetic or romantic, and the influence he is said to have exerted over some of his lady callers is hard to understand. He is rather short and pleasant looking, with bushy fair hair but has done of the characteristics that are supposed to exist among the mysterious exponents of his calling.

The evidence given this morning was to the effect that Shepherd had not defined his proposals to marriage, but had said many things to the ladies who had come to consult him that were decidedly improper, so bad that they did not want to state them in court, and the Magistrate respected their scruples, and allowed them to state in general terms what had happened. Living with the prisoner at the time he was arrested was a young girl, supposed to be his wife.

Crown Attorney Wood conducted the prosecution, while the prisoner was defended by Mr. F. D. Kerr. The general public was not admitted to the hearing.

When the case opened this morning the Magistrate read the charge as follows: "Charles Shepherd, you are charged in the month of December of having unlawfully undertaken to tell fortunes by going into trances, and telling fortunes, by other means, contrary to the criminal code."

The young man elected through his counsel, Mr. F. D. Kerr to be tried before His Worship and the case went on.

Brought Girl With Him

The first witness was the landlady of the boarding house on Aylmer street where Shepherd was arrested yesterday. The lady said she had kept palmists before. Prof. Shepherd came last Friday to board with her, placed two placards advertising his business on the door. On Monday when he came to commence business he brought with him a young girl he met at the train and introducing her as his intended wife, took her to his room. They had a marriage license and witness told them to go to Rev. If Mc manning if they wanted to get married. The couple said they were going to get married that day.

An Examiner ad. was the means of bringing an employee of the Canadian General Electric Company to the palmist's parlours. He was the next witness and said that he saw the ad. in the paper and having taken a great interest in palmistry thought he would consult the alleged scientist on the affairs of his home and also be enlightened about his future. The palmist told him that the things he was worrying about had passed and also that Peterborough held no future for him and said he would leave town in the spring or early next year. He said that Shepherd looked at his hand through a magnifying glass and for the short reading he received he payed fifty cents and was satisfied with the reading.

Proposed Marriage

After making a proposal of marriage to the next witness, a well known south ward lady, he willingly accepted the 50 cents offerd him by the caller. The Magistrate thought that was mean of Shepherd. This witness had also seen the ad. in the newspaper and one afternoon about 3 o'clock she made her way to Shepherd's parlours in Mrs. King's restaurant. She entered his room and asked him to read her hand. He told her a little of her past, but specially emphasized her grand future, and holding her hand asked her to become his wife. He told her that in her hand he saw she would be happy if she were to marry him and also said that she would live happy in three rooms. The witness could not understand this, and did not believe it as she was always used to a good home.

"Didn't you get up and leave him then?" queried his Worship.

The witness said she could not; she felt that he held her there by "his personal magnetism."

This caused great laughter in court and Mr. Wood remarked that prisoner looked void of all magnetism at the present time.

The witness stated that he followed this up with telling her something not fit to tell in court. On leaving she told him if he wanted to know any more about their chances for marriage he had better interview her mother, which he did, and he also found her brother present, but his pleas were not listened to. This was the last she had seen of Shepherd.

A Fenelon Falls girl, employed in Peterborough, the last witness this morning, said that she had seen the witness two weeks ago when she had gone to call upon Mrs. King. The professor had read her hand by means of a microscope for which she paid 50 cents. The witness said that she could not remember what prisoner had told her. He had talked of the past and the future, saying that she was going to travel a lot. Prisoner did not propose marriage with her, but said things she did not care to speak of.

In cross-examination the witness could not remember what conversation she had with the prisoner.

"Surely you were not sitting there for half an hour just holding hands?" asked Mr. Kerr.

The cross-examination failed to bring out much additional evidence and the court adjourned for luncheon.

At this afternoon's session Shepherd was committed for trial on the charge of telling fortunes, and the second charge, that of seducing Mary Turncliffe of Belleville, was begun.

MR. GEORGE FOWLER, M.P.P. IS SUED

Called to Account for $55,000 Difference Between Selling Price and Transfer Price of Timber Limits

As was expected, a writ has been issued by the Union Trust Company, Limited, against George W. Fowler, M. P., and associates, "to recover a certain sum of $55,000, money had and received by the defendants to the use of the plaintiffs, and interest thereon and for an account, or in the alternative for damages to the same amount for conspiracy to defraud." This suit arises out of the British Columbia timber and mills deal, which figured before the Royal Commission on Insurance. It is claimed that Mr. Fowler purchased certain timber lands in British Columbia, for which the price was $175,000, but that they were transferred to a syndicate financed by the Union Trust Company, at the figures of $225,000, and the balance between that sum and the bona fide price of $175,000 is now sought to be recovered from Mr. Fowler.

END OF J. ISRAEL TARTE IS NEAR

He is Seriously Ill at His Country Home in Quebec

Examiner special.

Montreal, Dec. 18.—Hon. J. Israel Tarte is dying at Boucherville, and it is questionable whether or not he will live another 24 hours. It has been evident to his friends for some time that the end was approaching. Mr. Tarte returned to his country home at Boucherville about two weeks ago in the hope that the rest and country air would benefit him, but he has gradually weakened until a message from Boucherville reached the city this morning stating that he hardly would survive the day.

PLAYED CHEQUE GAME SUCCESSFULLY

"Johnny Webb" Bought Tinware in East City by Forging Thos. Rehill's Name

The old cheque game for obtaining money is not yet worn out. The latest merchant reported to have been swindled is Mr. Oliver G. Ferguson, tinsmith of East City who on Monday night sold some tinware to a young man who said his name was Johnny Webb.

The tinware amounted to about $1 in price and Webb presented a cheque supposed to have been signed by Mr. Thos Rehill, lime and ice dealer for $7.35. He got the tinware and the change and is now spending money he did not rightly earn. He told Mr. Ferguson he had been working for Mr. Rehill during the summer. He was young and fair in appearance, but no accurate description can be given of him.

The cheque was made out on the Dominion Bank and was to-day taken to Mr. Rehill to determine its value. The latter states that no such person has worked for him this year and that he did not sign the cheque.

Further developments may be expected.

Kidney Disease on the Increase

Recent reports from the New York Board of Health show that kidney disease is fairly on the increase. Bright's Disease as well as the other dreadfully painful forms of kidney disease can always be prevented and usually cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills which have a direct and combined influence on the kidneys and liver.

RURAL MAIL DELIVERY

We smile indulgently at a child crying for the moon. Those who clamour for rural mail delivery are in the same class, so far as business practicability is involved. The cost, compared with the convenience, removes the proposition from the area of sound business. In the United States—where the experiment is being tried, and where the conditions are much more favourable—the density of population being much greater—the expense is oppressive. In 1902 the cost of a limited service was four millions; in 1908 it will be thirty-five millions. We have city delivery largely for business reasons, and besides, city dwellers write and receive more letters than the average country dwellers. It does not seem that the farmers of the country at large are calling for mail delivery to their doors. It would be much more to the point to spend the millions, which rural delivery would cost, upon improving the highways leading to market towns. This would be a distinct advantage; would represent money well spent, spent for a distinct and positive advantage. Those who insist upon rural mail delivery say that it should be applied to only favoured—thickly settled—sections. But, in principle, no such distinction can be made. We cannot use the money, to which everybody contributes, for the benefit of a few without violating a right. It may be said that this is done in the case of city delivery. Not at all. The cities where there is free delivery contribute the great bulk of the postal revenue, which is now enough to make the post-office department self-sustaining, but would be pitifully inadequate for rural mail delivery. A man living alone on a country side line in a northern township is as much entitled to free delivery of his letters as a man living in the most thickly settled district. Selecting certain sections of the country would be on a line with the proposal of the Ontario Government to put the whole Province in the interest of a power scheme which only a limited section of the Province can take advantage of. To establish only a partial rural mail delivery would absorb the whole of the present postal revenue and make a big hole in the general national revenue. If the United States, with a dozen times Canada's population over a smaller area, cannot make rural delivery a success, how can it be expected to succeed here? Nobody, but a few politicians, is seriously demanding it, and their bona fides is open to question. Dearth of a practical policy is all that commends it to them. As Hon. G. P. Graham pointed out, any money we have available for postal service improvement would be more wisely employed in improving postal facilities in the interests of the outlying districts now inefficiently served. There is still another way in which available means could be employed. It is that suggested by the Toronto Star: "There is a subject in which farmers are vitally interested. This is the extension of the parcel post system. This reform was urged at the last meeting of the Dominion Grange, and the carrying out of what is called for would be a substantial benefit to the agricultural interest. It would enable the farmer to send his butter, eggs, poultry, or fruit direct to a city customer at a moderate charge, and put him in a position to obtain small bulk supplies from the city in the same way. Moreover, by conceding what is asked in this case, the postal revenue would be increased to an extent at least equal to the cost of the increase in the service called for."

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS

PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days, or money refunded. 50c

The Intercolonial Railway is the steel bond of confederation. It will cost the country next year nine millions, but will not cost it a cent, for the operation of the road will pay it all back. This year's earnings will suffice for that with a little margin over.

ITS MERIT IS PROVED

RECORD OF A GREAT MEDICINE

A Prominent Montreal Woman Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Completely Cure Her.

The great good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is doing among the women of America is attracting the attention of many leading scientists, and thinking people generally.

The following letter is only one of many thousands which are on file in the Pinkham office, and go to prove beyond question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound must be a remedy of great merit, otherwise it could not produce such marvelous results among sick and ailing women:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Soon after my marriage my health began to decline. My appetite failed me: I was unable to sleep, and I became very nervous and had shooting pains through the abdomen and pelvic organs, with bearing-down pains and constant headaches, causing me much misery. The monthly periods became more and more painful, and I became a burden and expense to my family instead of a help and pleasure. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me within three months. Soon after I began using it I felt a change for the better, and at the time of my next period I noticed a great difference, and the pain gradually diminished until I was well. I am stronger and look better than I did before I was married, and there is great rejoicing in the house over the wonders your medicine worked." Mrs. M. A. C. Letellier, 732 Cadieux St., Montreal, Quebec.

If you have suppressed or painful periods, weakness of the stomach, indigestion, bloating, pelvic catarrh, nervous prostration, dizziness, faintness, "don't care" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feeling, excitability, backache or the blues, these are sure indications of female weakness, or some derangement of the organs. In such cases there is one tried and true remedy—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

BEWILDERMENT OF HAULTAIN

The following from the Toronto Star is reproduced below, because it refers to a gentleman well known, and greatly respected, in Peterborough, a native and former resident; and because it is a fine example of playful, and polished, satire. It cannot be called sarcasm, for the gentle flagellation is laid on as with a rose leaf, with here and there a subtle suggestion of the thorn. To understand its point, one is to remember that the Star is in favour of the Toronto Power Bylaw, and Mr. Haultain has been writing a letter against it:

"Nothing that Mr. Arnold Haultain ever wrote, whether aubade, sonnet, canzonet or essay, has attracted so much attention as his letter on the power question. The power question as a subject for literary endeavour, does not appeal to many poets, so that it speaks highly for Mr. Haultain's genius that he makes the thing interesting.

"Interesting, did we say? Why, the man has woven from it a prose poem something as graceful as the palm in the desert, as playful as the wind in the leaves. We can almost forgive him what he says for the pretty way he says it. But, in sad sooth, Mr. Haultain is 'agin us.' He has no use for the power bylaw, though he cheerfully admits that he cannot give reasons for the faith that is in him save that he doesn't understand anything about it, and details make his head ache.

"According to his own confession, never was anybody so innocent of business as himself. Harold Skimpole was a pillar of responsibility compared to him. He cares no more for facts than the little birds do, and figures are to him what a pound of lead would be to a butterfly. He is the creature of air and sunshine, the bee sipping the nectar from every flower but constant to none, the lark just dipping its wing and off to heaven's gate again, the glow-worm that spangles the night—his sole object in life, beauty, song, laughter, but business—never. A Puck for mischief, an Ariel for flitting—such is Mr. Haultain. To slay this volatile spirit with a club would be in bad taste. If words are used towards him they should be as delicate as thistle down.

"It is a lovely sight—Mr. Haultain sidling up to the power question. His bewilderment, how charming! His hesitation, how artless! He is a little prattling child for knowledge. His questions, how naive, and yet how searching! Oh, this sweet ignorance! To deceive such a babe would be cruel. Where is the mean man in Toronto, that would draw the wool over Mr. Haultain's wide wondering eyes? All he asks is information. He doesn't want to lean one way or another until he knows, don't you know. Meanwhile, see him swaying like a lily in the breeze — Haultain, as it were, between two opinions.

"But Mr. Haultain does deign for a minute or two to come down from those heights of bliss trodden by superior persons who affect an ignorance of practical affairs. And when Mr. Haultain does spur his fancy to it, how he does skip and frisk and gambol and tickle the thing with his pen. He is a perfect lamb for playfulness, and when we say a perfect lamb, we mean a Charles Lamb, for Mr. Haultain has formed his style on the best English masters.

"In fact, it's Mr. Haultain's style that we blame for it all. Mr. Haultain is the author of as many styles as there are great authors, but in none does he excel more than in banter. If he had supported the power bylaw there would have been no room for banter, and Mr. Haultain's reputation as a persifleur would have have been that much poorer. Byron, we are told, would sacrifice a friend for a couplet. Similarly, the power bylaw is the martyr of Mr. Haultain's satire. Not only does the subject please his pen, but it accords with his tone of mind, which is inclined to sniff at the mistakes of the common people.

"It is, we verily believe, Mr. Haultain's style that leads him astray. It leads him back, say, as far as good King Charles' time, when it was the custom to write like a gentleman, and people knew their places. Mr. Haultain was born in Peterborough, and is, so far as that goes, a Canadian. But in the matter of style, he has always favoured the imported article, and in this respect has taken full advantage of the British preference. It therefore does not surprise us to hear him speaking of pence and ha'pence in a country in which cents—common cents at that—are good enough for anybody else.

"Mr. Haultain vows that his head is as light as his heart where business is concerned, but we distrust the statement. We have read his letter a second time, and we seem to discern—we hope Mr. Haultain will correct us—an undertone of argument in it."

A COMPETENT WITNESS

Conservative speakers and papers are asserting that hard times threaten the country on account of the extravagance of the Liberal administration. The following extract from the remarks made at the annual meeting of the Bank of Montreal show that if the Liberals, as asserted—falsely—by Conservative critics, are making ducks and drakes of the people's money, and piling up oppressive taxes, the people and the country thrive and grow fat under it, something that did not happen in the economical and careful administration of Hon. Mr. Foster and his friends. Sir George Drummond, in referring to the ten years covered by the administration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, said:

"Canada has experienced a decade of remarkable commercial expansion. Ten years ago our total foreign trade, on the basis of imports for home consumption and domestic imports, amounted to $234,926,000—in 1907, on the same basis, it reached $571,783,000—showing an increase of no less than 193 per cent. * * * Since 1897 the aggregate of deposits in the banks has mounted up from $270,000,000 to $677,400,000, and in the last six years the deposits of the public in the banks have increased from $71 per head of population to $103 per head.

Here we have the testimony of a competent witness, who gives evidence to point out the distinction between the prosperity attending Liberal rule with the administration of the Conservative party, with its annually recurring tale of additions to the public debt, and deplorable deficits.

EDITORIAL NOTES

History repeats itself—Don Quixote's slaughter of the windmills has a parallel in the course of the "battle fleet" of the United States which sailed from the Pacific seas yesterday.

Hon. Geo. E Foster talks to Young Conservatives like a Sunday School inspector. He advises them to study the history of the party. He might deliver a course of lectures on the period covering the closing years of the Bowell administration.

In their crass ignorance the people of the central parts of the United States refuse Canadian money. Now the Michigan Central Railway is paying its employees in New York, Indiana and Michigan in Canadian money. We have the last laugh.

Now that Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King has finished his work in the settlement of the British Columbia yellow peril problem, the Toronto News suggests that he take a hand in dealing with the trouble between the Toronto Conservative Wand Associations and Dr. Beattie Nesbitt.

Of all the arguments which paint the danger of the yellow peril the one which shows that Asiatics are not home-makers, is the most pertinent. If this is true, it is a fatal objection to Oriental immigration. The strength of Anglo-Saxon countries is the home instinct. The man who makes a home for himself in a country becomes an integral part of that country. The man who does otherwise is merely a floater.

Of all the special Christmas numbers that reach the Examiner, that of the Farmers' Advocate is not the least worthy of praise. It consists of a charming illuminated cover enclosing more than eighty pages of specially illustrated and prepared matter both of highest quality. The holiday number of the Advocate can hardly receive higher praise than to say that it is quite in keeping with the uniform excellence that characterizes it every regular impression. It takes rank with the absolutely best journals of its kind on this continent, and relatively it is the best in the world from a Canadian point of view. All the interests that spring from the soil, including the home, are splendidly protected and promoted by the Farmers' Advocate.

What SCIENTISTS Say Against Local Option:—

Professor A. B. MacCallum,
Lecturer on Physiology to The University of Toronto:

"The results of careful experiments show that alcohol, taken in diluted form in small doses is oxidized within the body and so supplies energy like common articles of food; and that it is incorrect to designate it as a poison."

Professor P. H. Pye-Smith,
Lecturer to Guy's Hospital Medical School, London:

"Malt liquors, for a large number of people (perhaps for most adults), do more good than harm when taken with meals. Temperance is much better than abstinence."

Professor Lafayette B. Mendel,
Yale University, New Haven:

"Man is by nature a temperate animal, and it is only by distinguishing between temperance and intemperance (i.e., use and abuse) that the evils of alcoholism can be combated. Present methods fail in this respect."

Professor T. J. Clouston,
Lecturer to The University of Scotland, Edinburgh:

"Alcohol is a food, and may in a diluted form (as in beer) be a very valuable adjunct to ordinary foods, by exciting appetite, by improving digestion, and by stimulating certain nutritive processes, e.g., the laying on of fat."

"It should not be taught that the drinking of one or two glasses of beer or wine at meals, by a grown-up person, is dangerous; for it is not true."

Pe-ru-na Strikes at the Root of the Trouble.

MR. S. J. MASSEY.

Mr. S. J. Massey, formerly a resident of Toronto, and a well-known business man, writes from 247 Guy street, Montreal, Quebec:

"Having been troubled for several years with catarrh of the head, I decided to give Peruna a fair trial and I can truly say I have received great benefit from its use.

"I have no hesitancy whatever in recommending Peruna as a reliable catarrh remedy."

There are several kinds of indigestion. The trouble may be due to sluggishness of the liver, derangements of the bowels, enlargement of the pancreas, or it may be due to the stomach itself.

In nearly all cases of stomach indigestion catarrh is the cause. The only permanent cure is to remove the catarrh.

Peruna has become well-known the world over as a remedy in such cases.

Romaine Street Sewer Problem Passed On To Council of 1908

Council Last Night Decided Not To Go Into Matter Again—Street Commissioner's Report Shows an Improvement in Conditions

QUESTION TALKED OVER

Thanks to the action of the Council on Monday night, next year's city fathers will have a New Year's gift in the shape of the Romaine street sewer problem on their hands. The aldermen had a chance to settle the problem on Monday night, when a further report was read from the Street Commissioner in regard to the sewer, but they preferred to let the question stand until next year, contenting themselves with receiving the report without taking any action. Some of the members stated that they were not afraid of the question and were not shirking it, but no one showed any pressing anxiety to have it taken up Monday night, and a motion to receive the report, which was as follows, was carried:

"Since my last report we have raised and relaid the sewer pipes from a point fifty feet south of Romaine street manhole on Aylmer street into the manhole at the school, and found all fairly well laid with the exception of a couple of places where the pipes had settled out of grade. In the Romaine street sewer section we have pulled through the pipes a rope with a six-inch sprocket wheel attached, which was left in good condition, the water running without any obstruction, and find it still in good running order to-day."

Some discussion on the matter followed, and several of the aldermen wanted a motion to recommend to the new Council that it be considered as soon as possible. The majority, however, did not think it wise to do this.

"It will come up, all right," remarked Ald. Morrow.

"I think it will have to come up altogether," replied Ald. Duncan, amid laughter from the Council.

Ald. Morrow moved, seconded by Ald. Wilson, that the report of the Street Commissioner be received, and this was finally carried, after considerable discussion, in the course of which the aldermen began to go back over the ground that has been covered several times before in the investigation of the sewer that, like Banquo's ghost, will not stay buried.

"I understand there are some reports to pass," Ald. Morrow remarked. "Why not get through with them, and have the discussion afterwards. We sit here and talk all night, and do nothing."

"I am not going to stop any discussion as long as the members of the Council want to keep it up," replied the Mayor.

Ald. Duncan said that the pipes were level, but were not laid together.

Ald. Morrow's motion was carried at last, and the matter was thus left over until next year.

Interesting Addresses Given At Dairy Company's Meeting

Successful Gathering at Central Smith Last Week—Senator Derbyshire Present!—Report For Season Presented

AN ENJOYABLE PROGRAMME

Examiner Special.

The annual tea and entertainment of the Central Smith Dairy Company was held in the Temperance Hall, fourth line of Smith. The hall was filled to the door, about 400 being present. After tea was served Hon. Senator Derbyshire was appointed chairman, which position he ably filled, as all who know him will realize that as chairman Daniel takes the cake.

Mr. Derbyshire, in opening his address, assured the audience and the patrons of Central Smith that it warmed his heat to be at their meeting again and see the large crowd of dairymen. The last time he was with them the hall was crowded. Since then an addition had been attached, and still there was not room. This was encouraging to the company as it showed a live interest was being taken in the dairy work in this section. Your report showed only a small shortage in receipts for 1906, while our total receipts for Canada in 1907 will show about $6,000,000 short, and this to a great extent accounts for the tightness of money. What we want to do in 1908 is to prepare for the drought with summer silo, and keep up the quantity all through the milking period. Have ice for cooling the milk down to a temperature of 60 degrees in warm weather so that the most cheese and the best cheese can be made from this milk. This will also encourage your cheese maker as he can go right ahead and supply the British market with the best dairy products that can be produced on the face of the globe. We as Canadians should not be satisfied with anything below this standard. Then our home consumption will increase by having a better article.

The Dominion Government has been encouraging a higher production of milk per cow for a number of years, and there is no other way to do this other than by weighing, testing, and weeding out the poor cows. Do not discourage a cow giving 6,000 pounds of milk by keeping alongside of her one only giving 2,000 pounds.

Then when autumn comes on go right on in the business, have a bright, clean, well ventilated stable to keep the cows comfortable and healthy, feed good wholesome, and healthy food, and I cannot commend to you a better or cheaper food than corn silage, alfalfa hay and roots, fed in the following proportion: 40 pounds silage, 15 pounds alfalfa, and 5 pounds roots per cow.

In closing, I urge you in 1908 to go home, and any who have not the proper facilities for cooling and caring for milk, who have not grown soiling crop, to do this next year, and while we now sell 78 per cent. of the cheese used on the British market, we can sell more if we can give them the quality.

Send your winter milk to the creamery and supply our own home market so we will not need to import butter from other countries to supply our home demand. There never was a time in the history of Canada when we needed milk so much as now.

Mr. D. Hughes Charles, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce; Rev. Mr. Peckover of Omemee, and Rev. R. J. Webb of Peterborough, demonstrated their ability in partaking of the hospitality of ladies, and also on the platform, showing that the callings of all were mutual and should be for the building up of our fair Dominion.

The committee has every reason to be proud of the success of the gathering, and the ladies deserve praise for the excellent supper provided.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the speakers and the committee in charge of the meeting.

The report of the creamery operations was as follows:

Creamery opened Nov. 4 and closed April 30.

Total number patrons—55.

Total pounds of milk delivered—347,030.

Total pounds butter manufactured—15,150.

Amount paid to the patrons—$3,260.51.

Amount paid for manufacturing—$492.37.

Amount paid for butter milk—$82.83.

Gross value of milk—$3,781.13.

Cheese factory operations were as follows:

Factory opened May 1, closed October 31.

Total number patrons—52.

Total pounds of milk delivered—1,550,897.

Total pounds cheese manufactured—136,899.

Amount paid to the patrons—$14,706.46.

Amount paid for manufacturing—$1,574.40.

Amount paid for whey—$241.30.

Gross value of cheese—$16,576.18.

Total aggregate of business for 1906—$21,436.06.

What Joy to be Freed From Piles

THERE IS SCARCELY A SUFFERER IN THIS BROAD LAND BUT CAN BE CURED BY

The utter misery and despair of the sufferer from a severe case of piles, or hemorrhoids cannot be described in words.

It is not only the intense itching and stinging which in themselves are bad enough, not only the dread of a surgical operation, with its pain, expense and danger, but the whole system seems to be undermined, and as the ailment drags on from day to day, and year to year, one becomes discouraged, despondent, and in despair gives up all hope of cure.

The joy which cured ones experience on being cured from itching, bleeding and protruding piles, is told in the thousands of letters which we have received from time to time.

You need not tell the writers of these letters that there is a case of which Dr. Chase's Ointment will not cure, for they will not believe it. They alone know how they suffered, and also know that Dr. Chase's Ointment cured them. In many cases the cures were almost like miracles, so little ointment was used. In other cases, while relief came quickly, cure was only affected by the persistent use of several boxes of the Ointment.

W. K. Talbot, of Talbot Bros., tobacco merchants, 9 George street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "It is from a desire to help other sufferers that I offer a statement of my experience with Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for itching piles. I was for a long time troubled with this unpleasant and torturing disease and though I tried many treatments remained uncured until I came across Dr. Chase's Ointment. It was highly recommended to me, and I find that every word of praise that is given to it is true. I can truthfully say that I am completely cured, and knowing the misery that this ailment produces, I am anxious for others to know of the surprising virtues of Dr. Chase's Ointment."

It matters not how long you have suffered, if you have itching, bleeding or protruding piles Dr. Chase's Ointment will relieve and cure you, and it is the only positive and guaranteed cure for every form of piles; 60 cts. a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

OUR READERS ARE APPRECIATIVE

The "Vegetable Prescription" for Kidney Trouble Filled Many Times

DID YOU MIX SOME OF IT?

That the readers of this paper appreciate advice when given in good faith is plainly demonstrated by the fact that one well known local pharmacy filled the "vegetable prescription" many times within the past two weeks. Most of these folks naturally brought the ingredients only and mixed them at home. The announcement of this simple, harmless mixture has certainly accomplished much in reducing the great great many cases of kidney complaint and rheumatism here, relieving pain ad misery, especially among the older population, who are always suffering more or less with bladder and urinary troubles, backache and, particularly, rheumatism.

Another well known druggist asks us to continue the announcement of the prescription It is doing so much real good here, he continued, that it would be a crime not to do so. It cannot be repeated too often, and he further states many cases of remarkable cures wrought.

The following is the prescription, of simple ingredients, making a harmless, inexpensive compound, which any person can prepare by shaking well in a bottle: Fluid Extract of Dandelion, one half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Any first class drug store will sell this small amount of each ingredient, and the dose for adults is one teaspoonful, to be taken after each meal and again at bedtime. There is enough here to last for one week, if taken according to directions. Good results will be apparent from the first few dosed. 11

DANCE TO BE HELD IN KEENE

Miss Annie Hore who has been attending the Whitby Ladies' College, returned home for the Christmas holidays last week.

Mrs. W. J. Mein and Master Gordon Mein of Peterborough spent Monday in Keene.

Mrs. A. St. A. Smith spent Sunday in Peterborough.

Mr. J. R. McIntyre began icing the rink last week and expects to have skating Saturday night.

Arrangements are being made for a dance in the town hall, Lang, on Monday evening, December 23.

A PRESENTATION TO A TEACHER

Mr. Frank Mason Gives Handsome Morris Chair and Flower Stand

An enjoyable gathering was held at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mason, one evening last week, when a pleasant at home was given by the former to his church class. It was also the occasion of a presentation by the class of a handsome Morris chair and a flower stand to Mr. Mason as a mark of the respect in which he is held. The gift was accompanied by an address read by Mr. D. W. Dumble, the presentations being made by Mesdames Campbell and Syer. Mr. Mason made a neat reply, gratefully acknowledging the kindness of his friends. The address was signed, on behalf of the class, by Mrs. Syer, Mrs. Campbell, D. W. Dumble and Wm. Might. A delightful time was spent afterwards, the guests being treated in a most hospitable manner by Mr. and Mrs. Mason.

ARTISTIC EXCELLENCE

The many special exclusive features of the New Scale Williams Piano—the New Scale itself—the Tone-prolonging Bar, and the specially reinforced back of the instrument, are only a few of the reasons why the New Scale Williams is preferred above all others by artists and music-lovers generally. For beauty of construction and artistic finish the New Scale Williams represents the last word in the Piano Makers' Art. As a Christmas present it cannot be excelled, for it will represent to your wife or daughter her ideal of a musical instrument for the home. AN EXCELLENT ADDRESS ON BANKING

At St. Paul's Young Men's Guild—A Splendid Musical Programme

The regular meeting of the St. Paul's Young Men's Guild held last night was one of extraordinary merit. The feature was the address of Mr. John Crane on "Banking" in which he dealt with many matters of interest to the general public. The chair was occupied by the President, Mr. G B VanBlaricom and after devotional exercise by Rev. Mr. Pogue a splendid musical programme was presented.

A piano solo by Miss Hill was the first number and one much appreciated. Mr. Marcus Bennett next rendered a solo in excellent voice, followed by a splendid violin duet by Misses Eva Irwin and Julia Choate, of the Conservatory of Music. Miss M. Mimms was the accompanist. After an excellently rendered piano solo by Mr. Chas. Ackerman, Mr. Crane gave the lecture on "Banking" in which he accounted for the present money stringency in many places and traced the various steps leading up to it. He pointed out that in the West the settlers had purchased land with the proceeds of the grain sales and neglected paying the merchants. The result was that the wholesale men went unpaid and the banks had to bear the burden. They had to shut down on this at some time so that the present depression was felt.

Our banking system was compared with that of the United States and shown to be superior in many ways including the Canadian branch system and the position of small depositors.

Mr. Crane's address was both interesting and instructive and was appreciated by all who heard it. A vote of thanks moved by Messrs. E. S. Carey and G. M. Rogers was tendered to Mr. Crane and after brief addresses from Rev. Robt. Pogue, who was present for the first time at the Guild meeting, and Mr. H R H Kenner, the meeting closed with the benediction.

Harvey, No. 4, $15; No. 5, $15; No. 7, $20.

This morney will be in the hands of the county treasurer in the course of a few days, and will be forwarded by him to the treasurerrs of the above mentioned sections as soon as received.

LIFE UNDERWRITERS' MEETING

Held in Port Hope Monday—Local Men Were Present

An important meeting of the Life Underwriters' Association of Central Ontario, was held in the Y.M.C.A. Board Room, in the town of Port Hope, Monday, Dec. 16th. The local members present at the meeting were S E Sells, H P Lindsay, D H Moore and W F Nelson. Along with these were insurance men from Oshawa, Elizabethville, Lindsay and several from Port Hope. This meeting was important because of the fact that the constitution, as adopted by the Association, was explained, and as a result several new members were added to the list of membership.

The secretary of the Association gave the history from the beginning up to the present date. H. P. Lindsay, the president, gave an address on the general work of the Association, the same being enlarged upon by Mr. D H Moore, Mr. S E Sells and W R Widdis. Mr. H A Ward, M.P., was present and expressed the view that the Association had his sympathy in their work. It is quite evident that this Association is growing rapidly, and will have a good chance to secure the prize at the next annual convention, as having admitted more members than any other Association in the Dominion. A great deal of the credit for the success of this meeting in Port Hope was due to Captain Robertson.

DEVOTIONAL NIGHT AT KNOX CHURCH

Successful Meeting Largely Attended—Address by Rev. J. R. Webb

A good meeting of the Young People's Guild of Knox church was held Monday night. It was Devotional night and one of the largest attendances in many meetings was the feature.

Mr. Crothers acted as chairman in a satisfactory manner and after the opening prayer Rev. Mr. Webb gave an address. He chose as his subject the words "Let us," as they are so frequently met with in the Bible. Mr. Webb's discourse was greatly appreciated. Mr. Duncan Campbell then led the meeting in prayer, after which Rev. Mr. Keith emphasized the statements of Rev. Mr. Webb's address.

Several appropriate hymns were sung by the congregation with Miss Jennie Buyers as accompanist. Miss Kerr was heard in a vocal solo and Mr. and Mrs. McCammon in a duet. Mrs. Payton presided at the piano.

Next Monday night the meeting will be of a social nature and several new features will be introduced.

PREPARATIONS FOR NEW YEARS

Those Acting on Reception Committee at Y.M.C.A.—May Secure Aid

The special committee of the Social Committee of the Y.M.C.A. appointed to arrange a schedule for the members of the Social Committee to act as a reception committee, met on Monday night and appointed the following to be responsible for the nights mentioned:

Dec. 18, Percy Redgrave.
Dec. 19, G. E. Bruce.
Dec. 20, D. Campbell.
Dec. 21, H. Males.
Dec. 23, C. E. Sisson.
Dec. 24. H. Gerrish.
Dec. 26, C. E. Coleman.
Dec. 27, J. S. Knapman.
Dec. 27, J. S. Knapman.
Dec. 28, Geo. Carter.
Dec. 30, N. Perry.
Dec. 31, Geo. Martin.

Each man has the privilege and is expectured to secure the aid of at least one of the other members of the association for the night he is responsible for.

The Intermediate Bible Club met on Monday night also, at 6.30 for tea, after which Dr. Middleton started a very interesting study on the Life of St. Paul. The next meeting of the club will be on Thursday, Dec. 26, at 6.30 p.m.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound, or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube resored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

OBITUARY.

MR. JOS. MONCRIEF

After a lingering illness, Jos. Moncrief, aged 66 years, died on Monday afternoon. The deceased was born in Ireland, but has lived in Peterborough most of his life; his wife died some years ago. He was a Presbyterian, a member of Court Chemong, I. O. F., and Downer's Corner's L. O. L.

Mr. Moncrief leaves behind him three brothers: David, of California; John, of Manitoba; and William, of Victoria county; he also leaves three sisters, Mrs. J. Emmerson, Peterborough; Mrs. William Nelson, Keene, and Mrs. Henry Lane, Young's Point.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 1.30 o'clock, from the residence of the deceased sister, Mrs. J. Emmerson, 210 Lake street, to the Little Lake cemetery.

WATCH YOUR TONGUE

If Furred and Coated, It is a Warning of Trouble To Come

When it is the morning after the night before you do not have to look at your tongue to know that the stomach is upset, the head is aching with a dull rhythm, and that all the world looks black and dreary.

It may have been lobster Newburgh, Welsh rarebit or some other tasty dish that looked much better at night than the morning after. There is no need to look at the tongue thermometer then for symptoms of trouble. You naturally go to your box of Mi-o-na stomach tablets, and with one of the little relievers bring joy and gladness to the physical system.

The real time to watch the tongue is all of the time. If it is coated with a white fur, or possibly with dark trimmings, even though the stomach does not tell you by the acute pains of indigestion that it needs help, yet the coating shows that you are getting into a bad way and that there is need of Mi-o-na.

Mi-o-na is so positive, so sure, so reliable in its curative action upon the stomach, that Mr. Madill, the local agent, gives an absolute guarantee with every 50-cent box he sells, to refund the money unless the remedy gives absolute and complete satisfaction.

CONVINCING PROOF OF LOST AD. EFFICIENCY

The Examiner press had scarcely cooled off last night when a lost article was brought to the office, which had been advertised yesterday for the first time. It was a squaw bag with money in it, and was lost on Monday evening at the corner of Charlotte and Park streets, where it was picked up by an honest boy the same evening. He brought it to the Examiner office, and to-day it was restored to the owner—a convincing proof of the efficiency of the Examiner "lost" ads.

LARGE GANG OF MEN AT WORK

Removing Snow From Tracks on The G. T. R.

The G. T. R. are making special provisions for clearing the local yards of snow. There were sixteen men at work there yesterday, many of them being from other sections. There were two from Garden Hill, four from Millbrook, two from Fraserville, two from Missing Link, two from Naylor's section, two from Lakefield, and all told 16 were engaged in taking the snow from the yards in the central part of the city.

Ill Temper From a bad Liver

Carlyle justly attributes the ill-temper which made him a monster in the eyes of the world, to a bad liver. Nothing makes one feel more miserable, or more gloomy and discouraged, than liver complaint, and consequent biliousness and dyspepsia, and nothing so promptly and thoroughly sets the liver right, and overcomes these ailments as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the great family medicine.

LUMBERMEN STRANDED IN BUCKHORN

One of the Horses Fell Down Exhausted Outside the Village

Just as the 'bus, containing a party of lumbermen, who were returning from the camp of the Cavendish Lumber Company, on account of the cut in wages, left Buckhorn yesterday to come to Peterborough, one of the horses collapsed and left the party stranded. The roads up north are very heavy, and the load was heavy also, hence the exhaustion of the horse. The men are temporarily stranded in Buckhorn, as the other 'bus with its load had gone on ahead.

LOCAL STUDENTS WERE SUCCESSFUL

Messrs. Mann and Davidson Make Good in Pharmacy College Exams

Among the successful candidates at the junior examinations at the College of Pharmacy, Toronto, the results of which appeared in yesterday's Toronto papers, are Messrs. A. R. Mann and R. J. Davidson of Peterborough. These were the only two from here at the college. Mr. Mann took second class honours and Mr. Davidson stood near the top of the list of those who passed.

Music and Drama

THE ECKHART FAMILY

The music-loving public turned out in small numbers last night to hear the Swiss Bell Ringers at the Conservatory of Music Hall last night present a splendid programme under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A. of St. John's church. Although the audience was small it was an appreciative one and applauded the excellent work of these musical wonders.

The performers themselves are wonders in the art of bell ringing and they easily excel any similar musicians ever seen here before. They do not limit their programme to the ringing of the bells, but they play the piano, violin, trombone and the bass horn, one of them has a superb tenor voice while another is an impersonator of ability.

This capable musical aggregation certainly deserved much better support than they received here, but they performed so favourably that they would certainly be honoured with a much larger audience should they ever appear in Peterborough again.

SNOW SHOE CLUB'S JAUNT

About Ten Miles Were Covered Monday Evening

The Snow Shoe Club met at their Club house Monday night for one of their regular tramps. A fairly large attendance turned out and a jaunt which has been estimated at a distance of 10 miles was enjoyed. To those who are new at the sport it seemed about three times as far. On the return a recherche luncheon was held at Lang's. The next outing will be on Wednesday night when a full attendance is requested.

WEST ENDS OF TORONTO COMING

Team to be Chosen To-night After Basketball Practise

To-night at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium the first and second basketball teams will practice at eight o'clock.

The teams will be constituted as follows:

First — R P Best, Dobson, Cressman, Darling, Staunton.

Second, Richardson, Weatherstone, Sutherland, Wallace, E M Best.

After the game a team will be chosen to play against the West End team, Toronto, New Year's night.

RESULT OF THE DEADLY TOBACCO HABIT

Although Blind and Paralyzed Woman Still Persists in Smoking

Time and again we have pointed out in these columns the awful results of the use of tobacco. The last case that has come to our attention is that of Mrs. Catherine Shay, of North Oxford, Mass., who is at present bed-ridden, almost blind and partially paralyzed, but still persists in smoking her pipe. She is only 105 years old and has smoked ever since she was ten years old. What an awful warning this is against the use of tobacco.—Aylmer Express.

UNITED WORKMEN ELECT OFFICERS

CHRISTMAS GIFT BOOKS

Here by the thousands for old and young. All the popular works of the day, as well as handsomely bound sets of favorite authors or poets—and everything temptingly priced. Let's help you to quickly choose just what to give; a glance at the following list should result in many suggestions.

For Boys

The average boy treasures the G. A. Henty Books and Talbot Baines Reed's famous English school stories are much appreciated. The Ballantyne Series are fascinating, too. Scores of others.

For Girls

For Grown Ups

Safe in selecting Bibles, Prayer Books, Hymn Books, Poets, Sets of Well-known Auhors, or the latest novels, etc.

For Tiny Tots

THE ANNUALS

You can't make a mistake in selecting any of these, or for growing boys and girls choosing the Bound Annuals.

Stole Goods From a Local Store But Has Now Repented

SORRY FOR HIS MISDEED

It is always pleasing to hear of the reformation of robbers. Here is another example of the change of spirit which has recently taken place in the heart of a former Peterborough resident now in Toronto. He stole some articles from the store of a George street merchant and has returned enough money to pay for the theft. The remuneration was accompanied by a letter, explaining his misdeed and trusting for forgiveness, but he does not state—what most people would like to know—under what circumstances a conversion was effected. The letter reads:—

"I enclose herewith 75c. in stamps to pay for a ring box and two or three note books which were stolen from your store.

"I trust you will accept this as payment for the goods, and ask Jesus to forgive me for taking the goods. Hope you will also forgive me."

ENJOYABLE CHRISTMAS PARTY

Toys Presented Last Night Will be Given To The Poor

The Y.W.C.A. rooms were well filled for the Christmas rally last night. The programme was made up almost entirely of girls who are attending the classes this year, and the way in which they performed their parts cannot be too highly spoken of. The Social Committee spent a busy afternoon decorating the rooms, and the effect was very pleasing. They also served refreshments during the evening.

The toys, which formed the admission fee, will be given to the children of the poor.

The Y.W.C.A. was pleased to have present for a part of the evening Sheriff Hall, Dr. Greer, who examined the bandages and declared that each one deserved first prize; Rev. E. A. Pearson and Mr. A. W. Cressman. They all agreed that gentlemen were well treated at the Y.W.C.A.

Superstitions on Skin Diseases

Of all superstitious, the most foolish is the idea that when a rash or sore is healed and cured by means of an external remedy, it will "strike in" and do further harm. No reputable physician will give any countenance to such a notion. Skin diseases of every form, and especially eczema, salt rheum, scald head, etc., are promptly relieved and certainly cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

THE BOY RECEIVES HIS PARDON

Was Spending a Time of Two Months in Jail For Theft and Assault

Owing to the death of his mother which occurred suddenly at her home on Monday night, Roy Scriver will be released from the Peterborough jail. Scriver was sentenced some time ago to serve two months in jail on a charge of theft and assault, his term being up on Friday. Before the death of his mother application was made by his cousin to Mayor McWilliams to have him pardoned. His Worship sent a telegram to the Minister of Justice yesterday morning asking him to pardon the boy. The Minister of Justice sent back a favourable reply and Sriver was released.

STAMP WICKET OPEN DURING EXTRA HOURS

CELEBRATED THE 19TH ANNIVERSARY

Of St. Andrew's Women's Foreign Missionary Society—New Officers

The 19th anniversary of the formation of St. Andrew's Woman's Foreign Missionary Society was held yesterday afternoon in the lecture hall. After devotional exercises, Miss Edmison took the chair and conducted the election of officers, which resulted in the president, vice-presidents, secretary and treasurer being re-elected by acclamation. They are, in detail, as follows:

President—Mrs. J. G. Potter.
First Vice-President — Mrs. Wm. Fowler.
Second Vice-President — Mrs. Geo Kerr.
Secretary—Mrs. T. H. Sills.
Treasurer—Mrs. F. L. Robinson.
Pianist—Miss Lundy.
Literature Secretaries—Mrs. Gerrard, Mrs. Stevens.
Executive Committee—Mrs. Laing, Mrs. Lees, Mrs. Jamieson, Mrs. Carter, Miss Rae.
Clothing Committee—Mrs. J. D. Tully, Miss Edmison, Mrs. Richardson.
Auditors — Mrs. Laing and Mrs. Sills.

Rev. Mr. Keith gave a very able address on the situation in India from his personal experience, which was very interesting, as well as instructive.

Mrs. W. A. Greenslade rendered a solo in a very pleasing manner.

The reports were read and a general review of the work for the year took place. Many causes for thankfulness were found, and a resolve formed to go on for another year with renewed zeal.

BACK TO MOTHER'S RECIPES

After having tried all the well advertised patent medicines the public are turning to the old household receipts for treatment of incipient diseases of the kidneys, liver, bladder and urinary organs, which if neglected too long are almost incurable. One old remedy that has come back to popular favour is the following simple prescription: Four ounces syrup of rhubarb, one ounce compound vimosa, one ounce sweet spirits of nitre. Any druggist will fill this at a moderate cost, or you can buy the ingredients separately and mix at home. Take a dessert spoonful in a little water after meals and at bedtime. A few doses will drive out the trouble, and save you endless pain, and money. 5

OFFICERS OF MASON'S UNION

Were Elected Last Night—A Banquet Later On

The Brick-Layers and Masons Union held their annual meeting last night, when the following officers were elected:

President, A H Webb.
Vice-President, W Sharpe.
Cor. Secretary, Wm Stevens.
Fin.-Secretary, H H Hillier.
Treasurer, G Curtis.
Tiler, Wm Doucett.

The union decided to hold a banquet later on in the season for which further arrangements will be made.

Former Peterborough Man Hangs Himself in Toronto

Geo. Barkworth, Once With Gough Bros., Found Suspended in His Bedroom

BODY WAS STILL WARM

The sensational ending of the life of Geo. Barkworth, a one time Peterborough man, is reported from Toronto. He committed suicide by hanging himself by suspension with a cord from a nail he had driven into the frame of a door. Barkworth for many years acted as outdoor salesman for Gough Bros. here, and in his day was considered one of the best in the business. He was well known in Peterborough on account of his position, which he followed since going to Toronto. A despatch from there says:

George Barkworth, aged 62, sidewalk salesman for Husband Bros.' clothing store, 135 King street east, hanged himself in his room, a few doors away from the store, last night. He had been absent from his work for several days, and yesterday he was missed by the landlady. W. R. Graham, one of the roomers at 129 King street east, where Barkworth lived, looked around for him at 6 o'clock last night and found the door of his room locked. He broke the door in, to find Barkworth hanging by a cord from a nail driven into the top of the door frame. The bed had been moved up close to the door and the dead man had stepped off it after adjusting the cord about his neck. When found, the body was still warm. The remains were removed to the morgue in a patrol wagon, and later to the Moffatt undertaking establishment. Coroner Dr. Pickering made an investigation, but decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

The dead man leaves two sons, one of whom is employed with the Grand Trunk, and the other at the Waldorf Hotel, Hamilton.

SONS OF ENGLAND WANT THE GOVERNOR GENERAL HERE

A deputation of half a dozen members of the local lodge of the Sons of England waited upon the Committee of the Whole Council on Monday night to urge upon them that the city cooperate with the S. O. E. in inviting the Governor-General, and the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario to come here on July 1st next in connection with the big demonstration which the S. O. E. intend to hold.

Mr. N. A. Howard Moore, as spokesman, explained that the Sons of England intended to hold a big demonstration on July 1st next year and wished to ask the cooperation of the council in securing the presence of the Governor-General of Canada and the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario for the occasion. He explained that invitations had been sent to lodges within one hundred miles of the city, and that many would be present. It was intended to hold a big athletic meet and other attractions would be included. The celebration would not only be worthy of the Sons of England but of Peterborough.

The council seemed to be unanimous in the matter, and on motion of Ald. Morrow, seconded by Ald. Wilson, the request of the deputation was granted.

Formal Opening of The New Fire Hall on New Years' Day

Firemen Are Making Arrangements For Reception to Which Public are Cordially Invited—Refreshments and Speeches

DANCE IN THE EVENING

The members of the Fire Brigade are making preparations for the formal opening of the new Fire Hall, which will take place on New Year's Day. The programme will include speeches in the afternoon by the Mayor and other officials, and an at home in the evening. The hall will be open to the public all day, and everybody will be made welcome. Refreshments will be served and an opportunity given to the people of the city of inspecting the new hall and the splendid new equipment including a ladder truck and combination hose and chemical wagon that have been added recently.

The ceremony of opening the hall has been deferred to this late date owing to the fact that the fire ladies wished to have the new apparatus all installed before the event took place.

The firemen wish through the medium of the newspapers to extend to the general public and also the members of the City Council, Board of Edusation, City Trust Commissioners, Water Commissioners, and other city bodies to be present. This is the only way that invitations can be given to everybody, and it is hoped that a large number will respond.

To the former members of the Brigade who have fought the flames in years gone by, a special invitation is extended and the members of the Brigade will be delighted to make them at home.

THE ARRANGEMENTS FOR DECORATING

Evergreens And Flags to be Extensively Used

The Decorating Committee of the Y.M.C.A. met last night and made full plans for decorating the Association for New Years Day. The decorating will start on next Monday night, when a large force will be on hand to help make up the decorations. Evergreens, flags and bunting will be used extensively. They decided to decorate the lobby, reading room, where the refreshments will be served, and the parlours. A New Years tree will also be arranged and presents given from the tree at 4 p.m., on New Year's Day. Any comic presents will be received at the office and put on the tree on New Years Day for any member. Invitations are being issued now and may be secured from the office or any member of the Committees in charge of the reception.

MISS JULIA CHOATES VIOLIN RECITAL

An interesting violin recital will be given in the Conservatory of Music Hall on Friday evening at 8.15, by Miss Julia Choate an exceptionally clever pupil of Miss Lina D. Adamson. Miss Choate, who will present several delightful numbers, will be assisted by Miss Pearl Landy, who will be heard in two vocal solos. Any one interested in the violin or the Conservatory will, on intimation of a desire to be present, be favoured with an invitation.

C. P. R. TRAIN IN THE DITCH

Express Wrecked at Schreiber, Near Fort William.

ENGINEER AND FIREMAN DEAD

Removal of Rail For Repairs the Cause — No Danger Signal Was Given and Train Ran Off Track—Passengers Had Close Call—Traffic Seriously Delayed—Other Railway Accidents.

Fort William, Dec. 18.—The neglect of a section gang foreman to put his signal flags properly after having removed a rail for the purpose of changing, resulted in the ditching of a C. P. R. express train, the death of one man and injuries to another which have since proved fatal. The man killed was William Small, of Schreiber. The fireman, aged twenty years, who was badly scalded and had a leg broken, besides several wounds about the head. The engineer is Phillip McAllen, aged 48 years, whose home is at Schreiber, and who has a wife and two children. He was badly scalded and injured in various parts of the body. Both were taken to Port Arthur last evening on a special train made up at Schreiber. The train wrecked was the through express No. 96, which passed here on Monday night.

The absence of the rail, which was not noticed until shortly before the special was reached, caused the engine to be thrown from the track and turned over with the tender and two cars piled on top of it. Luckily the whole train was not thrown off the track, in which case the consequences would have been much more serious.

THROWN OFF THE TRACK.

Train Wrecked at Jackson's Mills Through Broken Wheel.

Kingston, Dec. 18.—The K. & P. train No. 5, an accommodation, which left the city at 8 yesterday morning, met with a serious accident at Jackson's Mills, about five miles north of Kingston. The cause was a broken wheel on the car next to the engine, which, when turning on its side, fortunately uncoupled the engine and left it clear. Three cars and the coach left the track, and the three freight cars were badly smashed up. One contained a load of flax seed, and the bottom was completely knocked out. Had it not been for a rail penetrating through the box car the three cars would have gone over the embankment, a distance of 20 feet.

Rails were torn up for three hundred feet, and all section men between here and Harrowsmith are at work. It will be fully two days before the track is cleared.

Railway Collision.

Keene, N. H., Dec. 18.—Passenger train No. 517, bound from Boston for Burlington and Montreal, ran into the rear end of a local freight train near Troy station on the Fitchburg division of the Boston & Maine yesterday. No one was injured. Four freight cars were demolished, and the wreckage caught fire.

EDITOR TOO ILL TO APPEAR.

Proceedings Against Hardin In Berlin May Be Abandoned.

Berlin, Dec. 18.—A compromise in the Harden-Von Moltke case is under consideration. Monday the prosecution of Maximilian Harden, editor of Die Zukunft, who brought a series of accusations against Count Kuno Von Moltke, was postponed owing to the illness of the defendant. It became known also that several others most closely identified with the case, are suffering greatly from the nervous strain brought about by the developments in the previous trial, and within the last 24 hours every effort has been made to effect a compromise on the grounds that the health of the principals have been shattered and that the highest interests of state render further controversy inadvisable.

The present prosecution is now in the hands of the state's attorney, and the case was to have been heard before a criminal bench of five judges.

If a compromise is arranged it must be with the consent of the Ministry.

Canada's Oldest Physician.

St. John, N. B., Dec. 18.—Dr. William Bayard, the oldest practicing physician in the world, died yesterday at his home in this city, aged 94. Last August Dr. Bayard celebrated the seventieth anniversary of his entry into the medical profession. On that occasion Edinburgh University, of which he was the senior graduate, sent cordial greetings, and the Maritime Medical Association presented him with an address.

For 67 years Dr. Bayard has practiced in this city, of which he has always been one of the most prominent and highly honored citizens. The general public hospital, which he founded, is his chief monument. He was formerly president of the Dominion Medical Association.

SELECTION OF IMMIGRANTS

Mr. Oliver Replies to Attack by the Leader of the Opposition—Justifies Present Policy—Efforts of Manufacturers' Association to Secure Help—Mr. Cockshutt's Letter—Skilled Labor Not Wanted.

Ottawa, Dec. 18.—The time of the House was largely occupied yesterday by an attempt on the part of the Opposition to discredit the immigration policy of the Government. The attack of the leader of the Opposition, which was made on the motion to go into supply, had the effect of drawing from the Minister of the Interior a complete answer to the criticisms made, and an elaborate and highly effective statement of the Government's immigration policy. He made it absolutely clear that the Government could not be held responsible for any influx of skilled labor, and classes from the crowded centres of Britain and Europe not fitted for agricultural or other like callings. The reasons for the activity of the Immigration Department during the past few years were clearly traced, including, of course, the efforts made to meet the demands for agricultural labor and domestic servants. The Minister of the Interior emphasized the manner in which the Government, through its instructions to its own agents and to booking agencies, and in all possible ways, had put it beyond dispute that the policy was to apply the bonus system only to the class of incomers named. He scored a point against Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, M. P., who, in 1905, according to a letter read by the Minister, had endorsed the proposition which, in part, had as its object, as described by Mr. Oliver, the "emptying of the tenements of England into the cities of Ontario," but who now fathering a resolution to cease assisting immigration other than the agricultural and domestic classes, and to rigidly enforce the law allowing only the financially, morally and physically fit to enter the Dominion. This, Mr. Oliver pointed out, was the precise policy of the Government, and he congratulated Mr. Cockshutt on his conversion. In the course of his remarks Mr. Oliver gave the immigration returns for the twelve months ending Oct. 31 this year at 273,000. The statement that 131,837 persons of this total were from Great Britain evoked Government cheers. From the continent the immigrants numbered 85,813, and from the United States 55,859. The care taken in respect to immigration was instanced in several ways by the Minister.

Mr. Oliver's bill respecting surveys of public lands of the Dominion and the surveyors entitled to make such surveys was given its second reading and put through the committee stage. He explained that it is identical with an act passed last year and afterwards repealed.

Mr. Oliver's bill to amend the Irrigation Act was also read a second time. The bill preserves to municipal authorities rights within the limits of the municipality as against the rights of the irrigation companies. Since the establishment of the new northwest provinces there has been some conflict, the irrigation companies claiming privileges under Federal legislation which ignore municipal rights. The bill also gives private individuals power to take lands for connecting works.

North Atlantic Trading Co.

On the motion to go into supply, R. L. Borden asked the Minister of the Interior for some information concerning payments to the North Atlantic Trading Co. He said that he had been accused during his tour through the west of not saying very much of the scandals that had been ventilated in Parliament. He would like to say that if the Premier saw fit to make a similar tour next summer he would be only too happy to accompany him and discuss with him on the public platform every one of those scandals.

Touching the North Atlantic Trading Co., which had brought him to his feet, he found it necessary to apologize for certain inaccuracies in his statements with respect to that company, as he had since learned that the company had received $387,945 of public money, while he had given them credit for only $200,000. An officer of the Department of the Interior had been sent to Europe to examine the accounts of the company, and he had ascertained that it had fulfilled the terms of its agreement with the Government by expending 200,000 a year; so that its disbursements from June 30, 1903, to the present totalled $84,426.61, and its net profit was $181,591.

Under the circumstances it was fair to ask the Minister to give an account of the system under which bonuses for immigrants were paid. Was it true that instructions had been issued to agents of the Government in England to discourage immigration to Canada? What was the object of making a contract behind the back of Parliament which could take such an amount of money out of the treasury and putting it in the pockets of mythical persons composing the company? He thought the Government through its own office might have disbursed the money itself.

A Canadian Point.

Mr. Borden then read a circular received by a man in Britain who was induced to come to Canada by W. E. Rumsden of Shrewsbury, Eng. The man, a weaver, is now in Toronto, Ont., out of work. Rumsden described himself as a Canadian immigration and land agent and guaranteed work for 25 weavers at $17 to $20 a week. A postscript to the circular stated that the agent was also acting for the G. T. R. It was inconceivable that the man could have acted for the Grand Trunk, and Mr. Borden understood that the railway company had denied any connection with him.

Hon. Mr. Oliver replied that Rumsden was not an agent of the Government, but his belief that he acted for the Manufacturers' Association.

With this association the Government had had some correspondence and had been urged to use its agents in the old country to induce artisans to come to Canada. To these demands the Government had always demurred, had absolutely refused to act as an employment agency, except in regard to agricultural laborers, railway laborers and domestic servants. The instructions to agents in the old land had been most explicit on this subject. If Rumsden had had business dealings with the Government, the sending out of such a circular would preclude any possibility of his doing any further work. The Government had been paying a bonus to agents for agricultural immigrants, but whenever it was ascertained that these men were sending artisans to Canada they were cut off from any connection with the Department.

Mr. Blain (Peel) asked if the Government had any special arrangements with the Salvation Army.

Mr. Oliver said, "Yes." The Army not only solicited immigrants, but it procured employment for them. This was a special kind of work, and the Government contributed to the rental of the Army offices, advertised in the Army paper, and made a small grant to the organization.

The Evening Session.

Continuing at the evening session, Mr. Oliver read a letter from W. T. Cockshutt, M. P. for Brantford, enclosing a letter from the proprietor of the Immigration Information Bureau of that city. The writer said he had applications for mechanics which remained unfilled, and he asked the Minister if he could do anything.

Mr. Oliver said the Mr. Cockshutt who in 1905 endorsed a proposition to empty the over-crowded tenements of England into the cities of Ontario was the same man who in 1907 placed a resolution on the paper that assisted immigration, except the agricultural and domestic servant classes, should stop.

Thus Mr. Cockshutt had become a convert to the Government's policy. He continued by reading letters from the Malleable Iron Co., Oshawa; Dominion Textile Co., Montreal; Meaford Board of Trade, resolutions of county councils and of the C. M. A. urging immigration of skilled mechanics. A letter to the C. M. A. also stated that it had opened an employment bureau in London to procure skilled labor, and that in May 200 persons had been shipped to Canada by this agency, and applications were on hand for 500 more.

House In Supply.

The House at 10.20 went into supply.

Houghton Lennox, Davidson Henderson and Richard Blain criticized some increases in the estimates of the Department of Inland Revenue, while Mr. Gervais of Montreal pleaded for increases for some of the poorly paid officials in Montreal.

Hon. Mr. Templeman said the Government would await the report of the civil service commission, which would probably recommend an increase in salaries in many Departments of the service.

Eccentric Millionaire Dies.

Somerville, Mass., Dec. 18.—Benjamin Hadley, an eccentric millionaire, died at his home in East Somerville Monday, of old age. He was 90 years old and never was married. Only on one occasion did he ever travel beyond the Greater Boston district. He never purchased a ticket for any sort of entertainment, never ate a meal in an hotel or restaurant, and did not spend more than $1 in his entire life for car fare. He had not voted for 40 years, and wore a collar and necktie only on special occasions.

He accumulated real estate valued at $1,500,000.

Struck by Train.

Bradford, Dec. 18.—While driving across the G. T. R. tracks, Thomas Jones, farmer, was struck by a train. The horse was killed, the wagon wrecked, and Jones badly shaken up.

HAD THIRTY-TWO BOILS ON HIS BACK AT ONE TIME.

Just when you think you are cured of one, another seems ready to take its place and prolong your misery.

The only way to rid yourself of boils, pimples, and all skin blotches and blemishes, so that they will never return to bother you again, is to have the blood thoroughly cleansed of all of its impurities.

For this purpose there is no other blood medicine to equal Burdock Blood Bitters.

It has been on the market for over thirty years, and in that time we have received thousands of testimonials stating positively that it will cure the worst known cases of boils.

Mr. James Combs, Selma, Ont., writes: "I think Burdock Blood Bitters a great medicine for boils. I had them so bad I could not work. I had thirty-two on my back at one time. I used only two bottles of B.B.B. and they completely cured me. I cheerfully recommend it to all.

The Following Letter Speaks For Itself

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. Morrow, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $2000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $5000 from the issue of the Policy in 1907 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

Fred Simpson May Have Chance To Meet Longboat

The Indian Champion Wants To Get After Tait and Coley—May Have Another Race Before The Olympic

WILL THEY COME OFF?

According to the Toronto Star Tom Longboat will meet Jack Tait and also the winner of a race between Tait and Coley, the winner of the latter to go up against the best man in a Fred Simpson-Howard-Green race. The Star says:—

"Unless he can get a race with Tom Longboat, Jack Tait, the fast little West Ender, may retire from the running game until spring and devote his time to basketball and other indoor games."

Well! Just tell Johnny not to get too far away from good shape, for he will get his chance at Tommy L., and that before the crocuses nodd their brilliant heads.

There has been a whole lot of talk about what Jack Tait can, and cannot do, and about what the speedy West Ender will accomplish, if he ever gets a crack at the man with the tawny hide and the white spot on his chest. Tait is a good runner—a real good man, but what has he ever done that would lead his friends to believe that he can trim Tom Coley let alone Tom Longboat?

What Tait Has Done

He beat Tom Coley a chest width at a mile at Varsity one day when Coley was ill, and he humbled the Indian thirteen and one-half miles in a 15-mile road race at Montreal. Tait ran a grand race at Montreal, but both the Indian and George Adams beat him. At that the Indian only played with them. Longboat galloped along in the erlier stages of that race, at a warm clip, and kept everybody on the move until he killed out all the unknowns. Then he let Adams and Tait run until their tongues hung out and loafed along behind them. Coming out of three miles of mud, Tom was 100 yards behind, and he made that up in a quarter mile of good going. Then he met Tom Flanagan, who pleaded with him to get out in front.

"All right," said Tom, and away he shot. He was in front in a dozen steps, and his next half mile cooked both Tait and Adams, and Tom loafed home, burrowing his way through 50,000 people.

Tait knows—and so does George Adams.

Why, Tom Coley has trimmed Tait three or four times this summer, and Percy Sellen has beaten him decisively at five miles. Longboat has won every scratch race he has started in this summer, eight in all; surely proof of his speed and stamina. Tait is a good boy—a Canuck who should go to England—but all he or his friends have to do is to keep on shouting, and he'll get a Longboat race.

Races Discussed

As a matter of fact, the Irish-Canadians, at an Executive meeting last night, discussed the advisability of settling the wail from the West-End by running Longboat 10 miles against Tait indoors. Tait is a good indoor man, as he proved at Peterborough, and Longboat detests anything but a road or a mud track, but the Indian wants to give Tait a go, and is willing to take him on indoors.

Tom Coley, Too

There are a whole lot of people, too, especially Old Country people, who say that the Irish-Canadians carefully kept Tom Coley and the Indian apart all summer, lest the little pocket Hercules should take the Bronze Wonder's measure.

Well! Coley is probably the next best man in Canada, it not in America. He says he can beat the Indian, but Tom only laughs, and yesterday urged the club to give Coley a chance at 10 miles, too.

"I'll run Tait five miles one night, and if he and Coley will run 10 miles the next night I'll take the winner on the third night," said the Indian yesterday.

A. T. Hornon, Ed. Kerr, and Tim O'Rourke of the Club Executive, were inclined to agree to the proposition, but Tom Flanagan don't want to race the Indian any more. The matter will be let simmer a few days, to see how things shape up for the indoor carnival, and it may find a place on that programme.

At any rate, Tait and Coley will both get a chance before the flowers bloom in the spring, and Art Burn of Calgary has been written to asking if he wants to get in and meet Fred Simpson of Peterborough, Ben Howard of Sundaland I.C.A.C., or Hilton Green, the winner to go against the winner of the Longboat-Tait-Coley engagement.

The Peterborough Stratheonas had their first practice of the season last night when a dozen players were out in uniform and chased up and down the rink for a hard hour's workout. Considering that it was the first time the men have been on skates this year the form shown was surprising, and judging by the turnout the Straths should have no trouble in getting together a team that will be heard from in the fight for the district honours. Among those out were McMillan, Weatherston, Mann, Gilman, Clarke, Dusty, Deroches, Wilson, McFadden, Quinlan, Curtis and Staunton.

The locals first game this season, will likely be played on Friday, Dec. 27th, when the new St. George's hockey team of Toronto, will be seen here in an exhibition game. The arrangements have not been completed but it is altogether probable that the game will be played, as the St. George's are very anxious to play here. They have gathered together a very strong team this year, and are making a big bid for the O. H. A. senior honours. It will be a good test match for the Strathconas and should attract a large crowd as the St. George's have always given teh locals an interesting game.

AFTERMATH OF THE OMEMEE FIRE

Many of the Citizens Who Sustained Losses Will Rebuild Again

NEWS FROM THE VILLAGE

Examiner Special

Omemee, December 17th. — The excitement over the fire has subsided and those who got burned by the explosion of carbonic acid gas caused by coal oil and coal coming in contat. It was a very close call for the inmates before the fire was discovered. Re-building will be resumed at once by the following business men: D. Stenson, Ald. Griffin, A. Laidley, boots and shoes. It is said the Mason had enough insurance on their lodge to about equip another hall. The Mechanics Institute will re-open up again, as all the books and periodicals were saved. We are not so small a "hamlet" as last week's correspondent of the fire would have us believe.

The High School boys from a distance, numbering 50 strong, worked well at the fire, and could not have been more industrious if it had been their own homes. Great sympathy is felt for young Boggs who was severely burned in trying to save Mrs. Norris' valuables.

Sermons were preached in the Methodist and presbyterian churches on Sunday last, to "abolish the bar," which were most convincing and powerful towards saving the young men from the drink curse.

Quite a number attended the annual meeting of the Lakevale cheese factory and entertainment. Among the number was Rev. Mr. Peckover. No one came home disappointed from having a good time.

The posters are out for Christmas concert of L. O. L. No 113. Messrs. Parker, Piggott, and Rich comic vocalists, besides Miss Cuthbert, a Scotch dancer, promise to make a great bill for everyone.

Mr. "Ted" Cavanagh and Mr. Cooper, of Peterborough, were visitors to our village last week.

Dr. Hassard of Millbrook, has sold a nice Shetland pony to Mr. Beatty, of the Commercial House.

Drs. Snellgrove and Sutton were kept busy attending the wounded at the late fire.

The article contained in last week's issue of the Examiner in reference to the first surveys of Emily, Ennismore and Smith townships proved to be interesting to many of our older citizens. They remember the time when Victoria and Peterborough counties were united and Peterborough and Omemee were then about the same size "hamlets."

THE SLIDE READY FOR TO-MORROW NIGHT

Everything is Ready for Opening At Jackson's Park—Check Room

The toboggan slide at Jackson Park will, it is altogether likely, be opened to-morrow night, and no doubt a big crowd will be on hand for the opening. Tobogganing was very popular last year among the young people, and this year the season should be even more gay. The Radial Railway Company has made many preparations for the sport this year, and the improvements will be appreciated by the devotees of the pastime. Among other things, an appreciated feature will be a check room where people may place their overcoats, boots, etc., in safe keeping. This has been a problem in the past with many people using the slide, and it will doubtless be looked upon as a decided improvement. The slide is in splendid shape now, and a touch of a little colder weather would make it perfect.

The Brock street rink will be opened for skating to-night, and no doubt a big crowd will be on hand for the opening. The 57th Band will be present and will render a choice programme. The ice is in splendid condition and everything is in readiness for what promises to be one of the best seasons in the history of the institution.

The fact that the public is to be allowed to skate to-night reflects great credit upon Mr. Jack Thirnbeck, who is caretaker of the rink again this season. Mr. Thirnbeck had the rink flooded just a week ago to-day and last night the ice was thick and hard enough to allow the hockey team to have their first practice. This rapid work will be appreciated by the patrons and is most creditable considering that the weather has been mild during the entire week.

What a Joy to Feel Well

To you know what it is to feel well — to feel young, hearty and vigorous—to enjoy work and to look forward with hope to the future? This is the way you will feel if you revitalize your wasted and depleted nervous system by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Not in any miraculous way but when your system has been gradually built up by this great restorative treatment.

THE MEN'S ASSOCIATION CONCERT

Enjoyable Programme Presented At All Saints' Last Night

An excellent programme was last night presented at All Saints' church under the auspices of the Men's Association, every number being encored. It was as follows:—

Recitation, "Dr. Fright" — Mr. F. Russell.
Selection—All Saints' Quartette.
Piano Duet—Misses Ida and Rose Mulholland.
Solo, "Molly The Marchioness" — Miss Helen Rush.
Recitation, "A Cat Tale" — Miss Helen Metheral.
Solo, "Beloved it is Morn"—Miss Pearl Lundy.
Recitation—Mr. F Russell.
Solo, "Because I Love You, Dear"—Miss May Edwards.
Recitation, "Little Rag Doll"—Miss Gladys Mulholland.
Solo—Mr. Geo. Allen.

The accompanistes for the evening were Misses Ida Mulholland, Flower and McCaw. Mr. A. Graham presided.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them.

Deeds are Fruits; Words are But Leaves

Nevertheless, we would like to say a few words about our tea leaves—our green and black tea leaves. First, they are new crop; second, they are early picked; third, they are well fired; fourth, they are good, which, as a sum total, equals the saying of a good deal. But we want to do more than say; we want to do; we want to make good the saying that "Deeds are fruits," and we will prove to you that our words are as good as our deeds if you will order us to send you a sample package of our blend. Three pounds for one dollar. T. John, Tea Man, Opera House Block, Peterborough.

GOOD MARKET THIS MORNING

Christmas Turkeys Sell at Last Year's Price

A large Wednesday market was something out of the ordinary today, and the prices presage good prospects for many a turkey dinner just one week from to-day. There were no prices lower than $1.50, and they ranged almost to $2.50. Geese were not quite so plentiful and sold at from $1.10 to $1.25. There were practically no butter and eggs. On the outside there was also a good showing. Snow apples sold at 90c per bag, and other varieties at higher prices. Beef and pork were well represented, and wood and hay were very plentiful.

OBITUARY

MRS. F.R. FAIRBAIRN

Word was received here to-day from Bordeaux, Que., of the sudden death of Mrs. J. F. R. Fairbairn. It is just one year ago to-day that her mother passed away in Chicago while on a visit to some friends.

Mr. Fairburn, husband of the deceased, is a nephew of Mr. G. M. Roger.

The deceased was born in Tecumseh, and had lived in Peterborough for some time. The body will be brought here this evening.

The funeral will take place on Thursday, November 19, at 11 a.m., from the residence of Mr. G. M. Roger, 309 Park street, to the Little Lake Cemetery, and will be private.

MARK McELROY

At the Protestant Home to-day Mark McElroy passed away after a short illness. He was 69 years of age, and had been an inmate of the home only for a short time. He was born in Canada and had always lived around Peterborough. In religion he was a Presbyterian.

The remains are now at Bellegham's undertaking establishment, which is trying to get into communication with the wife of the deceased. Funeral notice will be announced later.

PETER AYOTTE

One of the best known residents of northern Smith passed away Sunday morning at 7 o'clock in the person of Peter Ayotte. The deceased was 56 years of age and lived his life on lot 23 con. 13 of Smith, where he was born. His death occurred after a six months' illness, and he leaves to mourn his loss his wife and five sons and one daughter. The sons are George, John, Joseph, Peter and Harry, and the daughter, Miss Margaret, all at home. His surviving brothers are George, Joseph, Baptiste and Frank. Mrs. Harrington of Ennismore is a sister.

The funeral took place Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock to the Young's Point Cemetery.

KILLED BY A RAILWAY TRAIN

Little Five Year Old Boy to be Brought Here For Burial

The death of Arthur Hutchison, who was killed near Cobourg yesterday by a railway train, is being lamented by the residents of Cobourg and surrounding vicinity where the little fellow was widely known. He was a bright boy with a cheerful disposition, and was only five years of age. He was the son of the late J. B. Hutchison, who died a short time ago.

The remains will be brought here on Thursday, and taken from the residence of Mrs. Pearson, Pearl avenue, to Little Lake Cemetery for interment.

NOT MR. HARTLEY'S MANAGER

Pedestrain States That He is Receiving No Money From Pamphlets

Mr. David Hartley authorized the Examiner to-day to state that Mr. George Stevens is not his manager, and has nothing to do with him whatever. Mr. Hartley also wishes to state that he has received no money from the pamphlets which had been sold in Toronto, and in this city, and the public is warned that by purchasing them they are not helping Mr. Hartley in any way, as he is not receiving, and has not received, any remuneration from that source. The pamphlets were issued without Mr. Hartley's knowledge or suggestion, and he wants the public to thoroughly understand this.

ADDITION OF NEW BOOKS MADE

They Have Been Ordered by St. Peter's T. A. S.

It is learned that an addition of 300 new books is being added to the library at the T.A.S. rooms The books have been carefully selected and are of the best literary value. They have been ordered, it is understood, and are on the way. The library is already quite extensive and is well patronized by the members of the society.

THE ENGINEER AND FIREMEN HAVE NARROW ESCAPES IN THE DISASTROUS WRECK AT AUBURN

Engine Travels Many Yards After Leaving The Track—Some Of The Rolling Stock Tied Up In Knots

PASSENGERS SHAKEN UP

Car Load of Hogs Escape—Road Clear Last Night at 11 O'Clock —Many Visit The Wreckage

The rolling stock of the Grand Trunk Railway, on the Lakefield line, received a disastrous shock yesterday evening in one of the biggest wrecks that has ever occurred in Peterborough county. The mishap occurred about five o'clock, on the Grand Trunk track, just as the regular mixed train was rounding the curve to cross the Auburn bridge, and although there was no loss of life nor serious injuries, yet it seems that it was only by providential intervention that Engineer Wi Fee, of Lindsay, and Fireman David O'Brien, escaped with their lives.

The result of the wreck was the derailing of the engine, the tender, three box cars, one of which contained eight hogs, and two coal cars. The position in which they were left was one that could scarcely be imagined. Some parts of the cars were broken into kindling wood, a large section of the main track as well as the ground in the vicinity is torn up, and pieces of iron torn from the big engine are strewn over the surrounding ground. Last night the train crew could assign no reason for the wreck. The engine left the track at the switch where the main line to Peterborough branches off from that running down to the coal sheds on Hunter street, East City, but the switch itself was not open. The remainder of the train came down the main line until the wrecked cars blocked further progress.

A Rare Scene

The wrecked occurred about five minutes past five o'clock, and a few minutes later the news had spread to the centre of the city, when stranded travellers began to arrive on street cars.

The engine had left the rails at a switch just below the Auburn Woollen Mills, and ploughed its way for a hundred yards or more on the snow-covered ground. Its force was augmented by the train of a dozen cars behind which followed up on the main line and on the proper track. but being connected with the engine it was pulled off and when everything was brought to a standstill it faced in the opposite direction. and supported the engine which lay at the side of the track at an angle of 45 degrees.

Through the Shock

The stop of the tender did not stop the wheels on which it ran. They were precipitated about 30 feet farther ahead, and in some unaccountable manner got behind a large tree and knocked the end out of a G.T.R. storage room. The tree was notched in the operation.

The tender itself seemed to be twisted into all sorts of knots, and was scarcely recognisable as a tender. The engine that rested on it, was also badly damaged. With its nose to the ground it steamed away as if it were chafing under its restrictions. Pieces of the cylinder were found buried in the snow from the place where it had left the rails at the switch, to where it lay at the finish of its daring race. It left a path strewn with earth, as if an immense snow plough had passed along? The cab of the engine next to where it lay on the tender was also smashed.

Fate of Others

The next car to the tender was an empty box. It came down the main line and left the track a distance of thirty yards nearer the bridge than the engine. One end of it rested on the track, and the other, its length away, in the ditch. Presumably, when the tender was pulled off the line by the engine, it pulled the box car with it, but the latter broke away, and with the force of the cars behind, was sent on down the track.

As it turned off it sent the next two box cars to the opposite, or west side. One of them contained eight hogs, and although the car went so far away as to strike and break the sidewalk, about 24 feet distant, the animals were not injured. The end of the hog apartment was, however, broken into small splinters. On top of it rested another. Two more, including an empty coal car, were completely off, while a similar coal car was still on the embankment, but had left the rails. The front wheels of the next coal car were also derailed, as the rail at that point was broken. To the rear of these were two more empty coal cars, two loaded with lumber, and the two passenger coaches.

Too Sensations

The occupants of the coaches received two notifications of the trouble. The first was when the engine broke away, but the more severe one was when the wrecked cars formed a blockade. They were considerably shaken up, but none received injuries. It is believed, however, that if the coaches had been directly behind

FOR ENTERTAINMENT OF CHILDREN

Meeting Held Last Night Under Children's Aid Society Auspices—Want Co-operation

An entertainment for the children of the city, to be given in the Market Hall on Friday evening, December 27, under the auspices of the Children's Aid Society, was the outcome of a meeting held yesterday afternoon in the Council Chamber, of the members of the Society and the representatives of the city churches.

Two big Christmas trees will be the star feature of the evening's fun. From these trees Santa Claus will distribute toys, candies and other goodies to all who come to see him. There will also be a magic lantern show and band music. Light refreshments will be served during the evening.

The committee feels that the success of this children's treat depends entirely upon the co-operation of all citizens. The churches have already responded liberally to requests for candy bags and toys, but contributions of money, toys, and decorations for the trees are still required. Donations of money may be sent to Mr. Peter Campbell, the treasurer of the Children's Aid Society. All other contributions should be sent to the Y.W.C.A building, and the committee in charge particularly request that everything be delivered there not later than noon on Thursday, December 26.

All who know any children they would like to have at the treat are urged to send the names and addresses to Mr. Geo. Cochrane, agent for the Society.

Following are the committees in charge:—

Toys and Decoration of Trees—Mrs. Cressman, convenor; Mrs. W D Scott, Mrs. Spier, Mrs. R F McWilliams, Miss Edmison, Miss Florrie Burnham.

Entertainment—Mrs. Frank Mason, convenor; Mrs. O'Sullivan, Mrs. Kendry, Mrs. D J Lundy, Miss Bella Morrow.

Fifty Dollar Fine To Be Paid By Madame Ayres, Palmist

Is Confined in Gaol Until Money is Secured - Fred Newhall Summoned by His Brother—People Satisfied With Their Fortunes

P. C. NEWHALL'S FUTURE

The warfare which blazed forth so suddenly against palmists who, by their pseudo art delude those people who patronize them, resulted disastrously for the two prisoners who appeared in court yesterday. Madame Ayres, who has visited Peterborough on many occasions before came under the ban on this visit and was found guilty of telling fortunes contrary to the law. She was fined $50 or two months in gaol and will have to remain in gaol until the money is obtained.

Through her counsel, Mr. R F McWilliams, Madame Ayres elected a summary trial and pleaded not guilty. Mr. McWilliams objected to the charge, stating that is should be more specific. His Worship noted his objection and proceeded with the case.

An Examiner representative was called and stated that he had received the copy an advertisement which Madme Ayres asked to have printed. It stated that she was skilled in the art of palmistry, etc., and her charge was 50 cents during the holidays.

Fred Newhall, brother of P C Newhall, received a summons from the officer and answered to his name. He said he noticed the advertisement in the Examiner last week and as he had a few troubles in the past, he thought he would see Mme. Ayres for himself. Witness borrowed a dollar from his brother yesterday, as he happened to be short of change at the time. As he was driving off witness said he was going to have his fortune told, and P. C. Newhall said that if he did he would subpoena him and "here I am" said the witness "although I never expected that the threat would be realized."

Came Near the Truth

Madame Ayres, Mr. Newhall said, told him that he had troubles in the but must be careful in the futra. "You have intentions of going west and will do far better by so doing," Mme. said, and witness testified that he had really those intentions at the time. Madame told witness that he had thought of going into another business, saying that it might be the milk business.

"You have a white horse under your supervision," Madame said, and His Worship interjected, "there were white hairs on your clothes, I suppose." However, Madame said the horse belonged to another person, which was a fact. Some difficulty might arise between witness and the owner or there might have been some already, Mme. told the witness.

Mr. Dumble asked if there was nothing about "the girl," and the witness said Madame had mentioned a dark lady whom he would meet next September.

"As far as that goes I have no notion of getting married," Mr. Newhall remarked.

He had asked Madame if he would

CANADIAN SUCCESS

Uncle Sam may put on airs over Canada, and vaunt his superiority, but doesn't always mean to be offensive. It is simply a way he has. He is sometimes generous and willing to manfully acknowledge that he is beaten, even when the beating is doubly at his cost. In the recent international live stock show at Chicago, Uncle Sam provided the prizes, and the Canadians carried them away, a division of labour which Canadians have good reason to be proud of. Canada scored notable triumphs. She won the grand championships in the fat classes in both cattle and sheep, the highest honours that can be won in cattle or sheep. In breeding classes of Clydesdales Canada nearly swept the boards also winning high honours in Hackney horses, and in various breeds of sheep, while the Dominion's only exhibitors in pure-bred Shorthorn breeding classes stood well up to the top. In the International Students' Judging Competition, the Ontario Agricultural College team ranked second in general proficiency, and highest in judging cattle, sheep, and swine, thereby winning for the third time the bronze bull trophy, bringing it permanently to Guelph. To see this banner province thus "take the bull by the horns" in the judging competition, conjoined with Canadian success in other departments, is a source of pride. But we don't boast, or expand the eagle; we just keep on plodding with brain and hand, the processes by which we have achieved past successes, and will continue to achieve them.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Norman Wanless, a stores keeper at the London asylum, has been guillotined. Well, there's Wanless "Grit" occupying the seats of the faithful.

The Galt Reporter, an advocate of Haman's gallows tariff, records a case of industrial depression in these glad tones—"Here's another! The Art-Metal Company is working over time." A high tariff could not do any more, unless the art company should encroach on eternity to extend its operations.

Men are hanged for crime and yet crime goes on. Thousands die of tight lacing, yet the wasp waist still stings the wearer. Tobacco heart fills the sepulchres and still the pipe and cigarette and cigar are in full blast. There is a lady in Oxford county, bed-ridden and decrepit yet she still puffs her pipe in bed. She is 105 years old and has been hurrying herself to the tomb by the use of tobacco since she was ten years old. What an awful example of the criminal persistance in slow suicide.

The Conservatives are insistent in ascribing the comparatively mild form of business depression, sporadically prevailing in Canada, to excess of imports over exports, and to a tariff fate something lower than Haman's gallows. Yet we have witnessed a tremendous financial debacle in the United States under a tariff of such difference of altitude, compared with that of Canada, as exists between a root house and a "sky-scraper." And we have witnessed this financial cataclysm in a country where the exports are many times in excess of the imports.

OBITUARY

RICHARD HOWDEN

The death of Major Richard Howden of Port Hope, which occurred last week, removes from this district one of the oldest and best known citizens.

In reviewing the life of the late Major Howden, the Millbrook Mirror says:

About the year 1820 Matthew Howden left the County Fermanagh, Ireland, and came to Canada, settling in the township of Cavan, about two miles from the village of Springville. He was one of the early settlers, following a blazed trail through the woods and enduring all hardships incident to settlement in a forest country without roads or other means of communication. Game was abundant, but flour, sugar, tea and other articles now considered among the simplest necessaries were difficult and seldom to be obtained. Wheat was crushed in a hollowed maple log to make flour in the earlier days, and later farmers walked to Port Hope with a bushel or so of wheat on their shoulder and conveyed home its equivalent in flour the same way. This continued till the late Mr. Galloway erected the first flour mill in Cavan on the site known in recent years as Snowden's sawmill. Strenuous walkers, those early settlers, leaving records our present day pedestrians make no attempt to lower.

On the family homestead, lot 19 con. 11, Cavan, about the year 1827, the late Richard Howden was born and grew up to early manhood, when at the age of 19 he entered the employ of the late Mr. Thomas Evens, who then conducted a general store at Springville. Mr. Howden remained there about ten years, when he came to Millbrook and entered into partnership with Mr. Jos. Staples in a general mercantile business on a site east of the Carveth property. At that time the business portion of the village extended from Staples & Howden's store east to the corner of Tupper street, and north along Tupper street nearly to Mr. Leach's present residence. The late Mr. Henry Atkins and a brother conducted a flour and saw mill business on the property now known as Neddler's flour mill.

About this time the first volunteer company was organized in Millbrook, with Captain Howden, Lieut. Graham and Ensign (Dr.) Might as its officers. They did two months' garrison duty at Niagara-on the Lake, and during the Fenian Raid, under Capt. Howden, Lieut. (Dr.) Turner and Ensign (afterwards Capt.) Hunter, had a share of the discomforts and hardships of active service. Capt. Howden remained in command of the company until he received the rank of major. He was appointed paymaster of the 46th Batt., and retained an active interest in the volunteer force to the last.

A few years after entering into partnership with Mr. Howden, Mr. Staples retired from the business, and removed to the county of Victoria, of which he became warden, and afterwards representative at Ottawa. For a short time Mr. Howden conducted the business, when he was joined by the late Mr. Thomas Evens, who finally bought out Mr. Howden, the latter gentleman going into the grocery business near the site of the present Victoria House, and about the same time commenced buying grain at the station. For several years there was but one storehouse situated where the elevator now stands. This was occupied by rM. Howden and the late Mr. Taylor, being divided by a partition in the centre. Wheat was almost the only grain handled the first few years, the development of the barley and pea trade coming later on, when Mr. Howden, for a time, the only buyer, handled very large quantities of grain, and paid out more money to the farmers of this district than has been done by any other man before or since. He was recognized as among the best judges of grain in the province, was popular and fully trusted by the farming community; his friends were legion, and warm ones.

The frequent changes in the grain market present opportunities for investment and speculation, and on a few occasions Mr. Howden lost heavily by investing largely on a declining market. Mr. Howden continued on the grain market up to 1888 or '89, when he moved to Port Hope on accepting the position of Collector of Inland Revenue at that point. He carried with him the respect and good wishes of all who knew him.

He was postmaster about ten years resigning the office in September, 1871, when Mr. Wm. Vance received the appointment. He served as reeve of Millbrook for two years.

Sometime in the early sixties Mr. Howden married Miss Ellen Knowlson, who predeceased him some 12 years, and to this union two daughters and one son were born. The death of his son Charles, followed by that of his wife a few years later, weighed very heavily on Mr. Howden, and left their effect on his remaining years. Two daughters, Miss Polly of Detroit, and Mrs. Chas. Wilmot, of Belleville, survive.

He was an Anglican in religion, and a Conservative in politics. Moderate in his judgment of men and events, fair and just in all his dealings, unostentatious, charitable in thought and action, a man of upright character, he leaves behind very many genuine friends who regret his death sincerely.

THE QUEEN ALEXANDRA COURT OFFICERS

Elected Last Night—Some Other Business Attended To

At the regular meeting of Queen Alexandra Circle No. 136, A.O.F., held last night in the S.O.E. hall, there was a large attendance of members, C. C., Mrs. Stevens presiding. After the business was consluded, the D.D C.C., Mrs. Lloyd, took the chair, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

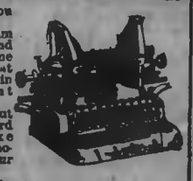
YOU CAN EASILY OPERATE THIS TYPEWRITER YOURSELF



Don't worry your correspondent.

Don't write him anything by hand that takes him time to make out—that may leave him in doubt, that he can't easily read.

And don't fill out legal papers or card menus—or make out accounts or hotel menus in your own hand writing.

You can write on your letters—make out an bstract—fill in an insurance policy—enter your cardments—make out your account s, or hotel menu—or do any kind of writing you need, on any kind, size or thickness of paper, and spa ny way you want on

The OLIVER Typewriter

The Standard Visible Writer

You can write any of these things yourself if you do not happen to have a stenographer.

For you can easily learn with a little practice to write just as rapidly, and as perfectly as an expert operator on the Oliver. Because the Oliver is the simplified typewriter. And you can see every word you write. About 50% more durable than any other typewriter, because it has about 50% less wearing points than most other typewriters.

50% easier to write with than these other complicated, intricate machines that require "hammering"—technical knowledge—long practice and special skill to operate.

Than machines which cannot be adjusted to any special space—with which it is impossible to write abstracts, insurance policies, or odd-size documents except you buy expensive special attachments requiring expert to operate.

You can adjust the Oliver to any reasonable space—you can write on any reasonable size and thickness of paper, right out to the very edge, without the aid of any expensive attachment or special skill, and your work will be neat appearing, legible and clear.

For the writer as the typewriter for the lawyer, the insurance agent, the merchant the hotel proprietor—or any man that does his own writing.

FIFTY DOLLAR FINE TO BE PAID BY MADAME AYRES

soon go hunting again and she replied no. She also answered in the negative to a question from the young man if he would start on a water trip.

Witness told Mr. McWilliams that Madame was closely observing his hands. He said that he considered that the fifty cent fee was money well spent. Madame made no attempt to defraud or delude him.

A Mistake

John Savigny was called and was asked if he had had his fortune told.

"No, sir," he briefly replied.

"Have you ever seen this woman, the defendant?"

Again an emphatic "No, sir."

In fact a mistake had been made in calling this witness as he knew positively nothing of the affair.

Truly Feminine

A woman who had visited "Prof." Shepherd said she had heard of Mme Ayres several times and had called upon her one night last week in company with a friend. Witness said she showed Madame both her palms and was told that she was extravagant, "which I am," witness remarked.

"You are kind hearted and you are often misunderstood by your own friends," was a part of Madame's reading and proved to be true, according to witness' testimony.

"You are going to be well off," was a welcome promise "and you will do well by going west." Madame advised witness to have nothing to do with Prof. Shepherd, "which was good advice," the court quietly remarked.

Witness asked Madame if a certain gentleman acquaintance would be suitable as a husband and received the discouraging reply that he would not. Witness said she was perfectly satisfied with the advice that Madame had given and considered that she had received full value for her money.

Thomas Collard said that he had seen Madame Ayres on the street, but further than that replied with a broad "No" to questions as to whether he had had his fortune told or not. Another mistake was made in some manner.

P.C. Newhall's Reading

P. C. Newhall was called and stated that he had visited Madame Ayres yesterday in plain clothes. She observed the palms of his hands from a distance of between two and three feet, holding one of her hands over her eyes nearly all the time.

"You have great controlling powers, and are impulsive. You are nervous. You are troubled with your throat and stomach. Some one belonging to you has died of paralysis have they not?" Witness did not answer her.

"Have you a scar on your knee?" she asked.

"No."

"Then on your shin?"

"Yes."

"You made a change in May or June, do you regret it?"

P. C. Newhall said he was unaware of it.

"You often miss chances by waiting and weighing matters over, but in the end you gain by your impulsiveness. You will have a good long life. Just turn over your hands and let me see your nails."

Witness said he did so.

"I cannot say how long" she remarked, "it does not show."

Madame continued saying that the officer was cool-headed and saving, repeating, however, that he was impulsive. She then assayed to answer questions concerning the future, but the officer declined to ask any.

"She did not make a good guess about my characteristics" witness told Mr. McWilliams, and for that reason he did not ask her anything.

No Defence

Mr. McWilliams offered no defence saying that he took it for granted that the Crown would not ask for conviction on the evidence offered.

Mr. Dumble said that the palmistry was a humbug and that Madame had undertaken to tell fortunes. People of that kind pander to the ignorance or curiosity, whatever it may be, of some people.

His Worship was looking through the code and Mr. McWilliams asked him if there was anything which he could assist him to find.

"Yes," the Magistrate replied, "I am looking for a punishment that will not require a term in gaol."

After reading through several sections Magistrate Dumble's decision was guilty.

As mentioned in another article the little child of Mme. Ayres is at her boarding house and will be separated from her until the fine is paid.

They will arrive on Saturday night and will be given a welcome at the station by the band.

SOMETHING SHOULD BE DONE

What is Causing the Increase in Catarrh in Peterborough?

In spite of the best efforts of medical men, catarrhal troubles are increasing not only in Peterborough, but all over the country.

Catarrh is a germ disease, and to cure it germ life in the breathing organs should be destroyed, and to do this no other treatment has such positive and beneficial action as Hyomei.

When the mucous membrane is irritated and raw, and the tissues weakened, there is an ideal lodging place for catarrhal germs. Breathe Hyomei, and see how quickly it soothes the membranes, vitalizes the tissues and destroys all the disease germs, rendering catarrh no longer possible.

There is no dangerous stomach drugging when Hyomei is used; no tablets or liquid mixtures destroying digestion.

Breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every Hyomei outfit, the healing balsams penetrate to the most remote air cells of the throat, nose and lungs, destroying the catarrhal germs so that quick recovery follows.

Mr. Madill agrees to refund the money to any purchaser of Hyomei who does not find that it does all that is claimed for it. The complete outfit costs but $1.00.

NO FURTHER EFFORTS TO BE MADE

Ice Will Cover Beaman's Body Until Next Spring

On inquiry to-day it is learned definitely that, for the present, no further steps will be taken in the search for the body of Edward Beaman. The Otonabee River will, therefore, probably be its tomb until the ice breaks in the spring, and it may not then be found. The friends of the unfortunate man regret the fact that the efforts which were made were not successful, and consider that the search should have been conducted on broader lines.

The words of the old woman who lives near Havelock, do not seem to have influenced those who had a special interest in the search, as they were too indefinite. In connection with her case, many stories are being told of cases of a similar nature, in which persons express their confidence in the power of clairvoyants to locate bodies that have been lost. However the majority are skeptical of the truth of what she told young Beaman, and nothing will be done in any event.

What Joy to be Freed From Piles

THERE IS SCARCELY A SUFFERER IN THIS BROAD LAND BUT CAN BE CURED BY

The utter misery and despair of the sufferer from a severe case of piles, or hemorrhoids cannot be described in words.

It is not only the intense itching and stinging which in themselves are bad enough, not only the dread of a surgical operation, with its pain, expense and danger, but the whole system seems to be undermined, and as the ailment drags on from day to day, and year to year, one becomes discouraged, despondent, and in despair gives up all hope of cure.

The joy which cured ones experience on being cured from itching, bleeding and protruding piles, is told in the thousands of letters which we have received from time to time.

You need not tell the writers of these letters that there is a case of which Dr. Chase's Ointment will not cure, for they will not believe it. They alone know how they suffered, and also know that Dr. Chase's Ointment cured them. In many cases the cures were almost like miracles, so little ointment was used. In other cases, while relief came quickly, cure was only effected by the persistent use of several boxes of the Ointment.

W. E. Talbot, of Talbot Bros., tobacco merchants, 328 George street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "It is from a desire to help other sufferers that I offer a statement of my experience with Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for itching piles. I was for a long time troubled with this unpleasant and torturing disease and though I tried many treatments remained uncured until I came across Dr. Chase's Ointment. It was highly recommended to me, and I find that every word of praise that is given to it is true. I can truthfully say that I am completely cured, and knowing the misery that this ailment produces, I am anxious for others to know of the surprising virtues of Dr. Chase's Ointment."

It matters not how long you have suffered, if you have itching, bleeding or protruding piles Dr. Chase's Ointment will relieve and cure you, and is the only positive and guaranteed cure for every form of piles; 60 cts. a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

A RUNAWAY BULL HAD ADVENTURES

Threw It's Owner into a Snow Bank Before it was Finally Captured

A bull that closely resembled the title role in "Alas, my poor brother," picture of a beef tea ad., broke away from the market square yesterday and was captured only after strenuous efforts on the part of its owner. The pursuit down George street was watched with interest, and was not without its amusing features. The farmer followed the flying bovine as fast as his team and heavy sleigh would permit, and at King street managed to get up on level terms. The first round was all in favour of the bull, however, as the angry owner was hurled head first into a snow bank when he tried to lead the animal back with a rope. Before he dug himself out, the beef was a block away, but was finally rounded up at the C.P.R. station.

CAR SMASHES INTO A HORSE AND SLEIGH

Horse Takes Fright at Bright Head Light and Moves Across The Road

About ten minutes to 6 last evening a street car ran into a horse and sleigh at the corner of Simcoe and George street. The owner of the outfit was Mr. Geo. Carter, who was in Thos. Barrie's store at the time, having left the horse standing on the road. The animal took fright at the strong headlight on an approaching car and attempted to move across the street. It had barely cleared the tracks when the car came along and severed the hoare from the sleigh. The horse walked along Simcoe street in the direction of the tap in front of the police station, but was caught before reaching that place by Chief Rozel.

The car was not very badly damaged, but had its fender twisted. As to the sleigh, one of the shafts was broken, and several pieces of the harness on the horse were broken in the smash-up.

GERM DESTROYER

Herpicide is Death to Dandruff Germs

The germ burrows into the scalp, throwing up the cuticle in thin scales called dandruff or scurf, and digging at the root of the hair where it saps the hair's vitality. First comes brittle hair, then lustreless and dead-like hair, the falling hair, and finally baldness. Nine-tenths of the hair troubles are caused by dandruff. Without dandruff hair will grow luxuriantly, as nature intended. "Herpicide" kills the dandruff germ, leaving the hair to grow unhampered, as it does with the American redman. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50c and $1. The Market Drug Store, Special Agents.

Horses Sink in Some Places About Two Feet—Difficult Travelling

The floating bridge across Chemong Lake is reported to be in a bad condition with ice, snow and water. There are several holes at various points on the bridge, some about two feet deep, through which the horses have to tramp, making the travelling very dangerous. The bridge itself is in good condition, and, but for the contrary elements, would be in excellent shape.

William McAteer, Farmer, Cresmore, P.O., writes: "For years I have been a sufferer from acute rheumatism. At times I have been completely laid up with it—could not put on my clothing without assistance. Before I had completed the second bottle of South American Rheumatic Cure I was a well man. If those two bottles had cost me $50.00 I would have considered it cheap medicine."

Rings As Gifts

THE ONE YOU BUY may be the man you'll be "handed" with for life, or it may be "just an old friend." In either case, he or she will be lucky to get such a good ring, and you'll be fortunate in getting it at our price.

FITTED ALL AROUND

A flash of exquisite beauty beyond the mere play of words is our $25.00 DIAMOND SOLITAIRE.

GOES TO JAIL FOR TWO MONTHS

Charles Miller Was Sentenced Yesterday on Charge of House-breaking

Chas. Miller was sentenced yesterday morning to two months in jail at hard labour.

Miller, one day last week, broke into the house of Mr. Thos. Brightman and stole about $50 worth of jewelry. He went to Schneider's jewelry store with the goods and tried to dispose of them, but was arrested by P. C. Maharry, and taken to the police station. He was tried the next morning and then sentence was deferred until this morning, and in the meantime Miller was confined in jail.

He appeared in court yesterday and presented a very respectable appearance. When His Worship asked him what he had to say, he replied that he was awfully sorry and pleaded for leniency. He said that he had worked hard all summer but found it impossible to get work in winter.

His Worship then sentenced him to two months in jail at hard labour.

WITH FORESTER AND ORANGE HONOURS

The funeral of the late Joseph Monerief was held yesterday to the Little Lake Cemetry, the services being conducted by Rev. J G Potter and A. H. Bucs. The deceased was once a member of the I. O.O.F. at Westwood, but was transferred to Court Chemong some years ago. He was also a member of L. O.L. No. 321, both of which organizations sent wreaths. The bearers consisted of Messrs. Miles, C.R.; McKee, V.C.R., and Metcalfe, J.W.W, of Court Chemong, and Messrs. T. Holden, C. Kitney and Jos Armstrong, of the Orange Lodge.

Suffered From Heart and Nerve Troubles FOR THE Last Ten Years.

The heart has supplied to it two sets of nerves, one set which quickens, the other which slows its action. The proper action of these nerves, so important to the well-being of the heart, depends upon the general condition of the nervous system. If there be nerve derangement of any kind it is bound to produce all the various phenomena of heart derangement.

Knowing the intricate structure of the heart, and being aware how diseases of the nerves affect the heart, we have combined in Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills a treatment that will cure all forms of nervous disorders as well as act on the heart itself, and in this is the secret of their success in curing so many cases of heart trouble which have defied all other treatment.

Mrs. John Riley, Douro, Ont., writes: "I have been a great sufferer from heart and nerve troubles for the last ten years. After trying many remedies and doctoring for two years, without the least benefit, I decided to give Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills a trial. I am thankful to say that, after using nine boxes, I am entirely cured, and would recommend them to all sufferers."

Price 50c. per box or three for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MORE OF SHEPHERD PALMISTRY

Told Young Lady She Would Never Have To Work Hard—Was a Musician

DESCRIBED ROBBER

Much of the credit for the exposing of "Prof." Shepherd is due to the efforts of P. C. Newhall, who apparently saw beneath the surface at the outset. Yesterday's evidence ought to be a warning to the gentle sex to avoid all such adventurers as fortune tellers and so-called palmists. The officer's coup was a blow at questionable characters, one kind of whom seek their lustful ends under the cloak of an art that especially appeals to womankind.

Explanation of Theft.

In his evidence against Shepherd yesterday afternoon P. C. Newhall said that the prisoner first boarded at Mrs. King's, on George street, and a theft of a pair of boots was reported from there. P. C. Newhall was investigating the affair, and Mrs King had told the officer in the presence of the prisoner that Mr. Shepherd was staying at her house.

"We have a professor and a palmist with us," Mrs. King said; "perhaps you don't believe in that sort of thing. He says that the man who stole the boots was short and dark, and walked out of the house with a boot in each of his overcoat pockets."

His Art at Work

A young lady, a stenographer, gave her evidence. She was curious to know about her future and had visited the professor. Witness said the professor looked at her hand first with his naked eye, and afterwards by means of a glass. "You can keep a secret," the professor commenced, "and will live a long life; you will also make a good musician, and at the present time you are engaged at work which requires both hands." The professor tacked to leaward dipping into the depths of the future, and said—"You will never have to work very hard," and held out other bright prospects. He then sidetracked to massage and hair treatment, asking the young lady if she wished to try either. She declined and at the conclusion of the reading paid the usual fee of 50 cents.

Music and Drama

RICHARD III.

Mr. Henry Ludlowe, the well known tragedian, using the magnificent scenic effects and costumes of the late Richard Mansfield, and supported by a star cast of Shakesperean actors will be seen here on Thursday, Dec. 26th, in Shakspare's great tragedy, "Richard III." The production will be made with absolute fidelity and observance of detail, the costumes of that period, the architecture and household furniture serving as a correct accompaniment to the speech of Shakspere. The original music written for Mr. Mansfield by Edward German will be used by Mr. Ludlowe and the production promises to be the dramatic event of the season. It will be followed on Friday by a sumptuous revival of the "Merchant of Venice."

DORA THORNE

An interesting story of human passions, ambitions and aspirations, is "Dora Thorne," the play from the pen of Lem B. Parker, which will be presented at the Grand opera house on Christmas Day, Matinee and night.

While sensation and comedy predominate there is also a very dramatic story that is tinged with heart interest and touches of pathos. The plot is admirably woven and the comedy, while exuberant, is never tiresome. The story is one of thrilling interest, abounding in sensational episodes and exciting situations, so cleverly told that interest in its result is quikly aroused and is firmly maintained throughout the play. The company presenting the play is said to be exceptionally capable and contains many artists well known to local theatre goers.

CHRISTMAS FOWL WERE STOLEN

Left Hanging Outside the Door And They Disappeared

Most people don't mind spending money once in purchasing the Christmas turkey and goose, but when the game has to be played the second time they usually object. Such was the experience of a Water street woman last Saturday. She spent part of the forenoon in purchasing fine representatives of the turkey and goose family, and left them hanging outside the back door. A few minutes later she went to get the fowl, and both were gone. They have not since been heard from.

RHEUMATIC RELIEF

Many people suffer from rheumatism, and more particularly at this time of the year. Such sufferers may get relief by observing the following instructions: Wear warm clothing, particularly about the knees, ankles and hands. Drink lots of water and abstain from all liquors or acid products. To eradicate the uric acid in the blood, get your druggist to mix you the following doctor's prescription: four ounces syrup of rhubarb, one ounce sweet spirits of nitre, one ounce compound vinegar. Take a dessertspoonful in water after meals and at bedtime. Take lots of sleep, and exercise as much as possible.—7.

LUMBERMEN ARE OUT ON STRIKE

The Cut in Wages Likely to Have Serious Termination

The lumber situation has reached a crisis. The men in the woods are leaving their work, and very few are going back. A gentleman who arrived yesterday from Sault Ste. Marie, states that there were three hundred lumbermen on the train, all having left the woods owing to the large cut in wages. He said the men from the north also complained of the poor food they were receiving.

An Examiner representative, in conversation with several of the men who have recently come down from the camps, learned some interesting facts. These men say that before Christmas arrives there will not be enough men in the woods to keep the shanties warm. There is another gang of men quitting the camps on Friday, and will number more than any which have left before. Some of the men interviewed say that their wages were $35 a month, and they will not go back for less. They are receiving offers every day, and managers of lumber companies will even sign papers as a guarantee to a winter's work if they will go back for $26 a month, but they are determined to hold out till wages go up.

The fare that these men have been handed out this year, according to their statements, has been extremely poor—far below what they have been accustomed to. Some camps have never seen butter, while another had some which was used as axle grease. As for meat, the men are fed on good salt pork.

The Cavendish Lumber Company will not suffer much in consequence of this so-called strike, as it has all the lumber necessary for next year's operations, and is not sorry to let the men go.

The other companies say they have no fear of a strike, as there are hundreds of men ready to fill the places of those who quit their work.

BROCK STREET RINK OPENED

Big Crowd Were on Hand for First Skate Last Night

That popular place of winter amusement, the Brock street rink, was opened for the season last night, and a very big crowd was on hand for the opening. Considering the earliness of the season, the management is to be congratulated upon the excellent ice it had ready for the skaters. Only a couple of rinks in Ontario are open yet, and skaters in Peterborough are lucky to have ice so soon, and they showed their appreciation by staying on the rink until the last bell. Mr. Thirnbeck, the popular caretaker, is evidently determined to break all records this season, and got away to a good start last night. The 57th Band was on hand and rendered appreciated music.

GIVEN AN ELECTRIC LAMP

Presentation To Mr. Wesley Rose By Employers and Fellow Employees

Mr. Wesley Rose who recently entered the family of benedicts, was the other evening presented with a handsome electric lamp by McGregor & Reid, where he is employed, and with an electric flat iron by his fellow employees. Mr. Rose was surprised at his home on Harvey street, where the presentations were made.

"TAG" AT THE RINK MUST STOP

Management Make an Important Announcement to The Patrons

The management of the Brock street rink wish it distinctly understood by the youngsters who patronize the rink that rowdyism or boisterous conduct on the rink will not be tolerated and that "tag" and other games which interfere with the skaters will have to be suppended. Last night some of the little fellows seemed to forget that there was any rule of this kind in force, and they are asked to behave themselves in future. If not the management will be compelled to cancel their tickets as they are determined to conduct the rink properly.

The regular prayer meeting at Mark street church last night was largely attended, and Rev. Mr. Coon mentioned the fact that greater interest was being taken in the work.

After the meeting the teachers and officers of the Sunday school met and decided to assist the Children's Aid Society in its Christmas tree entertainment for the children.

PLUM PUDDING FROM OLD LAND

Many Arrived in British Mails Yesterday Morning

The English mail, which arrived in Peterborough yesterday morning, brought all kinds of Christmas presents from friends in the old country to Englishmen residing in Peterborough, and the most prominent feature was the large number of plum puddings which were included in the assortment. The folks at home follow the custom yearly of sending out genuine plum puddings to their friends in Canada, and this year all records in this line have been broken. Puddings packed in every kind of a parcel were piled up in the post office yesterday, and the postmen had many notices to deliver to people that parcels awaited them at the office. The postmen of course do not have to carry parcels weighing over three pounds, and as most of the puddings are quite heavy the people to whom they are sent will have to call for them. The British mail this week was larger than that of the same week last year.

BOX RENTS IN CITY ONLY INCREASED

Through Mr. Hall's Energy Farmers Rent Post Office Boxes as Usual

It will be welcome news to the farmers of Peterborough County, who have boxes rented in the local postoffice, to learn that the rent will not be increased to $4, as was expected. Through the intercession of Mr. R. R. Hall, M P., for West Peterborough, the rate has been reduced to $2 for all persons outside the corporation of the city. The following telegram received by Lt.-Col. Rogers, postmaster, explains the situation:

"Box rents to those outside the city limits, and who do not enjoy letter-carrier delivery, to be same as before writing you to-day.

Popular Cure for Croup

Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, as a cure for croup, will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success. It is wonderfully prompt in relieving the cough, clearing the air passages and soothing the excited nerves. Many mothers who realize the suddenness with which croup comes on keep this great medicine promptly on hand for use in case of emergency.

CHANGES MADE AT THE POLICE COURT

The local police court has undergone a great change during the past week, and now presents a very pleasing appearance. The floors are all freshly painted, and the magistrate's desk and the prisoners' box, have undergone a great change, and have been very nicely grained. The large crowd which appeared outside of the court was greatly disappointed yesterday morning at not being able to get in, but the chief thought it advisable to keep the court door shut, as the stairs leading to the court room were still wet with paint. During the renovation the decorators and painters have not been interrupted in their work very much as very few cases have come into court during the past few weeks.

The Debating Club Holds Novel Quotation Contest

Interesting Meeting Last Night—Mock Parliament, The Next Feature

SOCIAL EVENING WAS HELD

Last night was the last meeting for the first session of the Y. M. C. A. Literary and Debating Club, and was one of the most interesting of the season. The chief feature of the programme was a "Quotation Contest," two leaders being chosen, and they choosing members of the society and forming two sides. The critic of the society Mr. J. E. Hodgson, presided, and the members of the different sides responded with quotations from any well known author, the side giving the most and best selected quotations in a limited time being the winners. Many excellent quotations were given, but the chief purpose of this contest was to train the young men to speak before an audience and develop a taste for literary work generally.

Mr. Hodgson, in summing up the speeches of the evening, pointed out the great value of quotations in training one to speak before an audience for the first time, and the necessity of selecting the most suitable one, and their value to the club as literary students.

The executive have an interesting programme prepared for the winter session, which opens on Wednesday, January 8th. This session will include a Mock Parliament, the election of leaders taking place at the next meeting. The leaders will then place their platform before the people and the House will go into session on January 22nd.

This will no doubt be of great interest to the young men of the city, and all wishing to take part in this Mock Parliament are asked to be on hand at the election next meeting. The session will extend over several meetings, and the executive intend to make it one of the most interesting events of the season of a literary character in the season.

Several important questions of interest will be brought before the House and a most interesting and profitable time is anticipated.

The Preceptory Celebrates Opening of The Derry Gates

Hold Banquet Last Night Which Was Well Attended—Excellent Toast List

SOME BRIGHT SPEECHES

The 219th anniversary of the closing of the gates of Derry, was fittingly celebrated by the members of Royal Black Preceptory No. 261, last night, when the sixth annual banquet of the order was held in the Orange Hall, Simcoe street. The success of the affair was eminently satisfactory; the high standard established in the past being surpassed by the completeness of the arrangements and the happy manner in which they were carried out. A splendid dinner, well served, an attendance of seventy-five loyal knights and a host of bright interesting speeches, all contributed to make the evening long to be remembered by those fortunate enough to be present, and the committee in charge are to be congratulated upon the splendid success which attended their efforts.

Sir W. H. G. Armstrong made a splendid chairman and about seventy five were present, including knights and visiting members of other lodges.

The dinner was in charge of Messrs. Coleman Bros., and they excelled themselves in the array of good things provided, and the splendid service given. Following was the menu;—

Tomato Soup.
Forced Turkey. Stuffed Goose.
Potatoes. Peas.
Plum Pudding, with Cream Brandy Sauce.
Cream Cake. Wine Jellies.
Cheese. Celery.
Fruit. Nuts.
Black Coffee Tea.

After ample justice had been done to this repast an interesting toast list was honored. All the speakers acquitted themselves well and made patriotic bright speeches in which many references were made to the occasion which was being celebrated, the heroic defence of Derry, 219 years ago.

The toast list was as follows:

THE KING.
The Chairman.

CHARTER.
Past Preceptor.

Why Beauty Fades

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and the nerves become exhausted, beauty fades, wrinkles show themselves, and the glow of health disappears and beauty curves give place to leanness and angles. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative, is woman's greatest blessing from youth to old age. A few weeks' use of this treatment will do wonders for any woman who is pale, thin, weak and nervous.

NO CONVICTION FOR SECOND CHARGE

Prf. Shepherd's True Character Displayed By Belleville Girl—Usual Story

CREDIT FOR P. C. NEWHALL

"It was not like this in the olden days,
It was not like this, at all,"

The lid is on, and Chief Rozel with his four braves is there every time there is the least sign of it bubbling over. The pickpockets ran on a reef last circus day; several bad men have likewise received the count, and, without referring to the lesser offenders who have been dealt with in the interim, it remained for the authorities to follow up their campaign, and yesterday, two palmists and fortune-tellers were put away. Prof. Shepherd, one of them, was committed to trial on the charge of having undertaken to tell fortunes contrary to the criminal code.

It was, perhaps, regrettable that Madame Ayres, the mother of a little child about seven years of age, was guilty of the same offence, as she will be confined in the jail until her fine of $50 is paid. This was her sentence, the money to be paid forthwith, or, in default of payment, two months in jail. Her counsel, Mr. R. F. McWilliams, asked the court to consider her position, as she will be separated from the little one until the money is secured. However, as she had no holdings in the city the law was inflexible.

Afternoon Session

The court opened behind closed doors, with Shepherd's first case still unfinished. P. C. Newhall's evidence was taken, and several other witnesses were heard. Mr. Kerr asked that Shepherd be dismissed as the charge was not substantiated.

"Committed for trial," were his Worship's final words, concluding the case.

Shepherd's true character was brought out in the next case in which he was charged with seduction as referred to in section 212 of the revised criminal code. Prisoner pleaded not guilty through his counsel, Mr. F. D. Kerr. The only evidence offered was that of Mary Turncliffe of Hastings, the plaintiff.

She said that about November 15 she went to Belleville to work at the Deaf and Dumb Institute. On the Friday following November 15, witness went to the boarding house where Shepherd had a room, and had her fortune told. The "professor" told her there were six lines in her hand he could not read, but if she returned again he would put a powder on her hand and raise them up, making them more clear. Witness said she was accompanied by a friend from the Institute.

Witness returned the next day in the afternoon and saw the "professor," but he seemingly had forgotten the powder. Witness said he began making love to her and told her he wanted to marry her.

Shepherd called at the Institute and continued his wooing. Witness said she received letters from the professor, and acknowledged them when produced in court. They were weighted down with "mushy" passages, every line burning with the "glow" of his "deep love and affection. There were six or eight of these inflammatory epistles, and their dates showed that frequently he had written two per day. One letter said he had bought an engagement and wedding ring.

Witness said she was 18 years of age. The offence was committed on November 30, but not under the promise of marriage. The prosecution, therefore, dropped the case.

Shepherd's conduct stamps him as a human vulture, and while he escaped the punishment of the law, Magistrate Dumble left no doubt as to what he considered him. His actions while in Peterborough showed that his policy remained with him, and credit is due the authorities of this city who were instrumental in running him to earth.

"The Last Robin"

Lyrics and Sonnets by Ethelwyn Wetherald

The daintiest volume of the daintiest verse that has ever been issued by Canadian book-maker, and penned by Canadian poet, is represented by "The Last Robin; Lyrics and Sonnets," by Ethelwyn Wetherald, printed by Wm. Briggs, Toronto. It is a collection of lyrics and sonnets, many of them now published in book form for the first time; and seldom in the history of book-making has so much sweetness and light been folded within the compass of a couple of hundred pages. Miss Wetherald has spent most of her life in the township of Pelham, in the county of Welland, one of the most beautiful parts of the "Garden of Canada." She has lived close to nature in its most beautiful material manifestations, and her poems show that her mind and soul have been steeped in the spirit of her surroundings. She sings of birds, and beasts, and flowers, and homely things. A screech-owl or a robin, a moth or a humming bird; dead leaves or a rose aflame with its summer blood, are alike to her—awake to ecstacy her living lyre; evoke the love of nature and nature's brood, give birth to delicate sentiment, exquisite imagery, and words that paint a compelling picture to the eye of re-membory. Under the spell of her pen, simple things are glorified; homely things transfigured. Miss Wetherald is the poet of nature, as Wordsworth was, in as true, but sweeter and more womanly way. Her thought is as pure as the dew she sings; her idealism delicately beautiful; her measures have the flowing rythm of Swinburne, and her style of expression is fresh and original, as much a part of her as Tennyson's is of him. Her lyrics are songs set to music of their own. There are more than 150 short poems in the collection, a score or two of delightful, well-built sonnets of equal mind, merit and literary charm. While all bear the impress of the poet's individuality, there is no monotony, only an infinite variety of beautiful gameness. This may sound extravagant, but it is not: Ethelwyn Wetherald's poems are a surprise and a dalight, and, sui generis, of high merit, clear-cut and outstanding in their dainty sweetness, as a cameo. One cannot fancy, in the way of books, a better Christmas present to send a pure, sound-hearted and cultured lady friend, than Ethelwyn Wetherald's "Last Robin." Wm. Briggs, the publisher, in printing, binding and book work, has made the dainty volume worthy of its charming contents.

SALVATION ARMY ERECT A SHIP HERE

Novel Idea of Distributing Presents on Christmas Day

On Christmas Day the Salvation Army will have a navy at the local barracks. At least, it will have one ship erected there which, instead of being laden with guns and ammunition, will contain Christmas gifts for the children. It will be the occasion of the annual junior Christmas tree and entertainment. The ship idea is a novel one. The schooner will be of the full-masted type, built and set up in the hall, manned with a proper crew in sailor attire, and will, of course, have Santa Claus on board to distribute the gifts. Music incidental to the celebration of the occasion will be given.

NOT JUST AS GOOD

Did you ever inquire at a store for certain articles and get for a reply "We have something just as good"? Did it ever occur to you that "Something just as good" is something the dealer has been able to buy much cheaper than the articles you inquire for? This is true in drugs, fabrics, groceries, hardware, and in fact every line, including silver-plated ware. If you inquire for 1847 Rogers Bros.' ON TRIAL FOR SERIOUS CHARGE

Rightmyer Will go Before a Jury—Case Before The Magistrate

On a charge of seducing young Pearl Longdo, an East City girl, under the age of sixteen, Clinton Rightmyer appeared in the police court this morning, after being remanded last week until to-day.

Mr. R. Ruddy of Millbrook, appeared for the prisoner, and Mr. R. E. Wood for the Crown. Only the evidence of the girl, her mother and the minister, was heard.

At the opening of the case Mr. Ruddy elected to have the case tried before the next court of competent jurisdiction, and a preliminary hearing followed.

The first witness called was Pearl Longdo, who lives on Concession street, East City, with her mother. She said that she had known the prisoner for years, and had been keeping company with him since a year ago last Hallowe'en. "She was 16 years old on November 11th," interrupted the mother in answer to a question asked by the Crown Attorney. Mr. Wood then asked the court to order the witnesses for the Crown and the defence to go into the council chamber. The girl in continuing her evidence said that the prisoner came to her house some time ago, and asked her to marry him. He next asked her mother who replied favourably. This happened six months ago. On going away he assured the mother that everything would be all right, and he would let her known when he was ready to get married.

One afternoon after this Rightmyer called at the house when she was there alone. Her mother was out washing, and on this occasion he had acted wrongfully.

The next evidence was that of Mrs. Longdo, the mother, who corroborated her daughter's story.

The prisoner was committed for trial and the case will be heard before the next court of competent jurisdiction.

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;

One ounce Compound Salatone;

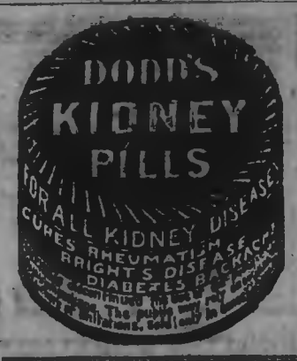
Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mixed and taken in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime, is pronounced by a prominent physician to be the best mixture for the cure of the kidney, bladder, and all urinary troubles.

This says the doctor, is the most simple though remarkable prescription ever written to cleanse the system of impurities and waste matter. It acts as a powerful tonic to the kidneys, forcing them to filter out the solids and poisons, overcoming rheumatism, lame back, sciatica and other afflictions arising from sour, impure blood.

The ingredients can be procured at any good drug store, and being purely vegetable and entirely harmless, can easily be mixed at home.

If you have a suffering friend show this to him, as he will undoubtedly be pleased to learn of its simple and highly recommended a remedy.



FIELDING'S BIG FOUR

Main Features of Minister's New Insurance Measure.

REMEDY FOR OLD ABUSES

Ottawa, Dec. 19.—The eagerly anticipated insurance bill, the point of long and searching inquiry, followed by the most careful consideration on the part of the Government, was laid on the table of the House yesterday afternoon by Mr. Fielding, who took the opportunity to give a succinct and illuminative explanation of its main features. While the Minister of Finance made it clear that the Government are not so sanguine as to expect that the measure will pass without criticism, and perhaps some modification, he claimed that it represented a careful effort to afford a reasonable and sensible, remedy for such abuses as the investigation by the Insurance Commission had disclosed. Somewhat technical and complicated in parts, the bill embodies a number of the valuable recomamendations made by the commission, while others that were considered unnecessarily drastic have been dropped. The bill takes a wider sweep than that drafted by the commission, for whereas the latter dealt with life insurance only, Mr. Fielding's measure takes account of the whole question of insurance, although the amendments proposed are chiefly in connection with life insurance. Really it is a consolidation of all the acts.

Main Features.

Publicity all along the line.

Triennial dividends to policyholders.

Strict limitation of investments to established dividend-paying stocks and bonds.

The Japanese immigration question was against the subject of debate in the House yesterday, and the discussion in respect to it afforded once more an example of the fact that the Parliamentary practices are of little account to an Opposition whose sole desire seemingly is to score a point against the Government. The Prime Minister held, in brief, that, pending the return of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux from Japan, papers asked for in the motion by Mr. Borden could not be laid on the table. It would not be proper to do this while the subject was a matter for negotiation. He imparted the information that Mr. Lemieux would sail direct from Japan for Canada and would probably reach the Dominion by Jan. 15. It was his hope and belief that success would crown Mr. Lemieux's efforts and that a satisfactory solution would be reached. The treaty might have to be abrogated if the understanding which up to this year had been satisfactory had been wilfully and systematically violated, which, however, he refused to believe, intimating that it had been evaded by designing parties. Hon. Sydney Fisher backed up Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The motion was allowed to carry, the House understanding, of course, that until Mr. Lemieux's arrival the papers will not be brought down. The House then adjourned at 6 o'clock until Jan. 8.

A Statement Demanded.

The leader of the Opposition again demanded a definite statement from the Government as to the character of the assurances given by the Japanese; also its reliance upon those asurances. It had been said that the question had been dealt, with a view to the interests of the Government. The assurances given by Japan had not been effective, as there had been an enormous influx of Japanese into British Columbia. The question was decidedly an economic one. We could not change the conditions that exist, and it was impossible for white labor to successfully compete with Japanese labor in British Columbia.

In view of this, the country should know what is the attitude of the Government, what the result of the mission of the Postmaster-General had been. It had been stated in the press that the mission had come to an end, that the treaty would not be amended, that the assurances of Japan restricting immigration would be repeated.

An Educational Test.

Sir Wilfrid replied that there could be no doubt as to the intentions of the Government, but Mr. Borden was entitled to a full answer. The question should be treated with calmness. He had always taken the ground that they could not apply to the Japanese the same treatment that applied to the Chinese, and the commission that investigated the question had so recommended. Mr. Borden should have remembered that the action of the Government was based on the recommendation, and that the assurances given by Japan were sufficient. Should, however, these assurances not be effective, it might be necessary to adopt an educational test, as required by the Natal Act.

"Does he understand that while the treaty remains in its present form it will be competent to pass the Natal Act?" asked Mr. Borden.

"Does he understand that while the treaty remains in its present form it is impossible to pass the Natal Act," replied Sir Wilfrid.

Sir Wilfrid stated that on the return of Mr. Lemieux the correspondence asked for would be brought down. If it was found that the agreement had been wilfully and systematically violated, it might be necessary to denounce that treaty, but if it had been evaded by designing parties, the matter ought to be easily arranged. Since Japan is an ally of the sovereign, would it not be better, asked Sir Wilfrid, that the restrictions should be carried out by the Japanese themselves?

The Premier referred to the newspaper despatches of the failure of Mr. Lemieux's mission, which he refused to rely on. The journalist apparently had more information than the Government.

Mr. Borden asked when would Mr. Lemieux return, and Sir Wilfrid replied that he would sail direct on Jan. 8.

Mr. Foster demanded, under the rules, that the document be produced upon which the Premier based his statement that an assurance had been given to Canada that Japanese immigration would be restricted, regardless of the treaty stipulation of reciproeal free entry.

Sir Wilfrid's reply was that until the Canadian commissioner had returned from the mission to Japan the document would be considered as confidential.

Mr. Borden stated that reference having been made by members on the Government side to an undertaking to that effect, given in writing by the Japanese consul-general at Ottawa (Mr. Nosse) surely that document could be tabled.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier answered that the document in question was confidential. If confidential how could it be in debate? was the Opposition's retort.

"Then," said Mr. Foster, "do we understand the same obstruction applies to this as to the other?"

Sir Wilfrid nodded.

"Then," returned Mr. Foster, with a snap, "I consider the excuse a very flimsy one."

Mr. Borden's motion carried and the Speaker, having declared Mr. Borden's motion carried adjourned the House until 2 p. m. on Jan. 8.

In reply to Mr. Ames, the Finance Minister stated that the coming into force of the new French treaty would not effect Canada's position in respect to the surtax on goods imported from Germany.

Keep Out Foul Seeds.

Ottawa, Dec. 19.—Richard Blain (Peel) moved yesterday to adjourn the House for the purpose of discussing a question of urgent public importance, namely, the importation of foul seeds in the frozen grain now being shipped from Western Canada to the eastern provinces. Hon. Sydney Fisher said he appreciated the danger.

Dr. Barr (Dufferin) introduced a bill giving permission for the crossing of railway tracks by telephone, telegraph and other wires by merely giving notice to the company's nearest agent.

CADET WAS RUSTICATED.

And Now His Father Demands an Investigation.

Kingston, Dec. 19.—During the past week there has been a lively time at the Royal Military College. A Western Ontario cadet, the son of a member of Parliament, was charged with some irregularities, and the result was that he received rustication for four months. His father was here for several days, demanding full enquiry. He termed the trial held a farce and demanded fair play. He left Tuesday for Ottawa, and declared that he would demand an investigation by the Militia Department. His son, it is understood, accompanied him.

There were five cadets involved in the case, which involves hazing as well as some kind of alleged petty theft of the "swiping" nature. Col. Taylor, commandant of the college, was asked yesterday for a statement, but replied that he would not say anything at present, as his report was before the Minister of Militia. A despatch from Ottawa says that the case will come up before Parliament.

Caught In Mining Camp.

San Diego, Cal., Dec. 19.—A special despatch to The Tribune from Ensenada, says:

A man who was arrested in a mining camp about 100 miles back in the mountains, and now in jail here, awaiting identification, is supposed to be William F. Walker, formerly treasurer of the savings bank of New Britain, Conn., who is wanted to answer to a charge of embezzlement in that city. He was only prevented from committing suicide by the timely intervention of the officers in charge.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

is rich in the lung-healing virtues of the Norway Pine Tree, skilfully combined with Wild Cherry Bark and the soothing and expectorant properties of other pectoral herbs and barks. It is a pleasant, safe and effectual medicine for Coughs and Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Pain in the Chest, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Quinsy and all troubles of the Throat and Lungs.

A single dose will convince you that it will stop the cough, soothe the throat, and start you on the road to recovery.

Be sure and do not accept a substitute for Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and the price 25 cents.

Miss C. M. Woodcock, Kinmount, Ont., writes: "For some time I suffered from a lingering cough. I was afraid it would turn to consumption, and, as I had tried many remedies and found no cure I asked my father to get me a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. When I had taken that bottle I was so much better I got three more, and I am now completely cured."

An ordinary shoe after six months' wear

Is Longest Lived

Improvement Number Nineteen

Foot-rites are as tough and stubborn as mules. They'll resist as much strenuous, arduous wear and tear as a mule; keep on steadily resisting them and come up smiling every time. Why? Well, shoes are about the worst adulterated things on the market and the Foot-rite's not adulterated. It's a simple why.

Instead of newfandangle, brittle, sieve-like, made-over-night hemlock tanned sole leather, cut from the shoulders, neck and poorest places in the hide, Foot-rite soles are made of tough, close grained, wear-fighting, water-shedding, old-fashioned oak tanned cow-hide, cut from the "butt" or finest part of the skin.

Instead of uppers from among the thousand varieties of cheap and imitation calf that look good, but don't wear, Foot-rites are made of "Normal-Calf," a new and exclusively Foot-rite leather almost as soft and supple as the live calf's skin, and as unwearoutable as a pine knot.

Instead of cloth trimmings, Foot-rites have leather; instead of scrap insole, which won't hold stitches, Foot-rites are oak tanned stock. Instead of weak wood arch supports that don't support, Foot-rites have steel; instead of cloth and paste box-toes, Foot-rite Uncollapsable Box-Toes are made of stout, rebounding leather; instead of cotton thread, silk is used in Foot-rites; and instead of saving 75 cents per pair on cheap labor, Foot-rites are made by the most expensive and skilled artisans obtainable.

Then there are a lot of special devices about Foot-rite construction that help their stubbon wearability, such as Tough Heels, Wrinkless and Crackless Vamps, Unwarpable Soles, etc.

Not hard to understand why Foot-rites are the Longest Lived shoes, is it? If you want $4.00 or $5.00 worth of sound, intrinsic shoe value for $4.00 or $5.00 of your hard-gotten gold, call on the Foot-rite dealer. Every Pair Goodyear Welted—added comfort.

W. G. MORROW, Esq.
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $5000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $5000 from the issue of the Policy in 1907 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premiums that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. B. STRATTON.

New Rugby League Is To Be Controlled by The Y.M.C.A.

Will Not Require Outside Assistance According to Mr. Pyke of Toronto—London, Hamilton and Toronto Interested

IT IS A GOOD PROPOSAL

Secretary H. C. Wright of the local Y.M.C.A. has received a letter from Mr. Edward W. Pyke of Toronto in regard to the proposed Y.M.C.A. rugby league, in which he says, in part:—

"It is my intention to have this league run by the Y.M.C.A. men, and every team will have a man on the Board of Directors, so that it will not be a one-man league, like some others that I happen to know of; and every team will have its say, so that in case of a point to be decided, it will not be resting with one man to decide, as you know there has been a lot of trouble in the rugby ranks during the past few years, especially the O.R.F.U., which organization was pretty nearly on the rocks this season. I mentioned in my first notice in the daily papers that this would be run in connection with the O.R.F.U., but I think now that we can run it ourselves without any help from any person outside the Y.M.C.A. They run every other sport to their own satisfaction, and why not rugby? There is no reason why it could not be done. The idea is to boost rugby in Canada, to keep the game clean—which is not done at the present time, and which, I think, can only be done in the Y.M.C.A."

There is reason to believe that the local Y.M.C.A will take the matter up. The scheme, as proposed by Mr. Pyke, seems most feasible, and there is no doubt in the world of the success of such a league. It is said that Hamilton, London and Toronto West End have already gotten into line, and other teams are expected.

WALTER MILLER GOES TO BRANTFORD

Local Player Left Yesterday Morning for Telephone City

Walter Miller, the local hockey player, left yesterday for Brantford, where he will play on Roy Brown's professional team this season. Miller should prove a star at left wing this year with the seasoning he obtained with the Peterborough seniors last year, and will no doubt give a good account of himself in the Telephone City. The latter has gotten together a strong seven this year.

SPORTING NEWS AND VIEWS.....

The following communication has been handed in by a member of the tenabee Hockey Club:—

Last night Mr. Henry Nash and James McMartin of the Otonabee Hockey Club, came together in a practice race of one mile, the former winning out in six minutes. Mr. Nash has all the appearances of a good runner, and it is quite possible that he will demonstrate his ability in the Examiner race next year.

The Strathconas will practise tonight at 7 o'clock, and every man is expected to be out in uniform. There is only a week left in which to get into shape for the first game with the St. George's not any too much time to whip a new team into line, and unless the men get out to every practice it will take some time to get them working right.

THE PALMIST HAS BEEN RELEASED

A Subscription Was Raised Last Night To Pay Fine of Madam Ayre

As Madame Ayres slept in her cell at the jail last night a number of her sympathizers who were at the police court yesterday, led by Mr. Fred Newhall, went around collecting the necessary fifty dollars to pay the fine. The young men found no trouble in raising the required sum, as Madame Ayres is well known and popular in Peterborough.

Mr. Fred Newhall is a brother of P.C. Newhall and was summoned by the latter to appear against Madame Ayres as a witness.

The palmist is now free, and it is expected that she will soon leave the city.

Another Terrible Mine Explosion in Pennsylvania

(J. R. Heintz & Co. Special.)

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 19. —An explosion occurred at about 11.30 this morning in the Darr Mine of the Pittsburg Coal Company, at Jacob's Creek in Westmoreland County, about forty miles from this city on the B. & O.R.R. There were 400 men at work in the mine when the explosion occurred and none escaped. The force of the explosion closed up the entrance of the shaft and this together with smoke and flames issuing from the mine has prevented any rescuing parties from entering. The cause of the accident is not known.

PENSIONS FOR THE OLD EMPLOYEES

G.T.R. Will Inaugurate New Scheme On January 1st, 1908

Montreal, Dec. 19.—The G.T.R. will inaugurate on Jan 1st, 1908, a comprehensive pension scheme that will reach 35,000 employees. Under the terms of the pension every employee must retire at the age of 65 years. If an employee serves fifteen years or more he is entitled to an annuity of 1 per cent. of the average annual salary paid for ten continuous years. Thus if a man has served, say thirty years, receiving an average of $1,000 per year for any ten years, he would be entitled to 1 per cent. of $1,000 multiplied by thirty, making the pension $300 per annum. Further provision makes a minimum allowance of $200, irrespective of the rate of pay or service. Another feature is based on the highest average rate for any ten years of service.

There is a feeling of general satisfaction among the employees with the new scheme.

Three local men are known who it is believed will be affected by the pension. They are Messrs. Samuel Mallroy, Geo. Nottingham and Mr. S. Lond[illegible]

Will Mr. Harry Rush Be A Candidate For Mayor?

A Largely Signed Requisition Asks Him To Enter the Field at The Coming Municipal Elections

GIVE ANSWER IN FEW DAYS

Last evening a deputation of representative citizens waited upon Mr. Harry Rush to present him with a requisition, urging Mr. Rush to consent to be a candidate for the Mayoralty. The requisition was very largely signed, the signatures representing all classes of citizens interested in the good government of the city.

Mr. Rush, while appreciating the honour implied in so numerously and influentially signed a requisition, stated that he was not at the time prepared to give a definite reply. He said he would take the matter into consideration and give the deputation a definite reply in a few days, as to whether he would accede to so influential a request to accept the responsibility of becoming a Mayoralty candidate.

ENGINEER AND FIREMAN HAVE NARROW ESCAPE IN THE WRECK AT AUBURN

the engine and tender, loss of life would have resulted.

The wreck came with a startling suddenness to the engineer and fireman. Both were in the engine cab. The latter, David O'Brien, of Peterborough, was just in the act of lighting his pipe, but soon found himself being tossed about in a helpless condition. The pipe, of course, was lost.

Had Narrow Escapes

Had it not been for the timely action of the tender in getting beneath the latter would have turned completely over. In that event there would have been little hope of the engine crew escaping with their lives. Neither were injured beyond a couple of muscle bruises.

The engineer lost no time in shutting off steam when he found his charge going astray. The train was not travelling rapidly at the time, the fireman stated, as it had just slowed down for Auburn station, but it seemed to be the force of the various cars behind had attained that caused the engine to travel so far before it could cut itself loose from the rest of the train.

No Apparent Reason

Last night there was no apparent reason why the engine should perform such an unexpected stunt. The switch was found to be closed for a train coming down the main line, which was followed by all the cars.

The auxiliary under the direction of Train Master Irwin, had the track cleared at 11 o'clock last night. The morning train went to Lakefield as usual. This afternoon the cars were all cleared away at 2.30 with the exception to the engine. The broken box and coal cars were loaded by means of the cranes on flat cars. The workmen expected to have the engine out of the ditch also this afternoon. The engine was No. 391.

RESPONSIBILITY OF RATEPAYERS

St. Luke's Parish Magazine Believes That Improvement Might Be Made in Council Selection

WANT PUBLIC SPIRITED MEN

The municipal elections will soon call upon the ratepayers to give their attention to the personnel of the city council. Without wishing to enter into a discussion with regard to the council's work, one might say that some improvements might be made when the selection of a council is given to the citizens. On the whole the aldermen have manifested a great interest in the welfare of the city, and some of them have given real valuable services. But there has been lately manifested some narrow minded policy with regard to certain affairs, which proves that the originator is not worthy of holding an office which is in the gift of the people. If anyone allows personal feelings to interfere with the discharge of a public duty, such a one is not fit ever to be trusted with the discharge of public affairs.

The question of who is to occupy the civic chair as Mayor, ought to be seriously considered, and in doing so the custom of offering by acclamation a second term to the occupant of the chair should not seriously affect the discharge of a citizen's duty, nor should be acceded to for merely reasons of politeness. Real and valuable service, ability and sound judgment should alone be factors in the choice for the Chief Magistrate. Certainly the Mayor ought to be a property holder, a man of experience in years and in civic work, a man who will place the well-being of the city before anything else, and who will never allow personal affairs to hinder him from a fair and just discharge of his duties. That sort of a man ought to be the choice of the electors. Whether he be a Conservative or a Liberal should in no wise influence the electors.

It is not unlikely that the labour organizations of the city will make their choice of candidates for municipal honours, thereby calling the attention of the public to the interests they represent. No fair-minded citizen objects to all the interests of the community being represented in the municipal council, but we do expect that our interests will be represented by men of ability, standing and honour. Fair-minded, economical representatives with public spirit, are welcomed in public life by all classes of the community and it is to be hoped that when the nominations are made it will be found that the gentlemen offering themselves for election will be men who will command the full confidence and respect of the electors.

CADET RUSTICATED FOR THEFT

Boys Father Will Bring Matter Before Dominion Parliament

Kingston, Dec. 19. — During the past few weeks there has been a lively time at the Royal Military College here. One of the cadets, a son of an M. P., was charged with hazing, and petty theft, and as a result received rustication for four months.

The boy's father is indignant over the matter, and tried to get an explanation at the College, but failed; and he left with his son for Ottawa, where the matter will be brought up in Parliament.

Alex. Gordon, butcher, market arcade, is going to gladden the hearts of a couple of his customers on Christmas eve. He is giving a large doll, which is on exhibition in the window of his meat market to the person who names the doll, which has been given the name of a tiny young girl in the city, and this name deposited at the Examiner office, written, and enclosed in a sealed envelope. Every person will have an opportunity of putting in the name of this doll for every fifty cents' worth of meat or fowl bought at the shop. A second prize is being given for the person who estimates the closest to the weight of the turkey that is on exhibition in the store. The turkey will be weighed on Christmas eve by an Examiner reporter, and the estimates will not be looked at until after this has been done. Each person has an opportunity of putting in an estimate on the weight of this turkey with every fifty cents' worth purchased in the store.

THREE IN A FAMILY DIE SUDDENLY

Last One Drops Dead While Walking Along The Road

Tweed, Dec. 20.—(Special)— Little Martha Charles, of Denbigh, while walking along the road on Wednesday with her sister suddenly dropped to the ground, and before medical aid could be summoned, she was dead.

Martha, who was 13 years old, had been on a short visit to the home of her brother-in-law, Mr; Adam Gregg. She seemed to be in the best of health and started to walk the short distance to her father's farm, but before she had gone far the sudden stroke of death had been delivered.

She was a daughter of Mr. William M. Charles, and a most singular feature of the sad occurrence is that Martha is the third child from this family to meet death in this sudden manner. Only eleven months ago a little son, 11 years old dropped dead, while walking from the stable across the barnyard to the dwelling house.

JUMPED FROM TRAIN

Blind River Fire Chief Attempts Sensational Escape.

DIVED FROM OPEN WINDOW

Was on Way to Kingston Penitentiary to Serve Seven-Year Sentence—One Handcuff Was Removed — Fell Into Snow Drift—Escaped Serious Injury and Was Finally Recaptured Near the Tracks.

North Bay, Dec. 19.—George Raymond, ex-fire chief at Blind River, New Ontario, who is under a seven-year sentence for arson, took a desperate chance for liberty eight miles this side of North Bay yesterday. His daring effort failed and later he was taken to Kingston by Sheriff Stevenson and Jailor Hearst of Blind River.

As the train left North Bay, Raymond asked that his heavy shackels and handcuffs be removed and that he be taken to the lavatory. He did not return and a search developed the fact that he had leaped from a window while the car was running at a considerable rate.

"When we found that Raymond was gone," said the sheriff, "we stopped the train and went back. In the deep snow it was easy to find where the man had gone by his tracks, added to which he was bleeding profusely from cuts about his hands and face. Only the fact that he lit in a deep drift thrown up by the snow-plows beside the track saved him from death or serious injury. As it was, he was so weakened by his shaking up that we caught him before he had gone a mile from the track, despite the lead which he had.

"Another thing worked against him in his bid for liberty. He was making for some shanties, which he might have reached and concealed himself, but he stepped into a deep hole which the woodmen had dug for their refuse, and while he was floundering in this we overtook him."

WILL PROTECT THE JEWS.

New Governor of Odessa Issues Challenge to Reactionaries.

Odessa, Dec. 19.—Gen. Boufal, the new Governor-General of Odessa, issued his first proclamation yesterday. He ordered the police to interfere energetically whenever disorders occur, and if necessary to make use of their sabres to effect the arrest of disturbers of the peace, and he declares that all persons guilty of disorders will be sentenced to prison for three months and then expelled from the city. At the same time the Governor-General charges some foreign newspaper correspondents with misrepresenting the actual character of the recent street disorders in Odessa.

Continuing, the proclamation says it is most difficult to ascertain the names of the authors of anti-Jewish outrages, and he invites the political union of Russian people, which invariably is accused of these acts, to issue categorical explanations.

Gen. Boufal is the first Governor-General of this city who has dared publicly to challenge this influential reactionary organization.

NOT GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

New York, Dec. 19.—Alfred E. Smith, vice-president of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Co., was acquitted yesterday of a charge of manslaughter in the third degree, brought in connection with the wreck of the Brewster express at Woodlawn last February, in which 24 persons were killed.

Justice Kellogg held that it was humanely impossible for the defendant to have personal oversight over the road's entire trackage and that no criminal negligence on his part had been shown.

The accident occurred Feb. 16 on a sharp curve near Woodlawn road bridge. It was asserted that the train was being driven at an excessive speed by an engineer of insufficient experience. The prosecution claimed that Mr. Smith was responsible in permitting this.

Flagman Lost Nerve.

Fort William, Dec. 19.—An inquest will be held at Schreiber to-day.

There are two or three stories of the accident, but the one given most credit states that the foreman of the section gang sent a flagman to warn the engineer before he commenced repairing the track. The flagman, an Italian, was crossing a long trestle when he saw the approaching train. Losing his nerve he thought only of himself and hung on to the side of the trestle while the train thundered by to destruction.

G. T. R. Train Derailed.

Peterboro, Dec. 19.—The G. T. R. mixed train from Lakefield was partially derailed last night, just north of the city. The engine and three cars left the track and were badly damaged. Two passenger coaches on the rear remained on the track. No one was injured.

USEFUL LIFE ENDED

Hon. J. Israel Tarte Died Yesterday Afternoon.

CLOSE OF STRIKING CAREER

Suffered From Fatal Malady For Some Time—Not Able to Work for Months — Had Been Strong and Prominent Figure In Canadian Public Life For Many Years —Leaves a Large Family.

Montreal, Dec. 19.—Hon. J. Israel Tarte, ex-Minister of Public Works, died here yesterday, within one month of being 60 years of age.

In the death of the political editor of La Patrie newspaper, one of the most energetic journalists of French Canada disappears forever. While all realized that Mr. Tarte was a doomed man, few believed that the end was so very near, for it was only yesterday morning that Mgr. Bruchesi administered the last rites of the church in which he had been born and which he had always expressed the wish to die.

From early manhood, when Sir Hector Langevin brought the clever young notary to Quebec to fight Hon. Joseph Cauchon in the newspaper field, Mr. Tarte was a marked man in political and journalistic life.

As editor of Le Canadien, he was one of the foremost fighters of the French Conservative party, and, strange as it may seem to those who have known Mr. Tarte during the past 20 years, he belonged in those early years to the so-called ultramontane school of religious and political thought and was looked upon by the clerical party as the champion of the militant church.

HON. JOSEPH ISRAEL TARTE.

Mr. Tarte was for many years a conspicuous and somewhat picturesque personality in Canadian political life, but because of his retirement from the Laurier Ministry in 1903 he had been since that time very much out of the public view. This had been owing, in part, to chronic invalidism, varied by acute attacks of disease by which his life had been several times put in extreme peril.

The son of a habitant farmer, he was educated for the Bar, and, like many other young French-Canadians, he mingled journalism with the practice of the law. As his journalistic aptitudes made his services appear valuable to the Conservative managers of Quebec, they purchased Le Canadien and put it under his editorial control. After serving four years as a member of the Quebec Legislative Assembly, he entered the House of Commons in 1891 as member for Montmorency, with the avowed purpose of forcing an inquiry into certain charges of corruption that had been made against Sir Hector Langevin and Thomas McGreevy, M. P., of whom the former resigned from the Thompson Ministry, and the latter was expelled from the House. When the Conservatives were defeated at the general election of 1896 he entered the Laurier Cabinet as Minister of Public Works, and was during that time exceptionally influential in securing for the new administration the support of the Province of Quebec.

General Regret at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Dec. 19.—General regret is expressed at the death of Hon. Mr. Tarte. No expression was given by any Minister, but Mr. Borden spoke as follows regarding the passing of the former Minister:

"The news of the death of Hon. J. I. Tarte comes to me as a great surprise, for I had not heard that he was seriously ill." His public career was long and eventful, and no person who sat with him in Parliament could doubt his great ability, courage, resourcefulness and breadth of view. He realized to the full the great resources of this country and its wonderful possibilities, and he was always inspired with an intense earnestness to accomplish the full development of those resources and the fulfilment of this country's great destiny.

"He was a wonderfully magnetic speaker, and perhaps never had a superior in Parliament in ability to answer rapidly and effectively criticism of the Department, and especially of his estimates. His death, while little past the prime of manhood, is deeply regretted."

Depart Toronto Bulgarians.

Ottawa, Dec. 19.—The deportation of sixteen of the needy Bulgarians now in Toronto has been arranged for by the Immigration Department.

SHOT IN STREET ROW.

Italian In Montreal Fired on Several Assailants.

Montreal, Dec. 19.—Knives, razors, and revolvers were used in a row on St. Antoine street, with the result that three men are in the General Hospital suffering from bullet wounds.

Two of the victims did not participate in the fight, but were shot by stray bullets as they were walking on the street. Another pedestrian had a narrow escape, a bullet passing through his overcoat.

One arrest was made, an Italian, who was followed to a grocery store by a trail of blood for 50 yards, in the snow. He was suffering from two knife wounds in the left side when the police found him. This man told the police that he was attacked by three countrymen who wanted his money, and in the scuffle that followed among them, revolvers and stilettoes were used, but he was the only one who was wounded.

The pedestrians wounded were Irving B. Everett of Lachine, shot in the leg; Frank Bell, living at the Brewery Mission, shot in the arm, and John Ferguson of Magdalen street, shot in leg.

SHOWED WHITE FEATHER.

Charge Made Against Defender of Port Arthur at Court-Martial.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 19.—The trial of Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel for the surrender of Port Arthur to the Japanese was continued in this city yesterday, and in the course of the proceedings Gen. Stoessel was accused of having shown the white feather under fire on two different occasions. This accusation was made by Col. Gurko, who was on the stand as a witness.

The charge was made while the court-martial was investigating the circumstances of Gen. Kuropatkin's order, dated June 18, 1904, in which Gen. Stoessel was told to turn over the command of the fortress to Gen. Smirnoff and join the Manchurian army.

Gen. Stoessel disregarded this order, and it was repeated three times. He suppressed the copy of the order addressed to Gen. Smirnoff and finally was allowed to remain at Port Arthur.

$15,000 WORTH OF LOOT.

Gang of Daylight Robbers Arrested In New York.

New York, Dec. 19.—Four young men and women suspected of numerous daylight burglaries, were arrested yesterday. Over $15,000 worth of jewelry, laces and other valuable wearing apparel found in their apartment on West 48th street, was confiscated by the police.

According to the authorities, the men, who gave the names of David Cillman and George Carr, entered the rear windows of apartment houses throughout the city by means of ropes strung from the roofs. They were worked at meal time, it is stated, and are generally mistaken for window cleaners. The men, with their wives, were arraigned in the Tombs court on charges of robbery and were held without bail.

Hotelkeeper Blamed.

Ridgetown, Dec. 19.—That Duncan Johnson died in his buggy from suffocation was the verdict of the coroner's jury yesterday. The jury also finds that Patrick Collins, hotelkeeper at Muirkirk, and Roy Green, the latter having rode with deceased, were guilty of carelessness. Dr. Lake, who performed the post-mortem, found that Johnson's face had been muffled by his overcoat while intoxicated, and that he had died from suffocation.

Crown Attorney Smith of Chatham argued that the hotelkeeper should not have allowed the man to start home in such a condition of intoxication.

Christmas Money on the Sea.

New York, Dec. 19.—The White Star liner Oceanic, the last steamer to leave this port that will land passengers in England before Christmas, steamed for Southampton Tuesday with the greatest bulk of eastbound Christmas mail that has ever been shipped from New York in one bottom.

Stowed away in her were 4,143 mail sacks, worth $5,107, postal orders representing a cash value of $1,193,443.

Two Months In Jail.

Peterboro, Dec. 19.—Charles Millen, who broke into the residence of T. Brightman about a week ago and stole $50 worth of jewelry, was yesterday morning given two months in jail.

Prof. Sheppard, a palmist, was arrested on the charge of pursuing an illicit traffic. The charge of seduction is also preferred against him.

To Suffer From Headaches Makes Life Miserable. . .

It takes a person that has had and is subject to headaches to describe the suffering which attends them.

The majority of cases are caused by constipation and dyspepsia. The dull throbbings, the intense pain, sometimes in one part, sometimes in another, and then over the whole head, varying in its severity by the cause which brings it on, surely indicates that there is something the matter with the stomach or bowels. To the fact that Burdock Blood Bitters reaches every part of the system is due its success in relieving and permanently curing headache. It has proven a specific for the malady in all its forms.

Mr. Wm. R. Gilchrist, New Mills, N.B., writes: "I was troubled for years with constipation and headaches, but after using four bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters I am completely cured."

Mr. John T. Kidner, Red Deer, Alta., writes: "I was troubled for several years with headache. I tried a number of remedies but they did me no good. I tried a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and it cured me completely."

An Invitation to Japan.

Tokio, Dec. 19.—The Fiji Shimpo, an independent paper, which has a wide circulation in intellectual and business circles, editorially says:

"This is a noteworthy naval undertaking. We do not entertain the idea for even a minute, however, that the purpose of the visit is to threaten Japan. Should the American fleet visit these shores, it will be given a hearty reception, worthy of the life-long friendship between Japan and the United States."

Everybody Was Satisfied.

London, Dec. 19.—(C. A. P.)—The report of the unemployed committee which recently visited Canada, testifies to the kind-heartedness of Canadians towards emigrants who make good. It also refers to the lack of houses. Of a total of 8,000, only 12 were deported and none of the remainder wished to return.

A Miracle.

Nancy, France, Dec. 19.—A miracle is reported to have occurred in the village church at Brin. On two Sundays in succession during the services, on the priest placing the host in the monstrance the image of a wonderfully beautiful youth was apparent on the water.

Health of Canadian Women

A Subject Much Discussed At Women's Clubs—The Future of a Country Depends on the Health of Its Women.

At the New York State Assembly of Mothers a prominent New York doctor told the 500 women present that healthy women were so rare as to be almost extinct.

This seems to be a sweeping statement of the condition of women. Yet how many do you know who are perfectly well and do not have some trouble arising from a derangement of the female organism which manifests itself in headaches, backaches, nervousness, that bearing-down feeling, painful or irregular periods, pelvic catarrh, displacement of the female organs, indigestion or sleeplessness? There is a tried and true remedy for all these ailments. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored more Canadian women to health than all other remedies in the world. It regulates, strengthens and cures diseases of the female organism as nothing else can. For thirty years it has been curing the worst forms of female complaints.

Such testimony as the following should be convincing.

Mrs. Anna McKay of 326 Spadina Avenue, Toronto, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Being a mother of five children, I had had experience with the general troubles of my sex. I was lacerated when one of my children was born, and from that hour I date all of my afflictions. I found that within a few months my health was impaired, I had female weakness and serious inflammation. I became weak and dizzy, but kept on my feet, dragging through my work without life or pleasure. A neighbor who had been helped by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound insisted that I take at least one bottle. I did so and felt so much better that I kept on the treatment and it made me a strong and well woman. The few dollars I spent for the medicine cannot begin to pay what it was worth to me."

Miss Helena McKinnon of Sand Bay, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I consider Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the best medicine in the world for a woman sick and weak from exhaustion, irregularities and overwork. I have found from personal experience that it is all and more than it is recommended to be. I only wish that every sick woman would try it, for it cured me of suppressed periods and irregularity, and has cured many of my friends of the same difficulty, in fact all who have used it have nothing but good to say of its efficacy. Please accept a grateful woman's thanks for all it has accomplished in my case."

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful periods, weakness, pelvic catarrh, displacements, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, bloating, (or flatulency), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues, and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. No other medicine in the world has received such unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women. Her advice and medicine have restored thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

All In the Family.

By LILLIE WIEDEEN.

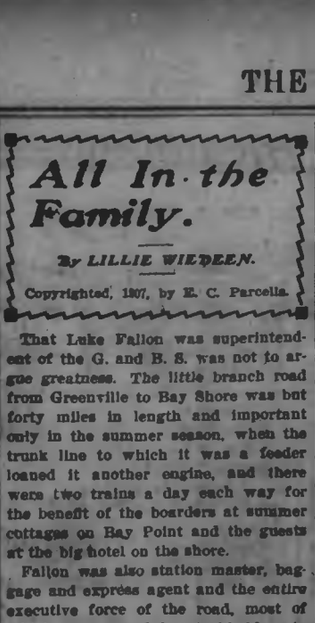
Copyrighted, 1907, by E. C. Parcells.

That Luke Fallon was superintendent of the G. and B. S. was not to argue greatness. The little branch road from Greenville to Bay Shore was but forty miles in length and important only in the summer season, when the trunk line to which it was a feeder loaned it another engine, and there were two trains a day each way for the benefit of the boarders at summer cottages on Bay Point and the guests at the big hotel on the shore.

Fallon was also station master, baggage and express agent and the entire executive force of the road, most of which was owned by stockholders in the L. and V., the trunk line. Sadie Fallon was ticket agent and train dispatcher, and Martin Redway was not only engineer of the one locomotive, but was master mechanic, superintendent of rolling stock and most of the things that Fallon was not. Almost every one was more than one officer on the G. and B. S. with the exception of Willie Farrell, who was station agent at Farrell's. He was just station agent of the little flag stop, the "station" being a well mown patch of grass beside the track in summer and a well shoveled place in the snow in the winter season. The lawn mower and the snow shovel were Willie's only tools of trade, but he bore his dignity as seriously as did those who held a multiplicity of offices. Most of the employees of the road made up in dignity what they lacked in importance.

Then came the strike. Redway lounged into the little station at the shore end of the run, while his fireman took the engine down to the one stall roundhouse. Fallon looked up at his approach.

"What's the news down to Greenville?" he demanded as he reached out



"IT'S ALL RIGHT, MART!" SHE CARLLED.

"Nothing much," said Redway indolently. "I s'pose you heard that there was a big strike out west?"

"I was informed of that fact," said Fallon, with dignity. "There will be no trouble this side of Chicago."

"I was calculating to get out that way this fall," said Redway, with an assumption of carelessness that his twitching lips belied. "Sadie and I was talking it over. She wants to see the Yellowstone park on her wedding trip."

"Sadie and you?" retorted Fallon. "And since when have you and Sadie had it all fixed to get married? 'Pears to me that her pa ought to have something to say about it."

"This is where you say," explained Redway. "We fixed it up last night, but I didn't have time to talk to you this morning. The engine needed some fixin' up."

"Well, I say 'No!'" was the decided response. "I guess Sadie can do better than an engineer when she wants to get married."

"I'm master mechanic, too," reminded Redway hopefully.

"Sadie can do better," repeated Fallon as he rose to put some papers in the safe. "Don't let me hear any more of this."

Redway sat in silence until the safe was locked and the lights put out; then he followed Fallon out on the platform. "Better think it over," he advised. "I'll ask you again in the morning."

Not even Sadie realized how proud her father was of his position as superintendent even of such an unimportant road as the G. and B. S. That the daughter of the superintendent should be asked to wed a common engineer was a thing not to be heard of. He had no talk with Sadie on the matter, but as he lay in bed thinking it over his anger grew, and he became more firm in his determination not to give his consent.

He was at the station early in the morning, affecting not to notice how red Sadie's eyes were from weeping. As soon as Redway stuck his head into the general office Fallon began:

"You needn't come in," he rasped out. "My mind ain't any different from what it was last night."

Redway grinned and withdrew, shutting the door. Fallon fidgeted at the desk, making a feeble pretense of working, but when the hands of the clock drew around to 8 and the engine had not puffed down the track to couple to the train Fallon went out on the platform.

Redway was sitting on the baggage truck puffing at his cigar. Several passengers paced the platform, and both of the day coaches were about half filled.

"Where's the engine?" demanded Fallon. Redway moved his cigar that he might grin the broader.

"I'm on a strike," he explained. "The engine's in the house."

"Strike!" shouted Fallon. "What you strikin' about? You had a raise last spring!"

"It's not about money," explained the engineer. "I saw Sadie last night, and she says she won't marry me until you say she can. I'm on strike until you give the 'go ahead' order."

Fallon glared impotently. There was no one else in town who could run an engine except Sim Dugan, who fired for Redway. Sim was sitting on the truck by his boss and only smiled pleasantly when Fallon offered him double and even triple pay to take the train out. Some of the passengers crowded about to watch the fun, and in the end the superintendent beat a retreat to his office, where presently he wired to Greenville for help.

But Greenville was unsympathetic. Something of Redway's plan the office knew, and Fallon's pomposness had not made friends for him. Greenville declared flatly that they could spare neither engine nor engineer, and when the division headquarters was appealed to Fallon was told to settle the matter himself. In theory the G. and B. S. was an independent road, with its own corporate entity, and headquarters was not interested in its affairs. Several heavy wrecks had filled the repair shops with locomotives, and there were not enough to properly equip the division, to say nothing of loaning one to so unimportant a branch line.

In desperation Fallon wired the main offices of the L. and V., and their reply was even more curt. The western strike was growing worse, and the message suggested that if Fallon could not manage without the assistance of the entire system a strike of one engineer he had better resign and let the office boy, if he had one, take charge.

All this took time, and the station was filled with the intending travelers, who were anxious to start upon their journey. The cause of the strike had been whispered about, and the passengers took turns coming to the general office, which was also the baggage room, and demanding that the strike be broken and communication restored.

Fallon grew desperate. Hardy, one of the heaviest stockholders of the L. and V., had been born in Bay Side, and his summer cottage over on the point was always open to his old acquaintances, when the owner was there. If the story should reach Hardy through complaint on the part of one of the town people, there might be trouble. With a gesture of despair he opened the door and called Sadie into consultation.

"See if you can't fix things up," he pleaded. "Don't give in unless you have to, but as a last resort—well, I suppose I'll have to let you marry him."

"I told you as a last resort," groaned Fallon. "You might have talked him out of the strike."

"Small chance of that," laughed the girl as from the roadhouse came the puff of the exhaust. "As official strike breaker of the road I saw long ago that only complete surrender would be effective."

"Strike breaker!" grunted Fallon.

"There would have been another strike in the morning," she explained. "The telegraph department and the train dispatcher were going out in sympathy."

"It's darned little sympathy you have," growled Fallon. "What do you suppose Hardy will say if he hears of this?"

"He promised me a wedding present if I broke the strike," explained the girl calmly. "He wired this morning to know what the trouble was, and I told him."

For a moment Fallon pondered the situation, then he rose to his feet, with a sigh.

"There won't be any more strikes," he said. "It's all in the family now."

Why She Sang the Hymn.

A well known bishop relates that while on a recent visit to the south he was in a small country town where, owing to the scarcity of good servants, most of the ladies preferred to do their own work. He was awakened quite early by the tones of a soprano voice singing "Nearer, My God, to Thee." As the bishop lay in bed he meditated upon the piety which enabled his hostess to go about her task early in the morning singing such a noble hymn. At breakfast he spoke to her about it and told her how pleased he was.

"Oh, law," she replied, "that's the hymn I boil the eggs by—three verses for soft and five for hard."—Judge's Library.

DECAY OF STONE.

Even the Densest Siliceous Rocks Succumb to Time.

Whoever expects to find a stone that will stand from century to century, deriding alike the frigid rains and scorching solar rays, without need of reparation will indeed search for "the philosopher's stone." There is scarcely a substance which after having been exposed to the action of the atmosphere for a considerable time does not exhibit proofs of weathering. It may even be observed on the most densely compacted siliceous rocks. The fullest extent of this inquiry can only be to elucidate relative duration and comparative labor of appropriation to useful or ornamental purposes.

By examining the various productions of nature we find evident proofs of her industry in all ages. Changes have been going on from the remotest antiquity to the present time on every substance that comes within our observation. All the actual combinations of matter have had a former existence in some other state. Nothing exists in nature but what is likely to change its condition and manner of being. No material is so durable as always to retain its present appearance, for the most solid and compact bodies have not such a degree of impenetrability and so close a union of the parts which compose them as to be exempted from ultimate dissolution.

Even in the great globe which we inhabit nothing is more evident to geologists than a perpetual series of alterations. There can be discovered no vestige of a beginning, no prospect of an end. In some bodies these changes are not so frequent and remarkable as in others, though equally certain at a more distant period. The venerable remains of Egyptian splendor, many of them executed in the hardest granite between 3,000 and 4,000 years since, exhibit large portions of exfoliation and gradual decay, thereby following the primitive, immutable and universal order of causes and effects—namely, that all objects possess the materials of which they are composed only for a limited time, during which some powerful agent effects their decomposition and sets the elementary particles at liberty again to form other equally perfect combinations. Thus by divine and unerring laws order is restored amidst apparent confusion.—Exchange.

EAST INDIAN SERVANTS.

An Amusing Complication Over a Dose of Medicine.

The old gray bearded butler announced at luncheon one day that the dishwasher was ill with fever, but that if I would give him some medicine he would soon be able to resume his work. I happened to have some by me, but the matter was urgent, clean dishes being important.

"Can he go to the chemist's, do you think, for some physic if I give him a letter?" I asked. "I don't know what to write for."

"Oh, yes," he said; "he is quite able to go that short distance."

I thought that was much the best way, and then the chemist could give him what was proper. So I wrote: "Please give the bearer a dose of medicine. He says he has fever."

I forgot to inquire about him till two days after.

"How is the dishwasher?" I said.

"He is much better, your honor."

"Ah, then he took the physic?"

"No, your highness. The bazaar cooly took the physic."

"The bazaar cooly!" I exclaimed. "What for?"

"The dishwasher said: 'Cooly goes errands. He may fetch me the physic.' So the cooly took the letter. Shop master prepared physic, then told bazaar cooly to drink it. Cooly said: 'Not for me is the medicine, but for another man. I take it to him.' 'Not so,' said the shop master. 'The talleem has written, "Give to bearer," and she means you must drink it here.' Many times the cooly said he was not the man, but they would not listen, and they made him drink it."—Exchange.

Tree.

"It isn't true to it," cried Rollo as he had finished reading "The Pied Piper of Hamelin"—"it isn't true that he could play on his pipe so that the rats would go off and drown themselves."

"Well," replied Rollo's father, "I don't know about that. I think it may be true. Your Uncle George can play the flute so that it will scare a cow into a river and drive all the dogs in the neighborhood crazy. Yes, I should say the poem is true."—London Answers.

The Obsolescent Honeymoon.

Honeymoons are going out of fashion and will probably eventually disappear. At present they are often shortened to four or five days or even a paltry week end. Marriage is getting to be looked upon in a more matter of fact way, and it is no doubt true that the romantic girl should not expect absolutely unspeakable things of wedded bliss.—London Bystander.

A Good Excuse.

"Now, then," demanded Luschmann's wife the next morning, "what's your excuse for coming home in that condition last night?"

"Well, to tell you the truth, m' dear," he replied, "none of the hotels would take me in."

Of High Degree.

"What kind of a dog have you got there, my boy?"

"Dat's a mouse hound, mister."—Judge.

Polishing Glassware.

You have heard of many valuable ways to clean glassware and give to the pieces a desirable brilliancy, yet here is a method which is a "secret" and certain to give the best results. Wash the glass pieces and drain until dry, then coat each piece with a mixture of half water and ammonia. When dry brush the pieces with a soft bristle brush. Be sure and use only the bristle brush or the polish will not appear. This is excellent for glassware of any kind and makes old pieces look like new.

Tongue Tied Talkers.

How many educated people there are who have no more than a peasant's vocabulary. They do not use the words that a peasant uses, but they do not improve upon them. They still go on saying, "How amusing!" "How lovely!" "How nice!" to the end of the chapter. Nobody can be interesting who is always working a limited vocabulary.

Prudent.

"Take dinner with us tomorrow, count."

"Could you not make it breakfast? I have numerous invitations to dinner each week, but I cannot live on more than a day."

HAS PLUMB-LINE LEVEL HEEL AND SOLE

Improvement Number Eleven

How unlevel soles stoop the back — How unlevel soles cause bow-legs — How unlevel soles cause knock-knees — Foot-rites make legs straight from hip to toe

A locomotive that bumps along on an unlevel track soon bumps into deformity and loses its power to pace the steel highway with ease, style and fleetness.

A man who treads an unlevel heel and sole is jolting along on a track that's certain to stoop his shoulders, swell his knees and ankles and bend them in or out, producing knock-knees or bow-legs and feeble ankles. (See first three illustrations.)

The unevenness of the heel and sole bends the shoulders forward; stretches the muscles and wears off the knee and ankle bearings until they cause inward or outward inclination of the legs and convert the smooth, careless, athletic gait of youth into a slouchy, awkward, hesitating stumble.

Foot-rites are built with a Plumb-Line Level Heel and Sole—level as a plumb-line from rear of heel to tip of toe and just as level from side to side. Unless hopelessly deformed, the Foot-rite Plumb-Line Level Heel and Sole will keep the back erect and line up the legs as straight as a straight edge from hip to toe, as per fourth illustration above.

There never was a successful runner, long walker, graceful carriage, nor smart hanging pair of trousers without straight legs.

The Foot-rite dealer is a clever shoe man. He'll show you the Foot-rite Plumb-Line Level Heel and Sole which gives erect backs, straight legs, ease of carriage, fleetness of foot and won't tire you.

Anywhere in America, Canada or Great Britain—$4.00 and $5.00. Every pair Goodyear Welt Sewn.

The Following Letter Speaks For Itself

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. Morrow, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $2000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $2000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up fifth Policy considerably more than double the amount of my original policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

Romance of Princess Hohenberg.

Her Morganatic Marriage to Francis Ferdinand, Heir to the Austro-Hungarian Thrones.

COLD is the breast in which no love of romance lives, and when the romance concerns royalty all the world is ready to read. Since David's wooing of Bathsheba the love affairs of kings have been sung to the great delight of the populace, and when a monarch stoops, like Cophetua to the beggar maid, to lay his heart at a subject's feet novelists rejoice and sentimental youths and maids weep tears of gladness. So when it was announced some years ago that the Archduke Francis Ferdinand of Austria, heir to the oldest and proudest throne in Europe, had fallen in love with a beautiful Bohemian, in whose blood no royal corpuscles ran and whose highest title was that of countess, the spirit of romance took on new life, and his decision to wed the lady of his choice was applauded far and wide. In his own country, however, the applause was somewhat faint, for the archduke was not overpopular there, and in no country in the world, outside of India perhaps, is the idea of caste more fixed. For a prince of the blood to make a simple countess his wife was regarded as something in the line of sacrilege. It would have been all right, of course, for the prince to love his sweetheart under the rose, but to marry her—aristocratic Austria was aghast! But Francis Ferdinand was not of the type of certain others of his house. What he did he did openly. He had enough of the Hapsburg obstinacy to withstand even the emperor in this, and so he married Sophie Chotek. It was said that he had been chosen as the husband of Crown Prince Rudolph's widow, and his children were to sit upon the throne of Austria-Hungary after he was gone. No son of a woman not of imperial or royal line could sit upon that throne, and, wedding Sophie Chotek, Prince Ferdinand had to take a solemn oath renouncing for his descendants all claims to imperial power. When he passes away the succession goes from his family. When one remembers how Napoleon divorced Josephine that he might obtain through another marriage a son to succeed him one may realize what Francis Ferdinand sacrificed for love.

PRINCESS HOHENBERG AND TWO OF HER CHILDREN.

Sophie Chotek, the widow of an Austrian nobleman and daughter of a rich Bohemian, was lady in waiting to the widowed Crown Princess Stephanie when Ferdinand first met her. It was a case of love at first sight. Sophie was one of the most beautiful women at court. Their first encounter took place at Abbazia, where Stephanie was then staying and whither the archduke had come to make a few days' visit. He remained for weeks. It was at the time supposed that he was enamored of his hostess, for a marriage between him and Rudolph's widow had been talked about and would have fitted in well with the plans of the emperor. But when it was discovered that the princess' beautiful maid of honor was the real magnet that held Francis Ferdinand at Abbazia there was consternation in the court. The emperor sent for the archduke and urged him to form an alliance with some royal house, but the prince was obdurate. He declared his determination to wed the Countess Chotek. "Can it be that you intend to renounce your claim to the throne?" the emperor asked in astonishment and anger.

"Not at all," replied his nephew. "I am simply taking your advice. I heard you say once that in choosing a wife an emperor should pay no attention to politics, but follow only the impulses of his own heart."

But the emperor evidently did not intend that his nephew should obey his preachments so implicitly, for he sent him on a tour of the world to cure his infatuation. But absence only made his heart grow fonder, and he came back as obstinate as ever.

The emperor continued his opposition to the marriage and was backed up by all the imperial family, but opposition was fruitless. Francis Joseph had to give in, and, having renounced the rights of his posterity to succeed him on the throne, the prince and his countess were married July 1, 1900. The marriage ceremony was simple, but the ceremony of renunciation which preceded it was not. In the presence of the emperor, the archdukes, ministers and state officials Francis Ferdinand swore solemnly that neither he nor his wife, the Countess Chotek, would ever regard their marriage as other than a morganatic alliance and that, so far as the succession was concerned, their children would be illegitimate.

After the marriage the emperor relented to the extent of advancing the archduke's bride to the dignity of a princess, giving her the title Princess Hohenberg. The marriage has disappointed all the pessimists who predicted a disastrous result of what they considered a misalliance, for the archduke and his morganatic wife have lived together in peace and concord and have three beautiful children, to whom they are as devoted as they are to each other. Not a breath of scandal has touched either the duke or the Princess Hohenberg, and their conduct might well serve as an example to other archdukes who have adhered more closely to the traditions of the Hapsburgs.

The Princess Hohenberg's goodness and her husband's modest simplicity of disposition and habits have done much to overcome the unpopularity engendered by their unconventional alliance and the slanders which shrouded Francis Ferdinand's bachelorhood. It was to be expected that the princess would be accused of harboring the ambition of seeing her son upon the throne in spite of her husband's solemn oath and the prohibition of the pragmatic sanction, which forbids to unroyal birth the crown of Hungary, and hence the Austrian diadem if the two countries remain united. There seems to be no reason, however, to believe that Francis Ferdinand will not respect his promise, and fear of future trouble over the succession is fast dying out.

An interesting story, probably apocryphal, is told of the manner in which the love of Francis Ferdinand for Sophie Chotek first became known. The archduke had been wooing the countess in secret for some time.

One day a servant brought to the Archduchess Isabella a slender silver chain, to which were attached a number of trinkets the Archduke Ferdinand carried in his pocket. That morning Francis Ferdinand had left the palace of the archduchess at an early hour, having been summoned to his place, Eckartsau, on the Danube. By some oversight the valet had left the bunch of pocket trinkets half concealed under the lace covering of a toilet table.

The archduchess did not pay much attention to the trinkets until she saw among them an odd little gold medallion. She could understand the other trinkets—the knife, match safe, pencil, etc.—but the medallion stirred her curiosity. She examined it closely, and when opened it revealed a lock of brown hair. In lifting out the hair to hold it to the light her finger touched a tiny hidden spring, which brought into view an exquisitely painted miniature of the Countess Sophie Chotek.

The cat was out of the bag then, and it wasn't long before the whole court knew of the archduke's love affair.

Francis Ferdinand is not the only Austrian of princely rank who has loved outside his circle, though his is the most conspicuous romance. Stephanie, widow of Crown Prince Rudolph, whom Ferdinand was expected to wed, followed his example and married a count, by which act she forfeited an income of $130,000 a year and lost the custody of her only child. It was love of the Baroness Vetsera that cost Crown Prince Rudolph his life. The Hapsburg history is full of romance, some of it sinister, little of it happy. Francis Ferdinand is one of the few for whom the course of true love, while far from smooth, has not been crooked.

LORD KELVIN DEAD

Was One of the Century's Foremost Scientists.

TITLE NOW PASSES AWAY

His Discoveries Revolutionized Modern Methods of Living — Tireless Student to Time of Last Illness —Professor at Glasgow University For Sixty Years—Invented Deep Sea Instruments.

Glasgow, Dec. 18.—Lord Kelvin, the noted scientist, died yesterday.

Lord Kelvin, whose wife only recently recovered from a dangerous illness, suffered from a chill a fortnight ago. On Wednesday last serious complications developed, with but an occasional rally. Hope for his recovery was then abandoned. He lost consciousness in the afternoon and passed away peacefully.

Until the time of his fatal seizure Lord Kelvin preserved remarkable vigor of body and mind. He leaves no heir and his title becomes extinct. His first wife, married in 1852, was Margaret, daughter of Walter Crum of Thornlie Bank. She died in 1870. In 1873 he married Frances, daughter of Charles E. Blandy of Madeira.

THE LATE LORD KELVIN.

The newspapers pay him the highest tribute as the foremost scientist of the age, comparable with Newton and Faraday.

William Thomson, first Lord Kelvin, was born at Belfast, Ireland, June 26, 1824. He was a celebrated mathematician and physicist, and occupied the chair of natural philosophy in Glasgow University from 1846 to 1899. He was knighted in 1866, and was created Baron Kelvin in 1892.

In the domains of heat, electricity and magnetism, he was one of the great investigators of the century. He invented a number of instruments used in navigation and deep sea exploration, and took a prominent part in the laying of the first submarine cables in the Atlantic.

CHINESE PREFER PIRATES.

Denounce British Patrol of West River —Threaten a Boycott.

Canton, China, Dec. 18.—At a Chinese mass meeting held here yesterday, the "high-handed overhauling" of suspected launches and junks on the West River by British warships, was denounced. Great Britain is patroling the West River with a fleet of about ten gunboats in an effort to put a stop to piracy. The meeting further passed a resolution to declare a boycott upon the British manufacturers, and to inaugurate a strike among the Chinese in the employment of Englishmen if the British flotilla is not withdrawn from the river.

Japan to Retrench.

Tokio, Dec. 18.—The financial program is one of retrenchment and involves a reduction in the expenses of the army and navy for the next six years, whereby the Government will save $200,000,000. It also means the postponement of certain Government undertakings.

Members of the Opposition, supported by some of the newspapers, are preparing for a vigorous fight against it in the Diet.

Marquis Ito is preparing a land law for Korea, which will open Korean lands to all foreigners.

False Teeth Saved Him.

Port Arthur, Dec. 18.—With a bullet from a 38-calibre revolver lodged somewhere in his head, having been fired with the intention of committing suicide, William Sinclair is able to talk and walk around, complaining only of a slight stiffness of the neck.

Sinclair is to appear to-day to answer to a charge of theft from the C. P. R. warehouse, and he attempted suicide on Sunday by putting the muzzle of the revolver in his mouth and discharging it.

It is believed a plate of a false set of upper teeth saved him from death.

Warsaw, Russian Poland, Dec. 18.—Sixteen hundred Polish schools have been closed in consequence of an order issued by Gen. Skallon, suspending the Polish School Association. The funds of the association, $150,000, have been sent abroad to avoid confiscation.

THREE RULES

Eat well, dress well, live well. If you don't do all of these three you will be sick. If your kidneys, liver, stomach or blood are out of order you have broken one of these rules. A simple remedy for any of these ailments is the old time sweet spirits of nitre, syrup of rhubarb, and compound vimcas. Mix these in the following proportions: one ounce sweet spirits of nitre, four ounces syrup of rhubarb, and one ounce compound vimcas. Dose, a dessertspoonful in a little water after meals and at bedtime. A few doses will effect a cure. Observe the above rules, and further attacks should not occur.

END OF AN ELOPEMENT.

English Heiress to Be Deported— Young Man Under Arrest.

New York, Dec. 18.—Miss Grace W. Lawrence, the young English girl whose lover, Henry Parrott, was arrested on their arrival here, Sunday, on the Lucania, is at Ellis Island in a gloomy state of mind. She does not mind staying on the island, she says, nearly so much as being separated from her lover, who in the meanwhile is resting in the Tombs. He and she were booked on the Lucania as "Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Parrott," but they did not have time, they say, to be married in Liverpool before the Lucania sailed.

Miss Lawrence declares she is worth at least $30,000, but has not the "faintest idea" how much more. She expects to have a large amount in her own name within four years, she says. Commissioner Watchorn, when he found from what station in life she came, had her removed from the ordinary detention room on Ellis Island and placed in the care of a matron.

She will probably be sent back on the Lucania, which sails next Saturday.

Parrott was arraigned before United States Commissioner Alexander Monday afternoon. He was charged with the taking of an automobile, valued at $1,250, from Mansel T. Fletcher of London. The young man calmly admitted he was the person named in the warrant, and volunteered to return to England without the formality of extradition proceedings.

MUST TAKE THEIR WORD.

Japs Refuse to Alter Treaty — Give Lemieux Verbal Assurance.

Tokio, Dec. 18.—Rudolphe Lemieux, Canadian Postmaster-General and Minister of Labor, was tendered a farewell banquet Monday night, which was attended by 200 leading citizens and officials, including Sir Claude MacDonald, the British ambassador. Minister Lemieux proposed the health of the Emperor of Japan, and Baron Kanaka of the Imperial household proposed a toast to the King of England. No speeches were made.

Minister Lemieux will receive the assurance that Japan will limit emigration to British Columbia, but will not change the treaty. A memorandum to be given him includes the program for the future, but is not intended as a formal note. He has been informed by the Japanese Foreign Office that Canada will get exactly the same concessions as already have been granted to the United States.

Through the British ambassador he asked for a written understanding, but this was positively declined.

Arrested Telephone Manager.

Wingham, Dec. 18.—P. M. Tansley, local manager of the Bell Telephone Co., was arrested yesterday charged with the embezzlement of about $500 of the company's funds.

He has been here for six years, had worked up a good business and was highly thought of. The case will come up this morning, and in the meantime Tansley is out on $500 bail.

ORIGIN OF THE CHIMES

LECTURE DELIVERED TO LONDON MUSICAL ASSOCIATION.

Little Information as to When First Used—In Common Use During Middle of Fifteenth Century—Protest Against Duplication of So-Called Westminster Quarters.

"Chimes and Chime Tunes" was the subject of an interesting lecture delivered recently in London by Mr. W. W. Starmer at a meeting of the Musical Association. The lecturer said that there was very little information as to when chimes were first used, the only record being found in ancient church accounts and such documents, which showed that they were common in the middle of the fifteenth century, and in general use during the sixteenth. No doubt chimes in the first instance were played by hand. Mechanical figures for striking the quarters and hours on bells were in use some time before the introduction of clock dials. There was a clock at old St. Paul's Cathedral with such figures, described by Decker as "Paul's Jacks," the word "Jack" being derived from the word "jaccomarchidus"—a man in a suit of armor—these figures being always so represented. One of the earliest records of chimes was in 1432, when Richard Roper was paid 20d. for "mending the chymes" in Norwich Cathedral. As with quarter chimes, it was absolutely impossible, to fix any approximate date when chime tunes were first introduced. They must, of course, have been prior to the date when bells were first recast and tuned according to the notes of the major scale. There were also very few tunes which could be played on fewer than six bells, so that this condition would bring us to the fifteenth century. In church accounts of the sixteenth century particulars were frequently found with respect to sums of money paid for the repair of the chimes. In 1602, at Market Harborough, John Lea, of Lutterworth, clockmaker, bound himself in consideration of 6s. 8d. paid to him yearly, to keep the chimes "in as good, sweet, solemn, and perfect tune of music as ever the same was at the sight and judgment of a skillful man of musick, to be chosen by the townsmen of Harborough." Chime tunes gradually increased in popularity until, in the eighteenth century, every church of importance possessed a clock with quarter chimes and chime tunes. Mr. Starmer strongly protested against the duplication of the so-called Westminster quarters, particularly when attempted on six or eight bells (no less than 60 per cent. of the total number of chiming clocks made during the past 30 years played these quarters), and urged that no tunes should be used for the purpose of chimes unless bells were available for every note required for the exact rendering of them without any alteration whatever.

COLLEGE ON THE HIGH SEAS.

Plan to Instruct Boys During a Year's Cruise.

A college that will have as its walls the bulwarks of a large sailing ship has just been established.

Capt. Kennelley, one of the organizers of this marine school, stated that a large sailing vessel, the Sea Nymph, would shortly leave London with a number of boys on board who will enter on a term of twelve months' solid commercial and scholastic training. "Our idea," he said, "in initiating this college on the high seas is to impart to the minds of those boys who intend going into commercial life an all around knowledge of the world's business methods.

"The class of boy will be the youth, fresh from school, who is destined for a business life, either in London or the colonies. The advantages attached to a twelve months' course will, of course, be great, for he will obtain knowledge of languages (a short stop being made at the various ports) of the coinage, exchanges, customs, and habits of foreign countries. If he remains in England after the 'term' he will be a valuable asset to his office.

"The food he will be given will be plain and wholesome—with as much of it as he likes. For breakfast he will get bacon, eggs, or fish; for dinner, soup, joint, and sweets, with another square meal about 7 o'clock."

For a student the inclusive charge for the twelve months is approximately $300. The ports of call are: Gibraltar, Tangier, Canary Islands, Pernambuco, Bahia, Rio de Janeiro, Montevideo, Buenos Ayres, Cape Town, Durban, and home.

"After a boy has been through the course," said Capt. Kennelley, "I consider that he will be fit to take up a position on any ship as a junior officer."

Are You Bankrupt In Nerve Force

THERE IS A RICH FRIEND TO RESCUE YOU—LEARN MORE ABOUT

If you spend three dollars a day and earn two you are sure to come to bankruptcy, unless, perchance, some rich friend comes to your assistance.

And yet this is just what thousands of us are doing in regard to our health. By worry, overwork, anxiety on the disobedience of the laws of nature, the energy and vigour of the body is wasted more rapidly than it is built up, and the result is the bankruptcy of the health and the decay of the body.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food may be likened to the rich friend, for it supplies in condensed and easily assimilated form the very ingredients from which nature constructs nervous energy and builds up the human system.

Mrs. F. Turner, 336 Aylmer street, Peterborough, Ont., and whose husband is employed at the Hamilton foundry, states: "For some months past I found myself growing nervous and gradually becoming a victim of sleeplessness, and subject to frequent attacks of nervous headache. About six weeks ago I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and cannot speak too highly of this medicine. I can sleep well now, the headaches have entirely disappeared, and I believe that my system generally has been improved greatly by the use of this treatment."

Sleeplessness, headaches, indigestion, loss of appetite, worn-out feelings, spells of weakness and despondency are some of the symptoms of exhaustion which point to the approach of nervous prostration, locomotor ataxia and paralysis.

No one would think of neglecting such ailments if they realized their condition, but they do not, so gradual and insidious is their approach.

If you are persistently subject to these symptoms you are in danger. Your blood must be enriched. Your nerves must be invigorated. Your system must be built up. And there is no means whereby this can be so certainly accomplished as by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food; 50 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.—1

SCHOOL LUNCHEONS.

Nervous Breakdown Result of Eating Dried Beef Sandwiches.

"I believe my nervous breakdown at school was the result of nothing more or less than dried beef sandwiches," said a high school pupil who was recuperating at a sanitarium. "Our maid never seemed to have time to make any sort of sandwiches except dried beef, the supply of which never failed."

How many girls have paid just such a price for monotonous, carelessly prepared school luncheons! And not always is the maid to blame. Mothers are very careless in this matter, and when a mother is very busy she should train the daughter to take a little time each morning for the preparation of her luncheon, as time thus spent is a good investment. All girls and boys going to school crave something sweet, and unless it is supplied by the home luncheon they will buy it from cheap confectionery shops, peddlers, etc. Old cups that have no handles can be used to hold little puddings, and these will serve as an appetizing sweet in any lunch basket. Gingerbread of the soft kind is nourishing and liked by all children, while bananas are perhaps the most nourishing fruit that can be purchased. They should be ripe, however, and not have any green ends.

One cupful of molasses, one cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of butter melted and mixed with the molasses, one cupful of boiling water, one heaping teaspoonful of soda dissolved in the water (let the water cool before adding to the molasses), three cupfuls of flour and one teaspoonful of ginger.

Make a rice pudding without eggs and add raisins to it and bake in old cups instead of a large pudding dish, and you will find that the school children will be delighted to take one in their lunch basket. Make a bread pudding with raisins and an egg to give it a semblance of custard and bake this in the cups. A nice cup custard can be made also, recipe for which is given herewith:

Beat up four eggs and one small cup of sugar and pour over one quart of warm milk, flavor with lemon and if nutmeg is liked grate a little on top. Fill cups and stand in a pan of boiling water and bake about fifteen minutes. Avoid the dried beef sandwich. If there is no cold meat in the house left over from last night's dinner, then try a few of the following recipes. Nuts are very nourishing and, combined with something else, are very appetizing. You must cater to the children just as you do to the elders, for their health is a matter of no small concern, and their nervous little bodies should be well fed, just as much as those of the tired parents.

New Ham Sandwiches.—Mince finely some cold boiled ham and add to it about half the quantity of finely chopped peanuts. For every cupful of ham add a tablespoonful of chopped pickles and if convenient a little chopped celery. Mix to a good paste with salad dressing and spread on thin slices of white bread.

Nut and Date Sandwiches.—Wash, pit and finely chop one pound of dates and add to them an equal amount of chopped nuts. Any kind that you have will answer. Wet with a little lemon juice or sour cherry juice and spread on bread.

Lemon Sandwiches.—Mash the yolks of three hard boiled eggs and add a tablespoonful of butter, a dash of salt and some cayenne pepper, a teaspoonful of chopped parsley and the grated rind of one lemon. Mix these ingredients well and add three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and spread upon thin slices of wheat or graham bread.

Nut and Cheese Sandwiches.—Mix together pot cheese and chopped hickory nuts, add to it a dash of paprika and spread on either white or brown bread.

Olives chopped with nuts make a nice filling. Figs chopped up with nuts are delicious, while cold fish if highly seasoned and dressed with a little mayonnaise is appetizing.

Tight Shoes.

Did you ever suffer torment from a shoe tight in one spot? Here is a remedy for it: Apply sweet oil to the stockings where the rub comes. It is better than applying it to the boot, because it softens the inside of the boot where it is needed instead of the outside.

Siamese Ladies.

The wives of Siamese noblemen cut their hair so that it sticks straight up from their heads. The average length of it is about an inch and a half.

AN EVENING ATTACK.

The Easy Way Travelers Are Held Up in Savage Europe.

The Balkans can boast of cities which are miniature replicas of London and Paris, declares Mr. Harry De Windt, the author of "Through Savage Europe." These are civilized centers. But the remoter districts are, as of yore, hotbeds of outlawry and brigandage, where you must travel with a revolver in each pocket and your life in your hand, and of this fact Mr. De Windt had unpleasant proof.

In the district called Ropitza an elderly Turk urged us to pass the night at a squalid inn where our driver had taken us. Failing to persuade us, the old villain disappeared and so effectively plied our driver with allwowits that he could not sit up on the box until sunset. It was therefore dark before we could set out, along a narrow road, hewn through dense pine forest.

But the game little team dashed along and must have covered about a mile when there came a violent lurch, followed by a crash, and I found myself in the dusty road within an inch or so of unpleasantly active iron heels. The driver had been hurled by the shock clean over the horses' heads and lay motionless.

Fortunately my companion, like myself, was uninjured, and we set to work to repair the damage and assist the plunging and terrified ponies to regain their legs.

A pine tree which had fallen across the track was the cause of the disaster, but the carriage was luckily intact, and only a trace was broken, which I hastened to repair with the aid of rope and a jackknife. Then a curious thing happened.

"Look behind you!" suddenly exclaimed my friend, and I turned hastily, to discover perhaps twenty silent, shadowy forms, which had apparently sprung out of the earth around us.

There was no "Your money or your life!" business about this strange band, but its methods were quite as effectual. "You will give us 200 dinars"—about £8—"and we will help you shift that tree," said the spokesman in Servian, and I instantly recognised the voice as one I had heard that afternoon in the inn.

Resistance was of course useless, for a match was kindled by the speaker ostensibly to light a cigarette, but probably to reveal the gleam of firearms in every man's belt. They numbered more than twenty, we only three, and one of our number half stupefied with drink and terror.

There was nothing for it but to pay up and look pleasant, and, having removed the barrier, obviously placed there by themselves, the robbers vanished as rapidly and silently as they had appeared on the scene.

College of Brazen Nose.

The odd name of Brazen Nose (Brasenose) arises from a combination of circumstances, some of which are among the most interesting features of the history of Oxford university. From the earliest period the members of the university and the townspeople were engaged in continual broils, breaking out sometimes into such violence that bloodshed ensued. The townspeople, however, appear to have had the best of it, and so again and again their antagonists withdrew from the place and left Oxford without a university. At one time Northampton was the place of their retreat; at another Stamford, in Lincolnshire. At this last named place were the remains of a Norman gateway belonging to one of the colleges thus established. On the door there was of old an iron ring fixed in a nose of brass, to serve the purpose of a knocker, and the college became known through that feature as Brazen Nose. On the return to Oxford, which took place after a little time, the members of the college took the name with them.—London Answers.

Amount on roll	$5,988 89
Amount paid to Dec. 14	3,870 96
Balance to collect	$2,117 93

On motion of Messrs. May and Howden this was received and the collector was instructed to proceed and collect the balance of the taxes forthwith.—Carried.

Mr. G. Ball, the sanitary inspector of Peterborough City, was present and requested the council to give him permission to officially inspect all milk dairies in the township.

Council then adjourned until Monday, 16th inst, in town hall.

Value Already of The Great Transcontinental Railway

Work Has Gone Forward And Towns Are Keeping Pace—News All The Way From Edmonton

A FEATURE FOR NIKOMIS

Edmonton, Dec. 20. — (Special) —The building of the great transcontinental is beginning to assume an interest to western people of a different nature from that evidenced heretofore. In the past there has been much published about the immense construction camps dotted at intervals wellnigh across two-thirds of a continent. The military organization obtaining in these canvas towns of industry has been enlarged upon by the papers in all the leading cities, and reports from hospital inspectors, and other government officials whose duties relate to the maintainance of cleanliness, health, efficiency and fair treatment of the men employed, have occupied prominent space in every live Canadian paper.

From east of Saskatoon, however, a letter reached Mr. Stevenson, a gentlemen employed with the May Sharpe Construction Company, forwarded by T W Lone, foreman on one of the camps of the McDonald, McMillan Company, who have completed their contract between Portage la Prairie and Saskatoon, telling of a return a trip over the completed line to Portage la Prairie.

Starting from near Nikomis, the two-section train left for Manitoba at the wind-up of the construction season. One hundred and thirty-five teams, being the animal equipment of camps 1, 3 and 4, were gathered at this point. A sea of canvas stretched away from the track, and the weather was the most favourable known at this time of the year, too good in fact for cessation of work.

Mr. Lone declared that the man who has assisted in the construction of a railway has an added feeling in going over it for the first time from that possessed by the ordinary traveller. The journey to Portage la Prairie was completed without a hitch, and the animals transferred to the ranch of the company for the winter.

A Great Boom

Nikomis, the point at which the wind-up took place, is situated about ninety miles east of Saskatoon. It is at the point where the G.T.P. and C.P.R. meet. Within six weeks' time, as the result of the favourable railway facilities of the townsite, three hotels, two banks and numerous stores and houses sprang up. The future of the place seems to point to as rapid a growth as its mushroom-like past. All along the line other instances of a similar nature have occurred, villages and settlements growing up in the wake of the construction of the line.

In all probability the work between Saskatoon and Winnipeg will be finished and that portion of the line carrying traffic early in the spring. The grading between Edmonton and Saskatoon, in the hands of the Canadian-White Co., is also progressing favourable, a portion which they sublet to the McDonald-McMillan Co. near the Touchwood Hills being finished. Given favourably conditions of weather and labour market, the prediction made by Mr. Hayes on his last visit to Edmonton should be capable of accomplishment next fall, and Edmonton may hope to see the Grand Trunk officials enter Alberta's capital over their own line.

Mr. Stevenson, who was in the neighbourhood of Saskatoon a few months ago, states that the bridge across the Saskatchewan is making great progress towards completion. A significant fact of G.T.P. construction development was the recent visit west of Edmonton of one of the firm of McDonald-McMillan, inspecting the surveyed line between here and the Pembina Crossing, with a view to tendering for the contract.

THE CAR FERRY WORKS WELL

Cobourg Gentleman Says That G.T.P. Satisfied

The new car ferry at Cobourg built for the G.T.R. Company, is giving general satisfaction and has proved to be a successful undertaking. Mr. Furber, of Cobourg, was in the city yesterday and to a local gentleman stated that the ferry makes two trips per day, making the one-way voyage in three hours. About 16 cars are taken in one trip, two rows of eight each being put on.

They are looked in their position and do not give no matter how the vessel may rock, and even if the ferry were turned upside down the cars would remain fast as they were locked. Each of the cars are limited to 50 tons weight. At the Cobourg end an engine backs down with an apron which is nothing more than several cars to provide against the engine being off the land.

The ferry has proved a great boon to the freight traffic coming from across the border. It runs between Cobourg and Charlotte, the lake port of Rochester.

The G.T.R. Company is considering the proposition of bringing their coal across by a similar means. It could be carried across the lake in large quantities to Belleville and easily distributed from that point. It is learned that this is under consideration and may be put into actual use by the company.

HARDEN TRIAL POSTPONED.

Editor Says He Considers Mockery a Fair Weapon.

Berlin, Dec. 20.—In the Harden case yesterday the president of the court remarked that the public was incapable of distinguishing between the subtleties in Die Sukunft articles and the epithet used by the prisoner. The president referred to Harden's statement that he mocked the friends of Zu Falenburg.

"Yes," replied Harden, "mockery is a fair weapon, else where would the world's greatest satirists be?"

In the course of his explanations Harden said that he had no desire to call witnesses to prove that Von Moltke was abnormal.

"I have a definite conviction," the prisoner said, "I have said nothing libellous. The articles are there and if the court assumes that they are defamatory I am here to bear my penalty."

Dr. Isenbell asked if Harden had meant to express esteem or contempt of Von Moltke. "I have no opinion," Harden retorted, "of expressing esteem; I criticised."

Harden here began to show signs of extreme weariness, and the president declared that in consideration of the health of the accused he would adjourn court until to-day.

TROUBLE AT THE R. M. C.

Cadets "Swiped" Stuff From One Another's Rooms.

Kingston, Dec. 20.—The offence for which the commandant of the Royal Military College rusticated five cadets was apparently of a minor nature, but one which has to be given attention in a boarding academy like the Military College. The property of young man attending the college has to be protected, and when some of the cadets complained about their boxes being rifled an inquiry was at once instituted. The "swiping" of a cake from one box was one feature of the case. Money had been missed by more than one of the cadets, but the taking of this could not be proved against any of the unfortunate young men who had made merry with their comrades' edibles. The evidence brought out some other irregularities. It is against the rules for the cadets to play cards in their rooms or about the college. Card-playing has been very prevalent, and it will now cease, special orders to that effect having been given. The commandant found the five cadets guilty of irregularities, and rusticated one for four months and the other four for one month each.

DRAGGED UNDER TRAIN.

Boy Killed at Kingston While Sleighing at Crossing.

Kingston, Dec. 20.—A sad accident occurred at the point where the Bay of Quinte Railway crosses Montreal street. As the 4 o'clock train going north approached this, Kenneth Hughes, aged 7, with two little girls, were crossing the track, the lad pulling a small sleigh.

The wind was blowing in a direction which prevented the children hearing the on-coming train. The girls, however, got well across before the train arrived. The boy was not too, but the engine caught his sled, which he held on to and was drawn under the wheels and mangled into an unrecognisable shape.

Thaw Will Plead Insanity.

New York, Dec. 20.—The second trial of Harry K. Thaw for the murder of Stanford White, set for Jan. 6, will be cut short by admission on the part of the defence that Thaw was insane when he shot White, and that he is insane now and has been insane from birth.

A man connected with the case, and close to Thaw's new counsel, said yesterday: 'Personally, I believe Thaw to be absolutely crazy. The second trial will be much shorter than the first."

Thaw's lawyer expects to reach an agreement with the district attorney, by which his prisoner will be sent to Matteawan Asylum for the Insane. This step probably will be taken soon, as the jury is chosen and before the taking of evidence is begun.

It is said Thaw's wife may spring another surprise at the next trial.

He Never Saw the Falls.

Hamilton, Dec. 20—A St. Catharines paper has unearthed a new sort of a dime museum here—a man who never saw Niagara Falls. This remarkable personage is Capt. Duncan McLachlan of the steamer Eastern States, plying between Buffalo and Detroit. Capt. McLachlan has sailed the lakes for 35 years, making Buffalo and Tonawanda his ports, and yet he has never seen the Falls. On one occasion his boat parted a line at Tonawanda, and was sliding down the river at a lively clip when rescued. On that occasion the captain got near enough to hear the hoarse boom of Niagara, but not enough to see the waterfall.

Demand Protection.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 20.—At the request of the Italian ambassador, Secretary of State Root has called upon the Governor of Kentucky to intervene to prevent the further destruction by "night riders" of tobacco belonging to the Italian Government and stored in Kentucky.

Kelvin to Rest in Abbey.

London, Dec. 20.—In accordance with the desire of the Royal Society, Lord Kelvin, who died two days ago, will be buried in Westminster Abbey. The last scientist to be buried in the abbey was Charles Robert Darwin, who died in 1882.

Millionaire Insane.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 20.—Henry Clay Ward, millionaire lumberman of Pontiac, Mich., who erected a tobacco factory in Leamington, Ont., several years ago, is insane and will be placed in Oak Grove Sanitarium in Flint.

An Author's Death.

London, Dec. 20.—Lisecombe Serrelle, an author, died yesterday at Molsely-on-Thames. He had an adventurous career in South Africa and was a friend of Cecil Rhodes.

MR. RUSH FOR MAYOR

He Will Accept The Mayoralty Candidature—Yields To The Wish Of Ratepayers

OFFICE SEEKS THE MAN

On Wednesday a deputation of prominent citizens, deeply interested in the welfare of the city, waited upon Mr. Harry Rush to present him with a requisition, signed by five or six hundred ratepayers, representing all classes and interests, asking him to become a candidate for the Mayoralty for 1908. Mr. Rush asked for time for consideration, and this morning signified his acceptance of the nomination in the following letter to the electors, so numerously represented by the requisitionists:

To the Electors of Peterborough.

Ladies and Gentlemen,—On Wednesday evening last a deputation waited upon me to present a requisition signed by hundreds of ratepayers of Peterborough, asking me to become a candidate for Mayor. I cannot but regard so numerously signed a requisition and by so representative a number of citizens as a call of duty. Consequently, as I have, during my 45 years' residence in Peterborough, tried to do my duty faithfully to the place in which all my material interests are centred. I have decided to place myself in the hands of the electors.

If I am chosen as Mayor I shall use all my ability to practically apply the motto of my life—"The interests of Peterborough, first, last and always." I am known to you all by virtue of a residence of 45 years in the city and through a corresponding experience in business, which through the kind co-operation of the public, I have been favoured in making a success.

Though I have not sought public office any more than I am seeking the present offered position, I may say that for four terms in succession I was returned as alderman without soliciting or attending a nomination or soliciting a vote. I felt that as both an honour and a flattering mark of confidence, which I endeavoured to justify to the fullest of my ability. And if elected as Mayor I shall discharge the duties of the office to the full extent of my powers and with a single eye to the promotion of the best interests of the city.

That is the platform upon which I can and do appeal to your support; that is the platform upon which I shall justify your choice if you do me the honour to elect me. It is not practicable for me, even if it were in line with my inclination, to personally call upon the electors. I hold that the office should seek the man rather than the man the office. I have no personal interests to serve; my only object in accepting the kind offer of the citizens, for which honour I give my hearty thanks, is to serve the best interests of the city of Peterborough. With cordial wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all, I remain,

Your obedient servant,
H. RUSH.

A FALSE RUMOUR SPREAD ABOUT FATAL WRECK IN THE VICINITY OF SUDBURY

Ottawa, Ont. Dec. 20—Special—The wildest excitement prevailed here and hundreds of telephones were kept buzzing this morning by a message reaching the city saying eight people had been killed in a wreck early this morning. It turned out wrong. No one was killed and there is no one seriously injured. Just west of North Bay when No. 8. train, (the "Sault.") was speeding eastwards at the rate of 45 miles an hour an axle of the engine broke. The locomotive, mail and express baggage and one of the several colonist cars were derailed. Part of the passengers reached here at noon by a special train made up at North Bay and the rest are coming this afternoon.

WEDDING INVITATIONS SENT OUT WITH ONE CENT STAMP CONSIDERED A JOKE

It may not have been done intentionally, but quite a number of people in the city were "stung" to the amount of two cents each on wedding invitations that were sent through the mails within the past few days. The letters were addressed and sent out with only a one-cent stamp, and when the mail carriers delivered them they collected two cents on each. This was for one engagement that will culminate in a short time, but just about the same time another batch of wedding invitations were sent out for a different wedding. It was probably an oversight on the part of those who wrote the letters, but it was a joke for those who had to scrape up their loose coppers. It was the first time they had ever been called upon to pay for an invitation to a wedding. However, they took it good naturedly, and when mutual friends of the happy young people would meet there was a quizzical expression noticed by each, and they straightway knew that all were included in the joke.

FARMER WITH TEAM OF HORSES RESCUED FROM DANGEROUS POSITION ON C. P. R. BRIDGE

Had Driven Them on the Bridge When Noticed by Several Men Who Were Pressed to Get Him To Safety

HORSES WERE UNHITCHED

A farmer who said his name was Tully, living to the southeast of the city, attempted to drive across the C.P.R. bridge over the canal a few nights ago. He was under the influence of liquor, having reached about the twenty-third stage and apparently did not know whether his team of horses was on the highway or the railway. At that time a train was due to pass along and Mr. John Cronin, Michael Cadigan and a number of others perceiving the danger of Tully's situation went to his assistance.

The horses had come to a stop owing to the spaces between the ties and the farmer, was not in a condition to do anything. Just then the expected train was heard whistling and instead of trying to back the horses off the bridge with the sleigh, the men unharnessed them. They were taken to safety and the driver was also taken care of. However, there was not time enough to pull the sleigh back to the road so it was pushed down the bank on to the ice of the canal.

The men had completed their voluntary task none too soon when the train went rushing by. What might have happened if Tully's predicament had not been noticed can only be surmised. His team was hitched to the sleigh again and put back on the road, and as he mumbled that he could continue on his way home the men started him and, so far as can be learned he had no other adventures before reaching his destination.

MURDER COMMITTED IN NEW YORK TO-DAY

(J. R. Heintz & Co. Special.)

New York, Dec. 20.— James H. Oliphant, a member of the New York Stock Exchange firm of that name, was this afternoon shot in his office by a customer. The man who did the shooting immediately turned the revolver to his own head and ended his life in a few minutes. Mr. Oliphant was later removed to the hospital in an ambulance.

Charged With Destroying And Stealing Farmer's Hay

Three Cavan Men Are in Trouble As an Aftermath of The Hunting Season—Will Appear Next Week

IN BURLEIGH TOWNSHIP

After an aftermath of the hunting season, Messrs J. S. Hutchinson, and Ernest Leith of Cavan, have been summoned to appear before Charles R. D. Booth, reeve of Burleigh and Chandos, charged with stealing and destroying a quantity of hay, the property of William White. The three Cavan men were hunting in the north this fall and it is alleged that they took the top of White's haystack, which was situated some distance from the rear of his house, and fed their horses upon it for several days, and on leaving neglected to replace the cover on the stack with the result that the cattle destroyed nearly all the hay. Mr. White feels the loss keenly as nearly all his winter supply of feed is wiped out, and he has no means of replacing it, which in view of the fact that he has a large stock, is a serious condition. The trial is set down for December 27th.

Mr. S. T. Medd Tells of The Expansion of Northern Towns—400 Miles North in a Pullman

THE FARMING IS NEGLECTED

Mr. S T Medd, of the law firm of Hall, Medd and Davidson, returned home last night from a trip to Northern Ontario and has some interesting stories to tell of that country. In relating to the Examiner some details of his visit, Mr. Medd stated that the size of Ontario is to some extent shown by the fact that one can now travel over a first-class railway for over 400 miles almost straight north of this city. Pullman cars now reach that point, and prosperous towns and villages are springing up in what was a wilderness four years ago. Cobalt, Haileybury, New Liskeard and Englehart now have electric light and most of the modern conveniences are to be seen at these places. Mr. Medd found but little apparent difference in the climate. There is no more snow there than we have here, and it is but little colder. The farming districts appear to be somewhat neglected as the people are devoting most of their time to prospecting, mining and lumbering, but, it is said, that wherever the work is put on the land, good returns have been obtained and all look forward in the near future to being able to furnish the wants of the country from their own locality. A number of private residences, substantially built and of handsome designs, costing from $5,000 to $8,000, may be seen in several towns. The public schools have not been neglected, that at New Liskeard being a large handsome structure overlooking the town and lake. A keen rivalry exists between this town and Haileybury, four miles south. As a matter of fact they are fast growing towards each other, and both are now served by the same telephone company and in a few days will be lighted from the same power plant.

OLD SANTA WILL GET HIS LETTERS

U. S. Mails Make Special Provision For Letters Addressed to Him

Washington, Dec. 20.—(Special.)—In past years many communications have been received by the postoffice department requesting delivery of so-called "Santa Claus" letters to philanthropic societies and others in various parts of the country, but the requests have always been denied, the department taking the stand that letters of importance would be classed with the "Santa Claus" letters through error that it would be exposing to private parties confidential correspondence; that the letters might contain confidential correspondence; that the letters might contain valuable enclosures, and that such a practice would not be in keeping with the principle of the sanctity of the mail.

Now, however, Postmaster-General Meyer has adopted a more liberal attitude toward the children, as indicated by his action of to-day in issuing an order to postmasters all over the country to let the people of their cities know through the newspapers that mail addressed to "Santa Claus" will be delivered to any regularly organized charitable society who will undertake to act as Santa Claus' agents in the matter.

As it was found that the name "Kris Kringle" appears in various city directories, it was decided that the new regulation should apply only to Santa Claus, who appears to have no namesake.

THIRTY BODIES TERRIBLY MUTILATED ARE RECOVERED FROM THE DARR MINES

Jacob's Creek, Pa. Dec. 20—Of the 200 or more miners who were made prisoners in the Darr mine of the Pittsburg Coal Company by the explosion yesterday, the bodies of 30 were located this morning, in the main entrance. Some of the bodies are dismembered and mangled and all are distorted, disfigured and begrimed. Faint hope is cherished by the rescuers, friends and relatives that some of the men have survived the explosion and are waiting release far back in the mine. It begins to look as if something even more serious than the ordinary accumulations of the deadly coal gas of the region was responsible for the terrible toll taken of human life since the month opened.

BOGUS ORDER FROM CHIEF MAGISTRATE WAS IGNORED AND MERCHANTS HAVE JOKE

A joke that was played on a business man yesterday is going the rounds among the merchants. In front of this man's Hunter street store is a little mound of ice, caused by water leaking from the eaves. The proprietor received a 'phone message which was supposed to be from the Mayor. It was an order to have the ice removed from the pavement before three o'clock yesterday.

Well, our business man went outside and carefully viewed the case. He stopped about a dozen of his friends and asked their opinions. He received general sympathy and finally decided not to remove the ice.

According to the story he called up the Mayor and quietly informed him that he was going to ignore his order and the ice would have to remain there. Of course this communication was a surprise to the Chief Magistrate, and the business man had to ring off just on the dawn of the sensation "Stung."

The order had been given by his next door neighbour.

SCYTHES AND BLUNDERBUSSES BROUGHT INTO PLAY BY THE EARLY RISERS IN APSLEY TOWN

All Over The Voice of a Feline Representative in Addition To Celebration Before Election Day

IT IS A CAT TAIL STORY

Examiner special.

Apsley, December 20. — There was a big time the other night in Apsley. A supply of "O, be joyful," came to hand, and some of the boys seized the golden opportunity to celebrate in advance the passing of the Local Option bylaw. It was the "wee sma' hours" before the assembly broke up, all in good standing with themselves and the world at large. As two of the party wended their way homeward, one confided to his friend that he intended to get into the house so quietly that the good wife, and the bairns, would not know anything of the hour.

Arriving opposite the house, the friend waited to see how the other would get along. Very quietly was the gate opened and shut, the verandah mounted, the door handle softly turned, and the door lightly opened, when the family cat, which was inside, made a charge to get out. The hero closed the door quickly, in fright. The cat's head and body had got out, but the appendage was caught as if in a vise.

Talk about the music of Donald McLean's bagpipes! They would be nowhere compared to the music that was wafted out on the midnight air, and which roused the household, and neighbours, in fright. The wanderer was so taken back that he forgot to release the tail, while the herd continued to issue notes loud and long.

His companion, seated on the mud and snow in the road laughed with delight at his friend's dilemma. "Uncle Billy" appeared at the back door of his house with an old scythe, while the worthy postmaster of the village armed with a blunderbus carried by his grandfather in 1812 could be seen parading the verandah in an endeavour to find out the cause of the trouble. At last the tail was released and peace and quietness once again reigned supreme.

City Engineer's Report In Regard to Davidson Sewer

Explanation of The Matter Made by Engineer—First Time in His Recollection That Any One Has Attempted a Sewer Connection Without Permission From City

RE-PAYMENT OF DEPOSIT

The Mayor has received the following report from the City Engineer. It explains itself:—

Mayor McWilliams, City:

Dear Sir,—In reply to your request for a statement of the report which I made verbally to the Board of Works with regard to the construction of a sewer connection on Dickson street by Mr. William Davidson, I beg to report as follows:

The first I knew of the construction of this sewer connection was when I was asked by a member of the Board of Works (not the Mayor) what the digging was which he had seen at the head of Malboeuf street. I said I did not know anything about it and then spoke Mr. Thompson to find out what it was. Mr. Thompson reported that Mr. Davidson had men, constructing a sewer connection and that a considerable part of the work was already done. Up to this time Mr. Davidson had not made application nor deposited the necessary money required in all such cases and which had been explained to him some days previously. I then ordered the work to be stopped, after which Mr. Davidson made the usual application and deposit, and also made a payment of twenty-five dollars which is required before a party whose property is not assessed for a sewer can connect with any sewer. In view of the fact that a large part of the work had already been done and I then authorized its completion, and upon the completion of the work in a satisfactory manner, I gave a certificate authorizing the re-payment of his deposit. Mr. Davidson has since acknowledged that he understood the substance of our former conversation to be authority for proceeding with the work and that the cheque was all ready to be deposited.

This is the only case in my recollection in which any person has attempted to construct a sewer connection without first obtaining permission from the City.

Yours truly,
T. A. H. HAY,
City Engineer.

Peterborough, Dec. 20, 1907.

SCHOOLS CLOSED FOR HOLIDAYS

Closing Exercises in Institutions Took Place To-day

The different city schools closed down for the present term to-day and the pupils are now enjoying a two weeks' respite from the duties of school life. In the different educational institutions to-day the occasion was marked by entertainments or other forms of closing exercises. The discipline was relaxed a little and a most enjoyable time was spent. The East City and South Central kindergartens held their closing exercises to-day, and a large number of parents and friends were on hand.

MR. DUNCAN WALKER IN THE CITY

Will Spend Christmas With Friends in The City

Mr. Duncan Walker, principal of the London Normal School, is in the city to-day and will remain for the Christmas holidays. Mr. Walker was present at the annual closing exercises of the kindergarten in the East City School. This evening he will visit Keene in the capacity of D. D. G. M. of the A. F. and A.M., also Clementi Lodge in Lakefield on Monday evening next.

LOST SINCE TUESDAY

Pathetic Tale of a Mother Residing on Rubidge Street—Her Boy Missing—Feelings Hurt

MADE UNAVAILING SEARCH

Because his father whipped him little Oscar McNeely, of 470 Rubidge street, ran away from his home on Thuesday, after he had finished his dinner.

An Examiner representative called at the boy's home this afternoon, and found his mother in tears, owing to the loss of her boy. She is almost distracted and is continually searching for her son. Every night as soon as Mr. McNeely comes home from his work he goes out hoping to hear some tiding of him.

Mrs. McNeely states that Oscar had done something wrong on Sunday, and his father gave him a whipping. All day Monday the boy brooded over his injured feelings, and scarcely spoke. On Tuesday morning when he was getting ready for school, he changed his clothes to his mother's surprise, and wore a collar and a tie, instead of a sweater. He went to school that morning and returned at noon for his dinner. He left again after dinner, but no tidings have been heard from the boy since.

His mother and father were very much surprised at his non-appearance at supper time, and began to be alarmed as the evening wore on, and he did not return. The family retired at the usual hour, thinking that Oscar had gone to a neighbour's house and would return late at night, but he did not return.

None of the family slept that night at all, and his little brother kept asking repeatedly if Oscar had come home, and told his mother to leave the lamp lit and to keep the door open.

Next morning Mr. McNeely informed the police of the disappearance of his son, and both Mr. and Mrs. McNeely set out to search for him. After tramping the streets until ten o'clock that night they returned home without any further news of the lad.

Since that time Mr. McNeely has been searching the neighbourhood and has asked every boy she met, but no one seems to know of his whereabouts. The police have not heard anything, and Mrs. McNeely is of the opinion that he is concealed in one of the boys' sheds. One little girl says that she saw him carrying parcels, and that he had said that he would not go home again in his life, but would try and see his mother sometimes. Several of the children around the neighbourhood have talked to tell but they seem to be unauthentic. Mrs. McNeely has telephoned to her relatives in Toronto, Lindsay, Havelock and several other places, but so far nothing has been heard of the lad.

When he left home he wore dark blue knickers, grey check Norfolk coat, collar and tie, and also wore a toque. His mother is greatly worried about him as he did not wear an overcoat.

He has always been a good boy she says, but his trouble was that he hated to go to school. He was a member of St. John's Sunday school and was well liked by the teacher. His mother says that if Oscar will only come back she will allow him to go to work, as he always wanted to earn money. Any person hearing of his whereabouts will kindly communicate with Mr. McNeely, 470 Rubidge street, or the Chief of Police.

THE NOVEL TIE GUY'S BEAUTIFUL NECKWEAR

Manufactured For Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co's Holiday Trade—Elite Styles

The time to hustle for business is all the time; and Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co., did a good stroke of business recently with the Novel-Ti Company of this city, for the manufacture of a beautiful line of neck-wear. The silks which were personally selected by Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co., were chosen especially for their own holiday trade. They consist of a beautiful lot of fancy and figured silk designs in various colour combinations in two and three toned effects, made into the various fashionable shapes of neckwear — ties, four-in-hands, scarfs, etc. These have been on display in the City Clothing Store for weeks, have been favourite sellers, and are much admired by gentlemen of good taste. Mr. LeBrun states that they fully equal imported neckwear, and reflect credit on the skill and taste of our own local neckwear manufacturers—the Novel-Ti Company of Water street.

A GREAT CANADIAN

Whatever may be contemporary estimate of the late J. Israel Tarte, he will take his place in history, as one of the most attractive and remarkable of Canadian public men. Whatever may have been the errant and variable course of his meteoric career, he was at heart a true Canadian, true to the interests of Canada, and whatever way he turned he had this in view. At different times in his brilliant and stirring career he was a member of both the great political parties, entering actively into the ranks of one to purge it of its foulness, and leaving another to insure its peace. Whatever side he took, Mr. Tarte espoused its interests and fought its battles with the energy of an impulsive nature and the vigour of a born fighter. When, by breaking with the Conservative party, he espoused the Liberal side, he became minister of the great spending department of the Government, which he administered with energy and enthusiasm. His hobby was national transportation, and he made a record in deepening the St. Lawrence route. His ideas were large, and if Mr. Tarte had had the resources of the Imperial exchequer at command, Canada would have a transportation system unequalled in the world. After his retirement from the Liberal Government on account of the incompatibility of his high tariff ideas, he resumed journalism, in which he was as picturesque a figure, and a greater success, than in his political career. Mr. Tarte will take his place in history as a brilliant Canadian, who, in his day and in his way, did the country good service.

HALF TRUTHS

This is from the Weekly Sun:—

Looked at from any standpoint and in the face of any possible comparison, a budget of $130,000,000 for a population of 6,000,000 people in a time of profound peace, and in the absence of any great national crisis, is appalling and wholly unjustifiable.

This is only a half truth—with a pretty strong dash of demagogism. A little analysis will show the half truth. It is true that this is a time of profound peace, but there is no "absence of a national crisis." A country situated like Canada is in the throes of a chronic crisis. There is a crisis of development, repeated and recurring every day. We no sooner master one problem, conquer one crisis than another crops up and demands solution in the national interest. When we spent millions in deepening our canals to 14 feet, we deluded ourselves if we felt that we had finished. The astonishing development of the commerce of the country, the millions of western wheat crowding for an outlet to the sea-board brought on another crisis. Now we are building another transcontinental railway, the West is filling up and as a result traffic congestion is upon us again. We are again contemplating the deepening of the Welland and other canals to 21 feet. We are building the Trent Canal as another transportation outlet, and all will be needed. These are incidents in the crises that perpetually arise in a young country of vast resources; which must be met if Canada is to make good her claim to the possession and promise of the Twentieth Century. It is only a half truth, to say that an expenditure of 85 millions is "appalling and wholly unjustifiable." It is not "appalling" and, it at all, is only partially "unjustifiable." A very large bulk of the national expenditure goes to the purposes of improvement of our transportation highways and byways. If we could spend more than we do that would be to widen the area of their usefulness. In whose interest is the same "unjustifiable" expenditure in this direction made? In the very interests of the farmers, the class which the Sun specifically affects to serve. Every dollar effectively expended to facilitate the farmer's access to his market, local or foreign, direct or indirect, is a dollar spent in his interest, an addition to the price of his produce, an enlargement of his profit, and a contribution to his success. There may well be warranted difference of opinion as to the details of expenditure, but broadly there is no difference of opinion in regard to the advisability of providing the best possible transportation facilities. The key to national development, to national prosperity, to the prosperity of agriculture, to the prosperity of commerce in all its forms, is adequate transportation. Considering the vast importance of the subject, no expenditure in any approximate degree within the resources of the country is to be regarded as "unjustifiable."

SEVERITY OF THE CRISIS

In the last circular of Henry Clews & Co., information is given to show that the recent panic, arising in Wall street, has seriously affected all branches of business in the United States. The circular says:

The total clearings at all cities in the United States in November showed the extraordinary decline of 30 per cent., including nearly 34 per cent., in the Middle States, 22 per cent. in New England, 16 per cent. in the Middle West and 16 per cent. in the south. The smallest shrinkage was naturally on the Pacific Coast, where it amounted to only about 3 per cent. New York of course suffered more than any other city, the percentage of decline here amounting to over 36 per cent. The total clearings in all cities for the month aggregated $9,600,000,000, or about $4,000,000,000 less than a year ago. In New York city the total clearings aggregated $5,500,000,000, a decrease of over $3,000,000,000 within the month. This is an extraordinary shrinkage and clearly illustrates the severity of the late panic. The effects of lessened trade activities is already being felt in railway earnings; the gross total reported by 33 roads in the fourth week of November being $11,500,000, a decrease of $163,000 compared with one year ago. Considering that for years earnings have shown steady increases ranging from 5 per cent. to as much as 20 cent. compared with last year, the reduction is further testimony as to consequences of the panic upon trade. The failures in November aggregated $17,600,000, compared with $12,000,000 during the same time in 1906. Such facts are not presented as discouraging features but simply to show what has been, and to demonstrate the severity of the crisis.

A POOR OUTLOOK FOR SHAREHOLDERS

On The Present Figures The Call May Amount to 50 Per Cent or More

Some are now estimating that the shareholders of the Ontario Bank may be assessed anywhere from 40 to 75 per cent. under the double liability.

"The outlook for the shareholders of the defunct Ontario Bank is not borses pff the bridge with teh Post.

Capital.....	$1,500,000
Reserve...	700,000
Deficit...	657,546
	$2,857,546

"The item of 'Reserve' may possibly not have bee a loss, as that fund seems to have been large a matter of bookkeeping, but what actually happened is that the shareholders are now subject to a call of $657,546.

"As pointed out by the acting president, this deficiency may possibly be reduced by 35 or 40 per cent.

"In any event, the shareholders, who are able to pay, will probably be called upon for 75 per cent. of their double liability, unless the action against the old directors continues and is successful, and some portion of the amount involved in the statement of claim, namely, $3,903,688, recovered.

A 50 Per Cent. Call

A 50 per cent. call on the $1,280,000 of stock outstanding would amount to $640,000, which at present figures would just about meet the liability.

If the deficit can be reduced, all the better for the shareholders.

CLAIM FOR DAMAGES FROM SMITH

ACCOUNTS TO BE PAID

A bylaw was passed appointing the County Council Chamber in the city of Peterborough as the place of meeting of the electors of the township of Smith for the nomination of candidates for the offices of reeve, deputy reeve and councillors for said township, and fixing 1 o'clock as the hour for said meeting.

A bylaw was also passed fixing the polling places in the township and appointing deputy returning officers and fixing the remuneration.

Mr. Jas. Tindle appeared before the council claiming damages for injuries sustained by being thrown from his buggy, his horse having been frightened by obstacles being left by the overseer on the highway, which application was laid over to enable the council to take legal advice in regard to its liability and power in the matter.

The clerk was instructed to notify Jos. Young to remove the brush, etc., placed on the road allowance on the 15th con. line by him.

The treasurer was instructed to pay H. Nesbitt $10 for attending to fires and taking care of the Council Chamber during the year.

The council interviewed Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., requesting that the box rent in the postoffice be not increased as so many ratepayers surrounding the city are holding boxes who cannot be served by mail delivery.

The following accounts were ordered to be paid:

The treasurer was instructed to refund Henry Beavis the taxes paid by him, as the property belongs to the municipality.

Council then adjourned.

BOYS REMEMBER THEIR TEACHER

Presentation of Lady's Companion To Miss Howson, East City

The boys of the Sunday school class of Miss Howson of the Mark street Methodist church met at the home of her sister, Mrs. McIntyre, Mark street, and presented her with a handsome lady's companion, accompanied by an address. The presentation was made by Albert Crowe, and the address, which was as follows, was ready by Ormond Girven:

Dear Miss Howson,—

We, the boys of your Sunday school class, wish to express to you our warm appreciation of your faithful services to us as our teacher during the past year. We may have seemed unappreciative at times during our class work, but we would have you feel that our attitude has not always been what it seemed. It is in our hearts to give an expression of some tangible nature at this glad Christmas time, and beg you to receive from our hands this lady's companion, with our warmest greetings.

Signed by
Ormond Girven, Albert Crowe, Horace Coon, Max Swanston, Willard Coon, Wesley Crowe.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound, or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube resored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

ORE TO BE TESTED AT EXAMINER

Supposed to Contain Gold and Silver—May be Rich Find

A quantity of ore has been left at the Examiner office, supposed to contain gold and silver. It may be seen at any time by mining men interested and tested. It is said to be of a good quality by the finder, and if so, something new in the line of mining will be heard of in Peterborough county.

"Blind Pig" or Decent Bar?

Under license, men drink moderately, and are restricted to good behavior. No Ontario licensed bartender dare sell to a drunken man, nor to a minor—his very living depends upon the decency of his bar.

Under local option, men drink by stealth and to excess—because there is no restraint. Local option substitutes the "blind pig" for the decent bar, and the seller welcomes minors.

Local option hurts the community that tries it. Owen Sound proves that.

In every community where local option has been tried, drunkenness has increased. In one Ontario town arrests for drunkenness have increased 80 per cent. under local option.

Naturally. For when men drink by stealth, hidden from the eyes of their community, they drink far more than they would (or would be allowed to) under license. Their self-respect, and the law, keeps them straight. Local option hides and increases intemperance—never checks it.

ARMY MAKING READY FOR CHRISTMAS

Band to Hold Usual Serenades—A Real Ship to be Built on Stage

The local Salvation Army corps is preparing for an unique Christmas. It has decorators at work on the platform now getting everything into shape for the great day.

The army band will leave the barracks at 8.30 on Christmas morning and will drive throughout the city in a bus serenading different residences until 1 o'clock. In the evening the Army will hold a concert in the barracks, which will in all probability prove a very interesting event.

There will be an immense ship built on the platform, and cabins, masts, etc., will be shown on the stage. On the ropes, Christmas gifts for the children of the Army will be hung. When the curtain goes up six maiden cadets dressed in sailor garb will sing "Pull for the Shore," and will gradually disappear into the cabin as the last verse is being sung. Then an old sailor dressed in oilskins and sou'wester' hat will descend from the lookout, and in a sailor-like way will give his account of the awful voyage which is supposed to be taking place, and will also give several of his awful experiences before the mast. This will be followed by the mysterious appearance of Santa Claus from somewhere in the cabin, and the distribution of presents will follow.

The band will hold a week of serenades following Christmas Day.

Why Beauty Fades

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and the nerves become exhausted, beauty fades, wrinkles show themselves, and the glow of health disappears and beauty curves give place to leanness and angles. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative, is woman's greatest blessing from youth to old age. A few weeks' use of this treatment will do wonders for any woman who is pale, thin, weak and nervous.

POWDER FACTORY WAS BLOWN UP

Twenty-Five Killed by Explosion at Palermo, Sicily.

OVER A HUNDRED INJURED

Whole Town Badly Shaken—Several Houses Fell In Ruins — Windows Smashed—Fire Broke Out Among Debris — People Thrown Into Panic by the Awful Shock—Emigrants Suffer Badly.

Palermo, Dec. 20.—A terrific explosion occurred last evening in the military powder magazine, where a large quantity of dynamite was stored, and was followed by a number of lesser explosions, the whole town being badly shaken and the people thrown into a panic. Almost immediately flames shot high in the air and spread to the ruins of houses that had fallen, adding greatly to the terror of those who were in the immediate neighborhood of the disaster.

It is estimated that about twenty-five persons were killed and a hundred others injured. Wild rumors followed fast upon the explosion, placing the numbers of killed and wounded into the thousands, and troops were ordered out to aid the firemen in clearing away the wreck and succoring the wounded. Several houses that stood above the magazine partially collapsed and their destruction was completed by the fire.

One of these was an emigrants' lodging house and a number of emigrants were killed.

CIVIC SCANDAL AT GUELPH.

Official Accused of Receiving Double Rental For House.

Guelph, Dec. 20.—Quite a sensation was created in the civic offices here yesterday, when William Stevens, a resident on Durham street, reported to Capt. Clarke, the city relief officer, that Mrs. Fisher, an old colored woman who lived in a miserable little shack on Durham street, and was considered by all her neighbors a most deserving subject for charity, had been paying $2.50 a month for rent of the front part of the shack in which she lived.

She was reported to have been paying this amount to David Scroggie, the city treasurer, also her landlord, who at the same time was said to be accepting $4 a month from the relief officer in payment of the rent.

When Mr. Stevens reported the case to Capt. Clarke he was referred to the mayor. The mayor seeing the seriousness of the charges, at once ordered an investigation, and called a meeting to consider the matter.

SHOT WIFE ON STREET.

Man Kills Woman Who Was Formerly Divorced, Then Suicides.

Akron, Ohio, Dec. 20.—Thomas Larimore, 39 years old, shot his wife, formerly Mrs. Lilian Summerton, through the head three times Wednesday night, and then put a bullet into his own brain. Both died shortly afterwards at a hospital. The shooting occurred on the street. The couple were married last summer after Mrs. Summerton's husband obtained a divorce. They did not live happily, and separated. Larimore left the city and returned only on Wednesday to seek reconciliation. The dead man had relatives in Shelby, Iowa.

Would Keep Out Japs.

Toronto, Dec. 20.—Speaking at last night's meeting of the District Labor Council, Mr. John Hodge, a Labor representative in the British House of Commons, briefly referred to the Japanese immigration question. "The Labor members in England will certainly stand by Canadian trade unionists," said Mr. Hodge. "After the war in South Africa the Labor party in England realized that the introduction of Chinese labor in that part of the hemisphere was a move to disorganize labor unions and get rid of the white man in certain lines of labor. Japanese immigration should be restricted." With regard to the immigration of mechanics from England, Mr. Hodge said that many of them had been misled by false statements as to the demands for labor in this country.

Didn't Know It Was Loaded.

St. Thomas, Dec. 20.—An accident which may prove fatal occurred yesterday morning at the residence of W. K. Cameron, barrister. Miss Heffernan, a trained nurse in attendance upon Mrs. Cameron, was shot through the neck by a 22-calibre rifle in the hands of Hugh Cameron. The lad was playing with the weapon, which was not supposed to be loaded, when it discharged, the bullet lodging in Miss Heffernan's neck. She was taken to the hospital.

Miracle and Optical Delusion.

Nancy, France, Dec. 20.—The diocesan authorities have investigated the alleged miracle reported to have occurred in the village church at Brin recently, and found it to have been an optical illusion, caused by the reflection of a church image upon the sacred water as the candles moved.

Engineer Stuck to His Post.

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 20.—Engineer Frank King, 50 years old, of Buffalo, N. Y., though ill and faint, stayed at his throttle till he brought his fast Lake Shore train safely into Collinwood yards yesterday. Then he stepped from his cab and in a few minutes was dead.

Thousands Present.

Rome, Dec. 20.—The Pope yesterday morning personally conducted the ceremony of the public consistory, which was attended by thousands of invited persons, especially foreigners.

Ten Killed In Wreck.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Dec. 20.—A northbound passenger train was derailed near Latacunga yesterday. Ten persons were either killed or seriously injured.

DETAILS OF TERRIBLE EXPLOSION

FIERCE FIRE RAGES IN PIT

Only One Man Escaped — Church Holiday Saved Many—Large Part of Mine Roof Fell In—Flames and Smoke Hinder Rescue Work—Fourth Calamity In District During Past Few Weeks.

Jacob's Creek, Pa., Dec. 20.—An explosion of gas in the Darr mine of the Pittsburg Coal Co., located here, yesterday entombed between 200 and 250 miners and there is scarcely a ray of hope that a single one of them will be taken from the mine alive.

Partially wrecked buildings in the vicinity of the mine and the condition of the few bodies found early in the rescue work indicate an explosion of such terrific force that it seems impossible that anyone could have survived it. All of the thirteen bodies taken out up to this time are terribly mutilated and three of them are headless.

This is the third mine disaster since the first of the month in the veins of bituminous coal underlying western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, for the Naomi mine near Fayette City and the two mines at Monongahela, W. Va., in which the earlier explosions happened are in the same belt as the local workings. Yesterday's catastrophe swells the number of victims of deadly mine gas for the nineteen days to between 550 and 600.

Church Devotion Saved Many.

That the disaster does not equal or surpass in loss of life and attendant horrors the one in West Virginia is due to the devotion to church duties of a considerable number of the miners. In observance of the church festival many of the 400 or more men regularly employed at the mine did not go to work yesterday morning. Those who escaped through this reason are members of the Greek Catholic Church and they suspended work to celebrate St. Nicholas Day.

Followed Brief Shut Down.

As was the case at Monongahela, the explosion followed a brief shutdown, the Darr mine having been closed Tuesday and Wednesday. It was just 11.30 o'clock when the tenth trip of loaded cars had been brought out to the tipple and there came an awful rumbling sound, followed immediately by a loud report and a concussion that shook nearby buildings and was felt within a radius of several miles. At the same time there came out of the mouth of the mine an immense cloud of smoke and dust that floated across the Youghiogheny river.

Within a few minutes after the explosion the mouth of the pit was surrounded by relatives and friends of the entombed men. The scenes were most pitiful. The smoke and flames issuing from the slope made it impossible to enter and the wives and children were frantic.

Every effort is being made to subdue the fire, but it was burning so fiercely that no headway could be made.

Lone Survivor's Story.

The ventilating fans were kept in operation almost without interruption, however, the power plant having withstood the force of the explosion, and up to this time the rescuers have found no fire in the mouth.

As far as known only one man who went to work in the morning escaped. Joseph Mapleton, a pumper, emerged from one of the side entries shortly after the explosion. He had left the part of the mines were most of the men were working and was on his way to the engine room for oil.

"I was near entry No. 21," said he, "when I heard an awful rumbling. I started towards the entry, but the next moment I was blinded and for a little time I did not know anything. Then I got to the side entry and worked my way out."

Mapleton was somewhat cut and bruised, but after going home and having his injuries dressed, he returned in the mines and joined the rescuing parties.

Inspired by Faint Hope.

William Kelvington, superintendent of the mine, was not in it when the explosion occurred, and he quickly organized rescuing parties, with reliefs at short intervals, in the main entry, and at a side entry. It is hoped to reach the greater part of the victims through the latter. So far little trouble has been encountered on account of gas or lack of air by the rescuers. While the officials and the rescuers have only the faintest hope that any of the men may be living, all work is being carried on on the theory that some may have found places of safety, and every point of the workings will be explored at the earliest possible moment.

Found Dead In His House.

Montreal, Dec. 20.—J. E. Caron, merchant tailor, was found dead in his home, Longueuil, early yesterday. The discovery was made by a next door neighbor named Tison. Not having noticed the deceased about for some days, Mr. Tison thought he was out of town. Yesterday when he noticed an odor emanating from the house, he decided to force the door, and was shocked to find Mr. Caron dead, and his body in an advanced state of decomposition. The coroner found that death was due to natural causes.

Was a Quebec Man.

Ottawa, Dec. 20.—The man supposed to have been J. Moore of Ottawa, who committed suicide in Alexandria last Monday night, has been identified as J. D. Champigny of Maniwaki, Que.

Season's Losses on Great Lakes.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 20.—The total loss to vessel property on the great lakes amounted to $743,500 for the season of 1907, according to figures compiled by marine men here. Thirteen steamers and one schooner were lost. Their total capacity was 29,906 tons.

In 1906 forty-four vessels were lost and during 1905 forty-eight ships.

WAS DISCOVERED 'UNDER BULLION CAR

Youth Found Concealed Beneath Buffalo Express at Philadelphia.

DARING ATTEMPTED ROBBERY

Train Contained Sixty Thousand Dollars In Gold Bullion—When Discovered William Hewitt Was at Work With a Saw—Made a Desperate Effort to Escape the Police—Yardman Gave the Alarm.

Philadelphia, Dec. 20.—Charged with making a daring attempt to rob a car on the Buffalo Express, containing $60,000 gold bullion, while the train was standing in the Reading terminal Wednesday night, William A. Hewitt, who gives his address as 336 West Fifteenth street, New York, was yesterday held in heavy bail for a further hearing.

A yard man while at work on a track adjoining the one on which the express train stood heard a peculiar grating noise, and on investigation discovered Hewitt under the bullion car at work with a saw on a gas pipe.

The police say they are working on the theory that Hewitt probably expected to enter the car after he had extinguished the lights and loot it unobserved.

Hewitt, who is 21 years old, gives the impression of a man of education and refinement, who had adopted desperate methods to secure funds. He was unarmed and had but 15 cents. The young man has a mother living at St. John, N. B. Recently he had charge of the billiard-room of a local hotel, and worked at the Somerset Club in Boston. From the latter city Hewitt went to New York and then came to this city, he says, and walked the streets all of Tuesday night.

THE FIRE RECORD.

Power Station Damaged and Cars Stopped at Hamilton.

Hamilton, Dec. 20.—Another fire occurred last night at the Cataract Power Co.'s sub-station at Irondale. It started on the roof under the slates, and considerable damage was done to the transformers by water. The power was turned off when the fire was going on, and the street cars were stopped for an hour and a half. This was inconvenient to theatre-goers, and those who attended the oratorio at the Armories had to walk home.

Forest, Dec. 20.—Forest's best industry, the flax mill, was totally destroyed by an incendiary fire early yesterday morning, and 30 hands are thrown out of work. The loss will be $4,000, insured for $2,500.

London, Ont., Dec. 20.—A stable belonging to J. Luxton, 14 Oxford street, was burned last night. A cow was burned to death.

TIRED OF SCANDAL.

King Leopold Denounced as "Royal Gallant" In Senate.

Brussels, Dec. 20.—M. Hibers, Socialist, created a scene in the Belgium Senate yesterday by endorsing the attack upon King Leopold delivered recently before the Chamber of Deputies by M. Vanveride, the Socialist leader in the Chamber. M. Elbers declared that the country was tired of the perpetual scandal in connection with King Leopold. He characterized the King as a "royal gallant," who was always on his way to visit a new family in France.

France Will Not Interfere.

Paris, Dec. 20.—Advices received here under yesterday's date from the French Minister at Teheran give a more optimistic view of the present situation in Persia and indicate that the existing deadlock between the Shah and the Persian Parliament probably will be straightened without recourse to arms.

It is pointed out here that France is not immediately concerned in the internal politics of Persia, and that her only excuse for intervention would be the protection of French subjects.

The opinion is held in official circles that it will be difficult and delicate for either Great Britain or Russia to interfere in Persia as the Anglo-Russian convention regarding Persia is economic and not political.

Prediction of Another Disaster.

New York, Dec. 20.—That the new Hudson memorial bridge planned to span the Spuyten Duyvil Creek and to cost $4,000,000, is liable to furnish New York with a bridge horror surpassing the recent disaster at Quebec, is the fear expressed by Engineering News in its issue of yesterday, which says:

"The accumulated knowledge and experience of the engineering profession is not now sufficient to build a concrete arch of 103 feet span with the assurance of safety that the public properly demands."

A Suit For Libel.

St. John, N.B., Dec. 20.—William A. Quinton, steward of the Provincial Hospital for Nervous Patients, and a former member of the Legislature, has instructed John Kerr, solicitor, to begin criminal proceedings against A. A. Clarke, one of the candidates nominated on Wednesday evening in the opposition's interests in St. John County. Clarke in his nomination speech made statements reflecting on Quinton, and insinuating that he had converted to his own use and profit hay, wood and other things cut on Government property.

LONDON MURDER TRIAL.

Robert Wood Acquitted of Crime at Camden Town.

London, Dec. 20.—A jury yesterday acquitted Robert Wood, a young artist, who was charged with the murder of Emily Dimrock, a girl of the streets, who was found dead in bed on Sept. 9, with her throat cut, in a house in Camden Town. The trial was a dramatic one. And the unsavory details brought out in the evidence caused great excitement.

Model School Scholars Honour Their Principal

Was Presented With a Shaving Set At The Closing Entertainment of Norwood School — Interesting Programme Enjoyed

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Examiner Special.

Norwood, Dec. 18th. — On Friday evening the Modelites held their closing entertainment in the town hall. Mr. Henry Bennett of Toronto rendered several selections, which were appreciated by all. During the programme Miss Mina Throop read the valedictory, in her usual pleasing manner, after which she was presented with a beautiful bouquet of flowers, by Miss May Loughridge. Another interesting feature of the evening was the presentation to Mr. J. Frappy, principal of the Model School, of a shaving set, accompanied by an address read by Miss Mary Anderson.

Mr. C. Jones of Peterborough, was in town on Tuesday.

Mrs. C. W. Miller and daughter, Marjory, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. Nocol.

The death occurred on Friday morning of Mrs. Roraback, sr., at the age of 89 years. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon, from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Murphy, and proceeded to the Norwood cemetery for interment.

Miss Gertrude Squire returned to Montreal on Monday, having spent the last three weeks at her home here.

Mrs. George Kempt was in Tilsonburg last week visiting with Mrs A. B. Richardson.

Mr. W. E. Pakenham was in Toronto last week.

Miss M. E. MacLachlan is spending a few days in Toronto.

Miss Bessie Rose of Havelock, was in town on Monday.

A union meeting will be held in the Methodist church on Wednesday evening when Rev. Beverley Smith, Toronto Junction, will address the congregation on Local Option.

Dr. A. M. Weldon, spent Sunday in Peterborough.

Mr. D. J. McLean of Lindsay, was in town on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sykes of Warkworth, were guests at the home of Mrs. J. Forsythe last Friday.

Mrs. James Mullen and Miss O. L. Stephenson of Montreal, Que. are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stephenson.

Mrs. D. N. King, is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mrs. A. Kempt, sr., returned last week from Mooretown, Ont., where she has spent the last few months visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Brightwell.

Misses A. Bryans and A. Holcomb of Havelock, were the guests of Miss Grace Reynolds, on Friday.

Mr. Lloyd spent a few days at his home near Springbrook.

Mr. T. Pace of Edmonton, Alta., was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Squire over Sunday.

Mr. F. H. Bert returned from the west last week.

Havelock Young Men Need Rooms For Winter Months

Correspondent Writes Interesting Article on a Scheme That Is Being Promoted in Behalf of Young Men

IT SHOULD BE STARTED

Examiner Special.

Havelock, Dec. 21.—The citizens of Havelock and especially the young men are at present clamouring for the erection of a club house in town, the necessity of one of some kind being felt to a great degree. A few years ago there was an effort among the young men to establish a club in Havelock, but by some mishap the scheme failed to materialize.

It is quite likely that it will be more than a slight effort this time as several of the most prominent men in town are in favour of it.

The C.P.R. employ a large number of young men at this point and while not working, they have no amusement of any kind and as a result we find them putting in their spare time by loafing around the station, street corners or hotels. There are also a considerable number of men in town who have nothing to do or nowhere to go to spend the evening and as a result we find them in the same places as the others.

A person who is in favour of this scheme brought the matter before our citizens in an article in the Havelock Standards last week and all are strongly in favour of it. In his letter, he said that when interviewed about this project, Reeve Thompson said that he would give this object his active support and also financial assistance.

The expense would be very little, for the erection of a building about 25 x 60, one storey high, equipped with library, reading room and tables for the sum of $2,000. The C.P.R. recognizing the great benefit that would ensue to their employees would certainly give the club a liberal donation as well as a yearly payment for maintenance. They have done it for other railway towns and would certainly do it for Havelock.

It is quite likely that the council would give a good subscription towards this object as it would benefit the town and each of the churches and societies would likely do the same. The Havelock Electric Light Co. has offered free lights for the building and the club would draw a grant from the government for the library.

If a membership fee of about $2 a year was charged, all members would have a reading and amusement room properly heated and cared for, and by charging that fee, the club would be self-supporting.

The clergymen of the town should take an active interest in this matter and impress the want of it on their congregations. They are working for temperance and this would be a good move in favour of it.

All that is wanted is some one to start the scheme and the rest will be easily managed. If a meeting of the citizens was called and the matter carefully discussed and then appoint a committee, it would be well under way. The committee could then see the C.P.R. council, churches, societies, etc., and they would soon find out that the project could be easily handled. The club could do a little themselves to help out the finances. There is some fine talent in Havelock and the young men could get up a drama or concert of some kind which would certainly pay well.

POLICE COURT IS TOO SMALL

Lawyers are Complaining—Hardly Room To Move Inside the Railing

Now that improvements have been commenced on the local police court it is to bad to have them stopped until the room looks like a court. Between the prisoners' dock and the magistrate' sthrone there is only a space of about three feet. In this space there are two tables—one used for the reporters and the other for the prisoners' counsel.

When the scribes of the three papers gather around this little table there is very little room to write, and the lawyers have to squeeze between the prisoners' dock and the reporter' table.

A prominent lawyer who appeared yesterday in the police court, said in the presence of several other members of the bar that there should be more room, that the reporters should sit at a bench placed in a semi-circle around the court, and that the lawyers should each have a seat assigned to them, instead of being crowded the way they are at present. The other lawyers approved of this suggestion, and thought that Peterborough should have a court something after the pattern of the Toronto police court.

BELL TELEPHONE MAY SELL TO ROBLIN

Company Now Negotiating in Manitoba —Offer Has Been Made

Winnipeg, Dec. 20.—Premier Roblin last night announced definitely that President Sise had opened negotiations for the sale of the Bell telephone system, but had not yet set a figure on the property.

President Sise of the Telephone Company and his son had been in conference with the Provincial Government almost all day. It is understood that the Bell Company is willing to retire from the field rather than engage in competition with the Government, provided acceptable terms can be arranged, and provided Saskatchewan and Alberta will buy out the lines in those Provinces.

In case, however, Manitoba and Alberta should purchase, and the Bell system still remain in Saskatchewan, it would act as a buffer between the two public systems, and might militate to a certain extent against the efficiency of both.

Manitoba has up to the present expended more than $200,000 in surveys and in construction work, and is making plans for a vigorous prosecution of the work in the spring. A new exchange is already started, and a large amount of conduits has been laid in the city streets.

THE TOBOGGAN SLIDE OPENS

New Check Room For The Convenience of Patrons

The toboggan slide at Jackson Park is open again. A large crowd gathered at the park last night to have the first shoot down the slide. The Street Railway Company's workmen who are employed at the park were kept busy giving out toboggans, and before 8 o'clock there were fifty being used on the slide. The five slides were open last night and all were in first-class condition.

The tobogganists and skaters will welcome a long-felt want at Jackson Park—a check room. Here the patrons may have their coats, boots, etc., checked, and there is no fear now, of having their apparel stolen.

The men were employed all last night on the rink and hope to have it ready in a day or two. A formal opening will take place with the band in attendance when the rink is in good shape.

Great credit is due Mr. J. H. Larmonth, manager of the street railway, who was responsible for getting the slide in shape so soon. In former years the slide was never repaired until after there were evidences that winter had set in, but this year the slides were repaired during the autumn months, so as to have ice on them as early as possible.

FOOD DISTRIBUTED TO THE POOR

The Ladies of George Street Methodist Church Made Their Rounds Yesterday

Yesterday afternoon the members of the Ladies' Aid of George street Methodist church met, and sent provisions and clothing to more than 20 families deserving of it throughout the city, regardless of denomination. These provisions had been previously handed in by members of the congregation. One man sent in a chest of tea, and among the other articles received were a quarter of beef, several bags of potatoes, and food of various descriptions.

The supply was exceptionally large, which was much appreciated by the ladies as well as by the recipients in need.

Store Decoration

That Alex. Gordon, butcher, Market Arcade, is one of the most enterprising in the city is thoroughly proven if you will have a look at his store, which has been so tastefully decorated with evergreens, Christmas trees and coloured streamers. Altogether, the store has an extremely holiday appearance. There is row after row of beef, lamb, pork, and mutton, that is guaranteed and is, beyond a doubt, specially fattened and killed for Alex. Gordon's Christmas trade. Then again, there are quantities of the finest fowl that one would want to look at. Turkeys, ducks, chickens and geese to no end. If you want to have a thoroughly good Christmas dinner, order your meat and fowl from Alex. Gordon, Market Arcade.

Holiday Buying Should Be Done Now

Every days delay means that you must choose from a smaller selection.

We have hundreds of Christmas articles especially selected for this particular time of the year and commonly for you.

Unless you personally look over our stock you cannot possibly know of the great variety of goods, nor can you imagine how beautiful they are either in value or attractiveness.

Purchases will be laid away if desired until Christmas Eve.

HENRY LUDLOWE
As Richard III. at Grand Opera House, Thursday and Friday, Dec. 26-27

"HENRY LUDLOWE" IN RICHARD, III. AND "THE MERCHANT OF VENICE"

The story of a life's ambition, is the story of Mr. Henry Ludlowe, who will appear at the Grand opera house on Thursday, in "Richard III," and on Friday, as Shylock, in "The Merchant of Venice." Mr. Ludlowe, a man of magnificent physique, and powerful, excellently modulated voice, was trained in the school of Booth, Salvini, Barrett, and their like. He attained rank as a faithful student, a clear interpreter of Shakspere—in fact a youth of fine dramatic power and pleasing stage deportment. In the very height of his activity, when he had already become known as a distinguished tragedian, he retired. But not for the rest of a wealthy youth. His retiremet was to study, and his ambition to become great. Sometimes he appeared for charity, and then his efforts were looked upon as the splendid result of hard and long study, and his true appreciation of the character he acted was dictated by a rare artistic sympathy.

Perfectly equipped he returns to the stage in the very fullness of robust manhood. He has surrounded himself with a carefully selected company of well known Shaksperian players, and will use all the scenery, costumes, parathernalia used by the late Mr. Richard Mansfield.

CHINESE SETTLERS PAY POLL TAX

Between 80 and 100 On Each Steamer From The Orient

Montreal, Dec. 20. — (Special.) — The Chinese Restriction Act passed by the Dominion Parliament is very effectual in restricting, while it does not prohibit Chinese immigration, is clear from a statement made at the Canadian Pacific general offices to-day by an authority who has a thorough knowledge of the traffic. Of a train load of Chinese who reached Montreal this week from the Pacific coast having come over from the Far East by the last Canadian Pacific steamer, only one paid the $500.00 poll tax, and remained in Montreal. The others to the number of one hundred and fifty went through to the British West Indies and the Central American republics.

Most of those who settle in Canada said the authority in question, pay their poll tax, and remain in British Columbia. The number who do this range from ninety to one hundred by each steamer. Under the provisions of the act they must not exceed one hundred and twenty. In some rare cases the capitation tax is paid by the Chinaman himself; but in ninety-eight cases out of a hundred, it is paid by compatriots who hold the new-comers in a condition of practical bondage until the amount advanced in respect of the tax is refunded.

REPRESENTATIVE FOR THE SCHOOL

Important Body Intends to Nominate Member for Civic Honors

There is talk of the "school" nominating one of their number for alderman. The school is none other than the market clerk's office, where some of our best citizens have occasion to assemble, and, of course, civic matters is one of the subjects on the daily time-table. As a result, all the "scholars" are well versed in "what's what" in the city's welfare. The latest movement is to make an effort to have a representative in one of those chairs in the City Hall.

Nothing definite has been decided, but it is quite possible that a local cattle buyer who is the lecturer on civics will be nominated.

Mr. George Stevens Replies To Mr. Hartley's Statements

Latter, He Says, Knew All About The Pamplets—Statement Of Monies For a Christmas Present

CALLS HIM CHEAP WONDER

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Sir, — Allow me through your columns to stop the lies that have been been sent out by Mr. David Hartley, through your paper, and others. Now, I have read and re-read them from time to time and have let him go on, as it did not touch me. In your paper of the 19th inst., he comes right at me, and says that the the pamphlets were got without his knowledge. That is as straight a lie as ever a man told. He knew all about them. He went as far as the Palmer House corner, Toronto, and told me that I could do the business, and he would go on to the track. They were printed by the Mail Job Printing Company, York street, Toronto, one block down from where we stood. I left the order, paid $5.00 deposit on them, and we met at the dear old Woodbine, where I reported to Mr. Hartely. Now, I came home that night, and my son Charley went to Toronto on Tuesday to attend to Hartley, and on Wednesday morning or Thursday morning Charley and David Hartley went to the printing office, and Hartley read the proof, and said that it was all right. They then went on and printed them. Now my son did not know where they were being printed, and I was not there, so the public can see who led the boy to the right shop to read the proof. I put them around town and have collected them all except from three or four people, and I will treat your readers to a statement for a Christmas present, the evening before Christmas, of both the trips, and give them dollar for dollar received. I think they will consider after they read it that he is not only a walking wonder, but a CHEAP wonder. I might say for an eye-opener that my son was three days and all one night with him, and he paid the boy for washing and tending to him like a baby. Now when the public sees the statement I think the Examiner won't have any issues to throw away—the people will want to buy all, and more, than will be issued. Facts are stubborn things. Thanking you, I am yours truly.

GEORGE STEVENS.

EMPLOYEE OF THE C.G.E. INJURED THIS MORNING

Slight Wound Over One of His Eyes Required Attention

Mr. F. Lamb, of the C. G. E., received a slight injury this morning while at work. A cut was received over one of his eyes and necessitated a couple of stitches by Dr. Young the Company's physician.

THE G. T. R. WRECK IS CLEARED AWAY

Reported Investigation Was Favourable To Employees

The wreck on the G.T.R. at Auburn has been all cleared away and the broken timbers and twisted iron were lifted on flat cars by the auxiliary derrick and taken away yesterday. The men engaged in the work lost no time and certainly made a record by disposing of the engine, tender and cars as rapidly as they did. The ground is ploughed up as it a couple of torpedo mines had been fired. The work was conducted under the supervision of Mr. John Irwin, of Lindsay.

It was reported in railway circles yesterday that Driver Fee and Fireman D. O'Brien were summoned to an investigation that Mr. Irwin conducted. According to the report no blame was attached to them. This seems to be substantiated by the fact that they were back on the Lakefield run to-day and thus the whole affair has been straightened out.

The Remarkable Fortune Of An Eastern Voyager

Pocket Book Containing $60 Lost On An Iceberg—Retains It's Position

RECOVERED BY OWNER

Truro, N.S., Dec. 19.—The boatmen crossing between Cape Tormentine and the Island tell a most remarkable story of a lost pocket book. The story, were it not vouched for would hardly be accepted, but there seems to be no doubt of the truthfulness of it. Here it is:—

Last Saturday a traveller while going to the Island lost his pocket book in the ice somewhere out in the straits. He had very little idea where; but he knew he had it when he left the Cape and he missed it before he reached the other side. The book contained nearly $60 and represented the man's savings for a considerable time. The crews of the ice boats very generously came to his aid and raised about $18 with which they presented him, and the man continued his journey homeward. Now for the remarkable part of the story. Wednesday the boats were making the usual crossing and when far out in the strait, the head boat turned up a small object from the ice, but the crew did not notice it. It remained for the crew of the boat in which the Islander travelled to pick up the little object, which proved to be the pocket book, and not a dollar was missing or injured. During the time it was lost that pocket book probably travelled miles up and down the strait, as the ice was continually on the move. Those who are acquainted with the conditions out in the strait at this season declare that this find might not occur again in a million years. Conductor Trueman remarked that he would hardly expect to recover a load of hay if lost in the same manner. Some years ago while crossing at this point, it became necessary for the boatmen to lift out a number of trunks in order to lighten the burden. They were placed on a large cake of ice and the men hoped to recover them the next day, but they were never seen again.

"Collegiate Echoes" Makes It's Third Annual Bow

Official Organ of Institute is a Credit to The Editorial Staff And To The School—A Bright, Well Written Newsy Paper That Makes Interesting Reading

ON SALE AT BOOK STORES

The first issue of the third volume of the "Collegiate Echoes," the organ of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute has just been published and has met with the unqualified approval of every one who has seen it. The current number of the paper is the best yet issued and the editorial staff is to be congratulated upon the bright newsy sheet they have prepared. There are fourteen pages of well written reading matter, containing much that is interesting not only to present pupils of the Collegiate, but to those who have left that institution for ever and in fact to citizens of Peterborough generally. Two new features have been introduced and have been cordially received. One is a column devoted to current events and the other is headed "Ex-Pupils," and deals in an interesting manner with the erstwhile pupils of the bigger school of life.

The old features have been retained. There are essays on such interesting topics as "Asiatics in British Columbia," by R E Balfour, "South Africa After the War," by Miss Gertrude A Yenny, and on "Water Effects," by Miss Kathleen Wallis. Miss Katie Leary has an original Christmas story well written and amusing. The movements of the Philomathean Society are chronicled in a concise and interesting manner by Miss Clara Adams. An article on the annual inspection of the Cadet Corps is embellished with an excellent cut of the members. The additional page is a credit to the paper, dealing in a broad and vigorous manner with matters that are of moment just now, including the Canadian Club and the public library problem.

The sporting editor has a well written column while "Corridor Cullings" continues its humourous references to amusing incidents of school life and few pupils escape the wit of the reporters. Another column that has caused much amusement is that containing a number of comic advertisements of which this a sample: "Lost, a valuable method of combing hair. Finder will be rewarded on leaving same with C. A., Form III."

Speaking of advertising, the merchants of the city seem to have recognized the Echoes as a good medium and a large number of local advertisements appear in the current issue.

The Board of Education in voting a grant to the paper has made no mistake as Collegiate Echoes is a credit to the Institute and to the Board.

Colin W Lees is the editor in chief of the progressive journal. The joint editors are Miss Gladys Crane, Miss Katie Leary, M J Dobbin and E S Pringle, while the business interests of the publication are being looked after by a business board composed of M. J. Dobbin, A Cameron and G. Rankin.

MR. HARRY RUSH FOR MAYOR

Elsewhere appears the announcement of Mr. H. Rush's acceptance of the candidature for the Mayoralty for 1908. Seldom, if ever, has a candidate entered the field with so strong, so flattering advance evidences of the public confidence. On Wednesday a deputation waited upon Mr. Rush to present him with a monster requisition signed by five or six hundred ratepayers, asking him to allow his name to be placed in nomination for Mayor. Mr. Rush, for he is no office-seeker, took the request under consideration, and today the ratepayers generally will notice in another column Mr. Rush's letter of acceptance of the Mayoralty candidature. Mr. Rush has the qualifications for an ideal mayor. He is a man of first-rate business ability, shown by having made a success of his own business. He is level-headed, steady, well-balanced, and of matured judgment. He has a substantial interest in the city, being a large property owner. He has no personal ambitions; his only object in accepting candidature is his desire to serve and promote the interests of this city. He has had four years' experience as alderman, and in that capacity gave exceptionally valuable service. He is possessed of sound common sense and shrewd business sense. His work in putting the city in possession of the Hilliard Farm is one of the evidences of his business foresight and acumen. Mr. Rush has the qualities to make him a safe, sane and careful head of the corporation. The city is fortunate in having Mr. Rush accept nomination, but it will be far more fortunate if it selects him as mayor for 1908. It is felt by many that we need somebody to apply the brakes a little; that we are going at rather a swift pace, and a man of Mr. Rush's solidity, personal integrity and substantial quality is needed to steady the operation of the municipal machinery. Opinion is widespread that electors will make no mistake, but do a good thing for themselves and the city by making Mr. Harry Rush Mayor of Peterborough for 1908.

Strathconas Had a Great Turn Out Last Night

A Score of Men Were Out in Uniform and Workout Was a Lively One—The Forwards Show up Brilliantly

OUT TO-NIGHT AGAIN

The fans that watched the Strathconas at practice last night were delighted with the workout and went away satisfied that there will be something doing in the hockey line this season after all. Nearly two score players were out during the hour, and the way they "dug in" were than pleased the management. Most of the men seemed to be in good shape and tore away for sixty minutes at a terrific clip. The feature of the practice was the splendid work of Dobson, McMillan, Weatherston and Dusty. The young quartette was tried out as a forward line and showed up in great shape, ringing in some effective combination and shooting splendidly. Weatherston shows a big improvement from last year in this respect and was boring them in from left wing in a manner that kept the goalkeeper on the hop. The other three did some pretty stick-handling and skating and all will be heard from before long. Dobson proved himself a great goal getter, his shooting at close range being splendid.

Among the new men out were Armstrong, formerly of the Mic-Macs of Smith's Falls, and Donegan, last year in Berlin. It was their first pearance on skates, but both showed good form. Wally Parnell, who is responsible to a considerable extent for the showing of the Straths in the past, was on the ice in uniform, and coached the forward line. Leo Derocher was in the nets and put up a fine game, blocking shots in a manner indicating that he will be an awkward proposition to opposing teams this winter.

Dick Baker, who has produced such wonderful results with the Y.M.C.A. Harriers, is looking after the training of the team and already has the men in good shape. He has had the majority of them at work for weeks taking long runs, and the result is shown by the fact that they are ready, as far as condition goes, to play a game any time.

Among those out last night were Weatherston, McMillan, Dobson, Derocher, Dusty, Donegan, Armstrong, Parnell, Clarke, McWilliams, Hillier, Hall, Curtis, Mann and Barber.

The team will practice to-night between 7 and 8 o'clock, and every member is expected to be out in uniform.

Toronto Section of The B.A.C. Coming on New Year's Day

Challenge Local Hockeyists Who Are Described as an Obsolete Aggregation—Ambulances Will Be Needed

HOW CHALLENGE READS

New Year's Day in Peterborough will be heralded in by one of the greatest of hockey matches of the year. It will take place between the Peterborough and Toronto sections of the B.A.C., which have been talking hockey for six months and getting in training for the event. The official challenge arrived to-day. The Toronto section will be captained by Albert McKay, who is said to be a whole team at point. Among the others in the Queen City aggregation will be R. Norman Jolliffe, baritone, who will act as janitor for the team and supply the "base" work on the ice; M. J. Hutchinson, late of the Peterborough section; Ross Dobbin and possibly Sam Moore may be one of the attractions. The exact line-up will be published in the near future. The official challenge reads as follows:—

After due consideration, and with a malice aforethought, or words to that effect the Toronto section of the B.A.C. hereby challenges the now practically obsolete and toothless home contingent of the same organization to a game of hockey (presumably) the same to take effect between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock on the morning of Wednesday, January 1, 1908 in the Brook street rink, Peterborough, each team to supply its own splints, bandages, ambulances, doctors and undertakers, the game to be played for a dinner, paid for by the losing team, and the same to be partaken of on the day proceeding the game, and paid for by the Peterborough section.

Signed on behalf of the Toronto branch,

ALBERT MACKAY,
Captain.
R. NORMAN JOLLIFFE,
Janitor and Manager.

THE INTERPROVINCIAL UNION

Peterboro' Will be Represented at The Meeting in Toronto

Mr. Ross Cameron will represent the Peterborough Rugby Club at the meeting of the Interprovincial Rugby Union, at the King Edward Hotel, in Toronto, to-morrow. The locals were asked to have a representative present, and at a meeting of the executive this week it was decided that Mr. Cameron should be the delegate. The Peterborough club will make a strong bid for admittance into the Interprovincial Union, relying on the support of Montreal in their fight. It was through playing Montreal that Peterborough fell from grace in the eyes of the O. R. F. U., and the Easterners promised to support the locals in their efforts to join the big union. The principal thing to be discussed to-morrow is that of expansion.

SPORTING NEWS AND VIEWS.....

The Strathconas will practice to-night at seven o'clock and a full turn out is expected. After this week the Straths will practice on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Those who have not secured membership tickets must do so at once from the secretary of the Strathconas at the Examiner office.

CHINESE CHRISTMAS IS TO-MORROW

Occasion Falls on Sunday But Will Be Celebrated the Day Before

Sunday is the Chinese Christmas, and the score or so of Celestials who reside in the city are making preparations for the celebration which will take place to-morrow. In the different Chinese laundries the employees have been hard at work getting through their washings in order to have it ready to-night, as no work will be done to-morrow if it can be avoided. The Chinamen will celebrate the day in their own way, and will enjoy themselves as if they were home in faraway China.

TRIBUTE TO THE DEAD.

Hundreds View Remains of Late Mr. Tarte Lying in State.

Montreal, Dec. 20.—Dressed in the Windsor uniform the remains of the late Hon. J. Israel Tarte were viewed yesterday by hundreds of people at the residence of L. J. Tarte, the ex-Minister's son. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and several of his colleagues will attend the funeral. Messages of condolence to the family were received from Earl Grey, the Prime Minister and most of those who had been in the Government with Mr. Tarte, as well as from the Quebec Premier, and all the leading newspaper men of the land.

The death of Hon. Mr. Tarte will not interfere with the position of The Patrie, as his sons have been conducting that paper for some time past.

HISTORIC TRAIL ALONG THE PEACE RIVER, THE WATER OF STILLNESS; THE HAPPY SELECTION OF A NAME

The Land With the Summer Like Islands Of Greece — In The Shadow of The Majestic Hills

THE BEAUTY OF THE LAND

Is there a name in Canadian topography about which a more haunting glamour gathers than about those three mystic words, Peace River Trail? We are speaking of the glamour of things as they are today, not of that which clings around certain historical localities from immemorial deeds and conflicts. In that respect, too, the Peace River Trail has its fair share of romance; the roll of its heroes is long and notable, and their memory is deeply enshrined in the hearts of the people. But there is no need to project ourselves into the past in order to catch the glamour of those three words; it is a glamour of to-day, of things as they are, of a land separated from the Montreal of 1907 not by the impassable barrier of time, but the easily traversed barriers of space. Barriers? we say. What barrier is there when a man can step from a palace car run straight out of Winnipeg and find himself in close contact with the uttermost ends of the earth? Edmonton has two railways and will shortly have four. It is the nearest gateway into the Land of Heart's Desire. It has a summer like the islands of Greece, and it is the outer door of the North Pole.

Peace River! The name haunts. Amid the mighty-sounding titles of those vast rivers of the northern watershed— Athabasca, Saskatchewan, Great Slave — That single, weighty monosyllable stands out like a monolith. It seems as if the genius which is required for the discovery of great rivers and great natural features of any kind is closely allied with the poetic genius required for their proper naming. Certain it is that the men who baptized the great rivers of the world have ever been particularly fortunate in their selection of names; and "Peace River," in its daring simplicity, its imaginative symbolism, is among the happiest of such poems.

The River of Stillness

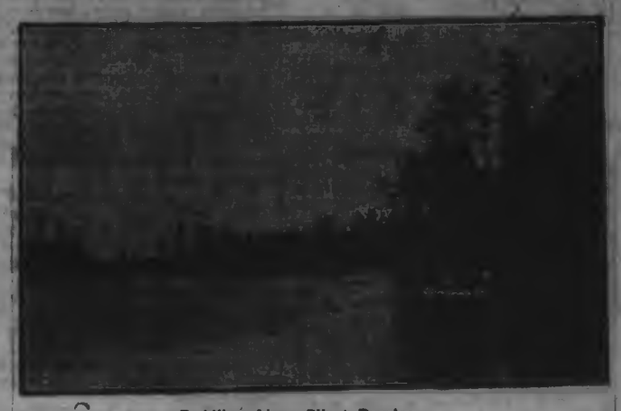
"Reaching from one's very feet away back into the distance until lost in a curve of the hills, the broad ribbon of sparkling water, reflecting the green of the timbered islands with the blue of the sky, seems to carry in its depths the secret of the ages past, as it surely does the secret of those to come. . . From where the river breaks through the Continental Divide (the Rockies), making a canyon which is destined to become world-famous, and the bottom of which no living man has ever seen, to Fort Vermilion, a distance of 550 miles, its bed is a trough-like depression of ever-decreasing depth below the level of the surrounding country, ranging from 1,200 feet at the canyon's mouth to about 60 feet at Fort Vermilion. The average width of this trough is about three miles from rim to rim."

It was not the behaviour of the river itself, placid though that is, which suggested Peace to the first white discoverers. There is an atmosphere about all this northern land, an atmosphere which the district above Edmonton possesses in a peculiar degree, an atmosphere in which Nature seems to stretch out a mighty, soothing hand over all the insignificant troubles of human life. It is a fascination that is hard to analyze. Partly it may be due to elevation; the atmosphere is rarified enough to be inimical to the health of a few people with very weak hearts. Chiefly, probably, it comes of the climatic operation of the Rocky Mountains, in sending up to a great height above the surface of the earth those aerial disturbances which here in the East touch us from a sky that we seem as if we could reach with the hand.

The Railway Limit.

Lines of latitude are not much guides for climate. Edmonton is a few miles north of Liverpool, speaking geographically. But it is also a great many miles north of Winnipeg, which is a tolerably cool place at the right time of the year, and it is the most noteworthy main line railway station on the continent except its two next door neighbours five or ten miles further.

Edmonton undoubtedly has a very severe winter, though whether appreciably severer than that of Winnipeg may be doubted. But its summer is one of the most wonderful things on earth. There is not the slightest climatic reason why Edmonton should not become as great a community as Winnipeg, and there are excellent economic reasons why it should become nearly so. Winnipeg to-day is as commonplace and as old world as Chicago, and the chief interest of its streets is in the passing show of Icelanders, Roumanians, Galicians, curiosities from the unknown quarters of the old continents. Edmonton is the only readily accessible place on the continent where one can come in contact with the old life of the old pioneers of Canada unspoiled by railways and untainted by "civilization."



Paddling Along Silent Reaches.

The Beauty of the Rolling Land

No one would accuse the ordinary prairie country of Western Canada of beauty. For two brief seasons of the year—when the young green wheat pushes its head above ground and ripples to the lightest breeze like a sea; and again when that same wheat turns to the fullest and richest of gold and beckons for the harvester, the landscape presents an attractive scene. It may be that the market quotation enters a little into the aesthetic feeling provoked by the latter scene. But the rolling country of the district behind Edmonton, is sheer beauty in itself at any season of the year. There is a majesty about these hills, smooth as an English down, with the grass of ages, rolling knoll behind, knoll as far as eye can reach, that is very different from the mere spaciousness of the prairies. There is a mystery about these dense packed clusters of trees so close that man cannot penetrate far into their midst, so thickly leafed the eye can scarcely descry the birds that inhabit them. Photographs do but a poor justice to this elusive, suggestive beauty. As well photograph the Northern Lights that make the night a thing of overwhelming grandeur, whenever there is any night lasting more than an hour or two; for in summer it is scarcely longer than that the suggestion of daylight is absent from the northern sky. Only a few hundred miles separate this land of magic from the absolute commonplaceness of Kansas, and not a single natural barrier comes in between.

Here, within an easy jaunt of the railways the rarest fur-bearing animals of Canada flourish, and Edmonton itself, and the posts back of it, are the headquarters of an enormous trade with the Indians and half breeds, who live by the pursuit of animals. It is this quality of the closeness of high civilization and culture—for Edmonton is a government town and boasts an extremely desirable society of its own—and the most picturesque phases of wild life that makes this part of Canada peculiarly attractive.

You will not find these points of the picturesqueness of the life of Northern Alberta, nor of the beauty of its landscape, nor of the fascination of its atmosphere and the glory of its northern lights, nor even of the allurements of its social attractions, put forth in the advertising literature of the province, and quite rightly, for they are not considerations that affect the average settler.

And yet there may still be a few people who would like to move out west if they could be assured that it is not dead-level prairie as devoid of trees as of the pleasures of society and the delights of nature.

If there are such they should consider the case of Edmonton and the Peace River country. The latter is only beginning to be discovered as far as agriculture is concerned. An American farmer who passed through the country on an exploring tour two years ago had this to say of the Edmonton District which lies mainly to the back and north of the provincial capital.

"After travelling for the last six months through the Dakotas and Minnesota, and through many districts in the Canadian Northwest, and carefully examining all these different states and provinces and districts, I have come to this conclusion, that for all purposes as a general farming country I am satisfied with the Edmonton district. I look for a great future for it as an agricultural country. I have never seen its natural resources beaten anywhere in my travels. I go back to my old home in Illinois and return perfectly satisfied with the country, and in the near future I shall return and purchase country real estate. As to the city of Edmonton, it certainly has a bright future before it, and is bound to make a great city of Northwest Canada. I shall return and purchase residence property in the city this spring. On my return home I have a large circle of acquaintances who are land seekers and I will fully reveal all the good qualities of the Edmonton district to them. Upon examination of the grains produced in the Edmonton district, I pronounce them far superior to grains raised on our Illinois lands worth $150 per acre."

Here is part of the official crop bulletin No. 1, 1907, in so far as it refers to Central Alberta: "The past season has been one of unparalleled prosperity for the Alberta farmer, farmer, and it is to be regretted that the final report on the yields of the various grains, as compiled from returns made by threshing machine operators, is not yet available for publication owing to threshing operations having been delayed.

"It should be borne in mind when studying crop bulletins issued by this department that the yields given are based upon threshers' measure, and not by weight, thus the actual yield is much heavier than that reported. For example, the standard weight of oats per bushel is 34 lbs., but those grown in Alberta average from 40 to 48 lbs. per measured bushel; therefore the yield of oats if given by weight would be at least one-fifth to two-fifths greater, bringing the estimated average yield for 1906 up to fully 50 bushels per acre.

"The following are the averages for the province of the various grains based upon returns to date:

	Bush.
Spring wheat	22.76
Winter wheat	23.34
Oats	40.82
Barley	29.04
Flax	10.14
Rye	22.61
Spelts	27.91

Three-quarters of the Province of Alberta is in a state of nature. The Peace River district, in spite of the fact that it sent to the Chicago World's Fair of 1893 a sample of grain which captured a first prize, is only just beginning to be understood. The idea that further north means sharper cold has been the handicap of Northern Alberta, and it is not true. Apparently, too, the idea has prevailed that the further west one went the nearer to the Rockies and the higher in elevation, the colder it would also grow. People argued that because the centre of the continent is cold, and the Red River country has severe winter, the ditions further west must be even worse. But as a matter of fact the shelter of the Rocky Mountains and the tempering warm winds of the Pacific Ocean make the climate of Alberta a delightful one. This has been recognized of the southern portion of the province, and is equally true of the northern part. Any map showing the northern line of growth of trees and cereals, shows a wonderful curve to the north taking in the whole of Northern Alberta. The same is true of isothermal lines. A surveyor who recently went down the Mackenzie River Valley stated on his return that wheat could be grown a thousand miles north of Edmonton.

Regular lines of steamers ply on the Athabasca and Peace Rivers, and by using the waterways it is possible to make a most enjoyable and instructive pleasure trip through the north country. It is regularly taken by those in search of adventure and sport, and it is not uncommon nor particularly difficult for ladies to make the trip for a great distance northward. Here may be felt to the full that strange fascination of the wild north of which so much is to be read in the literature of the day. In a few years the country will be almost as full of farmers as the south districts, but its wonderful atmospheric and scenic attractions will always remain.

FIRST SIGNS ARE IN THE BACK

Best Not to Neglect Nature's Danger Signals When Kidneys are Involved

ANYONE CAN PREPARE IT

Take care of backache. A great many cases of kidney complaint are reported about here, also bladder trouble and rheumatism.

An authority once stated that pain in the back, loins or region of the kidneys is the danger signal nature flings out to notify the sufferer that there is something wrong with the kidneys, which should receive immediate attention. Only vegetable treatment should be administered, and absolutely no strongly alcoholic patent medicines, which are harmful to the kidneys and bladder.

The following prescription, while simple, harmless, and inexpensive, is known and recognized as a sovereign remedy for kidney complaint. The ingredients can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy, and anyone can mix them: Compound Kargon, one ounce; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle, and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

This preparation is said to restore the natural function of the kidneys so that they will sift and strain the poisonous waste matter, uric acid, etc., from the blood, purifying it and relieving rheumatism. Backache will be relieved, the urine will be neutralized and cleared, and no longer a cause of irritation, thereby overcoming such symptoms as weak bladder, painful, frequent and other urinary difficulties.

MARTIN-ORME PIANOS

June 30, 1905.
I was greatly surprised and delighted with the Martin-Orme Piano I played on last night. I found it to be one of the most grateful of all the upright pianos I have ever tried.

That was two years ago. Mr. Puddicombe writes now:

I have had ample opportunity of testing the Martin-Orme wearing quality in the Conservatory here, and it is perfectly satisfactory.

The Helmet of Navarre

A STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE

BY BERTHA RUNKLE.

Copyright by The Century Co.

"Very well, Sir Majordomo," M. Etienne rejoined indifferently, "so be it you give it to me when I go." He grasped the handle of the box, and we followed our guide up the stair, my master offering me the comforting assurance:

"It really matters not in the least, for if we be caught the dagger's not yet forged can save us."

We were ushered into a large, fair chamber hung with arras, the carpet under our feet deep and soft as moss. At one side stood the bed, raised on its dais; opposite were the windows, the dressing table between them, covered with scent bottles and boxes, brushes and combs, very glittering and grand. Fluttering about the room were some half dozen fine dames and demoiselles, brave in silks and jewels. Among them I was quick to recognise Mme. de Mayenne, and I thought I knew vaguely one or two other faces as those I had seen before about her. I started presently to discover the little Mlle. de Tavanne: that night she had worn sky color and now she wore rose, but there was no mistaking her saucy face.

We set our box on a table, as the duchess bade us, and I helped M. Etienne to lay out its contents, which done I retired to the background, well content to leave the brunt of the business to him. It was as he prophesied: they paid me no heed whatever. He was smoothly launched on the third relating of his tale; I trow by this time he almost believed it himself. Certes he never faltered, but rattled on as if he had two tongues, telling in confidential tone of our father and mother, our little brothers and sisters at home in Florence; our journey with the legate, his kindness and care of us (I hoped that dignitary would not walk in just now to pay his respects to madame la generale); of our arrival in Paris and our wonder and delight at the city's grandeur, the like of which was not to be found in Italy, and last, but not least, he had much to say with an innocent, wide-eyed gravity, in praise of the ladies of Paris, so beautiful, so witty, so generous! They were all crowding around him, calling him pretty boy, laughing at his compliments, handling and exclaiming over his trinkets, trying the effect of a buckle or a bracelet, preening and cooing like bright-breasted pigeons about the corn-thrower. It was as pretty a sight as ever I beheld, but it was not to smile at such that we had risked our heads. Of Mlle. de Montluc there was no sign.

No one was marking me, and I wondered if I might not slip out unseen and make my way to mademoiselle's chamber. I knew she lodged on this story, near the back of the house, in a room overlooking the little street and having a turret window. But I was somewhat doubtful of my skill to find it through the winding corridors of a great palace. I was more than likely to meet some one who would question my purpose, and what answer could I make? I scarce dared say I was seeking mademoiselle. I am not ready at explanations, like M. le Comte.

Yet here were the golden moments flying and our cause no further advanced. Should I leave it all to M. Etienne, trusting that when he had made his sales here he would be permitted to seek out the other ladies of the house? Or should I strive to aid him? Could I win in safety to mademoiselle's chamber what a feat!

It so irked me to be doing nothing that I was on the very point of gingerly disappearing when one of the ladies, she with the yellow curls, the prettiest of them all, turned suddenly from the group, calling clearly:

"Lorance!"

Our hearts stood still—mine did, and I can vouch for his—as the heavy window curtain swayed aside and she came forth.

She came listlessly. Her hair sweeping against her cheek was ebony on snow, so white she was; while under her eyes were dark rings like the smears of an inky finger. M. Etienne let fall the bracelet he was holding, staring at her, oblivious of aught else, his brows knotted in distress, his face afire with love and sympathy. He made a step forward; I thought him about to catch her in his arms, when he recollected himself and dropped on his knees to grope for the fallen trinket.

"You wanted me, madame?" she asked Mme. de Mayenne.

"No," said the duchess with a tartness of voice she seemed to reserve for Mlle. de Montluc; "'twas Mme. de Montpensier."

"It was I," the fair-haired beauty answered in the same breath. "I want you to stop moping over there in the corner. Come look at these baubles and see if they cannot bring a sparkle to your eye. Fie, Lorance! The having too many lovers is nothing to cry about. It is an affliction many and many a lady would give her ears to undergo."

"Take heart o' grace, Lorance!" cried Mlle. de Tavanne. "If you go on looking as you look to-day you'll not long be troubled by lovers."

She made no answer to either, but stood there passively till it might be their pleasure to have done with her, with a patient weariness that it wrung the heart to see.

"Here's a chain would become you vastly, Lorance," Mme. de Montpensier went on, friendly enough, in her brisk and careless voice. "Let me try it on your neck. You can easily coax Paul or some one to buy it for you."

She fumbled over the clasp. M Etienne with a "Permit me, madame," took it boldly from her hand and hooked it himself about mademoiselle's neck. He delayed longer than he need over the fastening of it, looking with burning intentness straight into her face. She lifted her eyes to his with a quick frown of displeasure, drawing herself back; then all at once the color waved across her face like the dawn flush over a gray sky. She blushed to her very hair, to her very ruff. Then the red vanished as quickly as it had come; she clutched at her bosom, on the verge of a swoon.

He threw out his arms to catch her. Instantly she stepped aside and, turning with a little unsteady laugh to the lady at whose elbow she found herself, asked:

"Does it become me, madame?"

The little scene had passed so quickly that it seemed none had marked it. Mademoiselle had stood a little out the group, monsieur with his back to it, and the ladies were busy over the jewels. She whom mademoiselle had addressed, a big-nosed, loud-voiced lady, older than any of the others, answered her bluntly:

"You look a shade too green-faced to-day, mademoiselle, for anything to become you."

"What can you expect, Mme. de Brie?" Mlle. Blanche promptly demanded. "Mlle. de Montluc is weary and worn from her vigils at your son's bedside."

Mme. de Montpensier had the temerity to laugh; but for the rest, a sort of little groan ran through the company. Mme. de Mayenne bade sharply, "Peace, Blanche!" Mme. de Brie, red with anger, flamed out on her and Mlle de Montluc equally:

"You impudent minxes! 'Tis enough that one of you should bring my son to his death, without the other making a mock of it."

"He's not dying," began the irrepressible Blanche de Tavanne, her eyes twinkling with mischief; but whatever naughty answer was on her tongue our mademoiselle's deeper voice overbore her.

"I am guiltless of the charge, madame. It was through no wish of mine that your son, with half the guard at his back, set on one wounded man."

"I'll warrant it was not," muttered Mlle. Blanche.

"Mar has turned traitor and deserves nothing so well as to be spitted in the dark," Mme. de Brie cried out.

Mademoiselle waited an instant, with flashing eyes meeting madame's. She had spoken hotly before, but now, in the face of the other's passion, she held herself steady.

"Your charge is as false, madame, as your wish is cruel. Do you go to vespers and come home to say such things? M. de Mar is no traitor; he was never pledged to us, and may go over to Navarre when he will."

It was quietly spoken, but the blue lightning of her eyes was too much for Mme. de Brie. She opened her mouth to retort, faltered, dropped, her eyes and finally turned away, yet seething, to feign interest in the trinkets. It was a rout.

"Then you are the traitor, Lorance," chimed the silvery tones of Mme. de Montpensier. "It is not denied that M. de Mar has gone over to the enemy; therefore are you the traitor to have intercourse with him."

She spoke without heat, without any appearance of ill feeling. Hers was merely the desire, for the fun of it, to keep the flurry going. But mademoiselle answered seriously, with the flectingest glance at M. le Comte, where he, forgetting he knew no French, feasted his eyes recklessly on her, pitying, applauding, adoring her. I went softly around the group to pull his sleeve; we were lost if any turned to see him.

"Madame," mademoiselle addressed her cousin of Montpensier, speaking particularly clearly and distinctly, "I mean ever to be loyal to my house. I came here a penniless orphan to the care of my kinsman Mayenne, and he has always been to me generous and loving."— —not madame," murmured Mlle. Blanche to herself.

"—as I in my turn have been loving and obedient. It was only two nights ago he told me M. de Mar must be as dead to me. Since then I have held no intercourse with him. Last night he came under my window; I was not in my chamber, as you know. I knew naught of the affair till M. de Brie was brought in bleeding. It was not by my will M. de Mar came here—it was a misery to me. I sent him word by his boy that other night to leave Paris; I implored him to leave Paris. If instead he comes here he racks my heart. It is no joy to me, no triumph to me, but a bitter distress, that any honest gentleman should risk his life in a vain and empty quest. M. de Mar must go his ways, as I must go mine. Should he ever make attempt to reach me again and could I speak to him I should tell him just what I have said now to you."

I pressed monsieur's hand in the endeavor to bring him back to sense; he seemed about to cry out on her. But mademoiselle's earnestness had drawn all eyes.

"Pshaw, Lorance! banish these tragedy airs!" Mme. de Montpensier rejoined, her lightness little touched. A wounded bird falls by the rippling water, but the ripples tinkle on. "M. de Mar is not likely ever to venture here again; he had too warm a welcome last night. My faith, he may be dead by this time—dead to all as well as to you. After he vanished into Ferou's house no one seems to know what happened. Has Charles told you, my sister!"

"Ferou gave him up, of course," Mme. de Mayenne answered. "Monsieur has done what seemed to him proper."

"You are darkly mysterious, sister."

Mme. de Mayenne raised her eyebrows and smiled as one solemnly pledged to say no more. She could not indeed say more, knowing nothing whatever about it. Our mademoiselle spoke in a low voice, looking straight before her:

"If heaven willed that he escaped last night I pray he may leave the city. I pray he may never try to see me more. I pray he may depart instantly—at once."

"I pray your prayers may be answered, so be it we hear no more of him," Mme. de Montpensier retorted, tired of the subject she herself had started. "He was never tedious himself, M. de Mar, but all this solemn prating about him is duller than a sermon." She raised a dainty hand behind which to yawn audibly. "Come, mesdames, let us get back to our purchases. Ma foi! it's lucky these jeweller folk know no French."

M. Etienne was himself again, all smiles and quick pleasantries. I slipped off to my post in the background, trying to get out of the eye of Mlle. de Tavanne, who had been staring at me the last five minutes in a way that made my gooseflesh rise, so suspicious, so probing was it. On my retreat she did indeed move her gaze from me, but only to watch M. le Comte as a hound watches a thicket. It was a miracle that none had pounced on him before, so reckless had he been. I perceived with sickening certainty that Mlle. de Tavanne had guessed something amiss. She fairly bristled with suspicion, with knowledge. I waited from breathless moment to moment for announcement. There was nothing to be done; she held us in the hollow of her hand. We could not flee, we could not fight. We could do nothing but wait quietly till she spoke, and then submit quietly to arrest; later, most like, to death.

Minute followed minute, and still she did not speak. Hope flowed back to me again; perhaps, after all, we might escape. I wondered how high were the windows from the ground.

As I stole across the room to see, Mlle. de Tavanne detached herself from the group and glided unnoticed out of the door.

It was thirty feet to the stones below—sure death that way. But she had given us a respite; something might yet be done. I seized M. Etienne's arm in a grip that should tell him how serious was our pass. Remembering, for a marvel, my foreign tongue, I bespoke him:

"Brother, it grows late. We must go. It will soon be dark. We must go now—now!"

He turned on me with an impatient frown, but before he could answer Mme. de Montpensier cried with a laugh:

"And do you fear the dark, wench? Marry, you look as if you could take care of yourself."

"Nay, madame," I protested, "but the box. Come, Giovanni. If we linger we may be robbed in the dark streets."

"Why, sister, where are your manners?" he retorted, striving to shake me off. "The ladies have not yet dismissed me."

"We shall be robbed of the box," I persisted; "and the night air is bad for your health, my Nino. If you stay longer you will have trouble in the throat."

He looked at me hard. I tried to make my eyes tell him that my fear was no vague one of the streets, that his throat was in peril here and now. He understood; he cried with merry laughter to Mme. de Montpensier:

"Pray excuse her lack of manners, duchessa. I know what moves the maid. I must tell you that in the house where we lodge dwells also a beautiful young captain—beautiful as the day. It's little of his time he spends at home, but we have observed that he comes every evening to array himself grandly for supper at some one's palace. We count our day lost an we cannot meet him by accident on the stairs."

They all laughed. I, with my cheeks burning like any silly maid's, set to work to put up our scattered wares. But despair weighed me down; if we had to remember ceremony we were lost. The ladies were protesting, declaring they had not made their bargains, and monsieur was smirking and bowing as if he had the whole night before him. Our one chance was to bolt; to charge past the sentry and flee as from the devil. I pulled monsieur's arm again and muttered in his ear:

"She knows us; she's gone to tell. We must run for it."

At this moment there arose from down the corridor piercing shriek on shriek, the howls of a young child frantic with rage and terror. At the same time sounded other different cries, wild, outlandish chattering.

"The baby! It's Toto! Oh, ciel!" Mme. de Mayenne gasped. "Help, mesdames!" She rushed from the room, Mme. de Montpensier at her heels, all the rest following after.

All, that is, but one. Mlle. de Montluc started as the rest, but at the threshold paused to let them pass. She flung the door to behind them and ran back to monsieur, her face drawn with terror, her hand outstretched.

"Monsieur, monsieur!" she panted. "Go! you must go!"

He seized her hand in both of his.

"O Lorance! Lorance!"

"Go! go! An you love me, go!"

The door was flung open; Mlle. de Tavanne stood on the threshold. They started apart, monsieur leaping to his feet, mademoiselle springing back with choking cry. But it was too late; she had seen us.

She was rosy with running, her little face brimming over with mischief. She flitted into the room, crying:

"I knew it! I knew it was M. de Mar! The gray eyes! M. le Duc has done with him as he thought proper, forsooth! Well, I have done as I thought proper. I unchained Mme. de Montpensier's monkey and threw him into the nursery, where he's scared the baby nearly into spasms. Toto carried the cloth-of-gold coverlet up on top of the tester, where he's picking it to pieces, the darling! They won't be back—you're safe for a while, my children. I'll keep watch for you. Make good use of your time. Kiss her well, monsieur."

"Mademoiselle, you are an angel."

"No, she is the angel," Mlle. Blanche laughed back at him. "Im but your warder. Have no fear; I'll keep good watch. Here, you in the petticoats, that were a boy the other night, go to the further door. Mme. de Nemours takes her nap in the second room beyond. You watch that door; I'll watch the corridor. Farewell, my children! Peste! think you Blanche de Tavanne is so badly off for lovers that she need grudge you yours, Lorance?"

She danced out of the door, while I ran across to my station, Mlle. de Montluc standing bewildered, ardent, grateful, half laughing, half in tears.

"Lorance, Lorance!" M. Etienne murmured tremulously. "She said I should kiss you"——

I put my fingers in my ears and then took them out again, for if my ears were sealed how was I to hear Mme. de Nemours approaching? But I admit I should have kept my eyes glued to the crack of the door; that I ever turned them is my shame. I have no business to know that mademoiselle bowed her face upon her lover's shoulder, her hand clasping his neck, silent, motionless. He pressed his cheek against her hair, holding her close; neither had any will to move or speak. It seemed they were well content to stand so the rest of their lives.

Mademoiselle was the first to stir; she raised her head and strove to break away from his locked arms.

"Monsieur! monsieur! This is madness! You must go!"

"Are you sorry I came?" he demanded vibrantly. "Are you sorry, Lorance?"

His eyes held hers; she threw pretense to the winds.

"No, monsieur; I am glad. For if we never meet again we have had this."

"Aye. If I die to-night I have had to-day."

Their voices were like the rune of the heart of the forest, like the music of deep streams. I turned away my head ashamed and strove to think of nothing but the waking of Mme. de Nemours.

"I thought you dead," she moaned, her voice muffled against his cheek. "No one would tell me what happened last night. I could not devise any way of escape for you"——

"There is a tunnel from Ferou's house to the Rue de la Soierie. His mother — merciful angel — let me through."

"And you were not hurt?"

"Not a scratch, ma mie."

"But the wound before? Felix said"——

"I was put out of combat the night I got it," he explained earnestly, troubled even now because he had not obeyed her summons. "I was dizzy; I could not walk."

"But now, monsieur? Does it heal?"

"It is well—almost. 'Twas but a slash on the arm."

"Oh, then have I no anxiety," she murmured, with a smile that twinkled across her lips and was gone. "I cannot perceive you to be disabled, monsieur."

"My sweeting!" he laughed out. "If I cannot hold a sword yet I can hold my love."

"But you must not, monsieur," she cried, fear, that had slept a moment, springing on her again. "You must go, and this instant, while the others are yet away. I knew you, Blanche knew you; some other will. Oh, go, go, I implore you."

"If you will come with me."

A WONDERFUL CURE OF RHEUMATISM

THE CAUSE An excess of uric acid and ureates are deposited in the tissues of the body and joints, causing aches and pains which are called rheumatic.

All the various causes of rheumatism, such as the acute, articular, muscular and gout, have the same common cause—Uric Acid.

To effect a satisfactory cure the uric acid must be removed. This can only be done by introducing into the circulation a remedy which will dissolve the uric acid and stimulate the action of the excretory organs.

No Case That Ferrozone Can't Cure

The remarkable success of Ferrozone is due to the fact that it attacks the disease in the blood. It goes right to the root and cause of the trouble.

Ferrozone is a perfect solvent for uric acid and quickly destroys its evil effect. It stimulates and quickens the sluggish circulation and drives every trace of rheumatic poison out of the system.

Rheumatism Can't Last If FERROZONE Is Used.

We have conclusive proof of this. The strongest possible endorsements from people who have been cured after all else failed. If you suffer from rheumatism yourself, or in case you have a friend or relative subject to this disease, read the following—they tell their own tale.

LIFE-LONG CRIPPLE CURED

Mr. Louis Noll, 15 Fulton street, New York, N. Y., writes: "Ever since boyhood I have been a sufferer from rheumatism. My joints were twisted and swollen, and the pain at times was really intense. I used gallons of liniments, vapor baths, and other treatments, but was first noticeably relieved by Ferrozone. It cured me perfectly after taking twelve boxes."

Mr. Henry Heer, Pharmacist, 23 Eldridge Ave., New York, vouches for Mr. Noll's absolute cure. He says: "Mr. Noll has been freed from chronic rheumatism by Ferrozone. For years he has not been so well, and today shows no signs of rheumatic trouble. It is a pleasure to recommend Ferrozone."

The BEST remedy for rheumatism that science has produced is Ferrozone—it is unquestionably the only sure and lasting cure. Sold everywhere by druggists. Price 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50—by mail to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. POLSON & CO., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

"But our well is a pump!" exclaimed Myrtle so dolorously that even the mother, intolerant of superstition, had to laugh.

"It doesn't have to be your own well," explained old Mrs. Prentiss, with a defiant glance at her daughter-in-law. "It says that if you look into a well at midnight on Halloween you will see reflected in the water the face of the man you are to marry—if you are destined to be a bride within the year."

"Now, mother, stop putting foolish notions into Myrtle's head," exclaimed Myrtle's mother. "I've tried all these years to keep such things away from her, and now you are filling her mind with arrant nonsense."

The grandmother made a gesture of dissent.

"We didn't call it nonsense in our day, Susie," she protested. "We used to have a lot of fun bobbing for apples and all that sort of thing. I guess Myrtle can be a good girl, even if she does bother her pretty head about the Halloween rites. It's high time she tried them, anyhow. We can't go back again when we grow up and find out what we've missed as children."

The younger Mrs. Prentiss shrugged her shoulders. Her own youth had known no such foolish fancies. She had been brought up with Puritan rigidness and sought to mold Myrtle's mind, even as her own had been formed, in the rigid cast of conventionality.

At eighteen Myrtle had never had any of the childish diversions, and the advent of her paternal grandmother, with this new lore of Halloween, was like the visit of a fairy godmother. It was the first time she had seen her father's mother since, as a child of four, she had been brought west, and already the kindly old lady had completely won Myrtle's heart.

The revelation of the Halloween mysteries was the most important disclosure yet made, and Myrtle threw herself with interest into the idea. Her grandmother lamented that there was not time to prepare for a Halloween party, but it was agreed that Myrtle should prove her fate by the well test. Wells were few, but in the orchard was a walled spring, and this, it was decided, would answer the purpose.

Myrtle had never had a sweetheart. Sweethearts for very young girls were frowned upon as being frivolous, and talk of love had been rigidly discouraged. At the time even her mother could not prevent Seth Haskin from blushing redly under his tan when he chanced to encounter Myrtle, and, though he had been refused permission to make the weekly call, which in that section was the preliminary declaration of more serious intention, the girl was more acutely conscious of his presence than of the few other men she met in town or on her weekly visit to church.

Her grandmother, a born matchmaker, had already sensed the situation, and if Myrtle's mother had known that the old lady had found opportunity to drop a hint to Seth her passive acquiescence in this frivolity would have become active opposition. As it was, she argued that since Mother Prentiss' stay was to be short it would be possible to regain her lost ground after the old lady should have returned home.

In John Prentiss his mother found an able ally. He gleefully recalled his own Halloween celebrations and insisted that he could still duck for apples with the best of them.

"Next year," he shouted, "we'll have a regular party, mother. I haven't felt so young in years." He bent again over the tub to plunge his ruddy face after the elusive apple, and his wife, grimly regarding the unseemly performance, shook her head in disapproval.

But Prentiss was too absorbed in his fun to notice the head shake, and he insisted upon trying all the tests he knew. Almost before they knew it the clock struck 11 and then half past, and Myrtle, shivering deliciously over the adventure, stole softly through the orchard to the bubbling spring.

There was no moon, but stars spangled the sky, and their light made it bright enough to see her reflection in the little pool. Obedient to instructions, she leaned over the placid surface and began to repeat the verse her grandmother had taught her. Her heart stood still as she heard the approach of footsteps, but her blood froze in horror when two men took their stand on the other side of the hedge and began to talk of their plans.

"The train will be along in about thirty minutes," said the first. "I bet she gets smashed up some this time."

"Best job I ever did," was the response. "Jim's the engineer, and he won't see that the rail is out until they're right on it. They'll be in the gully before they know what struck 'em. We'll have the safes an' away before they get a hint."

She needed to hear no more of the conversation to guess at the identity of at least one of the speakers. For nearly a year the southwest had suffered from the depredations of a gang of train wreckers who operated only when heavy consignments of specie were being carried by the express companies.

In place of the usual holdup they derailed the train, often with heavy loss of life, and made away with the express safes before the first excitement was over. Half a mile beyond was a ravine bridged by a wooden trestle. It was evident that they had removed the spikes from one of the rails and that the train would pitch into the gulch.

Even as she knelt over the spring wondering what it would be best to do the sound of a bell came floating down from the house—the signal that it was 12 o'clock. In the water of the pool a second face was reflected, and Myrtle gave a sigh.

"If it only was you, Seth," she whispered. "I need you so."

"It is Seth," came the answer in a whisper. "What is it, dear?"

Even in her excitement Myrtle thrilled deliciously at the word. It was the first time any one had called her "dear" in that tone. She half rose to her feet.

"There are two men on the other side of that hedge," she whispered. "One is Bill Logan and the other one of his men. They are going to throw the express into Cat creek."

Their whispering was so low that it could not be heard by the men in the shadow of the hedge. Seth, coached by Myrtle's grandmother, had approached so softly that even Myrtle had not heard him coming, and the outlaws, ignorant of their espionage, talked freely of their plans.

From their talk it was evident that they were armed. Seth was not. But there were a lot of fallen branches on the ground about them, and cautiously he selected two stout sticks.

With catlike stealth he stole toward the hedge where he judged the two men to be. With a stick in either hand he separated the shrubs until he was able to bring his clubs down with crushing force upon the skulls of the two outlaws.

Before they could recover from the shock he had sprung upon them, gaining possession of their guns, and while Myrtle flew to the house for aid he stood watch.

Ten minutes later the two men were trussed up and were being carried to the house, while Seth made his way up the track to signal the approaching train. The others of the gang had taken fright at the noise and had fled, and when the train was brought to a standstill within a safe distance from the loose rail the two robbers were piled on board to be taken into town when repairs had been made.

Three months later there was a quiet little wedding, and Myrtle went to live on the farm that Seth had purchased with the reward paid for the apprehension of Logan. As the last of the guests left the house the elder Mrs. Prentiss turned to her daughter-in-law.

"It looks as though there were some truth in Halloween superstitions," she said comfortably.

"Helping me out?" echoed Mrs. Prentiss. "Why, I was helping Seth out. That's what Halloween is for."

The Traveler Guessed Well.

A captious traveler in northern Arkansas stopped by a fence to criticise a scar cornfield which met his disapproval. "Mighty small corn you have there!" he shouted to the man who was superintending the growth from a shady corner.

"Yep," said the Arkansan. "Planted the small kind."

"Looks mighty yellow to me for this time of year."

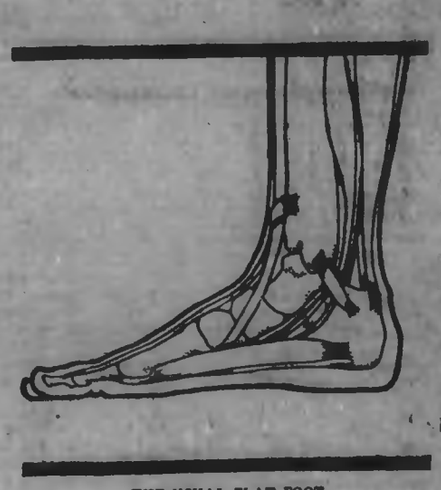
"Yep. Planted the yellow kind."

"Well," said the traveler severely, "I can't understand your method of farming. You won't get over half a crop there."

"Nope," said the Arkansan cheerfully. "You are shore a good guesser, stranger. Half a crop exactly, that's mine. I planted this on shares."—Youth's Companion.

HIGH ARCH AND HIGH INSTEP

"One of the 14"



THE USUAL FLAT FOOT

THE USUAL FLAT FOOT IN THE USUAL SHOE

THE USUAL FLAT FOOT IN A DOLLY VARDEN SHOE

No woman can have a clever foot without a high arch and high instep and no woman can have these vital foot beauty requisites unless her arch is firmly supported from below.

Flat foot is common to everybody in a marked or moderate degree. If marked, pain and inability to walk are the penalties. If moderate, an even greater feminine penalty is inflicted—ugly feet.

The foot is a chain of small bones held together in an arched position by powerful ligaments and muscles. The pressure from above stretches these ligaments and muscles, letting down the arch and instep in a flat position. The extent of the flatness depends upon the strength of the muscles. The strong suffer less than the weak, but all suffer either the disease of flat foot, or the humiliation of low instep, low arch and foot homeliness.

Dolly Vardens are built with a newly devised steel arch, powerful but pliant, which absolutely prevents flat foot, relieves those afflicted with the disease, and gives the wearer who wants smart, dashy feet, the enviable high arch and high instep.

In the States or Canada at the same price—$4.00 to $5.00. Every pair Goodyear welted.

EXPECTED TOO MUCH.

The Hotel Clerk Thought the Guest Got His Money's Worth.

"A friend of mine has gained considerable notoriety among the boys," said a drummer, "on account of his antipathy for many of the inhabitants to be found in the hotels of many of the small country towns. Many a time he has been known to leave his bed in the middle of the night to search for more comfortable and agreeable quarters. Recently he landed at a small town. I happened to be there that night, and when I saw him enter I immediately scented trouble. That place was known for the droves of rats which swarmed about the premises, and if there was anything my friend abhorred it was a rat. Well, he got his room. I was sitting in the lobby reading about an hour after he had retired when suddenly I was startled by a sudden racket on the upper floor. It was followed a few seconds later by my friend, his clothes under his arm, making a hurried exit from his room. Running up to the hotel clerk, he expostulated excitedly against the rats.

"'They ran all over the bed and all over the floor. Finally I tried to shoo them out. I turned on the light, and there were two big ones in the center of the floor fighting like tigers.'

"'Well, what do you want for 50 cents,' calmly asked the clerk, 'a bull-fight?'"—Exchange.

THE PIANO'S SOUL.

It Is Imparted to the Instrument by the "Scale."

"Every piano factory," said a piano manufacturer, "employs what we piano men call a 'scale.' It would be too long for me to explain to you all about it, but in piano making the 'scale' is the man who after all else has been done imparts to the piano its soul.

"I cannot tell you how they do it. They do not know themselves, and no man can teach another. It is born, like all art. The 'scales' are very few and hard to get, and we pay them handsome wages. But they are as difficult to manage as the great tenors of grand opera and as sensitive as women. Like all artists, they are forever squabbling among themselves about little things, and, as you may guess, jealousy is their besetting evil.

"But I have not yet explained what the 'scale' does. When a piano is all string and tuned and ready to leave the factory, the 'scale' sits down to it all alone and screws it to pitch. His ear is so true, his hand so fine and his sense of the reasons for sound is so delicate and exquisite that when he has finished his work that which was a mere box containing strings has become a voice that can sing if you know how to make it sing. The 'scale' has given it a soul—a part of his own soul."

Didn't Please the Critic.

When Verdi was putting the last touches to "Il Trovatore" he was visited in his study by a privileged friend. The friend was one of the ablest living musicians and critics. He was permitted to look at the score and run over the "anvil chorus" on the pianoforte. "What do you think of that?" asked the master. "Trash!" said the connoisseur. Verdi rubbed his hands and chuckled, "Now, look at this and this," he said. "Rubbish!" said the other, rolling a cigarette. The composer rose and embraced him with a burst of joy. "What do you mean?" asked the critic. "My dear friend," cried Verdi, "I have been making a popular opera. In it I resolved to please everybody except the purists, the great judges, the classicists, like you. Had I pleased you I should have pleased no one else. What you say assures me of success. In three months 'Il Trovatore' will be sung and roared and whistled and barrel organed all over Italy."

The American Author.

The chief thing in the average American novel is the amazing vitality of the author. He writes always at the top of his voice. His strenuousness is unceasing. The reader can almost see the swollen veins on his forehead, the tight drawn mouth and flashing eye. It is do it or die. And he never knows where to stop. With his feverish anxiety to make points he does not seem to realize when he has achieved his purpose and frequently fizzles out ineffectively. He has ideas. He has vast quantities of material. He has a command of language, a fatal fluency that frequently leads to his downfall, for he lacks a sense of values. He lacks self restraint. He is full of tricks and artfulness, but he is not an artist.—London Saturday Review.

Well Preserved.

"I told Miss Knox today," said he, "that the only word that properly described you was 'peach.'"

"Indeed?" replied Miss Bute. "I suppose she said something 'real nice,' as usual?"

"Well, she said: 'I suppose that is the proper word. At any rate she looks well preserved.'"

Bobby's Reason.

Little Bobby was saying his prayers at his mother's knee, but so rapidly that she asked him why he did not speak more slowly.

"Because, you know," he replied, "it would keep all the other children waiting."

Didn't Find Out.

"So you really attended the lecture last night?"

"Yes."

"What did the lecturer talk about?"

"Well, I'm not sure, for he didn't say."—Lyceumite and Talent.

A Natural Laxative

Inward cleaning is as necessary as outward bathing. To keep the bowels free and regular is of even greater importance than to keep the skin-pores from becoming clogged. The neglect of either invites disease. Everyone needs a natural laxative occasionally, to free the bowels of accumulated impurities For this purpose take the greatest boon ever offered to those who suffer from the ills that follow constipation. For over fifty years Beecham's Pills have been famous as a Stomach corrective, a Liver regulator and Bowel laxative. They never gripe nor cause pain. Powerful purgatives are dangerous. Avoid them. Use Beecham's Pills. They give relief without doing violence to any organ. Their action is in harmony with physical laws. Take them regularly and the necessity for their use becomes less frequent. They are a natural laxative and a positive cure for Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache and Dyspepsia.

B E E F

Beef extracts contain only the flavor and stimulating elements of beef—the nutritive values are lost in the making. Baron Liebig, the inventor of beef extracts, admitted that. He said "It is but a condiment and stimulant, containing no matter capable of sustaining life."

That is where BOVRIL differs from beef extracts.

BOVRIL does contain the nourishment and life-sustaining elements of beef as well as its rich flavor.

BOVRIL gives strength and nourishment to the invalid. With its help you can make left-over scraps into delicious consommes, bouillons and soups with very little trouble.

SAYS THIS IS BEST

A leading health journal in answering the question, "What is the best prescription to clean and purify the blood?" prints in a recent issue the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion one ounce;
Compound Salatone, one ounce;
Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, four ounces.

Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

This mixture will clean the blood of all impurities. In just a few days the skin begins to clear of sores, boils and pimples. It puts vigor and energy into run-down debilitated men and women. For many years Sarsaparilla alone has been considered a good blood medicine. But while it built up and made new blood, the impurities remained within and the good accomplished was only temporary. Sarsaparilla, however, when used in combination with Compound Salatone and Extract Dandelion, works wonders. This combination puts the kidneys to work to filter and sift out the waste matter, uric acid, and other impurities that cause disease. It makes new blood and relieves rheumatism and lame back and bladder troubles.

YOU CAN EASILY OPERATE THIS TYPEWRITER YOURSELF

Don't worry you correspondent.

Don't write him anything by hand that takes him time to make out—that may leave him in doubt, that he an easily read.

And don't fill out legal papers or send memos—or make out accounts or hotel menus in your own handwriting, own hand writing.

You can write outyour letters—make out any hotrot—fill in an insurance policy—enter your cardmems—makeout your accounts, or hotel menu—or do any kind of writing you need, on any kind, size or thickness or paper, and spa any way you want on

The OLIVER Typewriter

The Standard Visible Writer

You can write any of these things yourself if you do not happen to have a stenographer.

For you can easily learn with a little practice to write just as rapidly, and as perfectly as an expert operator on the Oliver. Because the Oliver is the simplified typewriter. And you can see every word you write. About 50% more durable than any other typewriter, because it has about 50% less wearing points than most other typewriters.

50% easier to write with than those other complicated, intricate machines that require "humming"—technical knowledge—long practice and special skill to operate.

Those machines which cannot be adjusted to any special space—with which it is impossible to write abstracts, insurance policies, or odd-size documents except you buy expensive special attachments requiring experts to operate.

You can adjust the Oliver to any reasonable space—you can write on any reasonable size and thickness of paper, right out to the very edge, without the aid of any expensive attachment or special skill, and your work will be neat appearing, legible and clear.

For the Oliver is the typewriter for the doctor the lawyer, the insurance agent, the merchant the hotel proprietor—or any man that does his own writing.

ENGLAND

A stirring story of mistaken identity has just been made public. Charged at Croydon, Surrey, with being a deserter from the navy, a young man named Allen proved that he was the victim of a police error. A constable said he knew the accused well and that he had been in the navy. Prisoner said he had been in the army, but not in the navy. He was in the East Surrey Regiment. Mrs. Allen, prisoner's mother, said she claimed her son from the East Surrey Regiment in 1901. She did not knew whether he had been in the navy, because he had not been at home. He came to her about five weeks ago. Prisoner said he had been working in a coal mine near Newport, Mon. The police constable, replying to the Bench, admitted that he had never seen the prisoner in naval uniform, but had known him for years as Frank Allen. The tattoo marks on him corresponded with those on Frank Allen, first-class stoker of H. M. S. Brilliant, who was wanted by the authorities. Prisoner now informed the Bench that his name was John and that Frank was his brother. The Magistrate accepted his statement and discharged him.

A Novelty in thefts has been reported from Acton, Middlesex. Telephone users in the district suffered inconvenience by a suddenly interrupted telephone service owing to daring thieves having stolen more than 2,000 feet of telephone wire in the night. The thieves climbed the poles by the side of the banks of the Grand Junction Canal, a lonely spot nearly two miles from the Great Western station at Acton. They then neatly cut the wires in 20 places and rolled up 12 lengths, with which they escaped. These wires are the property of the post-master-general, and several complaints have been received lately of lines being missing. This is, however, the most extensive robbery of its kind reported. The discovery was made by a woman living near who saw the loose wires hanging, and, looking up, found that communication was cut off for good. No arrest has yet been made.

A Board of Trade return just issued gives the number of persons killed and injured on electrically equipped railways in Great Britain during 1904-6 and down to the end of August this year through coming in contact with "live" rails. In the whole period, 16 persons were killed and 71 injured. The fatalities included four railway servants and 12 trespassers; and the injured, 40 servants, one passenger, five persons on business and 25 trespassers. The return for the whole period for the London underground lines is nine killed and 50 injured. Taking the years separately, the casualties were quite irregular in number. In 1904 there were eight killed and 20 injured; in 1905, two killed and 18 injured; in 1906, four killed and 21 injured, and in the eight months of 1907 there were two killed and 12 injured.

IRELAND

News of a very exciting rescue from death comes from Bessbrook, near Newry. A boy about seven years of age, whilst playing fell into a water hole 30 feet deep. The alarm was raised, and in a few minutes Constables M'Keown and Kilgallen, were on the scene. A rope was procured, and Kilgallen lowered M'Keown into the hole. The constable succeeded in catching hold of the drowning lad; but it was observed that the constable was exhausted, as he injured his side when he was being lowered into the hole. In endeavouring to catch the rope again the constable lost hold of the boy, and he sank. Waiting until he rose again, he held on to him with both hands, catching the rope in his teeth. Constable Kilgallen, seeing the danger of his comrade as well as the child, who were about to sink, gallantly plunged into the well, and went under the water also, but on rising managed to get the child, and held his head over teh water, thus relieving his comrade of the burden. At this juncture it appeared as if the three were going to lose their lives, and the persons who had collected ran and procured a ladder, and lowered it into the hole. Constable Kilgallen, who still held the child, was first to ascend, and when he had handed the lad into safe custody he went down the ladder again, to the assistance of Constable M'Keown, who was in a very weak condition, and succeeded in getting him out of danger.

Harland and Wolff are evidently determined not to allow Belfast's reputation as a ship-building centre to be eclipsed, either by the Tyne or the Clyde. The firm are very considerably extending their works, in several branches, and at the present time a series of new buildings are in course or erection, several being well advanced, and partly in use. In the electric station, new machinery of a powerful and up-to-date type has been installed. There has also been erected a large and splendidly equipped establishment, measuring 370 feet in length by 68 feet in width, which is to be utilised as a fitting shop. The lengthening of the slips for the new mammoth liners for the White Star and the Hamburg-American Lines, has also entailed a number of alterations and important extensions to the works. Chief of these is the construction, which is now almost finished, of a new platers' and machinists' "shop," about 600 feet in length, proportionately wide and provided with the most modern mechanical appliances.

SCOTLAND

The death has occurred of Mrs. Mary Solley or Hunter, who was considerably over one hundred years old. The deceased lady was a native of the parish of Balmaghie, in the Stewartry of Kirkcudbright, and was a member of a long lived family. She claimed to have been born in 1795, and if that computation were correct, she must have been 111 year at her death. She had at an early age to work for her living, and most of her long life was spent in farm work, she having been engaged for many years in farm work in the vicinity of Drumfries. She afterwards took up residence in the street in which Robert Burns spent the last years of his life in Dumfries, and lived there until some years ago, when she went to live with relatives in Liverpool. Mrs Hunter married a private in the old Galloway Militia, who went through the Napoleonic wars and was present at the Battle of Waterloo. Mrs. Hunter was possessed of a retentive memory and could recall many incidents connected with those days. Up until a few years ago she was fond of relating reminiscences connected with the scarcity and famine prices at the time of the wars, and remembered when meal was 10s 0d per stone. She also recalled a legend connected with the pulling down of Kirkbride church between Sanquhar and Carronbridge, which which stated that the minister of the parish to which it was annexed, on going into his own church on the following Sunday, was unable to speak, and never spoke again. Mrs. Hunter derived great pleasure in reciting the Psalms and ballads which she had learned in her childhood.

A rather smart game has been worked by a couple of Scotch crooks. Two men have been arrested in Glasgow on charges of being concerned in frauds by means of bogus telegrams. Recently a telegram was despatched from a branch post office in Glasgow purporting to be from a local clergyman to a relative in Galashiels, making an urgent request for a loan of 3 pounds, the money to be telegraphed to another address in the city. The money was sent, but the sender being astonished that the clergyman should be in such straits wired to his private address asking an explanation. Then the fraud was discovered. Next morning the man in Galashiels received received another telegram purporting to be from the same clergyman asking for another 5 pounds, whereupon he went to the Chief Constable of the town, who informed the Glasgow police. A telegram was sent from Galashiels as requested, and detectives were in waiting for the caller, but he never came. At the same tim a man in Northumberland received a telegram purporting to be from his nephew in Glasgow, asking that 2 pounds be telegraphed to a local post office. The Northumbrian being suspicious, wired that he would send his nephew a check. In the meantime the detective department was wired of what was going of what was going on, and when the letter arrived the man who called ed for it was arrested. The second man was arrested in Edinburgh.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

When there is a disagreeable odor on the hands inevitable from the handling of fish or onions, try washing them with mustard water.

The digestive machinery furnishes the blood making matter. Therefore do not let it get out of order by overeating and overdrinking.

All backward bending movements of the body will strengthen the spine. A strong spine is a big help to a good carriage, without which one will fail in grace.

When feeling very tired hot water, both inwardly and outwardly, is a great rester. A cup of water as hot as you can take it is as good as a tonic and not half so injurious.

A simple face cream for emergency use when nothing else is handy can be made by mixing lemon juice and a little fresh butter into thick paste. The juice of strawberries or cucumbers in their season can also be used. Naturally it is much better to have a prepared cream, but if you can't this is not a bad substitute.

Vegetable With Old Lineage.

Asparagus is the aristocrat of the food plants. None other has so distinguished a lineage, for its records reach back almost to the beginning of authentic history. It is mentioned by the comic poet Cratinus, who died about 425 B. C. The Romans held asparagus in the highest esteem, the elder Cato treating at length in his "De re Rustica," still extant, of the virtues and correct cultivation of the plant. Pliny, writing about 60 A. D., has a great deal to say of asparagus. He says, "Of all the products of your garden your chief care should be asparagus."

The EDISON PHONOGRAPH

CHRISTMAS is not a real Christmas unless there are children. No Christmas present is so good as a present which the whole family can enjoy. No single thing furnishes so much entertainment, amusement and enjoyment to a family, especially where there are children and young folks, as an Edison Phonograph.

It supplies all kinds of amusement at little expense; it keeps you up to date with every kind of music by the purchase of new Records, and it gives you a means of entertaining your friends and neighbors, all of which combined make the home the most delightful spot on earth. A small sum invested in an Edison Phonograph will do this.

Have you seen and heard the new model with the big horn? If not go to the nearest dealer and see it, hear it and buy it. If you cannot do that, write to us for a complete descriptive catalogue.

We Desire Good, Live Dealers to sell Edison Phonographs in every town where we are not now well represented. Dealers having established stores should write at once to

THE "MOUNTAIN AIR" CURE.

Many people who can afford it are sent to the mountains every year by their physicians, when the physician knows perfectly well that a little common sense applied to their daily life at home would be equally valuable. As a matter of fact the high altitude and the rarity of the atmosphere has a stimulating effect on the circulation, causing the blood to flow more freely and the heart to beat stronger. This overcomes the sluggishness caused by overeating, over-working, loss of sleep, etc. The same result may be attained at home, however, and Nature has provided the cure in the herbs that grow neglected in our country lanes. King Palmetto Compound is a preparation of these herbs, made in accordance with a prescription adopted after much experimenting by the leaders of the medical profession, and as no real scientist keeps his methods a secret, the makers of King Palmetto Compound print the formula plainly on the wrapper, trusting to their skill in compounding it and the purity of the ingredients to protect them from imitation. If your bowels are irregular, your appetite poor and your stomach easily deranged, you will find immediate relief and eventually cure by the use of King Palmetto Compound, and it will so invigorate the entire system that you will be able to throw off any disposition to colds, coughs or grippe. Send for free sample. King Palmetto Co., Bridgeburg, Ont. King Palmetto Compound is sold at $1.00 per bottle and guaranteed by

HON. LEMIEUX COMING HOME

Negotiations at Tokio Will End In a Few Days—Japanese Government Refuses to Sacrifice Treaty Rights—But Influx Into Dominion Will Be Limited—Number Is Not Yet Decided Upon.

Tokio, Dec. 21.—Negotiations between the Canadian Postmaster-General and Minister of Labor, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, and the Japanese Government, which have been delayed by a hitch over details, will be concluded within the next few days. It is understood that Mr. Lemieux has finally agreed to accept Japan's assurance that she will undertake the self-imposed task of limiting the emigration of Japanese to Canada. The exact method of limitation will be left entirely in the hands of the Japanese Government.

It is stated that the hitch arose over the desire of the Canadian Government to secure a definite promise in writing outlining the undertakings. This was positively declined by Japan, because it would entail a sacrifice of treaty rights. Minister Lemieux also desired to secure from the Japanese Government a note giving the exact number of laborers that the Government proposed to allow to emigrate to Canada. This was also refused.

There is reason to believe that Canada will receive a verbal assurance identical with that given the United States, the Japanese Government declining to surrender any right contained in its treaty of alliance with Great Britain, whereto Canada became a party.

The Japanese Government is engaged in preparing a program of administration, under which the promise of limitation can be fulfilled.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux will probably leave for Canada next week, going by way of Siberia and through London.

20,000 Will Stay Away.

London, Dec. 21.—(C. A. P.)—A booking agent in Amsterdam advertised Thursday for 20,000 laborers to go to Canada to work on railways.

Bruce Walker, Canadian superintendent of emigration, London, wired that unless the advertisement was withdrawn he would prosecute the agent.

Walker received a wire stating the advertisement was withdrawn.

Mob After Negro.

Columbus, O., Dec. 21.—A mob of armed men, including mounted policemen, is after a negro who assaulted Mrs. W. B. C. Hersey, wife of the president of the Excelsior Seed Co. He seized her while she was in the cellar and stuffed a rag in her mouth. She was found by neighbors unconscious.

Englishman's Attempt to Escape Flooded District.

HEAVY RAINS IN BRITAIN

Lincoln, Monmouth, Lancashire and Warwick, All Visited by Terrific Gales—Miles of Land in Somerset Under Water — People Thrown Out of Work — Many Buildings Badly Damaged.

London, Dec. 21.—Torrential rains have fallen in many parts of the country during the past few days, and serious floods are reported in counties so far apart as Lincolnshire and Monmouthshire, Lancashire and Warwickshire. Violent gales were also experienced.

In Manmouthshire, where many rivers overflowed, enormous tracts of low-lying land were deeply flooded. In some parts of the county a two-inch fall of rain in 24 hours was recorded. At Llanwern, near Newport, several residents had to retreat in attempting to reach the railway station by the ordinary roads. Mr. Edwards, who lives in the village, found nearly two feet of water not far from his house. Having no boat, he got into a domestic tub and tried to make his way to the station with the aid of a pole, but had to abandon the attempt. In some places the tops of the hedges were only just visible. A horse and van were washed away west of Newport.

Many miles of land in Somerset were under water. The Avon overflowed its banks between Bath and Bristol, and many meadows were submerged to a depth of several feet. Rain was still falling last night.

In Warwickshire many people have been temporarily thrown out of work through the flooding of factories and mills on the banks of rivers.

A whirlwind with rain and hail visited Lancashire. In the Chat Moss district a pony and trap were blown over into a ditch and many farm buildings were damaged.

Russia Will Not Interfere.

Teheran, Dec. 21.—Russia has answered in the negative the petition of the Persian Parliament addressed to foreign powers, requesting them to use their efforts for the preservation of the existing constitutional regime in Persia. Russia, in her note in reply, says she is not justified in interfering in the internal affairs of another nation.

Drowned Through the Ice.

Pembroke, Dec. 21.—Richard Richardson, aged 72 years, of Allumette Island, was drowned Thursday night while crossing the river. He leaves a brother, Samuel Richardson, of Mattawa, Ont.

Theatre Burned.

Dresden, Dec. 21.—The municipal theatre at Grossenhain, near this city, was burned yesterday, following a gas explosion, and several members of the company were injured.

IT IS FEARED THAT ALL ARE DEAD

No Sign of Life Found in Wrecked Coal Mine.

RESCUE WORK AT STANDSTILL

Six Bodies Brought to Surface—Men Hemmed In by Falling Debris—Great Precaution Necessary Owing to Poisonous Gas — Alien Miners Celebrate Their Escape by Getting Shamefully Drunk.

Jacob's Creek, Pa., Dec. 21.—Of the 300 or more miners who were made prisoners in the Darr mine of the Pittsburg Coal Co. Thursday by a terrific explosion, the bodies of 20 yesterday morning lie in the main entrance, where they were laid during the night by the rescuers, until they can be brought to the surface. Some of the bodies are dismembered and mangled, and all are distorted by the agonies of violent death.

Faint hope was cherished by rescuers and friends and relatives that some of the men had survived the explosion and are awaiting release far back in the mine. For this reason the rescuers did not take time to bring out the bodies as they were found, but pressed forward, to open a passage to and explore every section of the mine.

The foreign miners who escaped the disaster made the night hideous in their little village. They had suspended work because of the Russian holiday in honor of the Czar's name day, and most of them followed their usual holiday custom of drinking to excess. Many were intoxicated before the catastrophe, and afterwards they put themselves in worse condition, some drinking in celebration of their escape and others drinking to drown grief over the death of relative or friend. All night there was carousing and disorder at times bordering on rioting.

The Pittsburg Coal Co. have arranged to provide burial for all of the victims.

It is believed that a majority of the victims are Americans. Such of the foreigners as belong to the Greek Catholic Church did not go to work Thursday morning, that they might celebrate St. Nicholas Day, an important holiday in their church calendar.

Immediately upon hearing of the explosion, the men in all the mines hereabouts suspended work and many of them hurried here, many offering their services as rescuers. Many more are coming in, for, as is usual following disasters, the miners within a wide radius will not resume work for several days.

The distance from the mouth of the mine to the most remote sections is said to be about three miles, and it is thought many of the bodies will be found near the end of the workings.

No other explanation than that the explosion was due to gas has been advanced.

A Father's Grief.

Jacob's Creek, Dec. 21.—Conrad Schuth, 48 years of age, crazed by the death in the mine of his son and other relatives, ended his own life yesterday by drowning in the river, near the mine. He was a widower and leaves four small children.

Petrolia Explosion Enquiry.

Petrolia, Dec. 21.—The inquest into the nitro-glycerine explosion was continued yesterday morning at 9.30 before Inspector Rogers. David Barr, president of Petrolia Torpedoes, Limited, was the first witness, but his testimony only corroborated that of previous witnesses regarding the condition of the magazine.

The company submitted a large piece of burnt fuse and also a piece of a can which was used for carrying the fluid in, which they claimed was found among the debris after the explosion, and with the ownership of which they tried to connect the witness, Ernest Stokes, a shooter.

The case was then practically closed, Inspector Rogers being satisfied that no person could be held responsible.

Victims Are Recovering.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 21.—Mrs. Jas. B Griffith, who shot Dr. Jas. A. Attridge of Highgate, Ont., and then turned the gun on herself, continues to improve. It is thought she will be able to leave Grace Hospital within a few weeks. Dr. Attridge, at Harper Hospital, is also much better, his condition being much more serious than Mrs. Griffith's, and he has as yet been unable to sit up. His improvement is none the less sure because gradual

"White Caps" Sent For Trial.

Kingston, Dec. 21.—John Blakely, who was beaten and tarred and feathered by a group of men at Stonpss Corners on Saturday last, charged Boland and Adam Thompson and Herbert Gutline of the Township of Loborough with being some of his assailants. The preliminary trial took place yesterday before Col. Hunter. Boland Thompson and Gutline were committed to stand trial at the next Assizes.

Moscow, Dec. 21.—The woman who, on Dec. 4, made an unsuccessful attempt to kill Lieut.-Gen. Guerachelmann, Governor-General of Moscow, by means of a bomb, was executed here yesterday morning. On the scaffold she said to her executioners: "We will soon stop your hangings."

Witte Wants to Testify.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 21.—Irritated at the testimony given at the trial of Gen. Stoessel by Gen. Kuropatkin Thursday, Count Witte has addressed a letter to the court, begging an opportunity to appear on the witness stand.

Will Fight Duel.

Budapest, Dec. 21.—As a result of an allegation of political dishonesty, the Hungarian Premier, Dr. Wekerle, has challenged ex-Minister of Justice Polonyi to fight a duel with pistols, and the meeting will take place shortly.

GLACE BAY FINANCES.

Mayor Burchell Resigns and Investigation Will Be Held.

Glace Bay, N. S., Dec. 21.—Mayor Burchell has sent in his resignation as mayor of Glace Bay. He has held that position since the town was incorporated. The reason for this step is that he has been committed to stand trial for money alleged to be unaccounted for during the time when he was manager of the Dominion Coal Co.'s stores.

It is also announced that an enquiry is likely to be ordered into the town's finances since its incorporation. It is understood that the Coal Co., which are the largest taxpayers in the town, will be the parties to ask for the investigation, and a number of prominent citizens have promised to back them in their request.

Mr. Burchell promised an investigation some time ago, but none has taken place. The affair has created a sensation.

Looking For Cancer Cure.

Berlin, Dec. 21.—Prof. Ernest Von Leyden, who recently has devoted himself entirely to the study of cancer, from which some 5,000 persons die yearly in Germany, has made a pressing appeal to the Government and to private sources for the foundation of an institute of research. Prof. Von Leyden recommended the formation of an international association.

He gives some hopes of eventually finding a remedy for the cancer, by means of liver fermentations developed into a suitable injection through the inoculation of sheep.

Cashier Disappears.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—Richard Neelck, adopted son and cashier of the private bank of August Sachn & Co., Bryn-Mawr and Evanston avenue, this city, has disappeared. The business of the bank was halted yesterday, and Mr. Sachn was paying off depositors with checks drawn on his personal account.

The bank had a capital of $50,000 and a surplus of $40,000. The deposits are $80,000.

Mr. Sachn said he had ample funds to pay every depositor in full.

Heavy Sentences at Hamilton.

Hamilton, Dec. 21.—Three of the quartette captured on the C. P. R. train near Toronto some weeks ago, and who were found guilty on several charges of housebreaking and theft, were sentenced yesterday by Judge Snider. Walter Hildreth and George Young were sent down for five years, and Howard Campbell went to Central Prison for two years. It was Campbell's first offence, and he was regarded as a sort of scapegoat.

A Canadian Suicides.

London, Dec. 21.—Keith Reid, a Canadian, committed suicide Thursday night. An inquest will be held. Reid was assisted some time ago by Lord Strathcona to bring out an invention for signalling ships.

The Following Letter Speaks For Itself

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. MORROW, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $5000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $5000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Perm t me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

PETERBOROUGH SATURDAY DECEMBER 21 1907

PETERBOROUGH THRONGED TO-DAY WITH XMAS SHOPPERS FROM MANY OUTSIDE POINTS

Judging from the enormous crowd in Peterborough to-day, the financial depression does not seem to have affected th epeople of this district very much. The beautiful weather, assisted by good sleighing, resulted in about the biggest crowd that has ever been in Peterborough on a Christmas Saturday. The early trains this morning brought big quotas from the villages and towns of the district. The 8.25 train from Port Hope carried the largest contingent, every car being crowded, while many had to find accommodation in the baggage car. The train was nearly an hour late and stopped at every flag station on the line to take on passengers. The other trains were correspondingly crowded.

The countryside for miles around the city must have been deserted toserted to-day, judging by the constant stream of traffic that kept pouring in this morning on every road. The market was one of the largest on record, and the merchants expressed themselves as being well satisfied with the business being done.

No better weather conditions could have been provided than those enjoyed to-day, and the business men of the city are delighted with the prospects.

PETERBORO' MAN HIGH IN HAMILTON ODDFELLOW RANKS

The Hamilton Times, of Dec. 19th, publishes a report of a reception to Mr. C H Mann, District Deputy Grand Master of the I.O.O.F., Hamilton. Mr. Mann was born and raised in Peterborough, moving there some seven years ago, so that his reception has a special interest to Peterborough, and the recognition of his prominence and influence in the Oddfellows society will be interesting reading to his personal friends and the local brethren. The Times in reporting Mr. Mann's address says:

"Bro. Mann, the present D.D.G.M., was then called upon for his official address. Bro. Mann took up the subject of the lodges in this district, and said a revival had been going on in the Order in this district. He was more than pleased with his receptions all along the line. He asked for their continued co-operation and assistance, and conveyed to the fathers of the Order who were present his sincerest thanks for coming out in such good numbers to his first official visit to his mother lodge."

Bro. Mann was introduced by Bro. Oliver Beatty, who in a few well chosen words presented him with a basket of flowers to be conveyed to his wife.

MR. AND MRS. THOS. BRIGHTMAN CELEBRATE SILVER WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. John Brightman of Stewart street, were "at home" to a large number of their friends last night on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of their wedding. The affair was an enjoyable one in every respect, and nothing was left undone to provide an enjoyable evening for the guests. The usual house amusements were not forgotten and music was the order of the hour.

Luncheon was provided by Mr. Hooper in his own style and proved to be one of the most pleasant features of the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Brightman received many happy returns of their anniversary.

Messrs. A. Cranfield, B. Holland, J. Brightman and Miss M. Brightman entertained the company to a mandolin quartette.

BOY ARRESTED THIS MORNING IN BED ON CHARGE OF THEFT

On a charge of theft, Stanley Gorman was arrested this morning at 1 o'clock and taken from his bed by P. C.'s Metarry and Adams.

The young lad is only 16 years of age and the charge is a long-standing one. He went to bed last night at 10 o'clock, little thinking the police were on his trail. About 1 a.m. the boy was awakened and taken to the police station, where he finished his sleep. He told the Examiner he got into trouble last year for robbing a man in the National Hotel 'bus and went to Ottawa to evade the police. He came back about a month ago. While out riding one day he was thrown from a horse and badly hurt, being confined to bed for three weeks.

In the police court this morning the boy appeared. He was defended by Mr. G. Gordon, but the case was not ready to go on so he was remanded until the 27th. Mr. Gordon asked for bail as he did not want the boy to spend Christmas in jail. He has always been a respectable youth and was never known to do wrong before. The charge read that Stanley Gorman, on Saturday, July 21, did wilfully steal and carry away one cash box containing $45 in money and a certificate in the Big Dipper Mining Company for $1,000 from the steamer Monarch.

His Worship finally consented to allow the boy to go on bail of $400 supplied in two sureties of $200 each or one of $400.

10,431 LOCKAGES ON THE TRENT CANAL

A Horse Went Over The Lift Lock—Tons of Hay Scrape The Sides of Buckhorn Lock

The superintendent of the Trent Canal, Mr. J. H. McClellan, has received from the various lockmasters on the canal, their returns, showing the number of lockages, and the amount of traffic generally, through the different locks during the past season. Comparisons with the returns of other years show that the past year has been the busiest in the history of the canal.

The chief item of interest in connection with the maintenance and operation of the canal during the past season, has been the formal opening of the Lake Simcoe-Balsam Lake Division, adding many additional miles of navigation to the system, and affording a through stretch of navigation from Healey's Falls on the south, to Barrie, Orillia and other points on Lake Simcoe on the north.

OVER 10,000 LOCKAGES ON THE TRENT CANAL

A little reflection on the figures that appear in the report of the lock masters on the Trent Canal show that during the season of 1907 there were altogether 10,431 lockages. Young's Point heads the list with 1,933. Eight of the reports give the number of passengers, showing that a total of 88,183 human beings passed through them on boats.

The Peterborough Lift Lock had a busy season. There was a total of 600 lockages and 8,396 passengers. Among the various articles of merchandise that passed through was wood, pigs, coal, timber, stone, brick and iron, and even a horse made the big descent. At Buckhorn 42 tons of hay went through the lock, demonstrating that even the farmers are using the Trent waterway to push along their products.

PLUM PUDDING IN JAIL

The Inmates Will Get The Goose And Plum Pudding, Intramural Of Xmas Dinner

NUTS AND CANDY TOO

In the Peterborough jail there are about eighteen inmates who will spend Christmas within its walls. The jail is noted for its kindness and generosity to prisoners around this happy season of the year, and this year will not be behind that of last. The jailor, Mr. Nesbitt, who becomes a friend of every prisoner consigned to his keeping, has arranged a luxurious dinner for the unfortunates who are incarcerated. Mr. Nesbitt himself will have supplied goose and plum pudding and the Salvation Army will send up candies, nuts and oranges for the occasion.

There are few jails in the country who look after their prisoners like the local one and the thanks of all the inmates go to Mr. Nesbitt for trying to brighten their Christmas.

DR. CALDWELL'S BOOKS APPRECIATED

Has Supplied House of Refuge With Reading Matter This Winter

The Board of Management of the County House of Refuge wish to express their thanks to Dr. Caldwell, the jail physician, who has so kindly supplied the House of Refuge with books and reading matter this winter. The inmates of the House all appreciate the doctor's kindness and his contributions of literature will be always welcomed by this institute.

Owing to Illness, Not Desired As An Emmigrant And Was On His Way East

MR. BOSTON IN CHARGE

Mr. Robert Boston of London, Ont., was registered at the Snowden House to-day, while on his way to St.John's, N.B. He was accompanying J. Heff, a Russian Jew, who was being deported back to his native country. Mr Heff is well-read in the English language, but is said to be a consumptive, and therefore not desirable as a citizen. He was not a prisoner or under surveillance but Mr. Boston accompanied him under orders of the Government. He was to see that he reached the eastern port without difficulty.

THEIR OPINION OF LOCAL OPTION

Toronto News Interviews Some of The Prominent Citizens

The Toronto News contains an interesting article on local option in Lakefield, written by one of the News staff in which the opinion of representative citizens concerning the success of the measure is set forth. There seems to be great difference of opinion over the matter and some think that local option is a failure because of liquor brought in from Peterborough. Mr. Wm Graham, according to the News report, remarks—"Local option would fare better here if the inspector did his duty properly. It is strange that everybody knows that he is coming three hours before he arrives, and those who are to be inspected have time to get ready for him."

OSCAR McNEELY IS SUPPOSED TO HAVE WALKED TO TRENTON AFTER LEAVING HOME TUESDAY

The parents of Oscar McNeely, the boy who disappeared on Tuesday last after his dinner, have at last received some tidings of their missing son, and it is hoped the boy will soon be home.

Before going away the lad told a lady who lives in the neighbourhood of his home that he was going and that he would never return. The young lad before disappearing went to see his two playmates and told them his intentions. He said he had an uncle living seven miles below Trent Bridge, south of Havelock, and he intended to walk the distance. Oscar was without an overcoat and also short of funds. He also told another lady of his intentions, but seeing him without an overcoat she thought he was only joking.

Last evening the lady read in the Examiner about the boy's disappearance and immediately rang up Mrs. McNeely and told her where the boy had gone.

When Mrs. McNeely was seen last night by a reporter she was in a very different mood to what she was in during the afternoon and was in hopes that she would have the boy home for Christmas. Mrs. McNeely, upon receiving this intelligence, sent word at once to the lad's uncles, and it is expected an answer will be received to-day or to-morrow.

HAS SPENT CHRISTMAS IN EVERY QUARTER OF THE GLOBE DURING 22 YEAR'S ABSENCE

Mr. Harry Dunford Away From Home at Christmas Time For Twenty-two Years — Christmas At Sea

HAD MANY EXPERIENCES

"Home" is the Mecca of thousands during the Christmas season. Whether it is back to the old country homestead, or to the more pretentious city dwelling, all of us have a longing to return to our friends and families, at this happiest season of the year. Yet, circumstances very often alter our best laid plans, and with some it is only a chance whether they will be able to spend the day at home or not. The experience of Mr. Harry Dunford, who, although he is just in the prime of life, may be appropriately termed an "old salt," is one which few men undergo.

Mr. Dunford was a sailor for years, and, as the old song tells us, the rolling sea was his home. For twenty-two consecutive years he was absent from his own home at Christmas. However, his varied career upon the deep has seen him at that season at China, at Bermuda, in the Dardanelles, at Sydney, N.S.W., at Jamaica, in London, at Monte Video, S. A., and on long voyages, in which Christmas overtook him while on the sea.

On January 9th, 1873, Mr. Dunford joined the Royal Navy, and not until 1895, when 22 years had elapsed, did he have the opportunity of spending Christmas at his home in Upton Lovell, Wiltshire, England. True he was enabled to return to England, several times during that score and two years, but not to his native Wiltshire.

The Itinerary

The following list will give an idea of some of the extensive journeyings that Mr. Dunford made during the time he was in the service.

1873—Spent Christmas at home, on leave from the training ship, H. M. S. St. Vincent.
1875—At sea, on a passage from Calcutta to Trincomalee, Ceylon.
1876—In Besika Bay, blockading the Dardanelles during the Eastern crisis.
1877—In Malta Harbour.
1878—With friends in Wiltshire, England.
1879—In Royal Naval Barracks, Sheerness.
1880—At sea, on a passage from Solomon Islands, South Pacific, to Sydney, N. S. W.
1881—In Sidney Harbour, N.S.W.
1882—In Antigua Harbour, West Indies.
1883-84 and '85—In Bermuda, W.I.
1886—At sea, on passage from Port Royal Jamaica, to the Island of Ascension.
1887—In Hong-Kong Harbour, China.
1888—At sea on a passage from Mauretius to Aden, arriving there early in the morning of Dec. 25th.
1889—In Bermuda, W. I.
1890—In Port Royal Harbour, Jamaica.
1891—In Bermuda, W.I.
1892—With friends in London, Eng.
1893—In Royal Naval Hospital, Haslar Gosport, Eng., through injuries received in the loss of the ill-fated H.M.S. "Victoria."
1894—With friends in London, Eng.
1895—At his own home at Upton Lovell, Wiltshire, Eng.

This year Mr. Dunsford with his wife will spend Christmas in company with Mrs. Dunford's sister, Mrs. J. Ball, 290 Roger street. This is the first Christmas these sisters have been together in 30 years.

An Unique Blotter

An interesting and unique "blotter diary" has been received from Mr. Andrew Usher & Company, the celebrated manufacturers of Scotch whiskey. In addition to its being an elegant diary it contains a calendar and complete record of Old Country sporting events, including full records of the Derby for the past 40 years, of Colonial turf events and records in every line of sport. It is a quite valuable sporting reference book as well as diary and should find a welcome place in every office. The book reached the Examiner through the kindness of Mr. Colen Campbell, Montreal, the Ushers' Canadian agent.

THE BANK OF MONTREAL

With the annual meeting of the Bank of Montreal, held on December 2nd, this great financial institution swings into the last decade of a century of existence. The report of the annual meeting shows that it gathers strength as it goes forward. Its strength is shown by the fact that its capital is the great sum of $14,400,000, its rest is $11,000,000, and this year there was added to profit and loss account $699,069.88. The excellence of management is shown by the fact that last year $1,440,000 was paid in dividends, the rate of profit being ten per cent. per annum, and, in spite of the abated business energy of the country at large, the profits were $1,680,000, as against $1,797,000 last year. A perusal of the statement printed in another column, will reveal the yearly story of the greatest financial institution on the continent, and one of the greatest in the world. The local branch, under the management of Mr. A. Montizambert, has shared in, and contributed to, another prosperous year for the great Bank of Montreal.

TRANSPORTATION INTERESTS

At Hamilton on Saturday last Geo. E. Foster was as gloomy as some of these December days. Among others things, he said:

"To-day was a critical period, financially, in Canada, and the Government had done nothing to meet it. The Government had taken money from the people, and had recklessly squandered it in a way never before seen in Canada. It had been spent in graft and in feeding the rake-off men, and Mr. Fielding to-day was paying 7 per cent. to the Bank of England, as he dare not go into the open market to borrow. He had not made preparations to meet the obligations which would fall due in two years, and this would place Canada in an extremely serious position, as the result of wasteful expenditure and mismanagement of the country's affairs."

It was well he said "to-day," because in the issue of the Montreal Star for the very day on which Mr. Foster's complaint was published there appeared a cablegram from its London correspondent under the heading, "Canadian Bonds Well Received." It read as follows:

"London, Dec. 16.—The Dominion Government loan of one and one-half million sterling has been covered by subscription. All applications are being allotted in full. This means that the loan was well appreciated by the British public, despite the money stringency."

In other words, at the moment Mr. Foster was saying that Mr. Fielding dare not go into the open market to borrow, Mr. Fielding had already floated a loan for $7,500,000 on the London market, and the subscriptions showed that, notwithstanding the money stringency, the English investing public showed its appreciation of Canadian securities by snapping them up.

The effort of Mr. Foster and his friends to make political capital out of the prevailing financial contraction is not creditable to them. The soundness of conditions in Canada as compared with the United States has attracted the attention of publicists both in Great Britain and the United States. The only croaking being done is that which proceeds from Mr. Foster and the public men and newspapers in this country following him in his unpatriotic course. —Globe.

CONTRADICTED INSTANTER

The growth and development of the Canadian transportation system, especially in regard to our railways, is also a feature of our national life, and a fruit of Liberal statesmanship, of which we have every reason to be proud. In 1896 we had 16,270 miles of railways; in 1906 our mileage had increased to 21,353 miles. The freight carried in 1896 showed an increase over that carried in 1896 of no fewer than 33,000,000 tons, and there were 13,000,000 more passengers carried in 1906 than in 1896. The freight carried in our canals was three million tons greater in 1906 than it was in 1896. Further evidence of what the Government is doing to produce a "greater Canada," as shown in the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific road, and in the negotiation of trade treaties with France and Japan. To charge a Government which has produced such splendid results with being in the least measure responsible for any limited trade reaction, which may have set in as a result of United States conditions, is so absurd that it is marvellous that it should be seriously advanced.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Two more Dominion bye-elections are now in progress. This recalls that out of thirty-eight bye-elections for the House of Commons, which have taken place during the present Parliament the Liberals have carried twenty-nine. No wonder, remarks the Brantford Expositor, the Conservatives feel like crying "blue ruin," when they feel so blue themselves.

The Toronto News will have to get elected to Parliament. It cannot get any of its Conservative allies to take its Western school question seriously. Mr. Borden, the leader of the Conservatives, starred the wronged and outraged Western Provinces and never opened his mouth on the school question. The question is dead, and would be forgotten except for the News, at odd intervals, half-heartedly playing the resurrectionist.

Speaking at Unionville, in the Centre York, Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., said: "No one knows better than Mr. Whitney that the initiation of criminal proceedings is in the hands of the Justices of the Peace. The Premier of this Province knows very well that his appointed magistrates will be loath to accept information charging their own friends with corrupt practices in elections, and, therefore, every influence could be immediately set at work to have the guilty go unpunished." Mr. Whitney, speaking on the same platform as Mr. Borden, the champion of political purity, furnishes sufficient comment upon the above situation.

THE BAND HAD FIRST PRACTICE

Good Practice Made Under The Direction of Mr. Common

The recently organized Peterborough Band had its first practice last night and an excellent showing was made under the leadership of Roland Common. Some twenty players were present and good progress was accomplished in the preparation of new music for Christmas Day, when the band will serenade the citizens of Peterborough. A liberal response will be appreciated by the new organization of which Mr. Common is leader and Mr. W. Elliott is Secretary-Treasurer. The band will practice again to-night and after this every Friday night, in the old Foresters' Hall, George street.

HAIR NATURALLY ABUNDANT

When it is Free of Dandruff, it Grows Luxuriantly

Hair preparations and dandruff cures as a rule are sticky or irritating affairs that do no earthly good. Hair when not diseased grows naturally, luxuriantly. Dandruff is the cause of nine-tenths of all hair trouble, and dandruff is caused by a germ. The only way to cure dandruff is to kill the germ; and so far, the only hair preparation that will positively destroy the germ is Newbro's Herpicide—absolutely harmless, free from grease, sediment, dye matter or dangerous drugs. It allays itching instantly, makes hair glossy and soft as silk. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50c and $1. The Market Drug Store, Special Agents.

Local Option Creates Dives

Ex-Alderman W. H. McClarty, a substantial merchant of Owen Sound, says: "Local Option has not lessened drunkenness in Owen Sound,—but it has created dives and it has been the cause of lessening trade." Last year, with seven months of Local Option and five of license, Owen Sound had 302 police court cases. In eleven months this year, under Local Option, it has had 510 police court cases. "I saw 75 drunken men the other evening on a walk through two of our streets."

Your streets will not be pleasant for women after dark if Local Option carries your town.

211

Banker J. P. Raven, of Owen Sound, says: "There have been more failures here in 19 months of Local Option than there were in the seven years previous. Property has decreased in value from 20 to 25 per cent."

Naturally. For under license Owen Sound had but eleven liquor sellers, closely restricted. Under Local Option there are to-day SIXTY places selling liquor there,—with no restrictions.

Local Option takes the traffic from the grip of the law and delivers it over to private greed. Will that suit YOUR town?

ESTIMATES AND RESULTS

The evidence before the Royal Commission showed that over 700 SUN LIFE policies had already matured and that in thirty-four per cent. of the cases the amounts originally estimated as likely to be received at the end of the terms, had been realized or exceeded. On all the cases combined the average amount paid had been about ninety-seven per cent. of the estimate. The management may be pardoned for being proud of this record. The estimates now in use since 1900 are lower than former ones, and premiums are higher, so that present estimates should certainly be realized. Statements were also filed showing that $108 is on hand for every $100 required to pay the amounts called for by the present estimates for every deferred profit policy on the books and this without taking into account the Company's great and increasingly valuable contingent fund. Our policyholders are therefore justified in being particularly optimistic in regard to the Company's probable future profits.

Some one has said "the true value of a life assurance policy must be gauged by the security of the protection given; if it proves to be a good investment, all the better: when both are shown, there is nothing on earth to equal it."

The security of the protection afforded by the Sun Life of Canada needs no comment and the profits paid —let our results tell their own forceful story.

LINDSAY LOCK

John Makins, Lockmaster

The number of lockages at the Lindsay lock, is by no means a criterion of the amount of traffic on the Lindsay River. As a matter of fact, there is more traffic on the Lindsay River, than on any other single stretch of water on the Trent Canal. Three boats ply on this stream daily, during the summer months, whilst numerous tug boats find steady employment. As the dock at which the boats land is below the Locks, there are necessarily fewer lockages than there otherwise might be. However, the returns, of Mr. Makins, the veteran lockmaster, show that he has had a busy season.

	Steamers.	Small boats.	Barges.	Rafts.

BOBCAYGEON LOCK

Lockmaster, John J. Walker

There were, at Bobcaygeon, during the past year, 859 lockages. As is the case in connection with other locks on the canal, the largest number of lockages occurred in the month of July. The lockmaster's returns for the year are as follows:

	Steamers.	Small boats.	Scows.	Rafts

Total number of lockages, 988.
Total number of passengers, 9,000.

Navigation opened at Lovesick on April 30th, and closed on November 15th. This was four days earlier in opening, and three days later in closing than the previous year.

The steamer Gypsum of the Trent Valley Navigation Company, which plies between Bobcaygeon, Chemong and Burleigh, passed through the lock at Lovesick 164 times during this season.

Ships passed through Lovesick lock during this season, 3 snow loads of hogs, and 3 snow loads of cordwood. The Cavendish Lumber Company brought down 950,000 pieces, logs and timber. The McDonald Lumber Company brought down 60,000 pieces, and the Peterborough Lumber Company, seven or eight thousand pieces, said Dunn & Young, 3,000.

YOUNG'S POINT LOCK

P.P. Young, Lockmaster

Young's Point has always been considered the busiest lock on the Trent Canal system, and this year's record shows that it still leads in the matter of the number of lockages. This is, of course, due to the large tourist traffic to Stony Lake. A comparison of the number of lockages at Young's Point for the past 10 years shows that there were seasons when there were more steamboats locked through. However, that was when there was keen rivalry between the steamboat lines, and when 2 boats met every train at Lakefield instead of the present satisfactory arrangement between the two lines.

Lockmaster Young's official returns for the past season are as follows:

LOCKAGES

	Strs.	S. boats.	Scows.	Rafts

PETERBOROUGH LOCK

Wm. Collins, Lockmaster

The returns from the Peterborough Lock show that, notwithstanding the fact that the street railway company's lines now run below the locks, affording facilities for boats to commence their trip down to Rice Lake and return without passing through the locks, the number of lockages at this point was greater during the past season than during any other season for the past ten years.

1907—Opened April 20th.
1907—Closed November 23rd.
1906—Opened April 28th.
1906—Closed Nov. 24th.

It will be observed that during 1903 and 1904, the number of lockages was not large, which was due to the fact that the lock was closed for repairs on September 6th, 1904, and was not opened until May 23rd, 1905.

HASTINGS LOCK

John Tracy, Lockmaster

This is a lock that is not much used, owing to the fact that there is nothing to attract much traffic between Hastings and Healey's Falls. The total number of lockages at Hastings for the year amounted only to 17.

CARS LEFT STANDING ON STREET

Were Tied Up For Over an Hour—Ground Wire at Power House

Just at six o'clock last night when the street cars were carrying their heaviest load, there was a sudden tie-up on the whole system, owing to the grounding of one of the Auburn power house wires which controls the railway circuit.

The cars were all well filled with passengers, going home from work, and also many Christmas shoppers. There was a sudden flicker in the lights on the cars and then they went out altogether and of course the cars came to a stop. The passengers were told by the officials that the trouble would soon be remedied and some waited, but as the time gradually wore on to 6.30 they left the cars and walked.

At 6.30 o'clock the power house employees tried to operate the system with one of the smaller machines, but the load was to heavy and they had to shut it down.

At seven o'clock they got things fixed up so as to run two cars and about 7.20 o'clock the trouble was all repaired and the cars resumed their regular runs.

This is the first tie up the railway has experienced for some time and they did all in their power to have the car line in shape to carry the Christmas shoppers down town in the evening.

FARMERS AT MARKET KICKING

Say That City Should Have Removed The Snow

The farmers at the market this morning had a good deal to say about the city officials, because of the condition of the square to-day. The snow from the sidewalks had been shovelled into piles on both sides of the walk, and the result was that when the farmers arrived they found that they had to back their sleighs into a snow mound over two feet high, and they did not seem delighted with the prospects, or with standing in snow up to their knees. "You would have thought that the city would have removed the snow for Christmas Saturday anyway," said one farmer, and the rest seemed to endorse his opinion thoroughly.

Machinery of The William Hamilton Co'y For Sale

Placed in the Hands of The A. R. Williams Company To Be Disposed of—Opportunity For The Council

IS ADVERTISED TO-DAY

The classified columns of to-day's Toronto Globe contains an advertisement offering for sale by the A. R. Williams Machinery Company, the machinery in the William Hamilton Foundry.

In view of the financial stringency that has prevailed in the money market during the last six months, Mr. R. R. Hall, M. P., the purchaser of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company's plant, has found it impossible to re-organize a new company to take over and organise the works of the company. He has accordingly signed a contract placing the matter in the hands of the A. R. Williams Machinery Company of Toronto, to sell in parcel or en bloc. Mr. Hollinrake and Mr. Stephenson were in town this week making a full list and thorough catalogue of the different machines with a view of distributing them among probably purchasers.

It might be suggested for the consideration of the City Council and the Board of Trade that some representations be made to the A. R. Williams Machinery Company immediately before the plant is actually broken up, with a view of advising them what assistance Peterborough and its citizens would be prepared to give a new company that would be prepared to operate this plant, because it is a well known fact that the A. R. Williams Machinery Company are large dealers in the very class of machinery that the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, Limited, have been manufacturing.

This is certainly an opportune time for the City Council and the Board of Trade to make strenuous endeavours to retain what we have, especially in view of the fact that during this last year the city has not been successful in adding one new industry to its many important industries.

ITCH, Mange, Prairie Scratches, Barber's Itch and every form of contagious Itch on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Wolford's Sanitary Lotion. It never fails. Sold by Nugent Drug Company.

Why Beauty Fades

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and the nerves become exhausted, beauty fades, wrinkles show themselves, and the glow of health disappears and beauty curves give place to leanness and angles. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative, is woman's greatest blessing from youth to old age. A few weeks' use of this treatment will do wonders for any woman who is pale, thin, weak and nervous.

Save on the Umbrella Gift

at this Great Sale of Holiday Umbrellas and Parasols.

How much more vexing would be the Gift Problem if it were not for that good old stand-by—the Umbrella! How much more would you have to pay for fine Gift Umbrellas if it were not for the fact that we made some of the most extraordinary purchases of ample lines that ever entered this store.

And they're fine ones—the kind that any man, woman or child would be so proud of that the time-worn expression "I just can't keep an umbrella!" wouldn't hold good in their cases.

Full Varieties of Covers in lustrous rain-proof fabrics and Handles of Metal, Horn and Natural Wood are included in the collection. However small your umbrella price limit may be, you'll get the biggest sort of values for it here.

CLOSING EXERCISES IN THE EAST WARD SCHOOL

Pleasant Afternoon Spent Among The Kindergarten Pupils Yesterday

A pleasant afternoon was spent yesterday at the East Ward public school on the occasion of the closing of the Kindergarten for the Christmas holidays. The exercises by the children were exceedingly well performed and much credit is due their teachers, Miss L. Rush and Miss Rogers. Addresses were given by Inspector Mowat, who acted as chairman for the occasion, Mr. R. Fair, chairman of the School Board, and also ex-Inspector Walker, of London, who was a welcome visitor. Rev. Dr. Langfeldt Rector of St. Luke's, and Rev. C. H. Coon, pastor of the Mark street Methodist church were among those present.

MISS JULIA CHOATE'S VIOLIN RECITAL

Miss Julia Choate, a most promising, and indeed, presently proficient, young musician, won a distinct triumph at the violin recital given by her at the Hall of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music last night and quite delighted the large, musical and appreciative audience. She presented a varied and formidable programme that would tax the resources of many a maturer artists, and acquitted herself with the greatest credit. She has the first requisite of a true musical artist a remarkable musical memory. She played without a note in sight her four programme numbers—a Sonata by Nardini, two movements; De Beriot's 9th Concerto, three movements; Alard's Brindisi: Valse, and a detached suite, L'Abeille, Schubert; Cantilene, by Bohm, and Ten Have's Allegro Brillante. She bought off this programme so exacting in its varied demands upon the violinist's resources with the aplomb of a veteran. Her tone is round and full; her legato smooth, and even; her expression and interpretation betray the true artistic temperament. While her technique is ample; the chief charm of her playing is its singing quality developed especially in Bohm's beautiful and delicate Cantilene. Her double stopping, favourite medium of De Beriot, is sure and true. Her playing gave great delight to her hearers and a hearty recall after the Alard waltz, was rewarded with a sweet presentation of a berceuse by Jocelyn. Miss Choate's playing shows a maturity of style, facility of execution and finish, quite remarkable, in so young a performer, and her work reflects the greatest credit upon her teacher, Miss Lina D. Adamson, who is entitled to share the congratulations due Miss Choat for the artistic success of her violin recital, and the promise of a brilliant future as an artist. Miss Pearl Lundy was the assisting singer. She gave in very pleasing voice two numbers with excellent vocal skill and suitable appreciation of the sentiment of her songs—the Kashmiri song from the Garden of Kama—to which as an encore she gave "Slumber Boat," and "Less Than the Dust," by Hope. Miss Choate was honoured with two or three bouquets and Miss Lundy was similarly recognized. Miss Adamson played the accompaniments of the evening and has every reason to be proud of the work and promise of her clever pupil.

RICHARD THE III.

Keithe Wakeman, who will appear as Lady Anne in Mr. Ludlowe's mammoth production of "Richard III," had early experience with Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett, playing her first and last season with them the year that Mr. Barrett died. Had Mr. Booth played again, Miss Wakeman was to have been his leading woman. On his retirement she joined the English star, Mr. E. S. Willard and a season later went with him to London. After a long season with Mr. Willard there, she was offered a star part under another management and remained in London when Mr. Willard returned to America. It was Miss Wakeman's good fortune to play under different managements in most of the London theatres. She came with Mr. Willard to America for a season and once again she came back to be starred on the Pacific coast under an American manager. For twelve years London continued her field of work until last spring she returned to New York to be engaged by Charles Frohman and support Mr. Ottis Skinner in Lavedam's "The Duel." The Henry Ludlowe Company carry their $80,000 Mansfield production of "Richard III" and "The Merchant of Venice" in two sixty feet baggage cars, [illegible]

ARTISTIC WINDOW DISPLAYS FINE STORE DECORATIONS

Grafton & Co's Window-winners Bringing Big Business—Magic Effect of Well Displayed Goods

The Grafton Company's clothing store presents a bright Christmas appearance. The north window shows to great advantage, the High-Grade Clothing made by the firm in their own tailor shops, and the window is trimmed in excellent taste in white, with white pleated back grounds. In the centre is a circle of ruby and white electric lamps and contains a peal of golden bells trimmed with holly. The back grounds are surmounted by ruby electric lamps and vines of ivy and holly. On the floor of the window are Corinthian Columns, plants and ferns, making a beautiful and effective setting. This window was designed by Mr. F. O Freeland. The south window is filled with gifts for men and boys. Displayed with artistic taste, there, in lavish profusion, you will see dainty neckwear, mufflers, silk braces, silk and linen handkerchiefs, cuff links, etc. The back grounds are pleated in white surmounted by red and white electric lamps. In the back ground stands old Santa Clause, looking into a chimney, prepared to drop in Christmas gifts for men and boys, from the well filled sack on his back. This unique display does credit to its designer, Mr. A W Goodes. Grafton & Co., Limited, extend a hearty welcome to all its patrons to see their fine display of Christmas gifts for men.

GAME OFF WITH THE ST. GEORGE'S

Queen's University Team May Open The Season Here

The new St. George's Hockey Club, whom it was expected would play teh Strathconas here on Friday night, next, will not be seen here. The modest St. George's want a guarantee of $100.00, to come down here, a pretty good price for a gang of "has been," and the local club does not feel like giveing them anything like that figure so that the deal is off. However the public will in all probability see a game next week, as the Queen's University team, who have opened the season here for a number of years, may be seen in action next week.

HARDEN TRIAL IS PRIVATE.

Even Emperor's Representative Not Allowed to Remain in Court.

Berlin, Dec. 21.—Emperor William, who is following the evidence taken in the Harden-Von Moltke libel suit with the utmost attention, yesterday sent to the court house Lieut. Preetner Vonderhpelle of the Fusiliers, as a special representative in order to secure a full and impartial report of the proceedings. The judges declined to permit the lieutenant to remain in court when the remainder of the public was excluded, and he thus was unable to obtain the details of the trying ordeal which Prince Philip Zu Eulenberg underwent during the secret session, when he remained for three hours on the witness stand. Owing to the utter exclusion of the press and the public from the session and the close secrecy observed by all persons connected with the case, no statements on which reliance can be placed are obtainable regarding the testimony adduced.

Frau Von Elbe also was on the witness stand for an hour and a half. When she entered the court she was pale and nervous, but when she left her face was flushed and she seemed to be excited. It is understood she was much more reserved in her statements yesterday than at the former trial.

Count Kuno Von Moltke, who was present throughout the session, also is said to have been examined. When he left the court he looked far more cheerful than hitherto had been the case.

The reports in circulation that all further proceedings in the suit will be held in camera have caused general disappointment, for the opinion prevails that Count Kuno Von Moltke should be given on opportunity to rehabilitate himself before the public, which heard the terrible charges brought against him at the present trial. It is possible that the judges in whom lies the discretion to have public or secret hearings, may decide at a later period to re-open the court to the public. The case is expected to continue until Dec. 24.

BABY WAS BORN ON TRAIN.

In the Pullman Car "Arran" on the Way to Toronto.

Toronto, Dec. 21.—When Grand Trunk train No. 46 pulled in from Cobalt at the Union station yesterday morning there was one more passenger aboard than there had been after the last stop the train made on its way from the mining country south. It was a baby boy, and he belonged to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fullerton of New Liskeard. Shortly after one o'clock in the morning, while the engine roared through the darkness and the swaying cars rushed over the rails behind it, a little son—lusty-lunged and healthy—came to the occupants of a certain stateroom aboard the Pullman car "Arran." In the morning while the other passengers in the car were congratulating father and mother word was sent on to Toronto, so that when the train from the north pulled in an ambulance awaited Mrs. Fullerton and her boy, and they were removed to the General Hospital. Dr. Charles Warren of Latchford, who was aboard the train, attended the patient, and at the last word received from the hospital mother and child were doing very well. Mr. and Mrs. Fullerton were on the way from New Liskeard to this city with their four-year-old daughter. Mr. John A. Fullerton of the firm of Fullerton & Shaw is an uncle of the new baby.

DREAM BROUGHT FORTUNE.

Sceptical Husband Gets $20,000 Through Wife's Vision.

Paris, Dec. 21.—A remarkable case of a dream being worth $20,000 has just come to light at 6 Rue Truguet, Toulon, in which town lives a commercial traveler named Edouard Cholet.

Twelve months ago M. Cholet was advised by the office of the local Treasurer-General that the city of Paris debenture bond which he held had come out at the drawing at par ($500). Thereupon M. Cholet surrendered his bond for its face value. On Tuesday night his wife dreamt that the bond which her husband had held, No. 348,764, had really drawn $20,000.

She urged her husband to make immediate inquiries, and M. Cholet, though very skeptical, went Thursday to the Treasurer-General's office, where, on search being made, it was discovered that a mistake had been made, and that the bond supposed to have been drawn at par had in reality been drawn for $20,000.

Insanity Cure by Knife.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 21.—A cure for one of the most pitiable forms of insanity, hitherto considered as 80 per cent. incurable, has been found, it is hoped, in the surgeon's knife by Dr. N. M. Owensby, physician-in-chief at the Bay View Asylum. This form of insanity is known to the profession as dementia praecox. It destroys the human qualities of resistance, thought and speech, rendering the victim little more than a beast.

Will Open Druce Grave.

London, Dec. 21.—The Home Office has consented to the opening of the grave of T. C. Druce in Highgate Cemetery and shortly after Christmas the question whether the coffin contains a body or a roll of lead should be definitely answered.

Prof. Augustus J. Pepper of the University of London will attend the exhumation on behalf of Scotland Yard.

CUSTOMER SHOOTS BROKER.

Was Refused Credit and Took Revenge—Afterwards Suicided.

New York, Dec. 21.—J. H. Oliphant, a prominent broker, was shot three times by a man said to be in front of 20 Broad street. He is in a serious condition. The man who fired the shots is said to be a former customer of the concern. He committed suicide after shooting Mr. Oliphant.

The shooting occurred in the offices of the firm of James H. Oliphant & Co. The man who did the shooting called at the office yesterday afternoon and had a consultation with Mr. Oliphant, supposedly over some business troubles. The man appeared to be making some demands which were refused. The man drew a revolver and fired three shots at Mr. Oliphant. He then turned the weapon on himself and committed suicide. Mr. Oliphant was taken to the Hudson street Hospital.

The name of the man who shot Mr. Oliphant is said to be C. A. Caiger.

Absconder Is Arrested.

San Diego, Cal., Dec. 21.—A despatch from Ensenada, Lower California, concerning the arrest of W. F. Walker, defaulting cashier of the Savings Bank of New Britain, Conn., says Walker was under the alias of Morrison while in Lower California. He absconded with $327,000.

When Walker was arrested he had $1.01. When the police arrived at the camp Walker had his valises packed and was apparently preparing to go further into the mountains or to some other section of the wild country. After being handcuffed Walker seized a revolver belonging to one of the camp labourers and tried to kill himself, but was prevented by the police, under command of Ike Jiminez.

MONDINGO PRINCE IN COURT.

Sold Man Charm of Herbs in Order to Get Work.

Hamilton, Dec. 21.—Henry Williams, the alleged Mondingo Prince, was tried before Magistrate Jelfs yesterday afternoon on the charge of obtaining $5 under false pretences from Peter Bartosik, under promise of getting him work. The complainant alleged that Williams gave him a small charm, which was filled with herbs, and told him to wear it for nine days, and that he would get work. The prisoner told a very mysterious story in his defence. He said he had two minds—a divine and an evil—and that certain letters which were produced by the crowd had been written by the divine to the evil one. He said the tip of the kid glove, which was the charm the complainant bought, contained dragon's blood, which he used in concentrating his mind on astrology. The herbs that were in it, he said, were a balm, and came from a tree that grew in New Brunswick. Several interesting letters were read. Williams denied that he asked Bartosik for money. He said the complainant left the money on a table in his office and picked up the envelope containing the charm. M. J. O'Reilly contended that there was no evidence of false pretence, and the magistrate reserved judgment. Williams was remanded until Monday, when he will be charged with practicing witchcraft.

THREE TRAINS HELD UP.

North Bay, Ont., Dec. 21.—The C. P. R. main line has been blocked since 8 o'clock Thursday night by the derailment of No. 6 express eastbound from Soo at Yellek, eight miles west of North Bay. Nos. 96 and 2, passenger trains from Winnipeg and the coast, are behind the wreck, while Nos. 1 and 97, westbound trains, and No. 7 Soo express are stalled at North Bay.

Trouble began west of Beaucage when the engine on No. 8 "died" and the train was stalled. An engine was sent from North Bay to bring No. 8 express in, and, after proceeding some distance, an axle on the disabled engine broke and the entire train was derailed, fortunately on a level piece of roadbed, and, although the train plowed along on the ties for a considerable distance before it was stopped, no one was injured, and no serious damage was done to the rolling stock.

A temporary track is being constructed around the wreck, and the C. P. R. officials hope to have the traffic moving before noon.

All eastbound trains are crowded with passengers returning from the west to spend Christmas with friends in the east.

IRISH MEMBER JAILED.

Guilty of Contempt of Court He Gets Six Months.

Dublin, Dec. 21.—Laurence Ginnell, member of Parliament for North Westmeath, who has been prominent in the cattle driving campaign in the west of Ireland, was sentenced yesterday to six months' imprisonment for contempt of court.

Mr. Ginnell committed his offence in a recent speech in which he commented upon the cattle-driving trials.

Attempted Suicide.

St. Thomas, Dec. 21.—John Holland, who boards with Charles Brown, 68 Owaissa street, attempted suicide by taking laudanum. He had taken two swallows before the bottle was taken from him. Drs. Van Buskirk and Campbell were called and the man is now out of danger.

Holland came here from the Southern States some months ago and was employed by the M. C. R. A case of scarlet fever developed in the house and Mr. Brown and Holland was quarantined with the family. When the quarantine was released, Holland found his position had been taken by someone else and he became despondent.

N. B. Government Accused.

St. John, N. B., Dec. 21.—The New Brunswick Government has been accused of allowing the north shore lumber operators to cut under-sized trees for pulpwood assigned for shipment to the United States.

The vandalism of United States operators in the pulp lands of Canada has been one of the main factors in this country for protection of the pulp and paper industry, and the conservation of the pulpwood forests.

Schooner Sinks; Crew Escapes.

Westbrook, Conn., Dec. 21.—While beating up the sound from the eastward in an effort to reach Duck Island for shelter, a heavily-laden two-masted schooner, either struck Crane Reef or sprang a leak and sank yesterday two miles off this point. The crew was saved.

A canal boat, which shifted her cargo, reached a sheltered spot just in time to save her from going under.

Fell Into Sewer.

St. Thomas, Dec. 21.—Cornelius Taylor, better known as "Nell" to the many who knew him, was the victim of a very serious, if not fatal, accident yesterday morning. He was at work on the sewer on Rose street, when he fell into the hole backwards. His head and neck knocked against the side of the sewer and his head twisted around.

He was picked out of the sewer in an unconscious condition. It is feared that some of the bones of his neck are broken and that he cannot recover.

JUDGE OF THE SUPREME COURT

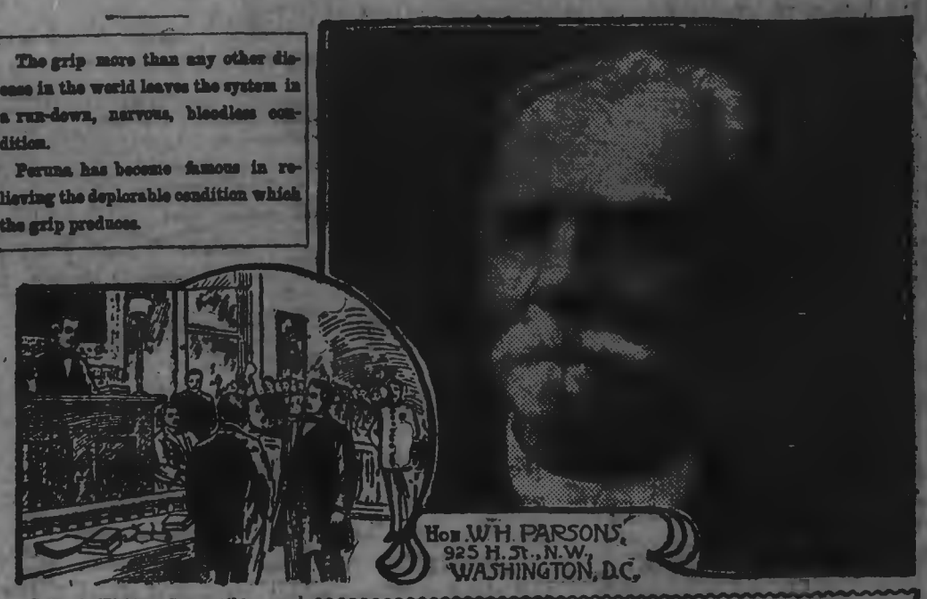
The grip more than any other disease in the world leaves the system in a run-down, nervous, bloodless condition.

Peruna has become famous in relieving the deplorable condition which the grip produces.



Hon. W. H. PARSONS, 925 H. St., N.W., WASHINGTON, D.C.

Catarrh Victims Susceptible.

People who have had catarrh of the head, throat, nose or lungs are much more liable to catch the grip than other people.

The reason for this is that the mucous membrances of the head, nose, throat or lungs are injured by the catarrh and the germs which cause the grip find easy entrance into the system.

It is a well established fact that perfectly sound mucous membranes constitute a barrier to the entrance of disease germs.

The best precaution any one can have against the grip is to be perfectly free from catarrh.

Peruna a Preventive.

As a preventive of grip, Peruna has done a great deal of good in the world by its beneficial effect upon the mucous membranes.

Catarrh has another untoward influence to be noticed in connection with the grip.

Victims of catarrh who have had the grip find themselves after the acute stages have passed, in very weakened and deplorable conditions.

After-Effects of Grip.

The whole nervous system is impaired; the digestive organs deranged; the circulation of the blood feeble and irregular. All these symptoms are produced, more or less, by the grip, and especially in people who have had catarrh previous to the grip.

It is no longer merely a theory or an assertion that Peruna is applicable to such cases.

Prompt Relief.

In all of the after-effects of the grip, Peruna gives prompt relief. This has been the experience of such a great multitude of people that Peruna has come to be a standard remedy for these cases.

If a person has not used Peruna to prevent the grip, the next best thing is to use Peruna to remove the after-effects of the grip.

A Safe, Reliable Remedy.

It has been noticed that those who take Peruna during the first stages of the grip generally make a more rapid and complete recovery.

A Most Effective Medicine For La Grippe.

Robt. L. Madison, A. M., Principal of Cullowhee High School, Painter, N. C., is chairman of the Jackson County Board of Education. He is a writer of occasional verse and has contributed to a number of leading papers and magazines.

In speaking of Peruna, Mr. Madison says: "I am hardly ever without Peruna in my house. It is the most effective medicine that I have ever tried for la grippe. It also cured my wife of nasal catarrh."

W. H. Parsons is Ex-State Senator and Ex-Special Judge of the Supreme Court of Texas, and was also Brigadier-General in Confederate Army. In a letter from 925 H street, N. W., Washington, D. C., this prominent gentleman says:

"Upon the recommendation of personal friends and many strong testimonials as to the efficacy of Peruna in the treatment of the numerous symptoms of the grip with which I have been afflicted for four months past, I have been induced to undergo a treatment with this justly celebrated formula. I feel a decided change for the better after using it only one week.

"It is especially good in toning up the stomach and has a decided effect upon my appetite. I therefore feel much encouraged that I am on the road to complete restoration.

"My numerous friends in Texas, where I have had the honor to command a brigade of her Veteran Cavalry in a four years' war, may accept this voluntary testimonial to the merits of Peruna as a sense of obligation on my part for its wonderful efficacy."—W. H. Parsons.

FIRED SISTER'S CLOTHES.

Little Fellow Imitated Mother's Actions With Fatal Result.

Owen Sound, Dec. 21.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. James Cathres in Sydenham Township, near Walter's Falls, was the scene of a tragic incident, as a result of which they are now mourning the death of their youngest child, a little girl of eighteen months.

Mr. and Mrs. Cathres had killed and prepared a quantity of fowl for market that morning, and had used a paper torch to singe the birds after they had been plucked. Their only surviving child, a boy two and a half years watched the operation.

That evening, when left alone with his sister, while Mrs. Cathres went out to do the milking, he undertook to imitate his mother's actions of the morning. Securing a roll of paper he lit it at the fire in the stove and applied it to his sister's clothing, which was soon in flames. On the mother's return she was horrified to find the daughter suffering from terrible burns about the body, where the clothing was thickest.

The little one only lived half an hour. The boy, who was the innocent cause of the sister's death, is, of course, too young to understand the terrible nature of the action. Much sympathy is felt in the neighborhood for the bereaved parents, who are highly respected citizens of that township.

"Busted" the Combine.

Columbus, O., Dec. 21.—In the Circuit Court at Dayton yesterday, Attorney-General Ellis took judgment of easier against the twenty Ohio companies and firms dealing in plumbers' supplies, who were found to be in the national combination of such dealers. The companies had demurred to the petition, and the demurrer was overruled and judgment given to the state.

The court orders them out of the combination, and not to observe or obey any of its rules and regulations.

A. Hayward Has Disappeared.

St. Thomas, Dec. 21.—A. Hayward of Windsor, who runs all the boarding cars on the M. C. R., is missing, and his wife is anxious to locate him. She fears he is a victim of foul play. He came here and drew his money from the pay car for the October bill for boarding the men in Windsor. He buys his groceries here, paid the bills, and must have had $400 left. He has not yet put in an appearance at home.

Asylum's Patient's Suicide.

London, Dec. 21.—John Strong of Kippen, an inmate of the asylum, broke away from the guards and dived through a hole in the ice at the asylum reservoir. His body was recovered in fifteen minutes.

Six Hundred Will Benefit.

London, Dec. 21.—Six hundred Grand Trunk employes here will benefit by the company's new pension system

Curtailing Diamond Output.

London, Dec. 21.—A telegram received from Kimberley yesterday says the De Beers Consolidated Mines, Limited, has ordered work in the diamond mines to be restricted to five days a week.

Philippine Schools.

Manilla, Dec. 21.—The first bill passed the Filipino Assembly yesterday. The bill appropriates one million dollars for the taxation of schools throughout the provinces.

Dies at Theatre.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 21.—M. Filosofoff, Minister of Commerce and ex-comptroller of the empire, died suddenly at the Marrie Theatre during gala performance last night.

Withdrawing the Troops.

Washington, Dec. 21.—President Roosevelt yesterday directed the withdrawal of United States troops stationed at Goldfield, Nevada, on Monday, Dec. 30, next.

Emigration Drops.

Fiume, Hungary, Dec. 21.—Instead of the customary two or three thousand emigrants on each vessel, the Caronia yesterday carried only 306 steerage passengers, while the Carpathia had on board less than 50.

ARRESTED A 2 YEAR OLD BOY.

Pittsburg, Pa.—George Shaffer, 2 years old, was arrested on a warrant and charged with trespassing. A neighbor swore that George tore up his lawn and flower beds. But the Court declined to hear the case. The little son of Mrs. John Cline of Aylmer, Ont., was only a year older than baby Shaffer when his mother noticed that he suffered with severe attacks of Biliousness. She tried everything she could think of, but the boy grew steadily worse. "I cannot praise Fruit-a-tives too highly," writes Mrs. Cline, "I have tried so many different kinds of medicine for my son. He has had bilious attacks ever since he was three years old, and since he began to take "Fruit-a-tives" he has been so well." "Fruit-a-tives" are the ideal medicine for children, as well as grown folk. They are pleasant to take and mild in action—being made of fruit juices and tonics. 50c a box. At all dealers.

Board of Works Estimate Was Exceeded This Year

City Engineer's Report Has Some Interesting Information ---146 Concrete Crossings Have Been Built During The Past Season---Pavements Built

The City Engineer's annual report which was presented at the Council meeting Monday night, but which was not read then, contains much interesting information concerning the work of the important department under the charge of that official. A synopsis of the report is given below, and the essential features are given for the benefit of those who take an interest in civic affairs. One thing that will be noticed at once is that the appropriation made at the first of the year for the Board of Works has been exceeded by $1,422.43. Unusual features of the work this year are the very large number of concrete crossings laid and the revised street numbering.

The report, in part, is as follows:

Original appropriation — $17,600.

Expenditures

General repairs to streets	$7333 59
Cleaning streets	965 51
Repairs, extension, wooden walks	581 18

Sewers
Contract carried from 1906 —777 1-2 ft. and 9 connections	$ 1,192.07
City, 9-in. pipe, 25 connections	12,122 84
City, 2-in. pipe, 90 connections	4,949 94
	$18,264.85

Romaine Street Sewer

The Romaine-Aylmer streets sewer constructed in 1906, having become obstructed by sand, it was found necessary to construct two additional manholes to facilitate the removal of snow, and the three upper sections, where the greatest trouble occurred, were cleaned. This was necessarily a very slow operation and entailed an expenditure of $240. In November, 1907, the Aylmer street section, from Romaine street to the connection at the King Edward School, was found to be obstructed and ordered to be opened up. Here several pipes were found to be pulled apart during construction. The work of relaying was carried out under the supervision of the Street Commissioner at a cost of $269.89. Total expenditure after construction amounting to $509.89.

Total Length Sewer now in use

	Feet.
Brick sewer	9,150
18-in. pipe sewer	1,370
15-in. pipe sewer	12,484
12-in. pipe sewers	42,402
10-in. pipe sewer	580
9-in. pipe sewer	50,080
8-in. pipe sewer	3,549
Total number feet	119,621
Number miles	22.66

Seventy-nine private connections with the sewer system were made, in addition to 330 included in contracts, making a total of 609 during 1907.

The Engineer remarks—"This, I believe, is the first occasion on which all the work on sewer construction laid out for the season has been entirely completed.

Concrete Walks

There were 811 miles of concrete walks and crossings constructed during 1907 by the Street Commissioner, of which the following is a summary:—

	Lin. feet.
Walks inside tree line	20,741.71
Walks outside tree line	12,177.03
Crossings laid with walks	3,921.08
Crossings laid by special gang	5,975.33
Total number lineal feet	42,815.80

Cost of inside work—11 cents per sq. foot.

Cost, outside work, 12 7-10 per sq. foot.

Cost of crossings, 15 cents per sq. foot.

Cost, crossings, special, 19 7-10 per sq. foot.

The report follows with a list of concrete sidewalks and crossings built during the year, showing that the number of the latter was 146, the average price being $38.81.

The gravel, sand and stone used in concrete walks cost, for lading and hauling an average of 79 cents per cubic yard, of which the following was the quantity:

From the Hilliard pit—4,587 cub. yds
Obtained elsewhere—1,280 cub. yds.
Total—5,867 cub. yds.

The cement used was Monarch brand, made by the Lakefield Cement Works and supplied by the Peterborough Hardware Company. The quantity used in concrete walks was 4,827 1-4 barrels of cement, at a cost of $9,220.05.

Total length of concrete walks now in use, including crossings:

	Feet.
4 foot	23,078.67
5 foot	132,092.46
6 foot	12,732.42
8 foot	3,591.83
10 foot	11,690.42
	183,185.80

There yet remains to be renewed in permanent material 18 miles of wooden walks.

Hunter street east, 600 feet; George street south, 370 feet; Romaine street, 250 feet; Gladstone avenue, 875 feet; Jackson avenue, 150 feet; Barnardo avenue, 350 feet; Ware street, 300 feet; Hazlitt street, 50 feet; Victoria avenue, 50 feet; Park street, 200 feet; William street, 750 feet, Driscoll street, 500 feet.

Total, 4,485 feet.

The following walks were authorized but not constructed during 1907, being in part carried over from 1906, together with those recently petitioned for:

Babb's Lane, west side, 450 feet.
Bonacord street, north side, 1,000 feet.
Donegal street, west side, 820 feet.
Harvey street, two sections, east side, 693 feet.
Inverlea street, north and south, 600 feet.
Lansdowne street, north side, 1800 feet.
London street, north side, 1050 feet.
Perry street, north side, 800 feet.
Rubidge street, west side, 900 feet.
St. Joseph street, west side, 420 feet
Sherbrooke street, south side, 450 feet.
Water street, west side, 2,500 feet.
Water street, west side, 360 feet.
Total, 12,063 feet, or 2.28 miles.

Bridges

The bridges over the creek on Reid and Dalhousie streets were re-decked with re-inforced cement at the following cost:

Reid street bridge, $779.60.
Dalhousie street bridge, $598.30.

The Charlotte street bridge over the creek was entirely re-built in steel and concrete at a cost of $3,485.34, making a total cost for these three bridges of $4,863.25.

The bridges over the creek on King street and on Aylmer street were sufficiently repaired to maintain traffic until next season.

Smith street bridge over the Otonabee River was repaired during the winter of 1906-7 at a cost of $280. The bridge will require heavy repairs again next year, unless it is decided to entirely rebuild it.

The Locks bridge and the other bridges maintained jointly by the city and county received attention by the county road commissioner, the city's share of the cost being $158.14.

The bridge over the old raceway on Hunter street east was done away with and filled in, and the steel work was removed and stored in yard. The cost of the pipe for the passage of the water was $113.50, and for filling in $396.00.

The other small bridges in Ward 5 have been repaired as found necessary.

The cost of the diversion of the creek in Ward 5 was $4,318.70, which includes cost of assessment and purchase of land in 1905. The original estimate for the work, without cost of land, was $4,000.

New Streets

The following new streets were opened for traffic, the estimated cost of which (to date) including the purchase of land, removal of houses, etc., was as follows:

Barnardo avenue, George to Water	$ 1,041 37
George street, north to Hilliard	926 28
George street, Lake to Lansdowne	2,528 51
Aylmer street, Lake to Lansdowne	11,122 53
Hunter street east, Concession to Lift Lock	2,920 40
	$18,539 09

The dredging of the new channel in the river both below and above Hunter street was resumed in June, and a new contract was entered into with D. Mahoney for hauling and depositing the material at 8 1-2c per cubic yard, subsequently increased to 11 1-2c, as compared with 13c, the price of work done in 1906.

It is estimated that 13,800 yards have been deposited during the season, on which the contractor has been paid $1,246.13, and a drawback of 20 per cent. has been retained until completion. In addition to the work done by Mr. Mahoney, 1,105 cubic yards of gravel were placed by Mr. Rahill at a cost of $1,436.50. It is expected this work will be continued during the winter.

House Numbering

The contract for the re-numbering of houses was awarded to Mr. W. J. Koster, the lowest tenderer, at 8 cents each, the city supplying aluminum numbers at a cost of 4 cents for each figure. All parts in that section of the city lying west of Park street were re-numbered with a new series, commencing at 450 Park street and ending with 600 at Monaghan road. The district south of Lake street and east of Park street, and the following short streets in the central part were also re-numbered, as well as new houses in various parts of the city: Louise, Queen, Chambers, Sheridan, College, Dickson, Harvey, Waterford, Division and Union streets.

The Bell Telephone Company installed an underground conduit system in the central part of the city, consisting of 6,739 feet of main and branch conduits, 3,849 feet main, and 2,890 feet of branch. The work is still unfinished.

The installation of a fire alarm system was completed during the summer, with a present equipment of 25 boxes.

Many complaints were made about the absence of street name plates, and a great inconvenience is caused thereby. Where new walks are laid the name is inscribed in the concrete, but these are difficult to read at night, and impossible during the winter months.

There being so many companies, and each company having a separate line of poles, although the wire carried on each is small, I have for a long time endeavoured to have each company file a plan of its lines, showing the number of poles, positions, etc., but up to the present none have done so.

Street Inspector's Department

Stone purchased for crushing—
At Townsend street yard....333 cords
At Hilliard pit.....221 cords
Total.....554 cords
Total cost—$1,617.50.

In addition to which it is estimated that 246 cords were procured from gravel at the pit, making a total of 800 cords crushed, the output being 3,600 cubic yards, and the cost being 83 cents per cubic yard.

All streets in the central district and thoroughfares leading thereto were cleaned once during the season, and the central or business streets were cleaned from time to time as required, one man having been kept in the central district regularly employed cleaning crossings and gutters. This being a new feature in cleaning, the condition of streets and crossings is more satisfactory than formerly.

THE IDEALS OF A HOME

THE ANNUAL TEA AND CONCERT

Murray Street Old Scholars Welcomed Home For Christmas

The annual Christmas tea and concert of the Murray street Baptist Church was held last night in the school room, and was one of the most successful in the history of the church. Tea was served from 5.30 to 7.30 o'clock and a great number partook of the excellent spread provided.

A programme, commencing at 8 o'clock, followed the tea. Each of the many classes presented cash gifts for Christmas cheer for others outside the school. There was no interchange of presents between the scholars and teachers. The class gifts amounted to $165.00 and the silver offering at the door was $10.

SERMON GIVEN BY MR. CAMPBELL

Introduces a Suicide—Should The New Testament be Taken Literally?

FEEDING THE MULTITUDE

Rev. R. J. Campbell, in the course of a remarkable sermon at the City Temple, London, recently, on the subject of Christ feeding the multitude in which he referred to the recent suicide in the Thames of an author and his artist wife, "who perished for want of bread," asked the congregation if they really believed the New Testament story in its literal sense.

The men who told the story were Orientals and were not deceived in the least. They used it to illustrate the spiritual value of Jesus to the world. The feeding of the multitude was not the feeding of the body, but the feeding of the soul with the bread of life. It was a felicitous and beautiful symbol, but its beauty was destroyed and its teaching ruined when they sought to reduce it to the physical plane.

This statement evoked two or three cries of "No," and one member of the congregation indignantly exclaimed, Certainly not."

Mr. Campbell—"Very Well, don't interrupt."

The preacher proceeded to state that the average representative of the Christian church argued that it was physical food, and "Now," said Mr. Campbell, "see the pretty mess into which they have landed us to-day."

"If Jesus came to minister to us to-day, and did not say who He was, do you think His own church would receive Him gladly? ("No.") It would not I am perfectly sure. It would regard Him as a dangerous revolutionary engaged in upsetting order in the church and state.

"He would expose the whole system and hollow sham of giving people good advice, or putting sticking-plaster on a running sore and calling it a cure, while we continue to profit by their material disadvantages."

Referring to the suicide of Mr. and Mrs. Good, Mr. Campbell said that they had chosen that end because the struggle to live was too much for them.

"Here were two people of refinement and culture," continued Mr. Campbell, "brought up in good circles, able to produce beautiful thoughts and things, and yet they perished. As they had lived, loved and suffered together they thought they would die together and did it all. I suppose there are some people who would say these two poor things would go to hell. ("No.") If so, it cannot be very much worse than the hell they left. (Applause.) Who makes that hell? I make it. You make it. We all do our little to help to make it—not willingly, but thoughtlessly.

"If we had only known in time there is not a man or woman in this congregation who would not have shared his or her last crust to save this couple from the end of which they had heard. We are all sorry. Yet for every one of the cases we hear of there are 9,000 which are not heard of, and of which we never shall hear."

By all means reserve New Years night for the concert at the Y.M.C.A., two hours of solid enjoyment. Tickets 15c or two for 25c.

OH! THE MISERY.

Mrs. Galbraith of Shelburne, Ont., was a Great Sufferer from Indigestion, the Bane of so many Lives—South American Nervine Released its Hold—It Relieves in one Day.

"I was for a long time a great sufferer from indigestion. I experienced all the misery and annoyance so common to this ailment. I spent a great deal on doctors without receiving any permanent benefit. I was strongly recommended to try South American Nervine. After using only two bottles I am pleased to testify that I am fully restored to health, and I have never had the slightest indication of a return of the trouble. I recommend it most heartily." (6)

BY-LAW No.....

A BY-LAW TO FIX AND PROVIDE FOR LEVYING A SPECIAL FRONTAGE RATE UPON LANDS IN THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH FRONTING ON STREETS, LANES AND ALLEYS UPON WHICH WATER MAINS ARE LAID.

Passed the day of , 1908.

WHEREAS by Chapter 32, of the Statutes of the Province of Ontario, passed in the seventh year of the reign of His Majesty King Edward the Seventh, it is enacted, that subject to the approval of the majority voting thereon of the electors entitled to vote at municipal elections, the Peterborough Water Commissioners shall have power by By-law to levy and charge a special rate upon the several lands, lots or parts of lots, whether occupied or vacant, fronting or abutting upon all streets, lanes and alleys in the municipality upon which water mains, from which the Commissioners are willing to supply water, are laid; such special rate to be an annual rate according to the frontage of the said lands, lots or part of lots and not to exceed five cents per foot for such frontage and to be subject to the same discount for prompt payment as shall be allowed in respect of ordinary water rates for domestic use and to be payable at the time or times, during each year, fixed by the Water Commissioners for payment thereof.

AND WHEREAS the said Water Commissioners have decided to fix the said special rate at four and one-half cents per foot for each foot of frontage in said streets, lanes and alleys and to make the same payable on the same days and times as ordinary water rates are payable under the By-laws of the said Commissioners from time to time in force and effect.

THE PETERBOROUGH WATER COMMISSIONERS THEREFORE ENACT AS FOLLOWS:—

1. This By-law shall come into force and effect on the final passing thereof.

2. An annual special rate of four and one-half cents per foot for each foot of frontage of all lands, lots or parts of lots, whether occupied or vacant, fronting or abutting upon all streets, lanes and alleys in the City of Peterborough, upon which water mains, from which the Commissioners are willing to supply water are laid, is hereby fixed, levied and charged, subject to the provisions hereinafter contained.

3. The said annual special rate shall be due and payable to the said Commissioners in equal portions, on the days and times specified and appointed for payment of ordinary water rates under the By-laws of the said Commissioners, from time to time in force, and shall be subject to the same discount, on each of such payments, as is allowed by the said Water Commissioners, for prompt payment in respect of ordinary water rates for domestic use, provided, however, that upon the production by the owner or occupant of any land, lot or part of lot against which said special rate is charged and who is also the user of water from the said waterworks on the same land, lot or part of, lot, of a receipt for the payment of any sum, rate or rent, chargeable for the use of such water for the same period, the Commissioners shall remit or allow to such owner or occupant, the amount so paid, as a payment on account of the said special rate, and if the sum, rate or rent paid by the said owner or occupant, as shown by the receipt therefor, shall for the same period, be greater than or equal to the said special rate, the Commissioners shall remit to such owner or occupant, the amount of the said special rate.

4. The votes of the electors of the City of Peterborough entitled to vote at municipal elections shall be taken on this By-law on the same day as the annual election for the municipal council for the year 1908 and the polls will be held during the same hours, at the same places, and by the same Deputy Returning Officers and Poll Clerks, as are fixed and appointed for the said annual municipal election.

5. The seventh day of January, 1908, at the hour of 12 o'clock noon, and the City Clerk's Office, are hereby fixed as the time when and the place where the clerk shall sum up the number of votes given for and against the By-law.

6. The fourth day of January, 1908, at the hour of 12 o'clock noon, and the office of the City Clerk, are hereby fixed as the time and place for the appointment of persons to attend at the various polling places, and at the final summing up of the votes by the clerk respectively, on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passing of the by-law.

NOTICE.

Take notice that the foregoing is a true copy of a proposed By-law which has been taken into consideration and which will be finally passed by the Water Commissioners of the City of Peterborough (in the event of the assent of the electors being obtained thereto) after one month from the first publication hereof in the Evening Examiner newspaper, the date of which first publication is the twenty-first day of December, 1907, and that at the hour, day and place therein fixed for taking the votes of the electors the polls will be held.

S. R. ARMSTRONG,
23dd31,3, City Clerk.

STRATHCONAS EXPECT THE SUPPORT OF HOCKEY PUBLIC

The Strathconas are making an appeal to the hockey loving public of Peterborough for support and patronage this season, and it is hoped it will be forthcoming when the season opens. There is a certain feeling among the enthusiasts, one not to be wondered at, of course, that the quality of hockey seen here this winter will not be as fast as it has been in the past few years. That is, of course, evident. It takes years to develop a team like that of two seasons ago, but there is no reason on earth why another similar team cannot be developed in Peterborough. In order to accomplish the feat, however, it is necessary to take the players in hand when they are young, and that is what the Strathconas are doing this season. The results may not be seen this year, but they are bound to come, and if the people of Peterborough want hockey they can show it in no better form than by encouraging and supporting the youngsters who will represent them in the O.H.A. this season. A great mistake has been made in the past in devoting all the attention and encouragement to the older players and letting the juniors look after themselves. The result is seen this year when, with the dropping out of the old timers, it is necessary to whip a new team into line. Stratford is the best hockey town in Canada, and the reason is that the juniors are looked after, and all the attention and support is not given to the seniors. The wisdom of this course is apparent. The juniors of one year become seniors of the next, and a new crop of youngsters comes along to fill the vacancies in the junior ranks. Thus Stratford was able last year to accomplish the remarkable feat of winning a junior and senior O.H.A. championship in one year.

By all means support the Strathconas this season. Show the young players that their efforts are appreciated, and that while the Crowleys and Whitcrofts are missed, there are still chances of championships for Peterborough.

NEW OFFICERS WERE ELECTED

Mr. P. O'Donnell is President—Membership Gradually Increasing

CONCERTS TO BE HELD

The meeting of St. Peter's T.A.S yesterday, of which the feature was the election of officers, was one of the best meetings in the history of the society. The following constitutes the new managerial board:

Spiritual Adviser — Rev. Dr. O'Brien.
Pres.—P. O'Donnell.
First Vice-Pres.—Wm. Merrill.
Second Vice-Pres.—W. Meagher.
Rec. Sec. — Jos. Maher, acclamation.
Fin. Sec. — A. Lehane, acclamation.
Treasurer — Jos. Primeau, acclamation.
Marshall—W. Dennis.
Asst. Marshall—H. O'Rourke.
Guard—Ed. Flaherty.

The steadily increasing success of the society has been undoubtedly due to the capable staff of officers, to whose charge the business has always been entrusted. On all occasions they have been assisted by the foresight and sound judgment of Rev. Dr. O'Brien, and to-day the society in every department is strong and flourishing and continues to advance in St. Peter's congregation.

The dramatic section has begun the study of a play for the 17th of March. A special effort will be made next year to eclipse all past St. Patrick's Day concerts.

To commemorate the anniversary of its organization, the society will give a concert in St. Peter's Hall on January 8. The talent has already been secured, and the public is assured of an enjoyable evening on that occasion.

SNATCHED BILL FROM LADY'S HAND

Unknown Person Got Away With a Dollar Bill at the Market

One lady learned on Saturday in the market building that it is unwise to display money in a crowd and the lesson cost her $1. She had made a purchase and was holding a dollar bill in her hand ready to pay for it, when someone reached out from the crowd and snatched the bill. The thief got away unobserved in the crowd.

Another lady was even more unfortunate, losing a pocketbook containing $8.

Although there was a very large crowd in the market building there were no complaints to the police of any pockets being picked.

INJURED AT TOBOGGAN SLIDE

Mr. Ernest Tovey, son of Ald. Geo. Tovey, was painfully injured in a tobogganing accident at Jackson Park Friday night. In company with a number of others he was enjoying the exciting pastime when the toboggan on which he was riding was overturned and he was thrown off. When spectators of the accident reached him it was found he had received a very painful cut on the head and several teeth had been knocked out. Mr. Tovey is doing as well as could be expected to-day and his injuries are not serious, although they are causing him much pain.

TREE CUT DOWN FROM LAWN

Some Dastard Destroys Beauty of House Front

Some time Saturday night a dastardly piece of work was committed on Chamberlen street when a twenty year old spruce tree was cut down and carried away from the lawn of Mrs. Jas. Fuller's residence on that street. It had been carefully trained, and had grown proportionately, and was of very fine appearance. With a number of other evergreens, and shade trees, it helped to beautify the front of the lawn. The police have been communicated with and will give the matter their attention.

SKATING RINK TO OPEN CHRISTMAS DAY

Ice Will be in Good Condition—Band in Attendance

In all probability Jackson Park will be formally opened on Christmas afternoon with the band in attendance. Both the toboggan slide and the open-air skating rink will be running in full swing.

Mr. J. H. Larmonth, manager of the Street Railway Company, was seen by the Examiner on Saturday, and said the men were working hard to get the ice in good condition as soon as possible. There was now a good bottom of ice, and if the cold weather continued there would be skating Christmas afternoon.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound, or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

HENRY LUDLOWE IN "RICHARD III." AND "THE MERCHANT OF VENICE"

Mr. Ernest C. Warde, who will be stage director of the Shakesperian tour of the distinguished tragedian Mr. Henry Ludlowe, is the youngest son of Mr. Frederick Warde, the famous actor, and for five years acted with, and was trained by, his brilliant father in a round of Shakesperian productions, including all of Shakespere's plays that have been staged recently. When Mr. Frederick Warde retired from the stage, the late Mr. Richard Mansfield secured the services of young Mr. Warde, and for eight years he at first acted with, and then became Mr. Mansfield's stage manager, aiding him in the production of eighteen of the splendid presentations which made Mr. Mansfield's name one of the greatest in the annals of the stage. Mr. Warde is most enthusiastic about Mr. Ludlowe, and pronounces him the best equipped tragedian of our times.

Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I wish to state that I never authorized Mr. Geo. Stevens to act as my agent. In my race at Toronto he forced himself upon me. When I got to the C.P.R. station he was there and had my ticket bought without my knowledge, and I want it distinctly understood that I will have no more dealings with him. I also want to state here that I can beat any man, young or old, in Peterborough in a heel and toe walk.

FARMER'S HORSE RUNS AWAY

Took Fright From Passing Vehicle—Smashes Cutter Against Post

Two miles outside of Peterborough on Saturday morning a farmer's horse took fright from a passing vehicle, and ran away and threw the farmer out. The horse tore along through the country and entered the city by way of McDonel street. At Aylmer street the he decided to change direction, and swung the sleigh around the corner dashing it against a post and disconnecting the sleigh from the harness. The horse was fagged out and walked down Aylmer street. The farmer arrived about fifteen minutes later in another cutter and took charge of the horse.

BOYS ARE HOME FROM COLLEGE

Large Number of Freshmen at S.P.S—Art School Banquet

The C. P. R. on Saturday night brought home several Peterborough boys who have been attending College in Toronto, many of them being students at the S. P. S.

The boys are delighted with their first term in college and look forward with pleasure to January 16, when they will return. During the term the boys have been in several mix-ups, most of them taking part in the Hallowe'en celebration, which generally gives some slight trouble to the citizens of that metropolitan city. One boy, Holden Blackwell, was among the brave twenty-five who entered the Arts School gymnasium on a banquet night, and tried to break up gathering. There were over two hundred Arts men attending and they soon dispersed the intruders. Three of the school men were thrown into the gymnasium tank, and many Arts fellows followed.

The Science students all congregated together at their rooms two weeks ago and all went to see Raymond Hitchcock in the "Yankee Tourist. Public sentiment in Toronto was very much against Hitchcock, but the boys turned out in large numbers and gave him a good reception.

The initiation at the School of Science this year was a failure owing to the large number of freshmen. The first year men numbered 220, more than the other three years together, and the freshmen gave the sophomores more than they bargained for. The Science men fear that the examinations next April will be very stiff as there will not be room to hold the number who will likely pass.

HOSPITALS CROWDED

MAJORITY OF PATIENTS WOMEN

Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Saves Many From this Sad and Costly Experience.

It is a sad but true fact that every year brings an increase in the number of operations performed upon women in our hospitals. More than three-fourths of the patients lying on those snow-white beds are women and girls who are awaiting or recovering from operations made necessary by neglect.

Every one of these patients had plenty of warning in that bearing down feeling, pain at the left or right of the abdomen, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back, pelvic catarrh, dizziness, flatulency, displacements or irregularities. All of these symptoms are indications of an unhealthy condition of the female organs, and if not heeded the trouble may make headway until the penalty has to be paid by a dangerous operation, and a lifetime of impaired usefulness at best, while in many cases the results are fatal.

The following letter should bring hope to suffering women. Mrs. Robert Glenn, of 434 Marie St., Ottawa, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so well and widely known that it does not need my recommendation, but I am pleased to add it to the many which you have in its favor. I suffered untold agonies from serious female troubles for nearly three years, and the doctors told me that I must undergo an operation, but as I was unwilling to do this, I tried your Vegetable Compound and I am only too pleased that I did so, for it restored me to perfect health, saving me the pain of an operation and the immense bills attending the same. Pray accept my hearty thanks and best wishes."

Just as surely as Mrs. Glenn was cured of the troubles enumerated in her letter, just so surely will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure other women who suffer from female troubles, inflammation, kidney troubles, nervous excitability and nervous prostration.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all women who are ill to write her for free advice. She is a daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge. Address, Lynn, Mass.

A POLAR BEAR HUNT

Adventure In the Frozen Wastes of the Arctic.

RACE TO SAVE A MAN'S LIFE

A Mile Run For a Rifle That at First Refused to Do Its Work—A Shot That Brought the Great Brute to the Camp as Food For Men and Dogs.

The long arctic night was breaking. Like hibernating polar bears, we had lived the winter through under cover of a great drift of snow. This served as a thick blanket for our little hut and helped to keep warm the thirty-nine shipwrecked men who had been marooned on the desert island of Rudolph, in the frozen wastes of the polar sea.

One day, after a flurry of storm, I took a walk to Cape Saulen. On my way back to camp I stepped on the highest rocks of the moraine to look out toward the ice covered sea. Northward and westward great black steaming streaks in the white revealed the open water, and overhead hung dark clouds of vapor, another indication of a "lead," or open water, underneath.

Turning my eyes southward toward Teplitz bay, I beheld the panorama of the camp spread out before me, the hut and stable tent, the two little observatories and the numerous caches of food stores giving the appearance of an arctic village. Down in the tide crack where the ice of the bay met the fast frozen land sheet I could distinguish the silhouette of one of my men taking a tide observation. Behind him rose a bristling ridge of ice pinnacles, which effectually blocked his view toward the sea.

From my greater elevation I made out the form of a great polar bear crossing the rough ice toward the land. As I watched he reached a high cake of ice and, climbing upon it, raised himself up on his hind quarters and looked over toward the spot where Mr. Long, the observer, was at work. Then I realized his object. There was no one else in sight, and Long was unarmed. Could I reach camp, seize a rifle and make my way out on the bay before the bear began his attack?

In the cold, crisp air I ran the mile or so toward the hut, a race that fortunately was down grade. I rushed into the house, secured my rifle and set off as fast as my legs would carry me toward where I had last seen the bear. Usually the dogs at camp thought it great sport to join in such a chase, but this time they crouched around the hut, whining and whimpering and refusing to follow as I ran past them with my rifle. I soon came up to Long and, warning him to look out for the approaching bear, of which he was still all unconscious, proceeded at reduced speed, as the ice was now very rough, in the direction of the advancing beast. As I was crossing the top of the first pressure ridge I saw the bear coming my way. He caught sight of me at the same moment, raised himself on his haunches to get a better view, and then started in a lope over the ice cakes in my direction.

I raised my carbine, took a quick sight and pulled the trigger. Instead of the usual quick snap and explosion I felt the slow, gummy motion of the bolt that told me that the lock was frozen. In cleaning the gun a few days before I must have left some oil in the lock.

I worked the bolt back and forth, trying to warm up the mechanism by friction, the great bear climbing rapidly and surely over the broken ice cakes toward me all the while. Once more I pulled the trigger. The unexpected happened, and the cartridge exploded, but in my haste, although so close, I made a clear miss.

However, the flash and the report must have frightened the beast, for he made off. I climbed in pursuit, but on account of the heavy ice did not see him again until he had placed about 200 yards between us and was still going with great leaps in the direction of the open sea.

I aimed and fired just as he leaped between two great ridges. This time he fell in a heap. With the bear's fall the dogs set us such a howling, barking and yelping as I had seldom heard, even from that noisy pack. Every dog in camp now started for the fallen king.

The bullet had gone through his back, paralyzing his hind quarters, but he was able to swing around on the flat floe and deal fearful blows with his great fore paws. But the combat was too unequal. One more bullet and the great bear was beyond all further pain.

The men from camp had now arrived, and the dogs were caught and harnessed to a sledge. Upon it we lashed the carcass of the bear and then, cutting a trail back to land, hauled our load to the hut, a welcome addition to the larder for men and dogs.—Anthony Fraia in Youth's Companion.

STEEL PLANT PERILS.

Recklessness a Psychological Factor That Must Be Considered.

Recklessness is certainly a psychological characteristic of men in steel plants. All tradition teaches them to be reckless. The very example of their superiors teaches them to be reckless. The assistant superintendent of the plant that the Illinois Steel company maintains at Joliet stepped on an unprotected gear and lost his leg just after he had warned his men not to be guilty of any such culpable negligence of their own safety. I am willing to admit the existence of culpable negligence altogether apart from the negligence of the company. And not only that, but I am also willing to give a specific illustration.

I was standing one day on the platform of a blast furnace. All at once, unexpectedly, I heard the four whistles that indicate danger. There was a "hang" in the furnace. The whirling, eddying mass of ore, coke and limestone in the high interior of that furnace had got caught somewhere, somehow, and was refusing to come down. When it did come down there would be a crash and perhaps an explosion.

I ran and got behind a brick pillar. On coming into the plant that morning I had signed a piece of paper, just the same kind of a piece of paper that every visitor signs, saying that I would not hold the Illinois Steel company responsible for anything that might happen to me. I reflected that nobody would profit by my demise. But observe what the other men around that blast furnace did!

I could see them as I peered out from behind my brick pillar. Those of them who were already in front of the furnace looked up at it with an expression of profound curiosity on their faces. Two other men who had been standing at the back of the furnace ran all the way round it and came out in front. There they all stood hurling their mute interrogatories at the crafty, reticent volcano that might nevertheless the next moment hurl forth an indignant answer at their heads!—Everybody's Magazine.

BLOOD PRESSURE.

The Determination of its Relation to Mental States.

In addition to those bodily movements which are called "voluntary" various bodily phenomena which are clearly involuntary accompany violent mental excitement. The blush of shame, the distinctive flushes of joy and of anger, the pallor and sweat of fear, the tears of grief and the "creeping" of the flesh provoked by horror are familiar examples. The respiration is quickened by joy and retarded by anxiety, and the feeling of relief finds expression in a deep sigh. Violent emotions often disturb the digestion. The heart "bounds with joy," is paralyzed by horror, "leaps to the throat" in terror. The connection between the heart and the emotions is so intimate that the heart was long regarded as the seat of the soul.

Most of these involuntary physical concomitants of mental excitement are brought about by a special part of the nervous system, the sympathetic nerve and its branches, which ramify to every part of the body. The best known branches are those that govern the dilatation of the blood vessels, which are profoundly affected by mental states. These phenomena are susceptible of exact quantitative determination by means of a method devised by the Italian physiologist Mosso. The result is fairly accurate measurement of the variation of blood supply in the brain. The subject is laid on a board which is balanced on a fulcrum at the center of gravity. When the subject is quiet and undisturbed the board lies horizontal. Now, if an unpleasant sensation or emotion is induced in the subject his head is involuntarily elevated, indicating diminution in the quantity of blood in the brain. An agreeable sensation of emotion produces the opposite effect.—Scientific American.

Tennyson's Queer Ways.

It was with great difficulty that Professor Hubert Herkomer, the portrait painter, obtained Tennyson's consent for a sitting, but at last he was successful and called at the poet's house. After some little delay the door of the room where the artist was waiting slowly opened, and Tennyson entered with drooping head. He looked most dejected and murmured: "I hate your coming. I can't abide sitting." However, Mr. Herkomer was allowed to remain. Soon after he had retired to his room for the night there came a knock at the door. A head was thrust in and the voice of the poet remarked: "I believe you are honest. Good night."

THE PEANUT SECTION

It Takes In Portions of Virginia and North Carolina.

ENORMOUS CROPS IT GROWS.

Nineteen Counties In the Two States Produce an Average of Twelve Million Bushels a Year—The Way the Toothsome Goober Grows.

Suffolk, Va., is the greatest peanut shipping point in the world. More of the delicious goobers are raised in Nansemond county, of which Suffolk is the capital, than in any other county on earth.

If one takes the map and draws a pencil mark around nineteen counties in southeastern Virginia and northeastern North Carolina he will put a fence, so to speak, around the greatest peanut section of the world. Those counties are: In Virginia, Nansemond, Norfolk, Isle of Wight, Southampton, Sussex, Greenville and Prince George; in North Carolina, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Gates, Hertford, Chowan, Northampton, Halifax, Edgecombe, Martin, Pitt, Bertie and Washington.

This territory, which is within a radius of 150 miles from Norfolk, produces 3,000,000 bags of peanuts every year. Every bag contains four bushels, so that 12,000,000 bushels is the average annual production. The shipping centers of this belt are Suffolk, Norfolk, Petersburg and Smithfield, all in Virginia. Some peanuts are raised in Tennessee and California, but the crop of those states is a bagatelle as compared with the production of the Virginia-North Carolina territory.

The shelled peanuts are planted about the middle of May by means of a drill, similar to a corn drill, which drops one or two kernels in a place, about twelve inches apart. The soil that raises the best peanuts is light, sandy loam. It need not be rich. In fact, a great deal of Virginia land that was considered in the antebellum days too poor to raise anything on is now producing great quantities of peanuts.

Very little cultivation is required. Peanut lands are usually plowed only once or twice when the plants are small to choke out the grass.

The digging time is October, when the peanut leaves turn yellow. A plow is run under the peanut vines and throws up the goobers after the fashion of digging potatoes in the north. Poles seven or eight feet tall are stuck into the ground, and the vines are shacked around them, with the peanuts next to the pole, so that the leaves and vines form a protection from the weather. If the weather be bright and cloudless while the peanuts are curing, so much the better. If rain sets in, the hulls become blackened and mildewed, which lessens the value of the crop.

Formerly all peanuts raised were picked from the vines by hand. Now machines similar to thrashers separate fully 75 per cent of the peanuts from the vines. No machine has been invented, however, that will do this work perfectly. The tendency of machines is to crack the hulls, and peanuts with cracked hulls are likely to spoil.

When the peanuts are separated from the vines the farmer sacks them and hauls them to a factory, and his work ends there. Delivered at these so called "factories" his nuts bring 3 to 5 cents a pound (each bushel containing twenty-two pounds) for the best grades and 1¼ cents to 4 cents a pound for lower grades. The nuts still have on a generous coat of dirt.

At the "factory" they are dumped first into a drum where the dirt is removed and a powder is mixed with them to brighten and polish them. At the same time two fans separate the light and shriveled nuts from the perfect ones. The nuts are then dumped on slowly revolving tables, where negro women and girls continue the process of separating the good from the bad.

When the nuts are cleaned and separated they are carefully sacked and graded according to quality and are then sold at 4½ to 6½ cents a pound to jobbers all over the country. From the jobbers they find their way to street venders, candy manufacturers and factories that make peanut butter and salted peanuts.—Exchange.

Empress Eugenie's Playfulness.

Some years ago the Empress Eugenie was a capital hand at whiling away her own and other people's time when residing at obscure watering places where the accustomed resources of royal gayety were at fault. One game which she invented and which gave much delight was this: A costly jewel was placed upon a saucer and covered with an inverted teacup. A lady then tossed them to a gentleman seated on the opposite side of the room, and if he caught the flying utensils with such a steady hand that the jewel was not displaced from under the cup the gem became the property of the lady. Of course the gallant who was to "catch" felt an intense solicitude, inasmuch as the prize for the lady which his adroitness might gain or his awkwardness lose had a value which rendered its possession exceedingly desirable and made its loss acutely felt. It is said that the emperor was the best "catcher" of them all, and when he was present the game was played with an enthusiasm which would rival that of a thickly populated nursery.

Fortunate.

"How dreadfully stout the general is getting!"

"Yes. Isn't it fortunate? Otherwise he wouldn't be able to wear all his medals."—Tit-Bits.

Furs.

Furs were worn by Henry I., about 1125. Edward III. enacted that all persons who could not spend £100 a year should be prohibited this species of finery.

FOOT AFFLICTIONS

"One of the 14"

Ordinary-Insides

Ask any surgeon or physician or orthopedic specialist what sort of a shoe to wear and he'll tell you to get one that's shaped like the human foot, with a strong, well-raised arch. Why? Because the foot rests naturally, in an anatomically correct shoe, and because the raised arch holds the heel firmly against the back, thus preventing the toes from jamming and crowding into the narrowness of the shoe's fore part.

Cramping of the toes in this manner is the cause of all foot ailments, such as corns, bunions, deformed toes, ingrowing nails, etc. Ask any authority.

As Dolly Vardens are copies of perfect feminine feet, they are anatomically correct in shape, and as they are built with a strong, well-raised steel arch, they prevent the toes from slipping forward.

The Dolly Varden agent will convince you if given a chance. Purchasers or investigators equally welcome. $4.00 to $5.00 in Canada and the States. Every pair Goodyear welted.

WOMAN RESCUED.

Ottawa, Ont.—Slavery is not dead. Daily, the traffic in human souls goes on. Only a short time ago, a number of Chinese were arrested as they attempted to smuggle young girls from Canada into the United States. In Eastern countries, the slave trader plies his vocation in the market place. Some go into another kind of slavery unknowingly—yet make a valiant effort to escape. Ottawa is all agog over the wonderful escape of one of her charming matrons from that physical slavery, Rheumatism. Mrs. R. C. Small says, "I was a constant sufferer from rheumatism for over seven years. I used many treatments—consulted doctors—tried hot baths—used almost every known mineral water—but nothing did me any real good. The pains were in my joints and back, and I had frequent headaches and bad indigestion. About a year ago, I saw 'Fruit-a-tives' advertised and decided to try them. After I had taken two boxes, I was much better. Altogether I took seven boxes. I have had no rheumatism for over six months now and feel that I am quite cured. I have gained over ten pounds in weight."

"Fruit-a-tives" cure because the concentrated fruit juices and tonics strengthen the kidneys—regulate the bowels—and invigorate the skin. This builds pure blood, free of uric acid.

Cure yourself. Take "Fruit-a-tives" now and be free of Rheumatism all winter. 50c a box; 6 for $2.50. At druggists, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

Turning The Tide.

By W. P. BRYAN.

Copyrighted, 1907, by Homer Sprague.

"The tide will turn some day," said Alva hopefully as she stirred the sugar in her tea with a carefully cleaned palette knife and then buttered her bread with the same utensil. "There is always a turn of the tide."

Sally Peterson shook her tiny small head vigorously. "There is bound to be a turn—when you turn it. My dear, nothing succeeds in this big town like success."

"But you must first gain success, and that is not something so easily gained."

"Nonsense," declared Sally oracularly. "Men and women are too busy to inquire if success is real. Look at the way I got ahead. It was all a bluff."

"A bluff?" Alva's eyes were wide open. "You sinful child, I know to my own knowledge of three checks you've had this week."

"Now, yes," said Miss Peterson disdainfully. "I mean when I began. I was on the verge. I was stopping at a place more expensive than I could afford because one of the assistant editors on a big magazine stopped there too.

"I thought I could land him with some of my stuff, but he fought shy of it. Then one day I got a check for $100 from another magazine. I don't mind admitting that it was commission on a lot of subscriptions I had turned in. The editor at our hotel didn't know that when he cashed the check, as I asked him to, and his eyes bulged. My dear, I sent myself that same check four times in the next week and sold my editorial friend two stories on the strength of my success."

"I'll back you. Get out of this cheap boarding house into a good locality. Rent a good studio and leave the rest to me. I'll find the right sort of boarding house for you. Why, from this address alone they would know that you were a struggling artist and despise you accordingly."

There were other but less important details to be settled, and it was the end of the week before Alva found herself established at a fashionable address, enjoying the novelty of her surroundings and yet still fearful of the success of the scheme. For what her boarding place and studio now cost each week she could have lived for two months in the old way.

The second day a check came in an envelope with a fashionable address. Even the waitress was more deferential as she brought Alva her breakfast, and the landlady beamed when asked to cash the check. Other checks followed, and almost before she knew it Alva was being asked for invitations to her studio.

Her work was good, and soon real checks came in with orders for work, and Sally Peterson, who was using the fact that she was writing up society women for one of the Sunday papers to get the checks, no longer cudgeled her wits to keep up the supply. It has been easy to ask for a check for cash on the plea she had to send some money to a friend, and checks were easier than money orders.

Alva was still uncertain. From Puritan ancestors she had inherited odd notions of right and wrong, and it did not seem fair to sell to her patrons pictures that a few weeks ago had been regarded with supercilious scorn by the dealers to whom she submitted them. Under Sally's assiduous coaching she was becoming used to it, largely because there was no way out of it. It was not until Geoffrey Marsden appeared upon the scene that her protest against the slight deceit became strong.

Marsden was a clean cut young fellow, far less aware of the importance of his millions than were most of his associates. He was doing squire duty to some of his friends at one of Alva's studio teas. Thereafter the young man became a frequent visitor to the cozy studio with the simple lettering "Miss Vallhall" in black upon the door.

Marsden was not one to let the grass grow under his feet, and in less than three months he had proposed marriage. For an instant Alva's soul seemed filled with gladness, then she remembered with sinking heart that the success which had attracted her lover was all a sham, a fabrication of Sally Peterson and herself. Gently she withdrew the hand he was pressing to his lips and rose from her chair.

"I am sorry," she said dully. "I did not realize whither we were drifting. It was wrong of me to permit matters to go so far. Forgive me."

"Is it that you do not love me?" he urged. "Is it because of some fault of mine that you say no?" he asked. "You can learn to love me, dear. The fault might be explained away."

"No, no," she cried. "It is not that. It is because—I cannot explain. Please do not ask me to explain." She pushed him from her and sank sobbing upon the Turkish divan.

For a moment Marsden watched her undecidedly. He longed to take her in his arms and comfort her, to insist upon an explanation in the hope of clearing away the trouble; but, manlike, he could not combat tears, so he stole softly out.

Alva heard him go, and she gave way to a fresh accession of grief, which presently exhausted her, and she fell into troubled slumber.

From her sleep she was roused by a knocking upon the door, and almost before she realized she had called out "Come in," and Geoffrey stood before her.

"I met that little friend of yours down the street," he explained awkwardly, "and she called me a fool for leaving you before I found out what the trouble was, so I came back," he added.

"I begged you not to ask," Alva reminded tremulously.

"But Miss Peterson said to insist," he countered. "She is a tremendously clever little woman."

"I am sorry I ever met her," cried Alva passionately. "Then I might have been a success upon my own account and not a creature of deceit. Can you love me knowing that my success is wholly false, an acted lie?"

"You mean that some one else paints your pictures?" he demanded. "I don't care about the pictures. It's you I want, little girl. I don't care who did the pictures."

"It's not so bad as that!" she cried, shocked at the suggestion. And then, slowly and sobbingly, she told, bit by bit, how she and Sally had turned the tide. The sun set and darkness settled down, yet neither seemed aware of the gathering dust.

"And that's how my success was gained," cried Alva as the recital was concluded. "Now you understand why I cannot marry you. You, with your upright business ways, would forever despise me."

"It's merely advertisement," said Marsden, with a laugh. "Is this the dreadful skeleton in the closet that is to keep us forever apart?"

"Isn't it enough?" she demanded miserably.

"Do you know how the Marsden soap works were started?" he asked.

"We're making soap for all the world now, and good soap too. But the first factory was a kettle in our back yard. We all used to work it in the evenings, and during the day we three boys, Eddie and my brother George, who died, used to go into groceries and ask for the soap, and father would sell them a box, and that box would bring new orders. Success creates success. We, too, turned the tide."

"And don't you hate me for the deception?" she asked in a whisper.

"Hate you?" he repeated tenderly. "As though I could ever hate you, dear! I am most profoundly grateful to Miss Peterson for making you a discovery so early. Think of the happy years we might have missed."

"It seemed almost dishonest," she whispered. "I thought"—

But Marsden stopped her words with a kiss.

"We have turned the tide again," he said. "Let us not think of the tides that have ebbed and flowed."

Fireproofed by Water.

"Did you ever see wood what would not burn?" said the sailor.

"Oh, yes. There's brier, pipe brier, you know, and there's ironwood and there's"—

But the sailor interrupted impatiently. "No, no," he said. "I mean ordinary wood, pine, this here."

And he drew from his pocket a piece of ancient looking pine. He applied several matches to it, and, as he predicted, the flame would not consume, but only blackened it a little.

"This piece of pine," he said, "has a strange story. It was fireproofed by water. It was part of a whaleboat, and once when a harpoon was stuck into a big whale the line fouled, the men all jumped for their lives and the whale made a mad plunge downward, draggin' the boat down behind it. Down, down, it went. They thought it would never come up again. It made a lot of these terrific plunges and dives, then it dashed off faster 'n lightnin', but it died in the end, and the whaler's men got it, and they got back their boat too.

"The wood of the boat was all like this here, hard as iron. What had hardened it was the pressure of the water. Scientific codgers said the whale must have carried the boat down half a mile or more to change the fiber of the wood like that."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Afghanistan.

Afghanistan may some day be one of the world's greatest mining districts. It is known to have mines of rubies, topaz, lapis lazuli, marble and other stones, iron, lead, copper, antimony and other metallic ores, sulphur and several of the earthly alkaline and metallic salts. Coal is also found and is believed to be extensive near the iron mines.

Wonderful Gates.

The designer of the gates of the baptistery of Florence, declared by Michael Angelo to be "the wonder of the world and fit to be the gates of paradise," was Ghiberti, who spent the whole of his life upon them.

THE PIN PIANO.

An Amusing Musical Instrument That Is Easily Made.

Have you a cigar box, a bit of thick paper, a paper of pins and a tack hammer? Well, that is all you need to make a pinnetta, and I am sure the pleasure and amusement it will afford you and your friends will amply repay you for the trouble.

First, you take the box and nail down the lid, then cover the whole box with bright colored paper, so that it will look pretty. Then tack the pins along the edges of the bottom of the box. You must be very careful in the pounding of the pins, for this is the difficult part of the work.

Have your sister or somebody sing the soprano part of any song you like, note by note. Perhaps, unless the singer has a perfectly true voice, you had better use some instrument to tune your pinnetta by. Use new straight pins and pound them in until they sound exactly like the singing, just as a violin is tuned with a piano. The deeper the pins are driven the higher the sound. If a very high note is desired small black pins are best, and for base notes large needles are best, but common pins can be used for all. A very little difference in the depth of the driving makes a great difference in the sound.

Holding the box firmly in your left hand or, better, placing it on a table, you take a long pin in your right hand and run the point along the middle of the pins in the box as they stand upright. You should run the pin in your hand according to the time the piece is written in.

The pinnetta can be made in perfect tune, played in perfect time and has a clear, sweet sound, like water running over stones. If you possess any musical talent, you can make the accompaniment of chords on another box and have a very pretty duet.

ABOUT THE SUN DOG.

Explanation of the Cause of These Bright Lights in the Sky.

Did you ever see a sun dog? Perhaps you do not know what a sun dog is. The scientific name for it is parhelion, which means "near the sun," from the Greek words para and helios. You have seen a halo around the moon quite often no doubt and sometimes one around the sun. A halo is caused by the refraction and dispersion of the rays of light by the ice crystals floating in the upper atmosphere. The crystals act as prisms, breaking the light into the colors of the rainbow. It sometimes happens that the refracted rays are intensified at certain points in the halo, perhaps because there are more crystals at those points, and these spots are often dazzlingly bright. It is a spot of that kind that is called a parhelion, or more familiarly a sun dog, because it is near the sun as a dog is near or follows its master. When the sun gets high in the heavens the parhelion gradually separates from the halo and appears as a brilliant spot of light. So far as the editor knows there is no separation of that kind in the moon's halo, perhaps because the moon's light is so much fainter than that of the sun. The editor had the great pleasure of seeing a sun dog several years ago, and it was beautiful beyond description.—Chicago News.

Lions and Tigers.

A curious story as illustrating the difference in courage between a lion and a Bengal tiger is told by an old showman: "One day, in order to make a test, we placed a firecracker in the respective cages and lighted the fuses. As soon as they began to burn they attracted the attention of both animals, but in a widely different manner. The lion withdrew into a corner and watched the proceedings with a distrusted and uneasy eye. The tiger, on the contrary, advanced to the burning fuse with a firm step and unflinching gaze. On reaching the cracker he took his paw and began to roll it over the floor, and when it exploded beneath his very nose he did not flinch, but continued his examination until perfectly satisfied. The lion betrayed great fear when he heard the report of the explosion and for quite a time could not be coaxed out of his den."

ARE NOW PASSING AWAY AND BECOMING ONLY A MEMORY.

Cattle No Longer Roam the Plains as In Former Days — Cowboy and Broncho Find Their Occupation Gone — Ranching Quite Different Now—Hero of the Prairies Excites No Interest.

The hero of the western plains for many a decade has been the cowboy. From time immemorial woman has loved the sword; but not any more than the broad-brimmed hat of the sturdy rider of the prairies. Militarism to-day is a passing pageant, and the halo of glory that has surrounded the strenuous life of the cowboy is fading away and becoming a memory.

A little over a quarter of a century ago and the west was one unbroken stretch of country, over whose limitless plains thousands of buffaloes roamed at will. The stolid Indian had his home where'er he pitched his camp. The ranchman came in with his immense herds of cattle, and the buffalo fell a prey to the white man's thirst for gory sport. Thousands were slaughtered every year, and their carcasses left to rot upon the plains while their heads were carried off as the spoils of the day.

Buffalo Had Dwindled.

When Canada awoke and came to realize the destruction that had been going on, the buffalo had dwindled down to a few hundreds and even these had forsaken the flag that had neglected to give them protection.

In an effort to save the race from becoming extinct, the Canadian Government has already spent half a million dollars. It has provided a national park where some 500 buffaloes brought from Montana are placed; but the buffalo will pass to the frontier just as the Indian has done, and then to the great zone of the unforgotten.

It is this trail that the cowboy rides to-day; indeed, his prancing steed may overtake them all, and disappear as a lone traveler in the dim silence.

At one time Western Canada was one of the greatest stock-raising countries in the world; it is so to-day, but under greatly changed circumstances. It was then we found the cowboy at the height of his fame.

Not long ago a ranch was visited where 4,000 head of cattle were in stock. The ranch was divided into sections and fenced in with barbed wire. In the early days there were no fences; the cattle roamed the plains, guarded by the cowboy and the broncho.

The life of the cowboy was an arduous one. Some ranchmen had as many as 10,000 and 15,000 heads, the average probably being about 5,000, but immaterial as to numbers, they had to be very closely watched and protected. A mountain wolf or a coyote falling upon a calf or young steer might cause a panic that would finally end in a general stampede. The cowboys finding their efforts to check the headlong rush unavailing would call the reserves, and the animals pushed on scattering them in different directions. As long as they bunched the position of the cowboy was a perilous one. The slightest stumble of his pony might prove fatal. As a rule they rode alongside near the leaders, whom they endeavored to confuse. With this the cattle broke up, and the stampede became disorganized.

Effect of a Storm.

Another life-long enemy of the cowboy was the storm. No sooner were the skies overcast and the winds began to sweep the plains than the cattle flanked in their movements, reeled before the storm and fell into full retreat. Then it was that the cowboy was called upon to strain every nerve to keep the herd intact; and lead it into a ravine or coulee. The moment the storm came up, the shift off duty hastened to the assistance of the others. If there was no stampede, as was almost invariably the case, ultimately, the cattle could be directed without very great difficulty to a place of shelter. The men had to do mostly with the leaders, the rest following.

The cowboy lived, at best, in a thatched shack, and not invariably in a hut dug into the side of a hill. He lived far from the haunts of commerce, and his diet was such as the country provided. No truer, sterner and more gallant man ever lived than the cowboy of the western prairies. It is true he lived a rough and ready life, but he was the very essence of a square deal, and he measured every man according to his own standard of ethics.

Miles of Wire Fences.

The cowboy of to-day is merely an imitation. There is not the same chivalry in him; he rides into town, flaunts his broad-brimmed hat and displays cheap bravado in the corner saloon. But this is only an evidence of his degeneracy, of his living on a reputation made by others. The hat that helped to peer the measureless distances of the plains the kerchief that was a fortress against the stinging bites of the prairie mosquito, the breeches with their fringed edges to cut the winds, are now mementoes for display before the awe-stricken and illiterate foreigner.

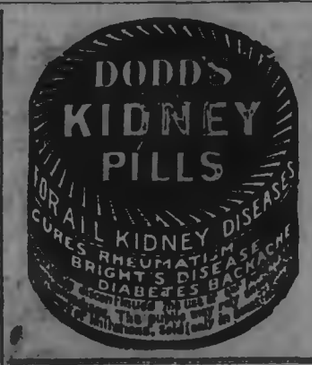
The spirit of commercialism has so permeated our western land, that no more does the hero of the prairies awaken other than a passing look as he rides through the town.

Thousands of miles of wire fences are placed every year, and ranches that knew only the horizon for their bounds are now parcelled off into quarter-sections, and into these the cattle are bunched. The cowboy as known in olden days is no longer required—he has become one of the help, and thus has his glory faded.

With the onward progress of development of the country, and its attendant hosts of eager, anxious settlers pushing their way into every section of the country, there is being placed upon the pages of our unwritten history the epitaph of one of the most interesting characters that has lived and flourished in the annals of any country.

The Cow Killers.

The Gallas tribe in Africa is reported by a Belgian authority to regard it as a sacred duty to kill cows on every possible occasion, with a view of discovering a certain volume of sacred lore which a cow once swallowed.



AMAZING SPOOK STORY

GHOST RE-ENACTS TRAGEDY AND VANISHES INTO THIN AIR.

Discharges a Pistol With Loud Report — Horrified Spectator Meets Widow of Man Who Killed Himself—Weird Occurrence In an Indian Bungalow — Former Tenant, Who Suicided, Reappears.

An amazing spook story told by a contributor to the Indian Daily Telegraph has aroused much interest here. It is the tale of a ghost who shot himself. The woman who relates it had accompanied her husband to Tirzapur. He had been sent there to undertake the duties of an agent who had been sent home on sick leave. The only accommodation they could find when they arrived on July 29 was an inspection bungalow.

They retired about 10 o'clock, but Mrs. S.—— remained awake for some time, reading a novel by the light of a lamp. She was just thinking of turning it out, when, suddenly a man holding a revolver appeared in the room. She continues:

"Before I could move or speak, he said: 'Don't stop me, I am going to shoot myself.' As he put the revolver to his head I shut my eyes, and was nearly deafened by the report that followed. My husband jumped up wide awake, at once, with a cry of 'Who fired?' and I opened my eyes, expecting to see a ghastly heap on the floor.

Find No Bleeding Corpse.

"To my amasement, the room was empty—there was no stain in the matting and no sign of the tragedy that had just taken place in front of me. My husband said that he had been wakened out of a sound sleep by the noise of the shot, and when I told him what I had seen, we searched the house together. Neither the punkah coolie, who was sleeping in the verandah, nor the servants whose houses were close by in the compound, had heard anything. Even the dogs chained in the verandah had not been disturbed. It all happened so suddenly that I had no feeling of fright or terror. The man seemed to come from the direction of my husband's office, where there was a door connecting with the bedroom, in front of which we had placed a heavy wardrobe. He was a short, unpleasant looking man, and he held the revolver in his left hand. Neither my husband nor I are at all nervous people, and when we could find nothing to explain what had occurred, we decided that it must have been imagination, and that our being in strong sympathy with each other had caused us to share the same hallucination. We refreshed ourselves with iced drinks and biscuits, and then went to bed and slept soundly after having decided to keep our own counsel about the affair."

Now for the sequel to it. Shortly afterwards the writer accompanied her husband on a tour of the district. Among the hills they met a Mme. de Bevery, who had been a widow for several years. In the course of a conversation with her, Mrs. S—— discovered that at one time she had lived in the bungalow at Tirsapur, where the spectral suicide had manifested himself.

There Had Been a Suicide.

"On hearing that she knew our bungalow, and had actually lived in it, "the writer adds, "I was impelled to relate our strange experience there, which hitherto my husband and I had kept to ourselves. She listened without comment, but when I ended my narrative by saying that we had come to the conclusion it must have been either indigestion or imagination, she turned pale and said: 'You have related something that really happened; my husband shot himself there before my eyes exactly as you have described.'

"I was terribly distressed at having all unwittingly reminded her of such a painful episode, but she reassured me by saying: 'It is many years ago and I can talk about it now, though I was ill for months afterwards from the shock.'

"She then told me that her husband had gone into the bedroom, through the door which we kept closed, and had used the words I quoted, and the whole affair coincided exactly with what I had seen, down to the smallest detail. Mme. de Bevery spoke calmly about her husband, and said that he had been ill and mentally unsound for some time. I heard long afterwards that he was a confirmed drunkard, and had ill-treated her in every way, so that her married life must have been perfect torture, but she never hinted at anything of the sort to me."

The bungalow, it seem, had stood empty for some year after the tragedy, and had then been occupied only at odd intervals during the cold weather. Mr. and Mrs. S—— were the first people who had been in it on July 29, the anniversary of the fatal event.

From the East.

The Hindoos have a large number of proverbs and sayings, which contain much wisdom in very little space. Here are a few:

Time wakes when others sleep; Time no one may escape; without rest and with even pace Time strides over all creatures.

To love those who love you not, to shun those who love you, to make an enemy of the strong—this is to be a fool.

Not to begin an undertaking is the first sign of wisdom, and the second is to complete what has been begun.

What a man desires and strives for, that he always obtains, unless through weariness he relaxes.

Under good fortune the heart of the great is as soft as a lotus bloom; under ill fortune as hard as the mountain rock.

A Long Wait.

Vira, the Morses' sable cook, announced to her mistress that she intended to be married the next week. Mrs. Morse was filled with regret. "Oh, Vira," she cried, "I was afraid William would persuade you at last! You said you'd never leave us."

"Why, I isn't gwine to leabe you, honey," and Vira patted the shoulder of her young mistress in a comforting way. "I's jes' nachelly marrying dat Willum now to keep him from pestering me. He's been roun' too much lately, an' yet if I cas' him off he'll get into mixtrious comp'ny. I's marrying dat boy to sabe him."

"Yes," said Mrs. Morse, somewhat reassured by Vira's tone, but slightly bewildered nevertheless, "I know it will be a fine thing for him, Vira, but won't he want to take you away?"

"Whar he get de money?" inquired Vira, returning to her work of beating eggs with renewed vigor. "I's sabed de money fo' his honeymoon trip, and I's got his plans all laid out fo' him. He's got a ticket out to California an' to bring my ole farder back eas', an' den I's gwine send him down souf fo' my sister, an' den up in Canady fo' my brudder, an' when he gets dat fam'ly all rounded up an' has to suppo't 'em mostly you t'ink he's gwine be in a hurry to hab me to soppo't, honey?"—Youth's Companion.

Delicate Appetite.

"It's awful trying, this catering to a sick girl," Mrs. Douglas confessed to the friendly visitor who had called to inquire for Amy.

"I believe this convalescent business comes harder on me than her real sickness," continued Mrs. Douglas, with a deep sigh. "I'm that put to it to get something that she'll eat with a relish I get all riled up sometimes trying to tempt her."

The visitor murmured something sympathetic, and, thus encouraged, Mrs. Douglas went on.

"Only yesterday," she said, "I got her a pork chop and 5 cents' worth of marshmallows for her dinner, and if you'll believe me she turned up her nose and said she couldn't eat a mite."—Youth's Companion.

A Sensitive Soul.

Owen Mudge was a very sensitive man. More than once at a harsh word he had forsaken profitable work and gone home for sympathy to his wife. One morning Owen started out to help Glenn Butler, who had bought a new stump pulling machine and was preparing to clear a field.

Toward noon Owen came back. Mrs. Mudge sighed and waited sympathetically for the explanation.

"I just couldn't stand it," said Owen, rubbing his jaw. "When I see that stump puller twist them roots out it reminded me so of the times I went to the dentist to get back teeth extracted. The first thing I knew I was limp as a rag, and I just ached all over and had to quit."

ALL RUN DOWN

Weak---Nervous---Unstrung.

Thousands get run down and become invalids before they realize anything is wrong. By permitting low vitality to develop, the way is paved for fevers, pneumonia and diphtheria. To put off makes it all the harder to get well. The time to repair the system is right now, before the damage gets any worse. The remedy is Ferrozone; it revitalizes, renews, builds up vitality that outlasts old age.

FERROZONE is a genuine invigorator that banishes weakness, and instils surplus force and vigor into every organ of the body. Ferrozone sharpens the appetite, produces rich nutritious blood, and thereby contributes that sense of buoyancy that adds so enormously to one's pleasure and usefulness in life.

For all forms of debility, weakness, lack of blood or nerve tone, sleeplessness, tiredness and exhaustion, there is no medicine so vitalizing and potent as Ferrozone. Even one trial demonstrates its rapidly and certainty of action.

To restore the energy of youth, to get back your vital stamina and reserve force, there is positively no treatment so certain as Ferrozone. You have only to try Ferrozone to know the enormous benefit it invariably brings to all in poor health.

FERROZONE

Miss Dorothy E. Ladue of Chester gives the following convincing evidence of Ferrozone's power:—"My work compels me to rise early in the morning and work ten hours daily as a saleslady. Last Spring I was run down, lost my color, and fell off in weight. I seemed to lack ambition and the life was out of me. A friend recommended Ferrozone, and I took one tablet after meals with wonderful results. Ferrozone brought back my complexion, and has given me new strength and abundance of energy and spirits. I would advise all young ladies to use Ferrozone."

Mrs. H. G. Wilder of Dexter says—"My daughter was not very well last Winter, and lost her strength completely when the Spring came. I gave her Ferrozone, and am glad to say it did wonders. After six boxes were used my daughter was strong, and looked the picture of health."

Gave New Strength

FERROZONE

WARNING—Beware of any substitute for Ferrozone; it alone can cure you. Sold by all druggists and dealers in medicine, only in 50c boxes containing 50 chocolate-coated tablets. By mail to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., or Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST

HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry must be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of the homesteader resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for, the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

PERSIAN SITUATION PRECARIOUS

Parliamentary Party Has Greater Military Strength Than Shah.

Berlin, Dec. 23.—The German official view of the Persian embroglio, based upon despatches received from Teheran, is that the situation still is very precarious, but that a decision one way or the other may be expected in a few days.

The new Ministry, which represents partial concessions on the part of the Shah to the wishes of Parliament, will be introduced to Parliament in a day or two. Parliament will then formulate its demands upon the Shah, but the precise nature of the decision is not known here. If the Shah yields to Parliament the crisis can be regarded as settled; on the other hand, if he refuses the most serious consequences are likely to follow. Parliament, it is believed here, will probably then declare the dethronement of the sovereign. It is pointd out that the military strength of the Parliamentary party is much greater than recent press despatches have set forth. This party actually has more and better-drilled troops than the sovereign.

FUNERAL OF MR. TARTE.

Impressive Ceremony at the Church of St. Louis.

Montreal, Dec. 23.—Most impressive was the funeral service of the late Hon. J. Israel Tarte, which was held Saturday morning at the Church of St. Louis de France, where for many years the deceased worshipped. The solemn valedictory of the Church was pronounced by Rev. J. A. Belanger, parish priest of St. Louis de France. It was spoken before a congregation that filled every portion of the sacred edifice, and included Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. Mr. Fielding, Hon. Mr. Fisher, Hon. Mr. Brodeur, representing the Federal Cabinet; Hon. Mr. Gouin and Hon. Mr. Weir, representing the Provincial Cabinet, who occupied special chairs in front of the communion rail.

The chief mourners were the three sons of the deceased: Messrs. L. J. Eugene and Antoine Tarte. Premier Laurier at the tomb of his old colleague was the most remarked man present, and the Premier gave evidence of deep emotion and a sense of personal loss.

STRONGEST NAVY SUPREME.

Wm. T. Stead In Advocacy of Great Britain's Policy.

London, Dec. 23.—Wm. T. Stead, the editor of The Review of Reviews, in an article in The Daily Mail, justifying his recent advocacy of Great Britain's repeying to the German's naval program by laying down two Dreadnaughts for every one of Germany's brands argues that Germany had weakened instead of strengthened her position in the world by building a fleet, because the whole German navy virtually is a hostage in the hands of a stronger power.

"For any power to have a fleet on the high seas," says the writer, "which is not the strongest fleet afloat, is an increase not of strength, but of vulnerability."

New War Device.

Paris, Dec. 23.—The Echo De Paris announced yesterday that the Maxims are constructing for Japan a new type of ship for the transportation of small submarine vessels to the field of battle.

The submarines will be stored away in a species of tunnel traversing the hold of the vessel whence they can emerge unperceived by the enemy by means of locks.

Woman's Evidence Weakens.

Berlin, Dec. 23.—The trial of Maximilien Harden still continues.

It was stated that the searching examination somewhat affected the reliability of Frau Von Elbe's testimony, and that Herr Harden had offered to withdraw his charges against Count Von Moltke, which were founded to a great extent on the statements made by Von Moltke's former wife.

Smallpox at Brockville.

Brockville, Dec. 23.—There is a marked spreading of smallpox in Brockville, five cases having been reported since Friday last, which, with two previously under treatment at the pest-house, makes a total of seven. A strict quarantine is being observed on the two houses where the disease broke out. One family has four cases, a father and three children.

Indian Chief Dead.

Morton, Minn., Dec. 23.—Ironshield, the Sioux Indian chief, died on the reservation, 90 miles south of here Saturday. He was 75 years of age. Ironsides was a friend of the whites during the Sioux war of 1862, and was one of the most trusted scouts of Gen. Sibley in that campaign.

Returning Emigrants.

Naples, Dec. 23.—More than 5,500 emigrants landed here Saturday from the United States. They reported that the steamship companies already had booked several hundred thousand Italians for return home, which causes apprehension in the matter of their future employment.

Devolution Bill Carried.

Paris, Dec. 23.—After a debate covering several weeks, the Chamber of Deputies Saturday, by a vote of 354 to 177, passed the bill providing for the devolution of church property, escheating to state departments and communes under the separation law.

Fatal Toboggan Accident.

Winnipeg, Dec. 23.—Romeo Archambeault, aged 16, who was injured by falling from the toboggan slide on Kennedy street, died from the injuries—from internal hemorrhage, caused by a fractured skull — in a few minutes.

British Parliament Called.

London, Dec. 23.—At a Privy Council held at Buckingham Palace Saturday morning King Edward signed a proclamation definitely summoning Parliament to meet Jan. 29.

Millions For Charity.

Dresden, Dec. 23.—The late Queen Carola has bequeathed to charitable organizations the larger part of her fortune, which in all is estimated at about $5,000,000.

TROUBLE AT GOLDFIELD.

Mine Owners Ask That Troops Be Allowed to Remain.

Goldfield, Neb., Dec. 23.—Mine operators at Goldfield are loth to leave the task of preserving law and order in the camp in the hands of Sheriff Ingalls. They are using every endeavor to prevail on President Roosevelt to order a portion of the troops to remain in Goldfield indefinitely. Telegrams have been sent, not only from the mine owners, but from officers of various civic bodies and by private individuals, all urging on the President the necessity of the presence of the troops.

C. E. Mahoney, acting president of the Western Federation of Miners, arrived last night and, is in consultation with the local Miners' Union.

In the event that the miners do renounce the Western Federation, or get their positions back through some other proceeding, the operators say they will pass the strikebreakers now here half a month's pay and send them back to where they came from.

There is a feeling of apprehension over the order for the recall of the troops, which it is impossible to conceal.

STABBED IN THE EYE.

Man Murdered and Robbed In Sleeping Car on Railway.

Rome, Dec. 23.—A gruesome murder was committed on a train which left here Saturday night for Ancora. A man, apparently of the higher classes, who had been sleeping alone in a first-class carriage, was found dead with a dagger wound through his heart. He had been stabbed through the eye, the dagger piercing the brain and being left in that position.

The fact that the man's purse and watch were missing at first led the police to believe that the object of the crime was theft, but the later discovery of a ring valued at $200 in the man's pocket led them to the conclusion that revenge played some part in the tragedy. Anything that would led to the identification of the victim apparently had been removed, with the exception of a ring, which, however, had no marks. The murdered man seems to have been a Venetian.

INSANE MAN'S CRIME.

Kills Wife With Hammer and Shoots Daughter and Brother.

St. Joseph, Mo., Dec. 23.—A triple tragedy occurred near Cameron, Mo., Saturday, Albert Filley, a farmer, supposedly insane, having killed his wife and daughter and his brother.

Marshal Smith of Cameron found and arrested the alleged murderer, who was seated in the room where the three bodies lay. Filley had killed his wife with a hammer as she lay in bed, ill of wounds inflicted ten days ago by Filley in an attempt to kill her. He shot his daughter and his brother, Clay Filley, and attacked Clay's wife with a hammer. Mrs. Clay Filley escaped and gave the alarm. Albert Filley is 35 years of age.

H. P. Hill Found Dead.

Winnipeg, Dec. 23.—The dead body of H. P. Hill, formerly of St. Alban's, Que., was brought into the city yesterday. There was no sign of violence on the body, and it did not appear that he had been struck by a train. Hill, as appeared from the baggage check, had been in Toronto on Dec. 11. So far as could be judged from appearances, he had left Winnipeg on foot and had walked the distance to Carey, twenty-eight miles. He had finally become exhausted and had died in the ditch where his body was found.

His clothing was in good condition, and apart from the fact that there was practically no money in his purse, there was nothing in his appearance to indicate poverty. He was a man over 50 years of age and slight in build.

Longer Bayonet Again.

London, Dec. 23.—The Army Council has adopted a modified form of the Japanese bayonet for the British army. It is seventeen inches long, as compared with the present bayonet of twelve inches, and affords a thrusting length of approximately 61 1-2 instead of 56 1-2 inches. Instead of being two-edged, with a double groove, it is single-edged, with a back and single groove, slightly tapered to a point. The crossguard, with one side having a deeply curved or hooked terminal, facilitates the stacking of arms.

St. Thomas Man Held.

St. Thomas, Dec. 23.—James A. Moore, a prominent citizen, who conducts a bide business, and has been identified with several industrial enterprises, was placed under arrest on complaint of the manager of the Dominion Bank, who charges Moore with forging the name of his brother, H. C. Moore of Toronto, to a guarantee bond in October last. Moore is said to have borrowed heavily from the bank, and the bond was given as a guarantee of these amounts. Other charges, it is said, will also be laid.

Shah Conciliatory.

Teheran, Dec. 23.—The Shah yesterday gave an audience to the British ambassador and the Russian Minister. He solemnly assured them that he did not intend to abolish the constitutional regime, but would strive to work in co-operation with the Parliament.

Rescuers Overcome.

Jacob's Creek, Pa., Dec. 23.—But thirteen bodies have been recovered from the Darr Mine.

In their endeavor to reach the victims several members of the rescuing party were seriously overcome late Saturday by black damp.

Bulgarians at Boston.

Boston, Dec. 23.—Awaiting advices from the Canadian authorities there is being held up here by the immigration officials, a band of twenty Bulgarians, bound for Toronto and Hamilton. Inasmuch as the Canadian Government is discouraging immigration at present, it is thought these Bulgarians may not be wanted, and there is no assurance that if allowed to land they would not become public charges.

Stevedore Fatally Injured.

Owen Sound, Dec. 23.—Joseph A. Graham, a stevedore in the employ of the C. P. R. here, who was severely injured recently by being accidentally knocked into the hold of the steamer Manitoba by a careless trucker, died at the General and Marine Hospital on Saturday from his injures. Almost every rib on his right side was broken from his spine, causing paralysis of the lower part of his body. He was 30 years of age and leaves a widow and two children.

Miners' Narrow Escape.

Hazelton, Pa., Dec. 23.—More than 150 miners narrowely escaped drowning in the No. 4 slope at the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal Co., at Aunenald, through the unexpected tapping of a large body of water in the abandoned No. 1 slope adjoining.

The water reached to the waists of some of the men, who got to the surface through two separate openings. The only man who perished was Anthony Salvoski, who set off the blast that released the water.

The rush of air was so great when the water broke through that the lights in the lamps of most of the men in the slope were extinguished. The flood rapidly subsided.

Christmas Gift Worth While.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—The Crane Co., iron manufacturers, Saturday distributed $350,000 by way of a Christmas gift to its 5,000 employes in Chicago. The distribution was in accordance with a profit-sharing arrangement started eight years ago.

Port Huron, Mich., Dec. 23.—Willie Merriot, a 12-year-old blind boy from Blackwell, Ont., a few miles from Sarnia, who, with his mother, was in the stores here shopping on Friday, disappeared in the crowd. The mother searched for him all the afternoon, and notified the police.

Husband Is In Prison.

New York, Dec. 23.—A cablegram was received here from Mrs. Tchaikowsky confirms the news that her husband, Nicholas Tchaikovsky, known as "the father of the Russian revolution," was imprisoned in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul in St. Petersburg.

Crane Car Upset.

Thamesford, Dec. 23.—Saturday afternoon a 30-ton section of the new bridge being constructed here toppled over from the crane car of the Hamilton Bridge Co. and delayed traffic until 7 p. m. Employes had to jump to avoid injury.

ENGLISH STORIES.

The Striking Way an Oxford Notable Won a Nickname.

Dean Stanley once went late to dinner with his collar flapping. His hostess veatured to ask him if he knew. "Oh, yes!" answered the dean. "Do you mind?" "Not at all," said the lady. "Then I don't mind, either. The button dropped off while I was dressing." And the dean continued his conversation.

Rev. W. H. Tuckwell is responsible for the history of how an Oxford notable in the thirties got his nickname "Presence of Mind" Smith. He went boating with a friend and returned alone and was asked what had become of his companion. He explained that his friend had fallen into the Thames, "and if I had not with great presence of mind hit him on the head with a boat hook the both of us would have been drowned."

The late Joseph Joachim was a great favorite in London and for more than sixty years rarely missed a season there. A certain nobleman told him that he was going to St. James' hall to hear him, and Joachim later asked him if he had found it tedious. "Not at all," serenely answered the titled personage. "I enjoyed myself immensely. I did not recognize you at first under your disguise as a nigger, but later I laughed all the more." The nobleman had strolled by mistake into a minstrel show instead of the large concert hall.

A Nice Calculation.

A Flemish gentleman conceived the idea that he would only live a certain time, so he made a nice calculation of his fortune, which he so apportioned as to last just the same period as he guessed his life would extend to. Strangely enough, his calculations came correct to the letter, for he died punctually at the time he had previously reckoned. He had so far exhausted his estate that after his debts had been discharged a solitary pair of slippers represented the entire property he left. His relatives buried him, and a representation of the slippers was carved on the tomb. Today in a churchyard at Amsterdam his grave may be seen, the only inscription on the stone being two Flemish words, "Effen Nyt" (i. e., "Exactly").

Throwing Dice.

Throwing dice is said to have been originally a religious act. In the turn of the dice was supposed by the primitive peoples to be the answer of the gods to their prayers. There was no element of chance involved.

The Common Prayer Book.

The common prayer book was first compiled by Bishops Cranmer and Ridley in 1549.

The Thaler.

The thaler, which has ceased to be recognized as a coin of the German realm, began life toward the close of the fifteenth century, the actual year being 1484.

Buildings Near Nanaimo Wrecked But Nobody Was Injured.

SHOCK FELT FOR 40 MILES

Fire In Pittsburg Coal Mine — Umbrella Factory Gutted by Flames at Arnprior — Damage is Estimated at $50,000, Covered by Insurance — Costly Blaze at St. Johns, Que.—Loss $125,000.

Vancouver, B. C., Dec. 23.—The storehouse of the Hamilton Powder Works at Northfield, four miles from Nanaimo, was destroyed by an explosion at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. No one was injured, but the company's buildings were wrecked. The explosion was distinctly felt in Vancouver, 40 miles distant.

Big Fire at Arnprior.

Ottawa, Dec. 23.—At 6 o'clock on Saturday night the premises of the Montreal Suspender & Umbrella Co., in Arnprior, a fine four-storey solid brick factory, were burned to the ground. Surrounding buildings caught, but were saved. The loss is estimated at $50,000. The town has a claim on the building for 35,000. It is totally covered by insurance. One hundred employes were on the list.

Three Skaters Drowned.

Pittsfield, Mass., Dec. 23.—Three persons were drowned by breaking through the ice while skating on Nuota Lake yesterday. The victims were: Henry Harris, 16 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Norris; Henry Ano, aged 20, a drug clerk; Miss Alice Mosiener, aged 16, employed in a silk mill.

Costly Fire.

St. Johns, Que., Dec. 23.—The main buildings of the Standard Drain Pipe Co. were totally destroyed by fire last night. One hundred or more men will be thrown out of employment in the meantime. The loss is probably $125,000.

Coal Mine on Fire.

Pittsburg, Dec. 23.—Fire started in the Schoenberger mine, near Monongah yesterday, and is still raging. The mine has been idle for a month on account of a strike.

Lunatics Ill-Treated.

New York, Dec. 23.—Stories of alleged cruelties practiced upon insane patients by attendants were told Saturday in the hearing of the commission appointed by Governor Hughes to investigate conditions in the Manhattan State Hospital at Ward's Island.

Dr. John C. McCarthy, a former attendant, said the attendants were always careful to practice their brutalities upon the small and weak patients and upon imbeciles.

Dr. McCarthy described "hanging" as a method of torture. He said the process was to tie a towel around a patient's neck and twist it until the victim was on the verge of suffocation.

EIGHTY MINERS WERE BADLY HURT

Fatally Scalded in Explosion at Sydney Pit, Glace Bay.

BOILER WAS TORN TO PIECES

Eighty Men Imprisoned in the Mine —Had to Remain Down All Night —No Steam to Hoist Them Out— Big Mine Must Remain Closed —Cause of the Accident Has Not Yet Been Discovered.

Glace Bay, Dec. 23.—As the result of a boiler explosion in No. 2 colliery Saturday morning, two men are dead, while three others are in a critical condition. The cause of the explosion remains a mystery. Besides demolishing No. 4 boiler, which now lies on the ground a complete wreck, two other boilers were put out of commission. The main steam pipe was also broken, and the east end of the boiler-room was completely blown out. Iron work about the boilers was also twisted and torn, and there is a large hole in the roof of the boiler-room.

By the breaking of a steampipe, the fans which supplies air to the harbor and phalen seams was stopped. There were eighty men working in the phalen seam and twenty-five in the harbor. On account of there being no steam to run the hoisting cages, these men had to remain in the mine until about 9.30 yesterday morning, when steam was procured and the men taken out uninjured.

SERIOUS SHOOTING CASE.

Italian Arrested For Wounding Two License Inspectors.

Wellsville, N. Y., Dec. 23.—Michael Dardano and Albert J. Matico, license inspectors, were shot at Belfast yesterday by an Italian. Inspector Dardano has a bullet in his spine and will probably die. Matico was shot in the neck. Although badly wounded he will recover. An Italian known as "Little Pete," employed as a baker in Decilio's boarding house and bakery, is under arrest on an open charge pending the result of the inspector's wounds.

The trouble began Friday night when District Attorney Rice caused the arrest of Decilio on a charge of selling liquor without a license. The evidence against him was secured by inspectors Dardano and Matico. They were shot by "Little Pete" while waiting at the station for a train.

President's Daughter to Wed.

New York, Dec. 23.—A Washington despatch says: Washington is interested in the persistent rumor that Miss Ethel Roosevelt, who will be given a ball on Jan. 3, which will be in reality her informal coming out party, is engaged to young Charles Glover, the son of President Glover of the Riggs Bank.

MAN WAS SWEPT OVER THE FALLS

Two Hundred Persons Saw Alfred Jackson Person.

LAD WAS FROZEN TO DEATH

All Attempts at Rescue Failed—Young Man Had Been Carried Over in a Boat — His Foot Caught Under a Half-Submerged Rock — Held as in a Vice He Gradually Succumbed to Intense Cold.

Providence, R. I., Dec. 23.—In full view of 200 people who were powerless to extend aid, Alfred Jackson, aged 22, a Providence clerk, was frozen to death while standing on a rock under the falls of the Pawtucket River, in Pawtucket, late Saturday afternoon.

Jackson, with two companions, L. P. Mathewson, aged 19, of East Providence, and Jackson's brother, Arthur, aged 20, had been carried over the falls in a canoe. The other two young men were rescued with great difficulty and were removed to the Rhode Island Hospital in a critical condition from exposure.

The canoe drifted too near the falls and was carried over. All the occupants were thrown into the water. Alfred Jackson was able to reach a rock submerged at the foot of the falls, and managed to grasp his brother. Finally persons on shore threw life-lines and rescued Arthur Jackson and Mathewson, who had floated down stream. Alfred Jackson, in the meantime, remained standing up to his waist in water close under the falls, and when the would-be rescuers threw a line to him, expecting to pull him to a place of safety, they found they were unable to move him. In the roar of the cataract his shouts could not be heard, but it was evident that one of his legs had become caught under a rock or some other object under water.

Several ineffectual attempts were made to rescue him in the next half hour, Jackson assisting until cold rendered him unconscious, or at least helpless. Dr. Clinton Westcott and Adelard Potvin attempted to reach the perishing lad and almost lost their lives by a boat upsetting.

Nothing further could be done, and a large crowd on a bridge nearby was forced to stand idle and see Jackson freeze to death.

YOUTH SHOOTS TWO MEN.

Daring Burglary and Fatal Struggle at Newark Club.

Newark, N. J., Dec. 23.—Michael Michumas, manager of the Lithuanian Club, was shot and killed, and Charles Conkos of New York was slightly wounded by a lone robber who raided the club early Saturday. John Kosuviels, an 18-year-old boy, was arrested, charged with the crime. When the police searched the young prisoner they found $360 in his pockets.

As Michumas was leaving the clubrooms, the robber attempted to hold him up with a revolver. The two grappled, and in the struggle Michumas was shot and killed. The robber then rifled the club cash-drawer and his victim's pockets, and was fleeing from the building when Conkos, who had heard the shooting, rushed to the entrance of the club. He was met by a fusilade of shots. Two of the bullets struck him, but the wounds are not serious.

Big Suit For Criticism.

Paris, Dec. 23.—Victorien Sardou, the dramatist, and one of the theatres of this city have brought suit for $10,000 and $20,000 respectively against The Matin for publishing a criticism of a play before its first production. A dress rehearsal was given the night before the first production for criticism, journalists, dramatic critics, etc., but with the understanding that no criticism of the place should be published until after the first night. It was this understanding that The Matin violated.

About twenty years ago, Gilblas failed to comply with this tradition in regard to another one of M. Sardou's plays. The author took the matter to court and was granted $4,000 damages, which he donated to the Authors' Association.

Abittibi Investigation.

Quebec, Dec. 23.—The royal commission appointed to investigate the Abittibi land transactions, which was to have continued its sessions at the Quebec courthouse Saturday, will meet this morning, owing to Sir Francois Langlier, who is one of the commissioners, having been detained in Toronto where he was acting as an arbitrator in the adjustment of the school taxation question.

Mr. Despardins, the president of the Belgium syndicate, will, it is expected, be the principal witness to be heard when the commission meets today.

Duel With Swords.

Budapest, Dec. 23.—Dr. Wekerle, the Hungarian Premier, and former Minister of Justice Polonyi fought a dual yesterday with swords, as a result of an allegation of political dishonesty made against the Premier by the ex-Minister at a sitting of Parliament a few days ago. Neither man was in any way injured and the two become reconciled.

Arm Crushed In Press.

Wiarton, Dec. 23.—On Saturday, as Miss Jean Johnson was working at the printing press in The Canadian office, her arm got caught in the press. Miss Ethel Moon went to her help, but was too late to save the arm. The bone was badly fractured at the wrist. She is doing as well as possible.

Thirty Thousand on Strike.

Crefeld Germany, Dec. 23.—The silk weavers who struck recently have refused to resume work, notwithstanding the threat of the employers to declare a general lock-out.

The factories will be closed down on Monday, more than 30,000 weavers being affected.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH.

Mrs. McClelland Fell Down Cellar Steps With Lighted Lamp.

Grand Valley, Dec. 23.—Mrs. McClelland, wife of Councillor James McClelland, died yesterday morning from burns received from falling down the cellar step with a lamp in her hands the previous evening. She apparently tripped on the top step, striking her head on the bottom step, which rendered her unconscious. The lamp crashed to pieces on the cement floor, the blazing oil enveloping the body, completely burning the flannelette nightdress which she wore.

Her eldest daughter endeavored to quench the blaze with water, while the young daughter ran down the street in her nightdress to give the alarm. Mr. Tibbutt, who lives across the street, was first on the scene and smothered the flames with a mat.

CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY.

Fifteen Milk Dealers Indicted by Grand Jury at Chicago.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—The December grand jury yesterday returned indictments against fifteen members of the Illinois Milk Dealers' Association for conspiracy to do an illegal act injurious to public trade.

The indictments are the result of the investigation recently commenced by State Attorney Haley into the causes for the recent advance in the price of milk.

Among those indicted is William J. Rogers, president of the Borden Condensed Milk Co., a New York corporation, capitalized at $35,000,000.

All of the men indicted waived immunity when they testified before the grand jury and appeared as voluntary witnesses.

The offence charged against the milk dealers is punishable by a fine of $2,000, or imprisonment in the penitentiary from one to five years, or both.

KILLED IN STRIKE RIOT.

Encounter With Troops Ends in Seven Men Being Shot.

Valpairaso, Chile, Dec. 23.—The strike of the nitrate workers has resulted already in bloodshed and death, and is daily growing more serious.

In Lagunas there was an encounter between troops and strikers, in the course of which seven men were killed and sixteen wounded.

At Iquique one man was killed and several wounded in an encounter with the authorities. A censorship has been established at Iquique.

The strikers now number not less than 30,000 men, and no work is being done anywhere in the Antofogasta, Mejillones or Caletabuena districts.

Judge Champagne Dead.

Montreal, Dec. 23.—Judge Champagne, who for a number of years represented the County of Two Mountains in the Quebec Legislature, died here yesterday after a long illness.

The Following Letter Speaks For Itself

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. MORROW, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $5000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $5000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it has now offer me under the cash-value option a sum by virtue of excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerably more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

TWO MASKED MEN WAYLAY A WELL KNOWN OTONABEE FARMER UNDER THE LIFT LOCK ARCADE AND FIRE ON HIM

They Suddenly Emerge From Dark Archway As He Passes Through —Stop Him With The Cry Of "Hands Up"

HIS WHIP ALONE SAVES HIM

Had Plenty of Money in His Pockets — The Revolver Shots Go Wild, So He Escapes

The residents of East City were greatly excited on Saturday evening when the news passed around that Thomas Fitzgerald, a farmer, had been held up by two truculent looking highwaymen, as he was passing through the dark, cement passageway underneath the Lift Lock.

Mr. Fitzgerald had been in the city all day on Saturday, making purchases, but still had considerable money on his person. About seven o'clock in the evening he set out for home, going by way of Hunter street. He went over Armour's hill, and took the roadway which leads through the Lift Lock. At this season of the year especially, the place is rather a lonely spot, but Mr. Fitzgerald had little idea that he was going to meet anybody on the road. As he emerged from the dark shadows two men came out with the cry of "Hands up!". Both men wore masks, and one carried a revolver. The one with the gun made for Mr. Fitzgerald, and the other highwayman attempted to stop the horse.

Mr. Fitzgerald did not lose his head but remained perfectly cool. He raised his whip and struck the man advancing his way, and the crack of the whip started the horse off on the gallop.

The hold-ups uttered a curse of [illegible] and turned to make a run after the plucky farmer, the one with the revolver firing four shots as he ran, but Mr. Fitzgerald was not struck by any of them.

Another farmer was coming into the city by the way Mr. Fitzgerald was leaving but he was warned to go another way. The driver turned around and took another road into the city, and did not stop until he reached the police station where he told the police about the hold-up.

Mr. Fitzgerald could give little description of the men as he only saw them for a moment but he says they appeared rather disreputable looking although he could not see their faces.

ACCEPTS BUFFALO MAN'S CHALLENGE

Hartley Will Cross Over to the Bison City to Meet Graham

David Hartley, Peterborough's long distance walker, is willing to accept the challenge of the Buffalo protege, James A. Graham. He states to the Examiner that he will walk Graham in about two weeks' time in Buffalo. The race is a 76-hour one and the outcome will be watched with interest by his many Peterborough friends.

HANDSOME SIGN HAS BEEN ERECTED

For The George Matthews Store In The South End

A new and handsome sign has been erected by Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons in front of the Matthews Co., at the corner of Sherbrooke and Park streets. It is composed of gold raised letters and is 30 feet in length, placed along the front of the building. The side of the store is lit up with electric lights so that the exterior as well as the interior presents a handsome appearance.

SWORE AT THE MARKET CLERK

Case Was Dismissed in the Police Court This Morning

A second charge was brought against Robert Bailey, the man who refused to pay market toll, for swearing at the market clerk.

Mr. G. Gordon, of O'Connor & Gordon, defended the accused. After four witnesses were called His Worship discharged Bailey and left the costs to be paid by Mr. McIlmoyle.

PROFESSOR SHEPHERD HAS PLEADED GUILTY TO PRACTISE OF TELLING FORTUNES

The second last act in the palmist comic opera, has been given and the curtain lowered. Professor Shepherd, who last week came up before Magistrate Dumble, on a charge of telling fortunes, contrary to the criminal code, and who was sent up for trial, has pleaded guilty. He appeared before His Honour Judge Weller, on Saturday afternoon and pleaded, but he has been remanded for sentence, Professor Shepherd will, therefore, either be imprisoned or fined, or pardoned, and when his case has been concluded the curtain will have been lowered for the last time on travellers of fortune in Peterborough, who practice the art of palmistry. The other charge, that of seducing the Belleville girl, was dismissed by Magistrate Dumble.

FOUR CHILDREN ARE ALMOST KILLED THIS AFTERNOON BY FARMER'S RUNAWAY HORSE

Were Playing on King Street When The Excited Animal Passed By —Have Narrow Escapes

THE CUTTER WAS SMASHED

Runaways are becoming too prevalent in the city. Almost every day the mad flights of runaway horses are recorded and although no accident of a serious nature has recently resulted there is always danger attached to the reckless driving of a horse. This afternoon a runaway on King street exemplified this. It almost caused serious injuries or possibly death to at least four children who were playing on the street.

The horse began its flight on King street, near the Grand Trunk station and went westward. The two little children of Mr. R. J. Devey, who were shovelling snow on the road, were almost knocked under the horses' feet. They dropped their shovels just in time to get away. Hazel Peters, the little daughter of Mr. E. J. Peters, and Marion Yeates, daughter of Mr. T. Bullen-Yeates, also had very narrow escapes of being tramped on. Other children, playing with sleighs, just stepped out of the danger zone in time, but their sleighs fared worse. One was completely broken.

The horse came to a standstill almost on the verandah of Mr. E. J. Peters' residence, and looked to be injured. The shafts of the cutter as well as the dashboard of the cutter were broken. The horse belonged to a farmer whose name could not be obtained.

NOT MANY RETURNING FROM THE WEST

Traffic is, However, Quite Brisk in Spite of This Fact

The expressmen and baggagemen are doing a good business these days. In comparing the passenger traffic with other years the general opinion is that 1907 is not at all behind. There are not so many people returning from the West, but hte provincial traffic is very brisk and shows that many people are going and coming to their respective homes.

HE SUBSCRIBED

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Allow me to state as a subscriber to the fund for Mme. Ayres that I had no knowledge of the woman and really thought only of the child. There is too much swindling to have much sympathy for those caught.

Oscar McNeely Is Home Again

Oscar McNeely, the little boy of thirteen years old, who was missing last week, is home again. He called at the Examiner office this morning to state that he had returned, and that he came back on Saturday. He spent the intervening days in Douro, and says he had a rather enjoyable time, but he is glad to get back to his home again. Oscar is a bright looking youth, and is now working in the city. He did not go as far as Front Bridge.

OPENING OF THE NEW FIRE HALL

Firemen Are Making Big Preparation For The Event

The firemen are making preparations for the formal opening of the new firehall on New Year's Day and an enjoyable time may be expected. The general public is cordially invited to be present during the day and to inspect the hall and the new equipment. Refreshments will be served, and during the afternoon a number of speeches will be given by prominent local gentlemen. A barrel of apples and a similar quantity of candies will be on hand to be given out to the little folks, and the firemen are determined to use the $100 voted by the Council for the purpose to the best advantage. A reception will be held in the evening.

NO SKATING AT RINK TO-NIGHT

Hockey Practice Has Also Been Called off On Account of Mild Weather

There will be no hockey practice at the Brock street rink to-night owing to the mild weather, so that the Strathconas will not be able to get out this evening. The management has decided that the rink will not be open to-night nor to-morrow if the thaw continues, as it is desirous of saving the ice for Christmas Day. While the skaters will be disappointed at not having an opportunity to-night, yet they will appreciate the action of the management in endeavouring to give them skating on the holiday. The probabilities indicate colder weather to-night, and it is possible there may be good ice for to-morrow.

BOY'S THOUGHTLESSNESS RESULTS IN NARROW ESCAPE FROM STREET CAR

Of the many complaints that the street car conductors make there is one which the parents ought to endeavour to remedy. On the C.G.E. line, particularly there are a number of boys who run after the car giving the conductors much trouble in keeping them off. This foolish behaviour on the part of the boys leads to accidents and an example of a narrow escape from serious injury caused a C.G.E. motorman considerable alarm for the time being.

As the car approached Wolfe street two boys were noticed standing as if they wanted to catch the car. They did not give any motion that they wanted to get on the car but were merely up to their old trick of catching on. In this case, however, one of the boys was holding the other by one hand while he was struggling to get free. They were only a yard or more away from the tracks and just as the car drew near the first boy let go his hold on the other. The second lad fell sprawling towards the rails and the conductor fully expected he would be hit. His head passed under the lower step and how he escaped is more than can be explained. The conductor received a sudden shock as he saw the boy fall and if he could have got the other boy would have taught him a lesson he would not soon forget.

This is just an example of what hare-brained boys may do and a good warning from the parents ought to be given and care taken to see that they obey it.

INTERESTING CASE IN POLICE COURT ABOUT COLLECTION OF THE MARKET CLERK'S TOLLS

Action Against a Farmer Because He Refused to Pay Toll For a Load of Oats—Important Case

JUDGMENT WAS RESERVED

On a charge of having refused to pay his market toll to the market clerk, Robert Bailey appeared in the police court this morning, but the case was adjourned for a week, when judgment will be given.

The case proved a very important one, involving as it does the interests of all the store-keepers whose rear doors face the market square, as well as the farmers, who were well represented in court.

Mr. E. H. D. Hall, city solicitor, appeared for the city, and Mr. G. Gordon defended Mr. Bailey.

When the charge was read, Mr. Bailey, through his counsel, pleaded not guilty, and the evidence was heard.

Mr. W. A. McIlmoyle, the market clerk, was the first witness on the stand. He said that on the day in question Mr. Bailey drove up to Mr. R. Denne's back door with a load of oats. Mr. Denne came out, weighed one of the bags, and, after a short conversation had the oats weighed and taken into the store. He went over and told Mr. Bailey that he wanted a market fee, but he swore at him in return. He said it was a funny thing if a man could not deliver his goods on the market square without having to pay toll. Mr. Denne had said that if Mr. Bailey did not pay the clerk toll that he would. Mr. McIlmoyle again asked Mr. Bailey for the toll when the grain was being unloaded, but he again swore at him, and then drove away. Mr. Denne came over in the afternoon and again offered him the the toll but he refused to take it.

To Mr. Gordon he said that the charged every person who made a sale on the market between Charlotte and Simcoe streets.

Mr. William Langford was shown a blue print of the market square, and he stated that money had been spent on that roadway on the market square, so that goods could be delivered to merchants on that line. For the past twenty years the city had kept the road and sidewalk in repair.

To Mr. Hall he said that the market was looked after by the city and the sidewalk that used to run through the market had also been sustained by the citizens.

The next witness was Mr. Roland Denne. He said Mr. Bailey came to him about a month before this trouble and made arrangements for the disposal of his crop of oats. On the morning in question Mr. Bailey drove up to the door with the oats and he examined them. His employee came out with the scales and the oats were weighed and taken into the store. Mr. McIlmoyle asked Mr. Bailey for the toll, and the latter refused. He then told the clerk that if there was any toll to pay he would pay it. Mr. McIlmoyle walked away and Mr. Denne went to dinner. After he came from his dinner the man in the store said there had been some trouble during dinner hour about the toll. He went over to see Mr. McIlmoyle, but he refused to take his money to pay the toll.

The defendant, Mr. Bailey, was the next witness. He told of his arrangement with Mr. Denne, and according to it, he brought the oats. He admitted he swore at Mr. McIlmoyle during the warm argument, when he told the clerk that if he thought he was up against anything easy he was badly mistaken. To Mr. Hall he said there was a standing agreement between him and Mr. Denne that the latter should pay the toll.

Mr. Armstrong, the City Clerk, went into the box and took with him several bylaws for his Worship's use.

Mr. Harry Denne, the last witness, said he thought when he leased that property that he had a right-of-way at the rear of his building as well as at the front.

Mr. Dumble, in summing up, considered that the man had a right to deliver the goods. He did not try to sell them to anybody on the market, but went straight to Mr. Denne's establishment. He thought this was a very important case, however, and deferred judgment for a week.

ONLY ONE CHILD IN SHELTER FOR XMAS

"It will be the quietest Christmas we have ever had at the Shelter," remarked Mr. Henry, the caretaker of the Children's Aid Society Shelter, to the Examiner this morning. It is generally the case that there are four or five inmates, at least, and they have been given a royal good time. This year, however, there is only one little girl, 12 years of age, in the Shelter, but she will be well looked after. A Christmas tree has been secured, and the lonesome little girl will be made to feel that she is not forgotten by Santa Claus, for she will have toys and candies in plenty. Mr. and Mrs. Henry will see that the little girl will have a Christmas that she will not soon forget.

RUNAWAY ON PARK ST. YESTERDAY

Two Girls and Their Escort Were Thrown Into a Ditch

About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon a young man accompanied by two lady friends were driving south on Park street in a cutter.

When he reached Parnell street, the horse gave a leap forward and the straps holding it to the shafts became loose and the animal jerked itself free. The young man in the sleigh hung onto the reins and the cutter was pulled to the side of the road, upset, and its occupants were thrown into the ditch. The driver and his female companions were, very fortunately, unhurt in the mix-up. An old man who was passing at the time secured a piece of rope and had the horse securely fastened to the shafts again.

PAL IN FORMER YEARS OF THE DESPERADO, FRED CHAMBERS HAS RECEIVED HIS LIBERTY

FORMER ASSOCIATE OF GEORGE STOCK WHO SECURES HIS LIBERTY

FRED CHAMBERS

Who is Serving a 6-years Term in The Penitentiary While His Friend Goes Free

His Liberty a Christmas Present to His Mother—Chambers Well Known in Peterborough

IS NOW IN PENITENTIARY

The liberation of Geo. Slack from the Central Prison, Toronto, recalls the desperate deed performed by Fred Chambers in Peterborough some months ago, at the Royal Hotel, where he stabbed three men while in a drunken condition. Chambers was an early associate of Slack, and it was in his company that possibly he started on the downward path.

It will be remembered he was followed by P. C. Meharry from the Royal Hotel and caught on George street. Although he resisted arrest the officer landed him in the cell and next morning he was sentenced by Magistrate Dumble to 6 years in the Penitentiary. Slack has been released after serving 7 years of a term of 14 years, on account of his good behaviour, and his liberty is a welcome Christmas box for his mother. A Toronto despatch says the following of the connections between Chambers and Slack:—

Her son's unexpected release from the Central Prison—this will be a joyous Christmas present for Mrs. Slack, of this city, mother of George Slack, who has been a convict in durance vile for the past seven years. He had been sentenced to a fourteen-year term.

The crime for which Slack was convicted and sentenced by Magistrate Denison occurred in 1900. With a man named Chambers he entered the small store kept by an aged couple in Victoria street, north of Shuter street. When the helpless proprietors declined to hand over their valuables the two intruders knocked them senseless with a hammer. They made their escape with the plunder, and were captured in Buffalo by Inspector Stark—now Deputy Chief—with the help of the Bison City police. On conviction Chambers was given twelve years in the penitentiary and Slack fourteen years.

Six months ago Chambers was released on ticket-of-leave, but he didn't appreciate mercy and liberty, and was soon sent back to the Penitentiary for six years.

Slack is said to have reformed in the penitentiary, and Mr. T. C. Robinette, K.C., has been working earnestly with the Minister of Justice to secure Slack's release. The pardon—or rather the notice of ticket-of-leave—reached Mr. Robinette's office this morning. Slack will be released from the penitentiary to-day, and the young man will come home and try to lead a new life.

The news was conveyed to Mrs. Slack, the mother, by messenger from Mr. Robinette's office this morning.

MEN'S MEETING A BIG SUCCESS

Lecture Room Nearly Filled to Hear Rev. Robt. Pogue—Miss Helen Davies Sang

There was a large attendance at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon to hear Rev. Robt. Pogue. The lecture room was almost filled with men who were much impressed with his address on "How a Man Won a Man." Mr. Pogue took for his subject the conversation of the Eunuch by Philip the evangelist, and showed that if we are to be successful workers for Christ we must see the necessity of following Divine Guidance, using the illustration of Philip leaving the multitude to whom he was preaching to go and preach to one man, and yet the result of sending the gospel to Egypt through such a powerful ambassador was far greater than Philip could dared to have anticipated. He also pointed out the necessity of abandoning ourselves to God's leading and be willing to speak or do anything at any time we heard the voice of God.

The wise men of the East who followed the star of Bethleham were referred to, and this was shown to be the wisest thing they ever did.

Miss Helen Davies, soprano soloist of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, rendered Gounod's "The Sands of Time Are Sinking," and the Y.M.C.A. quartette, "Remember Me, O Mighty One," very effectively.

Next Sunday Rev. H. J. Keith will speak on "Young Men of India," to the young men and older boys at 4 o'clock. A most interesting and instructive meeting is assured. Special music will be rendered.

ALERTS UNITE TO PLAY BASKETBALL

Will Meet The First Y.M.C.A. Team on Christmas Morn

The "Alerts" basketball team which has been disbanded this autumn on account of the absence of many of the players from the city, will unite on Christmas morning and attempt to defeat the first Y.M.C.A. basketball team. The game will be played at 10 o'clock. The Alerts team will be composed of Gordon Fitzgerald, Reg. Green, Max Yelland, Jimmy Downham, and Arthur Emmerson.

SUNDAY AT THE ARMY BARRACKS

The Visiting Officers Spoke to Large Gatherings

Sunday at the Salvation Army was marked by very successful meetings under the direction of Colonel and Mrs. Sowton, Dominion Secretary of the Army. Large attendances were features of the meeting and practical results were reaped. They were assisted by Ensign Webber of Toronto headquarters. Col. and Mrs. Sowton returned to Toronto to-day, but Ensign Webber will remain until over Christmas.

HEARING RESTORED BY A SLAP

Man Had To Pay Fine But Good Was Done

St. Louis, Dec. 22.—(Special.)—The 11-year-old son of A. B. Groves, of St. Louis, has been very deaf since infancy. The other day the lad, not hearing a command, failed to move from in front of August Wyman's store. Wyman slapped him with the palm of his hand. The slap restored the boy's hearing so that he hears almost as well as any one. Nevertheless, Wyman was fined $5.

SPLENDID PICTURE OF A JEWELLRY STORE

Mr. Louis Mendell Has Executed a Splendid Photograph

In one of the windows of Messrs. F. Clarke & Son's jewellery store is shown a picture that is attracting considerable attention. It is a splendid photograph of the members of the firm, with interior and exterior views of the handsome establishment. The work was done by Mr. Louis Mendel, and is a testimony to the skill of that well-known photographer. The exterior view is especially well executed, and Mr. Mendel looks upon it as one of the best interiors he has ever finished.

THE WEST IS GROWING

The West is picking up. The action of the banks, the Ottawa Free Press points out, has had a steadying effect. Land speculation has been nipped; but on the other hand, western traders have begun to pay their debts to the eastern wholesaler, and manufacturer, and with the larger amount of money in circulation in the west owing to the higher prices paid this year, the situation has considerably improved.

This year the farmers of the West are receiving an average of 80c per bushel cash on the street, and this represents an amount of $19,00,000 placed in the hands of western farmers up to the present date. Last year the number of bushels shipped up to December 10th, was 25,000,000, but the price paid to the farmers averaged only 65c per bushel, tatalling $18,250,000. Therefore it will be seen that the country is better off this year by $2,950,000, and this represents wheat alone. Oats are bringing 35c per bushel to the farmer, while last year the price paid was only 27c. But no allowence is here made except for oats already graded. Taking these figures it will be found that the increased price of oats, despite the small crop, represents a difference of nearly $110,000 in favour of this year over the amount received by the farmers last year.

The pessimist seems to be in danger of losing his situation.

AN EXPLODED SCANDAL

Last session the Conservative Opposition in the House waged a campaign of scandal and threatan to do so this session. They made much of certain Western scandals and land deals, but the bona fides of their complaints is impaired by the fact that the Conservative Opposition had not the courage of its convictions. So little faith was shown in their own stories that Mr. Borden, leader of the Opposition on his Western tour in his speeches never made any reference to these scandals upon the very spot where they were falsely alleged to have been originated. Speaking at Unionville, Centre York, Mr. Turriff, East Assiniboia, showed the hollowness of the Opposition's claims or the claims of Mr. Foster, that these lands were given to speculators at a small part of their value. The facts of the case, the speaker explained, were that in 1890 the Qu'-Appelle & Long Lake Railway built a line from Regina to Prince Albert, for which they received from the Conservative Government a land grant of 6,400 acres, per mile, the land to be fairly fit for settlement. A large reservation was made adjacent to the line of railway. For ten years after this railway had been built and running there had been no settlement along the greater portion of it. For over 100 miles in that part where the land was sold afterwards to the Saskatchewan Valley Land Company only three homestead entries had been made. Not even the quarter sections in which the railway had sidings had been homesteaded. The land in that part of the country was considered absolutely of no value.

Messrs. Osler, Hammond & Nanton were the representatives of the railway company. They had had their reservation all inspected, had selected a small portion of the lands earned by the construction of the road ten years previously, and claimed that the balance was absolutely unfit for settlement. The Government then gave them the privilege of selecting their lands in a much larger area, but they claimed that even then they could not get lands fairly fit for settlement, and some two years prior to the sale to the Saskatchewan Valley Land Company they entered an action in the Exchequer Court against the Government to compel them to give compensation in lieu of lands, as they were unable to get land fairly fit for settlement. In 1902 the Saskatchewan Valley Land Company, bought from Osler, Hammond & Nanton 500,000 acres of railway lands, absolutely without any conditions whatever, at $1.75 per acre, and, doubting whether the company would make a second payment the latter made a reduction of 12 1-2 per cent. for cash in six months, making the land $1.53 1-8 per acre. Prior to this Osler, Hammond & Nanton had offered the whole block to the Government at $1.25 per acre, and it was suggested to the department that if an offer of one dollar per acre were made it would probably be accepted.

When the Saskatchewan Valley Land Company made this purchase of odd sections from the railway company they represented to the Government that in order to show that some of the lands were good it would be necessary to establish large farms, and they wished to purchase 250,000 acres of even sections. After some negotiation this was done, subject to the following settlement duties:—That in each township the company would place twenty actual settlers on free homesteads and an additional twelve actual settlers on other lands in each township, and when this was done they would be then, but not before, entitled to purchase the remainder of the even sections in the township.

This the company has done, having put in over 1,100 actual settlers on the colonization grant and several thousand settlers additional outside of the grant, and the officers of the land company state that the lands purchased from the Government cost them, with the settlement duties, a great deal more than the lands purchased from Osler, Hammond & Nanton, and no person will accuse Mr. E. B. Osler, M. P., of giving lands away at less than their value. If the Government sold the lands too cheaply, what about Mr. Osler's sale? In that stretch of country, where in 1901 there was not a settler, there are now several towns of six or seven hundred population, schools, churches, etc., and a well-settled, prosperous country. Without the colonization grant there are over 200,000 acres under cultivation, and several millions of bushels of wheat were grown there this year, and largely through the efforts of the Saskatchewan Valley Land Co.

This is a sample of their so-called western land scandals to which Mr. Borden dare not refer, on the spot where the facts are known. The facts show that the deal, instead of being a scandal, was an arrangement in the interests of the settlment and development of the region affected, an arrangement in the public interests. These scandals are at once exploded when the light of the facts are let in upon them.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Young ladies are warned of the danger they incur by standing under live mistletoe.

The spoils system is far-reaching and retro-active. The Lethbridge Herald is authority for the statement that Dr. Rollins of Alberta has been appointed to a position on the medical staff of the Orillia asylum. Distance nor expatriation from the Province, it seems, cannot weaken the claims of the party worker.

Is there any way of accounting for the fact that Christmas time and the beginning of a year are generally marked by some catastrophe or horror? Within the past few weeks there have been three dreadful mine disasters in the United States, in which 650 lives were lost and about 3,000 wives and children made widows and orphans and reduced to starvation conditions, with a "merry Christmas" quite out of the reckoning.

A paragraph like the following, taken from the Kent, (England) Messenger, may furnish some explanation of the robberies and thefts which are now-a-days of such frequent occurrence:—

Wm. Daniel, aged 25, labourer, pleaded guilty of demanding money with menaces from his father, at Yalding, on the 24th of July.

The father did not press the charge and expressed willingness to send his son to Canada, where he would be found employment.

His Lordship—Will you go to Canada?

Prisoner—Yes, my Lord.

The accused was thereupon bound over and discharged.

Is it any surprise that English immigrants are criticised in some quarters? What can be expected when the authorities make Canada a dumping ground for criminals? A good Englishman, makes the best of Canadian citizens, but a bad Englishman, like the little girl in the rhyme, "when he is bad, he is horrid."

It is all right to teach the young idea how to shoot, but the Dominion Grange objects to teaching the boy who represents the young idea, how to use a gun. It deprecates militarism in the schools. But it seems a good idea to teach lads how to shoot men. Hunters practice the shooting art in order to employ it on deer, but a great may of them miss the deer and shoot the man. If a boy be taught to shoot men it may happen that when he shoots at a man a deer may suffer. Seriously, however, militarism in the schools has some detensible fetures. The great luck in the teaching of our schools and churches, too, is discipline, which is merely another name for respect for authority. Respect for authority is another name for reverence for our superiors, and reverence for a Superior Being is religion.

Goldwin Smith Condemns Local Option

WRITING to the Toronto Globe, Professor Goldwin Smith thus expresses his views on Local Option

"I do not think it possible to enforce total abstinence. The taste for fermented liquors is common to all races of mankind, and it antedates the beginning of history. This taste the extreme prohibitionist hopes to eradicate by a single stroke of prohibitive legislation. Unless he can eradicate the taste, experience shows he cannot put down the habit. In the attempt radically and suddenly to change the habits of mankind by law, I have no faith whatever, and I appeal to multiplied and decisive experience as a warrant for my unbelief."

STATUTORY MEETING OF COUNCIL

Held in North Monaghan Town Hall Last Week

The statutory meeting of the North Monaghan Township Council was held in the town hall on December 16th inst. All the members were present and the reeve occupied the chair.

After routine

Communications were read from M A McNamara asking rebate of his taxes on condition that he improve the road and drain at the north and south ends of his lot.

From G H May, secretary treasurer of school section No. 2 requiring the township to issue and dispose of debentures to the amount of $1800 for enlarging and improving the school house.

Mr J H Foster requested the council to favourably entertain his claim for eight loads of gravel for which he had not been allowed.

A letter was read from Mr. S R Armstrong, city lcerk of Peterborough, stating that the Board of Works would improve Lansdowne street and at the same time remove the cause of complaint made by Messrs. Stewart and Smithson.

The clerk also reported having interviewed the Mayor of Peterborough in regard to the imposing of regulations as to the manner of storing and handling explosives within the township and said the matter was now under mutual consideration by the city and township solicitors.

The following accounts were handed in:

R Sanderson	$ 35
Jas Morrow	18 75
G H May	1 00
Peterborough Hardware Co.	177 99
D V Trew	2 00
J McIntosh	15 00
R Colen	14 50
Kingan Hardware Co.	1 50
Review	47 78
J Brown	26 75
M Clarke	4 00
Dennistoun, Peck and Kerr	9 40

Moved by Messrs. May and Howden that the above accounts when properly certified, be passed and paid.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Howden and Dobbin, that the clerk be instructed to notify Mr McNamara that this council cannot legally undertake a work in the manner he suggests.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs Howden and Dobbin that on Mr J H Forster fyling a declaration as to the number of loads of gravel taken from his pit in 1907 for Road Division No. 1 an order be issued in payment therefor. —Carried.

The treasurer's financial statement was presented, showing the receipts and expenditure up to Dec. 15. The clerk was instructed to have the statement published according to law.

The clerk presented a statement of the cost of work performed upon the Cavan boundary, in 1907, by the township of North Monaghan, in all amounting to the sum of $119.10, one half of this being due from the township of Cavan. This was received and directed to be rendered to the township council of Cavan.

On motion, bylaws Nos. 590, 592 and 593 were passed. These bylaws respectively appoint Deputy Returning Officers H G Webber, and John J Bennett, arrange for the collection of rates and authorize the issue of debentures for school section No. 2.

The council then adjourned until December 21st, in Peterborough.

Popular Cure for Croup

Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, as a cure for croup, will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success. It is wonderfully prompt in relieving the cough, clearing the air passages and soothing the srefted nerves. Many mothers who realize the suddenness with which croup comes on keep this great medicine promptly on hand for use in case of emergency.

J. W. STUART, Manager

Dan Cupid—Magician.

By HARRY HOUDINI.

Copyrighted, 1907, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

In agony of apprehension Williams stayed to arrange his modest conjuring apparatus. A few hours earlier his debut as a parlor entertainer had been a matter of joyous and ambitious anticipation. Now the brocaded walls of Senator Morgan's music room fairly threatened to close in and choke him, while the fragrance of hothouse flowers oppressed him strangely. He pondered how he had ever dared to ask the vaudeville agent who supplied Mrs. Morgan and other fashionable hostesses with talent to let him substitute for Thorley, the eminent magician who had fallen a victim to la grippe. Of course he would fail, Mrs. Morgan would be furious, the agent would never give him another engagement, and his career would come to an ignominious end. The laughter and chatter of the children, dancing on the other side of the folding doors, sounded like the deathknell of his long cherished hopes.

"Can I help you in any way? I am Miss Morgan. The servants are so busy with supper—and I thought—perhaps"—

Young Williams had never thought of needing help, but as he faced the clear eyed, flower-like girl and the echo of her well modulated voice ran in his ears he felt that his one hope of succeeding lay in her presence. Men and women wiser in the social world than Frank Williams had fallen under the spell of Helen Morgan's rare sympathy and charm and wondered how this girl of high ideals and gentle manners could be the daughter of Senator Morgan, ponderous with the arrogance of newly acquired wealth, and Mrs. Morgan, who radiated commonplace hattributes as her recently purchased diamonds scintillated light.

At Frank's faltering thanks Helen Morgan began quietly, but deftly, to carry out his instructions, placing a light gilt table here, a chair there, and where it would be within reach of the conjurer's hand a candle or a gleaming revolver. And though afterward Frank Williams could not tell how it had happened, before the settings for his act were prepared the girl had drawn out his tale of half tragic struggle, the prosaic, hard headed father storming over the visionary, inexplicable nature of his youngest son, the loyal mother secretly brooding over and abetting this odd chick of her little flock, his constant endeavor to learn the secrets of magic and then to secure a hearing, even the rented dress suit and the gold watch which had been pawned that very afternoon to buy bonbons and added trimmings to distribute among a youthful auditors. And as he finished it seemed to Helen Morgan that she stood in the presence of a struggling genius. She had read such stories of poets, musicians and inventors. The tenderness of the conjuring world fad, and tenderly her hand rested on the white satin cover of the young man's servante. It was a bit of his mother's wedding dress, sacrificed gladly to her son's art, a rich fabric yellowed with age and finished with strips of rare old lace.

The performance was a great success. The children were duly mystified and more than delighted with the showers of trinkets and bonbons which apparently came from an inexhaustible source. Mrs. Morgan had condescended to dress her appreciation, a footman had served a supper of such rare delicacies that Frank had longed to pack them all up with his paraphernalia and take them to his mother, and now as he walked down the broad avenue leading from the house he felt as if the house behind him was fairyland indeed and Helen Morgan its princess.

But he was roused from his dream by a grim faced butler, who came hurrying after him.

"You're to come back to the house," was the brusque order, and, re-entering his fairyland, Williams faced Senator Morgan, a glowering figure, in the foreground and Mrs. Morgan, a hysterical one, in the background. But in the eyes of the third he read pity, the same tender pity which he had seen in her eyes when Helen Morgan had stooped to pick up his trick rabbit as the frightened animal, escaping from his pocket and trembling at the shouts of the children, had run to the girl for protection.

"It's jail for you, young man, unless you produce my wife's rings. She left them behind the rock crystal vase in the music room, and we don't propose to have them 'disappeared' as you do handkerchiefs and rabbits."

The scene which followed was a horrible nightmare to the young magician—his own protestations of innocence drowned in Mrs. Morgan's hysterics, Senator Morgan's orders for an officer, Helen's pleading for time to search and finally the discovery of the rings by a maid in Mrs. Morgan's dressing room. And when it was all over Williams was thrust out in the night through a side entrance, feeling more like a thief than an acquitted man. Then suddenly a gentle hand fell upon his arm, and a gentler voice murmured in his ear:

"Just a minute, please. I want to tell you how sorry I am. I hoped this would be the greatest night of your life"—

For one long minute the young man who had his own way to make and the girl whose future had been assured so far as wealth could accomplish this feat looked into each other's eyes. And the soul of the man suddenly born, went out to the divine tenderness of innate womanliness which is a greater power than mere physical beauty. He spoke quietly, but with new found confidence.

"It has been a wonderful, wonderful night to me, and some day I am coming back to tell you why."

* * * * * * *

Under the chaperonage of a dowager duchess who knew how to turn her title to financial account Helen Morgan was "doing" the London season. In a Mayfair drawing room she sat, and beside her was a man with a monocle, an English accent above reproach and a patronizing air. Of course the Morgan millions would mean the remantling of his ancestral but crumbling castles, but then the utter indifference of this girl irritated him even while it commanded his admiration.

"I suppose you saw Erskine in Paris. He's been the go over there—made by the American set, I understand. They say it's his manners as much as his art that got the women all going. He never speaks during his performance and has the most inscrutable eyes. Never could understand why women went in so heavily for eyes. Conjurers bore me, as a rule, but I'm curious to see this man."

"Erskine!"

In a secret drawer of her jewel case there lay a card, "Frank Erskine Williams," the card of the man who had never come back, never sent her a message in five years, the man who had forgotten! But, no; this could not be he, for the man who had promised had a ready tongue—yes, a ready tongue, as all men had—who promised.

A flutter of fans and a murmur of subdued interest announced that the lion of the evening had arrived. A quick inclination of the head, a snapping of long, slender fingers, and the performance was under way. With lightning rapidity and wonderful deftness the conjurer worked, and the breathless audience watched, not so much the tricks as the unsmiling lips, the inscrutable eyes, which seemed not to see either the sea of faces upraised to his nor even the assistant who did his unspoken bidding.

Only one person in the fashionable audience saw something more, and that a quivering, blue eyed girl who for one brief second had met and held the magician's glance and seen burning in those inscrutable eyes a fire which had burned there on a night five years before, a fire lit centuries agone in the eyes of the world's first man—Adam.

The assistant called for a ring with which his master would work a new trick. Mechanically Helen Morgan handed him a magnificent hoop of pearls. Erskine took the ring gravely, raised a silver hammer and apparently smashed the trinket into a thousand pieces on an anvil of curiously wrought silver. Then he produced a sealed casket of water, in which swam a goldfish, and in the mouth of the fish he found the hoop of pearls. But the ring was not returned to its owner by the assistant. Instead, as the room rang with applause, the magician himself walked quietly down the aisle, formed by the parting of many silken skirts, and placed the ring on the girl's trembling white hand. Not even the man with the monocle noticed that the conjurer for an instant held the slim fingers in his with a pressure that threatened to crush them, nor did he dream that within the girl's palm lay another ring at which she dared not look.

Somewhat awkwardly she slipped on her long white glove. She was so deeply engaged in this operation that she did not even see the conjurer as he left the improvised stage. In the privacy of the boudoir hours later she held the conjurer's ring under the light of a blazing electrolier.

"Such an odd—I was almost going to say ugly—ring," she murmured as she slipped it on her finger and turned it this way and that. A diamond, an emerald, an amethyst, a ruby, another emerald, a sapphire and a topaz formed the brilliant half hoop. Then suddenly her cheeks burned crimson. She had read the story of the many colored gems. Their first letters spelled "dearest," the message of the man who had not forgotten his promises.

With her chocolate the next morning came an oddly shaped French gray envelope, bare of crest or monogram.

"Forgive my temerity of last night," ran the message within, "but for years I have been carrying that ring in my pocket, waiting for our meeting. They were the first gems I bought when success came my way, and I gathered them one by one, each perfect in its way and worthy the one woman in all the world. Not last night I heard you were to marry the Earl of Warburton. If this is true, do what you will with the ring. If it is but an idle rumor, drop me a single word to the Hotel Cecil, 'Come.'"

Erskine laid aside the morning papers, heralding him as the fashionable world's new found idol, to answer a summons to the phone. The voice at the other end of the wire faltered, then grew firm and strong: "Come. I could not wait to write."

Pythagoras.

Undoubtedly Pythagoras was one of the greatest men of all time. We know very little of him, but we know enough to warrant us in giving him a place in the front rank of the world's thinkers. He was the first moral philosopher and one of the earliest of the world's mathematicians. It would require too much space to go into the details of the celebrated theory of "numbers," but by "numbers" Pythagoras meant nothing more or less than mathematics, as though he had said, "The first principle of all things, physically speaking, is mathematics."—New York American.

The Modern Youth.

"When I was your age," said the severe parent, "I was compelled to earn my own living."

"Sir," answered the complacent youth, "I knew too little of the circumstances to attempt to defend my grandfather."

The Poisons Must Be Removed

FROM THE SYSTEM—BOTH KIDNEYS AND BOWELS ARE RESTORED TO ACTION BY

There three ways, and three only, by which the system can be rid of poisonous waste matter, the bowels, the kidneys and the skin.

The bowels are named first, because on them falls the greater part of this work, and so long as they do do their duty there is seldom trouble with the kidneys, or skin, as excretory organs.

When the bowels fail, however, and become sluggish and constipated, there is work thrown on the kidneys which they have no business to do, and which they cannot do for any length of time without becoming deranged.

Now, there is only one medical treatment which recognizes this condition of affairs, and that is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. This is, so far as we know, the only kidney medicine that regulates the bowels, as well as the kidneys, and thereby removes the cause of trouble, and cures the most complicated cases.

You can scarcely find a case of kidney disease that did not begin with liver and bowel troubles and which could not therefore have been prevented by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. Jas. H. Harvey, baker, 641 George street, Peterborough, Ont., states:—"I was troubled very much with constipation and pains in the back. At times the pains were very sharp, like a stab with a knife, and caused me great suffering.

"I heard of many being cured by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and decided to try them. I am pleased to say that they soon helped me, and I used them right along until cured. I never have pains in my back now and only take a pill in order to keep my bowels regular."

Thousands of people are ready to testify to the superiority of Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills, as a cure for kidney troubles. The reason of their efficiency is found in their action on the Liver and Bowels, as well as the Kidneys.

SEVEN BEARS IN A DAY.

Adventure With Big Game In the Wilds of Alaska.

"There is good bear-hunting on the Alaskan peninsula. I got seven grizzlies one afternoon, seven of them within a quarter of a mile and not over half an hour's time. The smallest of them was a three-year-old and I should say they averaged 2,000 pounds. It took thirteen cartridges to bring the seven down."

Grant G. Chase, hunter and prospector, who for eleven years has spent most of his time in the Alaskan wilds, recently told a western reporter a few bear stories on the eve of returning to his favorite haunts.

To one whose gunning lore is limited these accounts of big game in the Far North are likely to awaken wonder, but seven bruins all at once is nothing to excite incredulity, according to Mr. Chase. It's a poor day's tramp that does not yield four or five big fellows.

Then, for corroboration, there is the testimony of Mrs. Chase, who for several years has shared her husband's life, and who has kept a diary wherein is faithfully recorded the number of bear, caribou, sea otter and other fur-bearers brought down daily, and careful measurements of the biggest skins.

"I suppose I have killed 500 or 600 bears altogether," continued Mr. Chase. "O course a good deal of my time has been given to some copper properties I am interested in, or the number might have been much larger. At one time and another I have hunted bear pretty much all through the Rockies, but there isn't another place to equal the Alaskan peninsula.

"Big? Well, I'll tell you. Those bears up there are the largest in the world. A full grown male weighs from 2,000 to 2,500 pounds. The skin of the largest fellow I ever killed measured 12 feet 4 inches long and 13 feet 3 inches spread from toenail to toenail. I can fit as much as the average man, but I'm telling it straight when I say that with Mrs. Chase to help me I couldn't turn that fellow over on his back to skin him."

"But you were telling about the seven bears you got all at one time," he was reminded.

"Oh, that day," he said, "I started four bears, a thing that frequently occurs up there. It is no uncommon sight to find a female with two or three cubs bigger than she in. Then the bears of that region are kind of sociable and it's usual to find several together.

"Well, I followed these four down into a gulch, then getting into a good position I got busy with my gun. I had no sooner laid them out than I looked up and saw three more coming down the other side of the gulch. All I had to do was wait.

"The bear is naturally a cowardly animal. Unless he is pretty hungry or awfully mad the hunter runs no danger unless he stumbles over one in some brush. The average hunter who brings back stories of being chased by a bear I am inclined to think is a victim of circumstances — and possibly of undue timidity.

"At the first shot the bear, if not seriously hurt, is bound to get up and look around and then start for somewhere. If he sees the hunter he will go the other way usually. If he doesn't, he is as likely to start toward him as in any other direction.

"Twenty feet is the nearest a bear, bent on mischief, ever got to me. An old female, whose cub I had brought down, came for me one day and she was mad. She was sixty or seventy yards distant and in a bunch of alder when I took my first shot at her. She got up and came out into the clearing and then she saw me and came for me in earnest. I worked my gun pretty rapidly and the shots took effect. She was about six paces away when she dropped.

"Mrs. Chase and I got a scare once, though, in rather a ludicrous way. I had three camps in a lonely region where for three years Mrs. Chase never saw a white woman. I had put up 'bavraias,' or bunks, of drift wood, the only kind available. We were going from one camp to another when I brought down a bear.

"We were in no hurry, so we stopped, built a fire and had some lunch. After lunch—about an hour after the shooting—we went down into a gulch where the bear was lying. Mrs. Chase was carrying an aluminum teapot. I got her to help me turn the bear over, and I was about to remove his hide, when the big fellow suddenly came to life.

"You should have seen Mrs. Chase go up that hillside. The best of it was, spite of her haste, she took time to rescue her teapot. I believe I jumped about twenty feet myself. If that bear had been in shape to do damage, there might have been some trouble—but he wasn't. As a general thing there isn't much adventure, it's too easy."

GOLD-SEEKING IN THE YUKON

Land Filled With Fascination For Venturesome Souls.

The other day in Calgary Mr. W. L. Walsh, K. C., delivered an address on the ever-interesting subject of the search for gold, and he spoke eloquently of the Yukon country, and the trials, success and failures of the strong and weak men who had gone there in search of fortune.

"Who of them," said Mr. Walsh, "can cease to remember the surging crowds of humanity that blocked the streets of Dawson, the stories of the wonderful discoveries of gold that set men wild with excitement, or the hope with which new adventures in the search of the precious metal were undertaken, the wild and uncontrollable joy when success came, the bitter heartbreaking despair, when weeks or months of unceasing toil and indescribable privation ended in but failure? Who can forget the friendships formed amongst the most whole-souled men in all this broad land, or the enemies created by the most despicable of God's creatures, for in this land of extremes in everything the best and the worst of humanity were gathered."

"This land is so big with story, so filled with conditions which exist nowhere else in Canada, so completely in a class by itself in history, its surroundings and its associations that no brief reference to them such as I have made, can give any adequate idea of it. But beyond all this there is something about it that I cannot describe to you, neither can I account for it, that is the grip it gets on a man, the love of it and the longing for it, that he cannot shake off, the reluctance that one has to leave, the almost irresistible desire to get back to it, a feeling which I cannot describe in my own words.

"It is the land of mystery and wonder, a land that is filled to the brim with fascination for the venturesome souls that seek to win from it the golden treasures that lie buried within its frozen bosom. It is the land of heartbreaking despair and unbounding joy. It has been the cradle of many a magnificent fortune and the grave of many a hope. Who is there that has ever lived in it that has not felt the spell of it upon him long after he has for the last time steamed up the river or hit the overland trail for the outside?"

Look Over Your Wardrobe

Haven't you some articles of wearing apparel that need cleaning? Why not send them here where the work is always well done.

The Canadian cattle exported in 1907 put over $12,000,000 into the pockets of the cow-men, but the cow-men have to get out of the way of the wheat elevators and whirring binders. A man rides away debonair to a round-up, and coming back ten weeks later rubs his eyes to see a brand new town with popcorn stands and His Majesty's postoffice where he had left bare range. It is swift work. One day the wind in the prairie, the next a surveyor's stake, two weeks later the sharp conversation of the hammer on the nail-head, the chartered bank, the corner grocery, another little blotch of red on the map, and a new city of the plains. For between the parallel of 49 and Arctic lies a nation in developing which will be able to furnish the world with bread as unfailingly as its vast territory for two centuries has furnished the world with fur. The evolution of modern Japan represent the progress of the last half of the nineteenth century; the awakening of Canada is the index of the growth of the twentieth.

A NEWSPAPER WITH A FUTURE

The Success of a Peterborough Man in The Golden West

The Medicine Hat (Alta.) News has the following to say of Mr. W. A. Buchanan, a former Peterborough man:—Lethbridge is to have another daily paper, and that it will rank with the best in the west will be understood when it is known that W A Buchanan is the man who will run it. A reference to his retirement from the position of provincial librarian will be found in the Edmonton correspondent in another column. Mr. Buchanan established the Lethbridge Weekly Herald about two years ago and is now raising it to the status of a daily. He is one of the brightest newspaper men who ever came out from Ontario and that he will get out a newsy sheet goes without saying.

W. H. HAMILTON'S STORE IMPROVEMENTS COMPLETED

A New Metallic Ceiling, Rich Wall Decorations, and Other Interior Improvements

The repairs and improvements which have been in progress in the interior of Mr. W. H. Hamilton's grocery store, Simcoe street, during the past four weeks are now completed. The serious fire which started in the second storey of the store had burned through and ruined the old ceiling over the first floor, as well as destroying large quantities of goods and other material. The firm has now substituted a handsome metallic design for the former plaster ceiling, which has had a decidedly transforming effect and produced a very decided improvement in the interior. The new metal ceiling design has been tinted in green and white, which further increases its beauty and architectural effect. The tops of the walls all round the store have been treated to a high class, rich crown effect, giving an artistic blending of tint and tone to the whole interior. Such an indication of good taste reflects credit upon the firm, and must be a pleasing change to the regular customers and visitors of this first-class grocery store. The Christmas decorations have been well put on, the window's display of "Thistle" brand raisins and currants being very attractive.

CELESTIALS ENTERTAIN THEIR STAR BOARDERS

Latter Were Treated to Chinese Christmas Dinner Yesterday

Yesterday at noon a pleasant surprise greeted the seven star boarders of the Dominion Chinese Cafe, when Mr. Geo. Thomas, proprietor assisted by Mr. Harry Long, entertained the boys to a special dinner, yesterday being Christmas Day in China. The spread was an excellent one, everything being very tastefully arranged. An expression of thanks and appreciation, accompanied by a presentation was tendered the two congenial hosts, all the boys wishing them a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

LAY OF THE LAST MINSTREL

An Excellent Paper by Miss Milaney at T.A.S. Social Meeting

SPLENDID SOCIAL MEETING

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T.A.S was held on Friday evening last, when an enthusiastic audience assembled in the association hall to enjoy the excellent programme presented. This consisted of a very interesting essay on "The Lay of the Last Minstrel" by Miss Milaney, and an exceptionally bright musical programme.

Miss Milaney introduced her subject by a brief account of the life of Walter Scott, the author of the poem, as well as a description of border country, which in his early manhood he had occasion to visit, its picturesqueness, its historic importance as a battle ground for conflicting races and kingdoms, its clans, among whom the strongest and most influential was the clan of the Scotts, or Buccleuch. Scott was a descendant of one of these Buccleuch heroes, so it is little wonder that he evinced a great interest in collecting old ballads which narrated deeds of daring and bravery.

The origin of the poem was then very ably dealt with. The Countess of Dalkeith, afterwards Harriet, Duchess of Buccleuch, had occasion to visit the land of her husband, and while there, hearing a great deal about border lore, became particularly struck by one goblin story related to her by one old man. She asked Scott to compose a ballad on the subject. To hear was to obey, and Scott at once wrote the interesting ballad entitled "The Lay of the Last Minstrel."

Scott's great lay, continued the writer, opens with a prologue, descriptive of a poor old minstrel — his appearance and his reduced circumstances, the latter caused by strict laws enacted amongst minstrels at this time. He wanders along, and at length, after several dubious pauses, enters Newark's tower, where he is kindly introduced by the duchess. As a reward for her hospitality he volunteers to sing for her. More to satisfy him than from any other motive, the duchess bids him sing on. After some hesitation, due to timidity, he proceeds. So pleased was the duchess with the old minstrel's lay that she bade him take up his abode in a little house near the castle.

The very interesting essay proved very instructive and was presented in a most pleasing manner.

The following musical programme, which was rendered in a most artistic manner, was introduced by Miss Furman, who occupied the chair for the evening:

Inst. Solo—Miss B. Flynn.
Vocal Solo—Mr. J. M. Spier
Violin Solo—Miss K. McCarthy.
Reading—Miss N. Deannard.

The accompanists of the evening were Miss L. Hurley and Miss M. McCabe.

The meeting was closed by the singing of the National Anthem.

The next meeting of the society will be held Friday evening, January 3, when an essay will be read by Miss V. Donoghue.

WEDDING BELLS.

ARMSTRONG-BLAKE

A quiet wedding was solemnized in Toronto on Wednesday, December 18, at the Methodist parsonage, 197 Booth avenue. It was the nuptials of Miss Ethelwyn Blake, the seventh daughter of Mr. Thos. Blake, of Asphodel township, to Mr. John W. Armstrong of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. S. Faircloth, pastor of the King street Methodist church. The bride was assisted by Miss Annie L. Clayton, of Toronto, the groom being supported by Mr. Harry S. Philips, also of Toronto.

The bride was attired in a travelling suit of brown broadcloth, with hat to match, the bridesmaid being similarly attired in blue, broadcloth. A dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. E. B. Shangraw, 42 Bright street. The young couple intend spending their honeymoon in Peterborough and points east, after which they will reside in Toronto.

LANCASTER-SHEARER

Westwood, Dec. 22.—(Special.)—A very pretty house wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Shearer on Wednesday last at 6 o'clock in the evening when their second daughter, Miss Janet Ellen became the wife of Mr. R. J. Lancaster. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. D. McDonald, of Keene, in the presence of about 70 guests. The bride was attired handsomely in a suit of brown silk and wore the bridal veil and orange blossoms. At the hour of six o'clock exactly, the bride entered the parlour on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Lylie Shearer, a cousin of the bride. The bridesmaid was Miss Margaret Shearer, a sister of the bride. She was attired in white silk. The groomsman was Mr. Jno. Lancaster, a brother of the groom. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome gold bracelet and to the bridesmaid and pianist gold pins set with pearls. A pleasant time was spent in amusements after the ceremony and it was a late hour when the gathering dispersed, offering their congratulations to the happy couple.

SIMPLE BUT EFFECTIVE

Ask your druggist if the following simple recipe will not give relief to those suffering with Kidney trouble. Here it is: One ounce sweet spirits of nitre, four ounces syrup of rhubarb, one ounce compound vimosa. He will mix it for you at a small cost. Directions are a desertspoonful in water after meals and at bedtime. At this time of the year it is advisable to wear warm clothing about the kidneys. Boiled water is preferable to drink as it absorbs any poison in the blood. Don't use stimulants and eat well cooked food. 11

LINDSAY PARTY IN THE CITY

Drove Down and Spent the Day as Guests At The Oriental

A jolly party of Lindsay men spent Sunday in the city. They drove down and registered at the Oriental, and spent the day there. The party was composed of Messrs. M. Belcher, H. Durrent, A. Welch and M. Cotton. They returned again in the evening, after visiting with friends here. The sleighing from the northern town was reported good, and the journey was made in record time.

--as Xmas draws near your time grows dearer

THE TIRELESS RIP, Zip and Jingle of the busy little cash carrier; the gradual (not noticeable) melting away of our immense holiday displays; the ceaseless swing of our doors admitting the expectant and exciting the pleased and happy; all is just a bint of the unprecedented Christmas business this store is enjoying.

--necssarily, there is a reason for this greatest holiday business ever done

Many of our friends can't guess the answer, but the bulk of the town's people can answer unhesitatingly. It's so simple---Excelling assortment at matchlessly low prices; unquestionably this is Peterborough's greatest holiday shopping centre.

Bigger and busier crowds congregate here than at any other store. Big, jolly, good natured crowds, that laugh and enjoy the music. The glorious Xmas spirit of "GOOD WILL" prevails here as nowhere else.

But we must speak of other things beside the pleasantness of this store as a Holiday Shopping Centre.

We do it briefly and pointedly. Our Xmas display is the largest, our prices are persistently the lowest, our selections are the most adaptable to gift making.

--this is the store for the whole family

Only One Shopping Day! Isn't your time precious. Best spend it where it accomplishes the most---THAT'S HERE.

CHURCH SERVICES AND NOTICES

Murray Street Baptist

Rev. Walter Daniels, representative of Northwest missions, preached the sermon yesterday morning at the Murray Street Baptist Church. Rev. J. R. Webb conducted the service in the evening and preached to a very large congregation. To-night the young people will meet as usual, but the prayer meeting will be held on Thursday night instead of Wednesday. The choir will rehearse Friday evening.

George Street Methodist.

The accommodation of the George street Methodist church was taxed yesterday to hold the congregations at both services, which were conducted by the Rev. E. A. Pearson. The Epworth League meeting will be held to-night, but the prayer meeting for Wednesday night will be cancelled. The anniversary services of the church will be held next Sunday, when Rev. M. L. Pearson of Strathroy, a former pastor and father of Rev. E. A. Pearson, will preach. The attendance at the Sunday school yesterday was 516, one of the largest in the history of the school. The Social Bible Class is also rapidly growing, the attendance yesterday being between fifty and sixty.

All Saint's

The services at All Saints' on Christmas Day will be:
8—Holy Communion.
11—Holy Communion and sermon.

Mark Street Church

The Epworth League will meet to-night but the prayer meeting on Wednesday night will be postponed on account of the Christmas tree and entertainment being held. This will take place in the town hall. The doors will open at 7 o'clock and the programme will begin at 7.30. On Friday night the cottage prayer meeting will be held at the residence of Mr. MacGregor.

St. Andrew's

At St. Andrew's church to-night, the regular meeting of the Y. P. A. will be in charge of the musical coming and the weekly prayer meeting will be held in conjunction with it, in view of the fact that Wednesday will be Christmas Day.

The annual meeting of the St. Andrew's Sunday school Association will be held on Friday night.

The annual concert of the Sunday school will be held on Thursday, Jan. 2nd.

Park Street Baptist

Yesterday's exercises were in harmony with the season, with the Christmas sermons and music. The boys and girls were not overlooked. The primary all had presents and a special address by the pastor was given. The song sermon in the evening was greatly appreciated, and each number was well rendered. "Hear the Bells" was exceptionally fine. The Rev. W. Daniels gave three short addresses between the selections. The B.Y.P.U. will meet this evening, Mr. Charles Barrie in the chair. The Wednesday evening service will be cancelled this week.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR MEN AT PAPPAS' TOBACCO STORE

M. Pappas, leading tobacco dealer, will, until after New Year's, give Christmas gifts to men in cigars, tobaccos, pipes and smokers' goods, fully 25 per cent. less than other dealers. Mr. Pappas' stock is brand new and well assorted, having been bought for the holiday trade below the usual wholesale figures. If you want the best goods to select from at the least money, be sure and buy at Pappas' two stores, George street. Ad145

NEWSBOYS' BANQUET WILL BE CHIEFLY OF TURK

Mr. S. J. Murphy, the Charlotte street newsdealer, has made arrangements to give a Christmas day banquet to the seventeen newsboys whom he has employed. The dinner will be held at 1.30 on Wednesday at Foster's, and will consist chiefly of turkey, and no doubt Mr. Murphy's hospitality will be appreciated.

THE MAYOR MAKES STATEMENTS

Expresses His Views on the Mayoralty Contest

Mayor McWilliams speaking of the Mayoralty contest to the Examiner this morning, gave out the following statement:—

"I am not at all surprised at the opposition. I take it for granted that I will have the strong opposition of certain interests in the city at every opportunity and I am quite willing to fight those interests. I regret very much that Mr. Rush has permitted himself to be made their tool.

"In so far as the record of the past year is concerned my course has in almost all matters, been in entire agreement with the decided majority of the council and while I do not pretend that we have done everything rightly, I am quite prepared to defend the course of the council during the past year and my own position in the matters which have arisen."

Kidney Disease on the Increase

Recent reports from the New York Board of Health show that kidney disease is fairly on the increase. Bright's Disease as well as the other dreadfully painful forms of kidney disease can always be prevented and usually cured by the use of Dr. use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills which have a direct and combined influence on the kidneys and liver.

KIT CARSON.

Feat of Which the Hardy Frontiersman Had No Recollection.

One of the most noted of the hardy western frontiersmen was Kit Carson, to whom, with Daniel Boone, belongs the credit of having always dealt fairly with the various Indian tribes, as they themselves acknowledged. The withdrawal of Carson by the government was the cause of a great war. Captain Henry Inman in his book, "The Old Santa Fe Trail," relates an amusing incident of the gallant pioneer.

My own conception of Kit Carson as a child was that he was ten feet high, that it would have required the strength of two men to lift his rifle, that he usually drank a river dry and picked the carcass of a whole buffalo clean as easily as a lady does the wing of a quail. Years after, when I made the acquaintance of the foremost frontiersman, I found him a delicate, reticent, undersized, wiry man, the very opposite type of what my childish brain had created.

One day while Kit was at the fort I came across a periodical that had a full page illustration of a scene in a forest. In the foreground stood a gigantic figure dressed in the traditional buckskin.

On one arm rested an immense rifle. His other arm was around the waist of the conventional female of such sensational journals, while in front half a dozen Indians lay prone, evidently slain by the hero in the impossible attire in defense of the preposterous female. The legend stated how all this had been effected by Kit Carson.

I handed it to Kit. He wiped his spectacles, studied the picture intently for a few seconds and then said:

"Gentlemen, that thar may be true, but I hain't got no recollection of it."

No Time For Anything Else.

"So you think his intentions are serious," said the father. "Do you know anything about his habits?"

"Yes," replied the girl's mother; "that's why I think his intentions are serious."

"How do you mean?"

"His principal habits seem to be calling on May and writing to her."—Catholic Standard and Times.

A JOURNALISTIC HOAX.

Trick the Harvard Lampoon Played on the Crimson.

Speaking of the Crimson, Harvard's daily newspaper, reminds every Harvard man of the Lampoon's master stroke—or joke—played on that dignified and unsuspecting sheet on Memorial day, 1901. The Crimson had announced that it would not appear on that holiday, but inconspicuously, so few were surprised to find their Crimson at their door that morning as usual. Their surprise began, however, when they scanned its contents. This always serious sheet seemed to have become most frivolous and irresponsible during the night, for in its columns all sorts of weird and fantastic statements appeared.

The news, though clothed in the usual heavy, dignified Crimson style, was wildly revolutionary in character. Among the items that appeared were: "A Plot to Blow Up Memorial Hall," "Strong Men to Get the Varsity H," "Wellesley Crew to Be Guests of the University" and most important of all a notice, "Lampoon Celebration at 7 Tonight." Then the joke came out. The Lampoon had published the famous "fake Crimson," the joke was known throughout the country, and that night Lampy's sanctum was the scene of bacchanalian revelry. When the following year the Crimson editors sat up all night with injunctions against a repetition of the fake the joke was again on them, for Lampy differs from history in that he never repeats himself.—K. B. Townsend in Bohemian.

Mississippi Oratory.

Jasper county has been noted for the high grade of eloquence produced by the public men of that part of Mississippi. An appeal to the "mighty men of Jasper" made by one of that county's great men when a candidate to the voters who elected him is as follows:

"Mighty men of Jasper, if I can be instrumental in the hands of my people in adding a few jewels to those that now shine in imperishable luster on the queenly brow of our proud commonwealth, whose associated radiance, like the lambent beauty of the star, is to guide the footsteps of her children along the paths of peace and prosperity, security and happiness, I shall then have accomplished the ambition of my life."

Superlative Beauty.

A Swedish newspaper recently invited its readers to state in a few words what they considered the most beautiful thing in the world. The first prize was carried off by an anonymous answer, "The eyes of my mother." More imaginative was the reader who won the next prize by suggesting, "The dream of that which we know to be impossible."

The most amusing answer was that which read, "The most beautiful thing in the world is to see a man carrying his mother-in-law across a dangerous river without making any attempt to drop her in."

Holland Brides.

It is a Holland superstition that a bride should make her own wedding garters and that she should make them of "something blue." With such a garter the day will not prove rainy nor will any mishap mar the bridal feast.

As to a Friend.

Some call him "fast." I call him "slow."
They say that all he gets
He spends right off. I only know
The way he pays his debts.

Roosters In the Gallery.

President Creelman of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, indulged in some happy repartee at the McMaster University Literary Society, Toronto, the other day.

The principal of the Farmers' University had been invited to speak before the students at the annual opening of the literary society. His entrance to the platform was the signal for the boys to begin a series of cock-a-doodle-doos and other noises redolent of the farm yard. Without any apparent disturbance the principal opened his address by saying:

"Ladies and gentlemen, and old roosters in the gallery; I find I am not so far removed from the farm yards of Ontario as I had expected to be upon entering these halls."

Symbols That Express Affection.

What a humdrum old world this would be if it were not for the symbols! Turkey at Thanksgiving, the stockings hung at the blind fireplace or over the back of a chair at Christmas, the rabbits and eggs at Easter, the pennies under one's plate on his birthday—these old make believes generally sweeten our lives and make us better, gentler and stronger men and women. So when a wedding comes into our circle and we all work ourselves ill over the preparations, either making gowns and decorating the church or earning money to buy material and maintain the family pride with our gifts, when all this is over and the bride's mother has cried and the guests have told what a sweet little girl she was, then we gather with laughter in our eyes and a tug at our hearts and throw rice and old shoes and all sorts of foolishness after the two who are looking so hopefully into the high noon of their lives. It is all symbolical. Surely it is more worth while than the firecrackers of the Fourth of July. Maybe it is as much so as the Thanksgiving day turkey or the Easter rabbit.—Washington Times.

Failed to Talk English.

A pleasant faced woman, cleanly and well dressed, occupied a seat on the immigrant train over the Pennsylvania railroad. Interpreter and passengers tried to converse with her in a dozen languages, but she only looked puzzled.

"What time does this train reach Braddock?" she asked the conductor in perfect English when the train reached Altoona. Her traveling companions had failed to talk English to her, the only language she knew.—Philadelphia Record.

Conundrums.

Why shouldn't you speak of private matters when out driving? Because horses carry tales (tails).

What must a man be to have military honors at his funeral? He must be dead.

When was Adam married? On his wedding Eve.

Why is the obelisk quite at home in New York? It is in the land of Faro.

What is the quickest way to get fat? Buy it of the butcher.

Who was Jonah's tutor? The whale that brought him up.

The Wise Man.

A wise man made a balloon
And thought he would sail to the moon,
But the moon went away
At the dawn of the day.
So the wise man came down before noon.
—Philadelphia Record.

Fayal Lace.

The beautiful lace known as fayal is made from the fibers in the leaves of the bitter aloe, grown in the Azores islands, a relative of the common century plant.

Wrong Name

The lock-master at the Peterborough hydraulic lift lock is Mr. H. W. Gillespie. By an error in Saturday's issue, Mr. Wm. Collins' name was used in this connection, but the latter is, of course, lock-master at the locks bridge only.

Appeal For Poor

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt at yesterday's services at St. Luke's, appealed for the poor, especially for the entertainment to be given to the poor children by the Children's Aid Society on the 27th, and he will be pleased to receive donations.

Doing Good by Stealth

At St. John's yesterday Rev. Canon Davidson announced that on Monday a member of the congregation had placed $100 in his hands to be applied to the Parochial Relief Fund. He did not wish his name mentioned, and only the fact of his donation is known that others might be induced to follow his example.

Christmas Box-bons, Chocolates and Creams at Potvin's

Christmas cake, short cake, iced cakes, and pastry, made on the premises. If you want it good, get it at L. Potvin's, George street. 6d143

Travellers Here

The press of Peterborough points with pride to the fact that there are living in that city 111 commercial travellers, and sees in this an evidence of the centralization of business there. Several of the travellers making their homes there represent dry goods firms with warehouses in Toronto and Montreal.—Dry Goods Review.

Leather trunks were used in Rome as early as the time of Caesar.

Decaying Stone.

That the finest stone buildings and monuments of many cities are disintegrating through the action of the sulphuric acid produced by the combustion of coal is asserted by a writer in Cosmos (Paris). In London especially it has been estimated that no less than half a million tons of acid are thus discharged into the atmosphere yearly.

The Trent Valley Hockey League is Re-organized

Seven Teams, it is Said, Will Enter —Will Norwood Desert The City League?

FINALS IN PETERBOROUGH

A very enthusiastic meeting was held at Dineen's Hotel, Havelock, last evening for the purpose of organizing a hockey league for this district. Delegates from Keene, Warkworth, Hastings, Havelock, Norwood and Marmora were present. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Hon. Pres. — Dr. Holeroft, Havelock.

Hon. 1st Vice-Pres. — J. W. Pearce, M.P.P., Marmora.

Hon. 2nd Vice-Pres.—Chas. Pearce, Norwood.

Pres.—Dr. Wade, Hastings.

Vice-Pres. — Ralph Fulcher, Marmora.

Sec.-Treas. — Tim Dineen, Havelock.

Executive Committee — Mr. Dean, Keene; Mr. Wiggins, Warkworth; Mr. Cochrane, Hastings; Mr. Brown, Havelock; Mr. Russell Pearce, Norwood; R. H. Pearce, Marmora.

The secretary was instructed to write to Tweed and Madoc asking them to join the league and appoint their own delegates. Should Tweed and Madoc decide to join, two districts will be formed comprising Marmora, Tweed, Madoc and Havelock in District No. 1, and Keene, Warkworth, Hastings and Norwood in District No. 2. Home and home games will be played, and the finals it is proposed to play off in Peterborough. It is expected that Dr. Holeroft will donate a cup for competition.—Marmora Herald.

PETERBORO' MAY BE ADMITTED INTO BIG FOUR RUGBY UNION

It is altogether likely that if Peterborough wishes to join the Inter-Provincial Rugby Union next season it will be admitted by that body. This was practically promised at the meeting of the Inter-Provincial Union held in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on Saturday afternoon, at which the Peterborough Club was represented by Mr. Ross Cameron. The meeting was called for the purpose of considering the question of expansion of the union, but eventually developed into the annual meeting and officers were elected and other business was done preparatory to next season.

The question of adding new teams to the union was left in the hands of the new executive, but the assurance given that if Peterborough wished to get in line next year it would be admitted into the membership of the union, and a resolution of appreciation of the stand taken by the locals in playing for the Dominion championship in defiance of the O.R.F.U and the C.A.A.U. was passed.

The officers elected were as follows, and in the event of Peterborough or other teams being admitted, they will be given representation on the executive.

The Stratheonas had another lively practice Friday night with sixteen or eighteen men out, and the way they tore around indicates that they will be in the best of shape for the opening game. "That's an awful pace to set for the opening week," was the way one of the new men looked at it, but the Straths., who have been doing some long distance running this fall, are in splendid condition, and did not seem to mind the work. There is no difficulty in securing goal keepers, no less than four guardians of the nets turning out last night. Thye were Long, of the Peterborough, Dercosher of the Auburns, Wilson of the Stratheonas, and McFadden of the Orphans.

Jap Press Unfriendly.

The London Daily Mail's Tokio correspondent's recent cable that the anticipation that the problem of Asiatic immigration to British Columbia would be settled by Japan's imposing restrictions is not yet realized. Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, almost in despair at the procrastination of the Japanese officials, with whom he has had several abortive conferences, declares: "We are no farther ahead than on the day of my arrival." Baron Hayashi in an interview on the subject emphasized the unofficial character of Mr. Lemieux's visit, pointing out that he was merely at Tokio to inspect local conditions. The Japanese press has been urging the Government not to give a moment's consideration to a proposal to restrict the supply of unskilled labor to Canada. The Jiji, the only independent newspaper in Tokio, insinuates that the matter has been settled already, and that the visit of Mr. Lemieux is merely a "blind" to appease popular sentiment. Other journals are distinctly bellicose. The Tokio "Puck," which caricatured Secretary Taft during his recent visit, has treated the Canadian envoy in a similar fashion.

DR. FREDERICK J. BRADD PASSED AWAY LAST NIGHT

Well Known and Popular Physician Died Last Evening As The Result of an Accident While Brarding a Street Car

MEMBER OF MANY LODGES

The intelligence of the death of Dr. Bradd, which took place at Nicholls Hospital last night—one of our most skilful and best known practising physicians will be learned with deep regret by his large circle of friends and by the community generally. During the ten years of his residence in Peterborough he has built up a flourishing practice and won a name as a skilful, careful and successful practitioner. The late Dr. Bradd had a genial kindly manner, was popular, generally, and held in high esteem by the many intimate friends whom his fidelity as a friend attracted. He was a member of several social organizations in which he held a prominent and respected place. The circumstances of his last illness, which closed a useful life in its prime are peculiarly sad.

The late Dr. Frederick John Bradd had been ill for some weeks as the result of an accident sustained in boarding a street car. In doing so the car started unexpectedly, he slipped and fell, striking his head on the step of the car. The accident was not considered serious at the time, but an abscess was caused and on Monday of last week it was found necessary to have an operation which was performed by Dr. McCullough a Toronto specialist. The patient seemed better after the operation ,but a change quickly came and for the last few days very little hope was held out for his recovery. He passed peacefully away last night at 10.45 o'clock at Nicholls Hospital.

The deceased was born in Northumberland county, Ont., in 1859 and was therefore forty-eight years of age. How as educated at the Cobourg University and Toronto University, graduating from the school of Medicine of the latter institution in 1888. He practiced for some time in Campbellford and then removed to Omemee where he quickly made himself popular with the residents of that village. Ten years ago the deceased took up residence in Peterborough and had resided here ever since.

About twenty-seven years ago he was married to Miss Margaret McCormick near Campbellford, who survives him. Two daughters are also left to mourn his loss, Mrs. Leslie Kennedy, of Chicago, and Miss Aita, at home. Mr. Devereux Bradd, of Colbourne, is a brother, and Mrs. W H Cochrane, of the same place, is a sister of the deceased.

The late Dr. Bradd was very prominently connected with the fraternal societies of the city and he will be mourned and missed by the members of the different Orders. For the past four years he had been Court Physician of Court Peterborough, No. 29, Canadian Order of Foresters. He had been connected with Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, I.O.O.F., and was a member of Sherwood Forest Camp, Woodmen of the World, o fthe Ancient Order of United Workmen ,of the Mystic Shriners, and the Omemee Lodge A.F. and A.M.

In his death the athletic organizations of the city will lose a true friend, one who was always willing and anxious to foster the cause of athletics in Peterborough. When assistance was needed Dr. Bradd was always ready to do everything in his power and his demise will be deeply regretted by those interests.

The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon from the family residence, Stewart street, to Little Lake Cemetery. Friends are requested not to send flowers.

ANOTHER RUN ON THE CHARITY BOARD FOR CHRISTMAS DAINTIES

Another example of the improvident nature of a great number of the new-comers to the city is related by a grocer of this city. The family which is receiving aid from the charity board, sent a list to the grocer to have filled and including among other dainties a box of chocolates, a can of condensed milk and a box of Baker's Cocoa. The order was filled by one of the clerks and it was not until later that the grocer found out about the extras.

Another woman called at the store to buy Christmas presents. Knowing the woman as she had been a customer for some time, the grocer knew the general condition of the finances of the family. They were by no means without limit. However, the woman purchased $7.00 worth of presents and the grocer is confident that this amount took about all the money there was in the house.

Other cases might be cited, which serve to prove that the strangers are long in learning the thrifty customs of the Canadian people.

MR. McLEAN HAS LEAD OF 26 VOTES

Returns That Were Received Last Night Were Misleading

Examiner special.

Markham, Dec. 24. — Revised returns received this morning show that Mr. McLean's majority is 26 and not 19 as reported last night. In sub-division No. 5, Markham township, the figures remain as at first reported, showing a majority there for McLan of 25, but in Sub-Division No. 9, Mr. McLean's majority is increased by 7, the figures now being reported as McLean 79; Wallace 21.

HOME FROM SEATTLE ON HOLIDAY

Mr. Norman Smith is Visiting His Home in This City

Mr. Norman Smith, an old Peterborough boy, who for the last couple of years, has been residing in Seattle, Wash., is home for the holidays, the guest of his mother, Mrs. Smith, Dublin street. Mr. Smith is very well-known in the city and is being given a warm welcome home by his friends. He will be remembered by his connection with the city hockey league and the Peterborough junior O.H.A. team a few years ago. Mr. Smith, and his brother Elmer, who was a member of the Peterborough juniors which captured the junior championship from Stratford, are in the poultry business in Seattle, and have been very successful.

AFTER A POST OFFICE IN OTONABEE

Residents Along the River Road Have Drawn up Petition

The residents of the Cold Springs section of Otonabee have drawn up a petition to be presented to Mr. R. R. Hall of West Peterborough, asking for a post office. The requisition requests that an office be opened in the new store being erected by Mr. Jas. McMartin, that the first post master be Mr. McMartin, and that it be called McMartinsville. The residents of Otonabee, in that district are in favour of the scheme and the petition is being extensively signed.

YOUNG BOY STAYS OUT ALL NIGHT

Parents Were Very Anxious—Slept in G.T.R. Station

Without any apparent reason, young Walter Moore, aged nine years, who lives with his parents at the corner of Dublin and Division streets, left his home about 9 o'clock yesterday morning and has not since been seen by his parents.

The young lad had his breakfast about 9 o'clock and went out to play. His parents grew anxious as the day wore on and he did not return. They went to bed about 11 o'clock and were just dozing off when the door bell rang. Mr. Moore went to the door, but nobody was there. Tracks could be seen leading to and from the door, and Mr. Moore called the name of his son, but received no answer.

Mr. Moore is the man who was hurt at the S. G. E. works some time ago and now has to seek the aid of crutches in order to walk. This morning he was up early, looking for his son, and sent word to the police station, but so far they have no trace of him.

Several boys told Mr. Moore they had seen him at St. Paul's Church last night in company with other boys.

Mr. Moore told the Examiner today that the boy was a "bad pill." He had often ran away before. He goes to the home of friends and remains there till we find him.

This afternoon it was reported the boy had returned home none the worse for his absence.

MR. MENDAL

Desires to thank his patrons for their unprecedented patronage during 1907, and extends his heartiest greetings for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Regret is also expressed at the inability to finish all the work promised. Every effort was made to avoid disappointment, but in a few cases it was unavoidable.

RUNAWAY ON MARKET SQUARE

Horse Took Fright and Ran up Water Street—Caught Near Munro House

A runaway took place this morning from the market square which caused considerable excitement in that vicinity. A farmer, who had just arrived in town, left his cutter standing in the square, while he went to talk with a friend. The horse took fright and bolted, running across the square and up Water street. At Hunter street it turned east but was stopped by a farmer who came out of the Munro house. Fortunately no one was hurt and there was but little damage done.

NEW OFFICERS WERE ELECTED

United Brotherhood of Carpenters And Joiners Elect Officers

At a meeting of the local union No. 672, of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, held in their hall last night the following officers were elected:—

President—Wm. J Geary.
Vice-President—Phillip Johnston.
Rec. Sec.—George Sloan.
Fin. Sec.—Daniel Coughlan.
Treasurer—Henry Carveth.
Conductor—Geo H Kane.
Warden—Edward Waterman.
Trustees—John Alexander, Ald. Harry Morgen, Thos. Hoolihan, Geo. Kane, Geo. Sloan.

At the next regular meeting which will be held Jan. 13th, 1908, the new officers will be installed and important routine business will be brought up for consideration.

ANOTHER OLD RESIDENT GONE

Mr. Johnston Cooney, One Of The Pioneers of the County Has Passed Away

There passed away in Otonabee today one of the oldest and most respected residents in the person of Mr. Johnston Cooney, at the ripe age of 89 years. Mr. Cooney had resided in the township for many years, and was one of the early pioneers of the county having come here in the days of the early settlers. In politics Mr Cooney was a staunch Liberal, and in religion a devout and consistent-living Methodist, and in all the relations of life was upright and obliging to his neighbours, and by the exercise of these qualities won the universal respect and esteem of the community in which he spent his long life. For some years he resided in Peterborough and shortly after the death of his wife, he removed to Otonabee, where he has since resided. The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery.

FOUR BOAT HOUSES WERE ENTERED

Assortment of Goods Stolen But No Clue To Thief

In another column of this issue is an article referring to the robbery of several boat houses on the west bank of the Otonabee, just north of the C. P. R. bridge. In all, four of them were entered. Mr. Chris. Wood and Mr. Jos. Gray owned two of the boat houses and the names of the owners of the other two could not be learned. The discovery was made on Sunday when the locks were found pried open, and a miscellaneous collection of camping goods was stolen. Paddles, fishing tackle, cushions, etc., are missing, but no clue to the robbers can be found.

NEW OFFICERS OF THE C.M.B.A.

Elected Last Night—Installation at The Next Meeting

At a regular meeting held last evening in the C.M.B.A Hall the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Spiritual Adviser — Rev. W. J. McColl.
Pres.—Bro. John Trombley.
First Vice-Pres. — Bro. John McDonald.
Second Vice-Pres. — Bro. Dennis Gleason.
Rec. Sec.—Bro. P M Leahy.
Asst. Rec. Sec. — Bro James Bogue.
Fin. Sec.—Bro. T J Doris
Treas.—Bro. W H McDonald.
Marshall—Bro. W J Devlin.
Guard—Bro. P. Gorham.
Trustees—Jas. O'Brien, W J Devlin, J. Corkery, A. Vinette, Jos. Pecord, Jr.

The officers will be installed at the next meeting, January 14.

WALKING CONTEST IN MARKET HALL

Mr. Geo. Stevens states that he is arranging a walking contest to take place in the Market Hall on New Year's Day. His intention is to hold a competition inviting any amateur walker in the city, or anyone who thinks he can walk, to take part. It will begin at 10 o'clock on New Year's morning and will finish at 10 o'clock on the same night, making a 12-hour walk. It is also restricted to pedestrians under the age of 21 years.

Any person wishing to compete for the prizes to be presented to the winners are requested to leave their entries with Mr. Stevens before Saturday night.

SUPERINTENDENT WAS HONOURED

Mr. A. G. Corcoran Receives Fur Cap and Gauntlets From Lock Work Employees

At noon to-day the employees of the Peterborough Lock Company gathered in the shipping room and presented their superintendent, Mr. G. Corcoran, with a beautiful pair of Persian lamb gauntlets and cap to match. The address was read by Mr. Frank Murray and the presentation was made by Mr. E. Ward. Mr. Corcoran very much appreciated the presentation and made a suitable reply, returning the compliments of the season to all present.

The address read as follows:
Mr. A. G. Corcoran

Dear Friend,—At this season, when the year's work is nearly completed and we feel a joy and thankfulness for the many blessings which we have been allowed to enjoy, we cannot forget those who, by their kindness and cheerfulness, have done so much to lighten our labour and make duty a pleasure, and you, dear friend, have done your share.

We therefore feel that we cannot allow this opportunity to pass without expressing to you in some manner the regard in which you are held, and would ask you to accept this pair of gauntlets as a slight token of esteem, and that you may live many years to wear them.

We, one and all, join in wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

CHRISTMAS DAY

For three hundred and sixty-four days of the past year many of us have toiled diligently in the interests in making the most of this world. It seems that, with the approach of Christmas Day, our thoughts might be profitably turned to considerations of the claims of another world. As to what the conditions in the next world may be we need feel little concern. We shall be safe in our relations to the life of the world to come if we only live in this preparatory state in accordance with the spirit of the Christianity, which came into the world as at this time, 1907 years ago. That glorious advent elevated man beyond the low standard of individual responsibility in relation to self and established, on a divine foundation, the brotherhood of man. Christmas, the anniversary of the great Gift brings this home to us all, in many cases, unconsciously. The Christmas spirit is in the air and permeates us all, though all do not acknowledge it, and expresses itself in the little gifts and added kindnesses that mark our relations to our friends and neighbours at this season. And Christmas marks a wider range of benevolent activity. Before the Babe was cradled under the star in the Bethlehem stable the world knew not of the evidences of co-operative, love and charity that now exist. It is only in Christian lands, that the charity "that is kind" finds organized expression in the maintenance of hospitals, asylums and refuges for the shelter and healing of the afflicted, the embodiment of the wider spirit of Love that came to the earth in the form of the Son of Man. Christmas opens the heart. At this time the most sordid chips the shell of self and gives some thought to others. This is the season of the giving of gifts and of kindly remembrances of those bound to us by the ties of kinship or social ties. This is the season when long-absent friends are re-united, when the children who have left the parental root to plant a roof-tree of their own, gather around the old hearthstone and enjoy the delight of the family re-union. From far and near the plunging ships and the roaring trains bring the welcome guests. But we are glad to know that the Christmas spirit does not confine itself to the home circle. How many thousands even in this favoured land are there to whom the festival brings no significance, the day or gladness. Want, cold, hunger, nakedness stalk through the wretched rooms of thousands of abodes. In our own merry-making we should not, and do not, forget those around us, and we try, to some extent, brighten for one day, at least, these darkened homes, and perhaps again kindle the expiring blaze of hope well nigh quenched, and perhaps give new courage to fight more successfully and hopefully the battle of life. In this spirit of universal charity to all those around up may we observe the dawning and the light of Christmas Day, and in this spirit the Examiner wishes all the city, all the country, all the world and especially, all its readers

A MERRY CHRISTMAS.

WESTERN FLOUR AND WHEAT

The Manitoba Free Press knows no limit to its enterprise, which takes protean forms. Every year at the Christmas tide it sends out a Christmas souvenir, some article or object relating to the resources of its great west constituency. This year its interesting souvenir takes the form of a miniature barrel of flour, now, the great staple of one of the greatest wheat-growing regions of the world. Not less than fifty years ago a great scientific authority stated that wheat-growing could not be made a success on this continent west of the State of Ohio. The Examiner has to thank the Free Press for the present of a baby barrel of flour made from wheat grown on the Peace River. This point, and the mill, the most northern flour mill on the continent, are about a thousand miles north of Ohio—seven hundred and fifty miles north of the United States boundary, only four hundred miles south of the Arctic Circle, and six hundred and fifty miles west of Western Ontario. It is to be noted that wheat grown in the Peace River valley took first prize at the World's Fair, Chicago, in 1893; it is also more worthy of note that at the Centennial Exhibition in Philadelphia in 1876, Red Fife wheat, grown in the same end of the earth, as it was then regarded, received a special first prize. The souvenir barrel of flour, which is a genuine flour barrel, staves, hook and all complete, is accompanied by a most interesting booklet, beautifully printed and illustrated, which gives an account of wheat-growing and flour-making, ancient and modern. The Examiner extends its most cordial thanks and congratulations to the Free Press, one of the most enterprising newspapers on the continent, which has done more and is doing more than any other private agency, to build up and develop the great West of Canada.

HOW A CANADIAN EDITOR HANDED A JOLT TO A JINGO

The Toronto Saturday Night has the following incident:

A good story has reached the city concerning a speech recently delivered in Washington, D.C., by Mr. J A. Macdonald, editor of the Globe. Mr. Macdonald, who has been much in demand as a public speaker, was one of the leading orators at a big Y.M.C.A gathering at the American capital a few weeks ago. The meetings were held in a big hall which accommodated about 8,000 people. The Toronto editor was on the programme for the second night.

One of the speakers on the first night was the governor of one of the Carolinas—a big, fat, clean-shaven man, seeming to be the personification of the being the illustrated papers are fond of portraying as the politician of the beef trust type. Even though it was an international occasion, and many of the ambassadors of foreign powers had seats on the platform, he chose to grow eloquent in a jingoistic strain. In loud tones he dilated on the magnificent resources of the country and reminded them that the United States supplied with world with fifty per cent. of this, eighty per cent. of that and ninety per cent. of something else. Among other things he said the United States supplied the world with ninety-seven per cent. of its peanuts.

Annoyed at this inopportune jingoism, some of those present asked Mr. Macdonald to say something in his speech on the following night to offset it. Others facetiously dared him to use the word peanuts. He did both. As he rose to speak he was encouraged by three hundred Canadians who occupied seats at the front of the hall, who rose and sang "The Maple Leaf." His subject was "The Call of the Nation," and he pointed out that the greatness of a nation did not consist alone in the magnificence of its resources or the length of its railways. Then he warmed up with his robust eloquence.

"It may be true," he said, "as we were so beautifully and eloquently told last night that you supply the world with ninety-seven per cent. of its peanuts, but it is also true that your mills are starving for the pulp from the forests of New Brunswick and Quebec. As the nations of the old world watch the growth and development of this North American continent, what a noble sight it will be to see on the northern half a nation built upon a pile of pulpwood and on the southern half a nation built on a pile of peanuts."

The point told, but the Americans took it good naturedly and joined in the general cheer.

GRAND TRUNK ANNOUNCES DETAILS OF PENSION FUND

A splendid Christmas box was handed out to its men yesterday by the Grand Trunk, in the shape of announcement of the details of its new pension system, which is of a most generous nature. The pension fund will be entirely contributed by the company, the men not being assessed one cent for its maintenance or administration. It will affect every member of the staff from Chas. M. Hayes down to the humblest section man, while provision is also made for men incapacitated by accident or otherwise, or even men discharged without cause, and otherwise eligible under the pension rules.

The establishment of this pension system was approved at the last annual meeting of the shareholders, when the handsome sum of $200,000 was voted as a nucleus. In addition to the income from this sum, however, it is estimated that the company will have to supplement this by a large sum, varying from $70,000 to $75,000 a year.

It was stated at Grand Trunk headquarters yesterday that it is now proposed to make the operation of the pension fund effective on and after January 1, 1908, when the rules will be published to all the 35,000 or more employees on the rolls of the railway. Unlike the pension funds which have been established by some of the other large railways of this continent (of which there are not a few), the rules of the Grand Trunk pension fund will apply from the highest to the lowest of the staff — from the general manager himself down to the humblest section man or gate keeper. They require absolutely the retirement from active service of every officer or employee when attaining the age of 65, and if he has entered the service before the age of 50 years, and has served for a period of 15 years, or more, he is entitled with the approval of the pension fund committee to an annuity of 1 per cent. of the average annual salary paid for ten continuous years, for each year of uninterrupted employment, the basis of calculation being the same as that practically universal on this continent.

Thus if a man has served say 30 years, receiving an average of $1,000 per annum ($83.33 per month) on the pay rolls of the company for the last ten years—or for any period of ten years during his term of service—he would be entitled to 1 per cent. of $1,000—$10x30 years, or $300 per annum, equal to $25 per month.

The company, however, have made a provision that irrespective of rate of pay or service, the minimum allowance to be paid under any circumstances will be $200 per annum, and this without any counterbalancing maximum.

Another distinguishing feature is that whilst nearly all other companies base their pension on the average wage rate of the last 10 years of service, the allowance from this fund will be on the highest average rate of wages for any ten consecutive years of continuous service. The most satisfactory rule, however, from the employees standpoint will be one providing that any employee over 50 years of age, after fifteen years of service, if discharged without cause, at any time previous to reaching the pension age limit becomes eligible to pension in proportion to the number of years of service up to date of discharge.

Company to Bear Whole Cost.

Although it was originally considered desirable to follow the general rules prevailing in Great Britain, of the formation of such funds by mutual contributions from the company and employees, it has been finally decided to follow the practice of companies generally on this continent, of contributing entirely out of their own revenues the necessary funds for the pensioning of their aged and faithful employees.

There is an old saying that is often worn threadbare by interested agitators and cynical politicians, that "Corporations have no souls," such statements fall to the ground, however, when met with facts such as are illustrated in this case, for this fund is to be contributed entirely by the company without requiring any contribution whatever on the part of the employees.

The rules of the new Grand Trunk Pension Department will include the best provisions of all other companies, railway and industrial, with two or three features entirely novel, or not common to all. It will be administered by a board selected by the company from among its official staff (themselves possible beneficiaries), which board will be known as the Pension Committee, whose decisions will be final in all matters pertaining to the administration of the fund.

The benefits of the fund will also apply to worthy employees who may have been injured in the service of the company, or who have suffered the loss of faculties which render them incapable of self-support, such employees having served the company the minimum period of 15 years —whether the age limit has been attained or not.

Supersedes Old System

While the Grand Trunk established a number of years ago, what is known as the "Superannuation and Provident Fund Association," which is still in existence, its membership is limited to the official and clerical staff throughout its lines in Canada only, whereas the new fund will apply to employees on all lines of the present system, and, as before stated, to all classes of employees.

The Superannuation Fund will continue in operation with the registered membership as of December 31, 1907, but will be closed against the admission of any new members after that date.

It is anticipated that the pension scheme will form an admirable adjunct to the company's Insurance and Provident Society which has been for many years in operation; the weak point in this has always been the inability of an aged or permanently disabled employee to keep up his payments to the insurance fund, although privileged to do so. Hereafter a very small deduction from his pension allowance will enable an employee to make provision for his family up to the maximum amount of $2,160.

Many of the conservative and thoughtful men among the employees will welcome this innovation, because of the class of men it is likely to induce to join the service of the company as well as the inducement it furnishes to the trained and careful employees, whose experience makes them desirable, to remain.

DIED

DIED—In Otonabee on Tuesday, Dec. 24th, 1907, Johnston Cooney, Esq., aged 78 years. The funeral will take place from the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. J. S. Deyell, lot 14 concession 14, Otonabee, on Thursday, Dec. 26th, 1907, at 2 o'clock, p.m.

Local Option Creates Dives

Ex-Alderman W. H. McClarty, a substantial merchant of Owen Sound, says: "Local Option has not lessened drunkenness in Owen Sound,—but it has created dives and it has been the cause of lessening trade." Last year, with seven months of Local Option and five of license, Owen Sound had 862 police court cases. In eleven months this year, under Local Option, it has had 510 police court cases. "I saw 75 drunken men the other evening on a walk through two of our streets."

Your streets will not be pleasant for women after dark if Local Option carries your town.

Banker J. P. Raven, of Owen Sound, says: "There have been more failures here in 19 months of Local Option than there were in the seven years previous. Property has decreased in value from 20 to 25 per cent."

Naturally. For under license Owen Sound had but eleven liquor sellers, closely restricted. Under Local Option there are to-day SIXTY places selling liquor there,—with no restrictions.

Local Option takes the traffic from the grip of the law and delivers it over to private greed. Will that suit YOUR town?

LOCAL OPTION CAMPAIGN HAS BEGUN IN OMEMEE

Examiner Special.

Omemee, Dec. 23.—The first meeting in the interests of the local option campaign in Omemee was held in the Bradburn Hall on Friday night and was largely attended by a representative crowd.

Rev. Mr. Smith of Toronto who has been engaged in the local option work throughout the Dominion gave a most impressive and forcible address on the the subject.

In the course of his remarks he said that he had met with no fairer countryside than that around Omemee, but he was sorry to think that homes had been destroyed by the accursed liquor traffic as in many other places. He was, however, glad to know that there was a proportion of the residents left to fight and if possible to abolish the evil, and made an appeal to the men and boys of the community to assist in this campaign, especially asking for the assistance of those who had recovered from the liquor habit.

Speaking of the benefits of local option Rev. Mr. Smith remarked that wherever the measure had been introduced, the merchants and business men were highly pleased with the result. Bills were paid quicker and children and wives were taken better care of. Some countries who had total prohibition are now prosperous where once they were poor and miserable.

THE CHARITABLE PEOPLE IMPOSED ON

Woman Sent Children to Sunday School To Get What Was Going

St. Luke's Parish Magazine says: "We would advise our friends not to be too generous in the distribution of Christmas cheer. For years the charitably disposed people have been imposed upon by a certain class of paupers who go from church to church in order to obtain help. A movement is on foot to prevent this. Each church can do its own charitable work, but let it be done through a responsible person who is conversant with the needs of the people. The rector will be glad to distribute as in former years, anything that may be donated for giving cheer to the deserving. A case came to his notice the other day where a woman made the bold statement that she sent her children to another Sunday school every Sunday in order to obtain 'what was going,' as she termed it. Such designs ought to be and must be frustrated.

SUNDAY AT CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

Special Music for the Occasion—Services To-morrow

At the First Church of Christ Scientist on Sunday, the subject was "Christ Jesus." The references from the Bible and the Christian Science text book clearly elucidated that Christ was the true Man, who ever existed with the Father, called the Son of God. Jesus was the son of Mary, the true conception of God and man, manifest in the flesh. The two conjoined Jesus Christ, whose works in the flesh are the saving of all mankind from sin, disease and death—the last enemy. Preceding the sermon, Miss Mabel Young sang "Christmas Morn," by Rev. Mary B. G. Eddy. During the taking of the offertory Miss Grace Todd sang "The Birthday of a King," by Neidling. The regular weekly service this week will be held at 7.30 on Wednesday evening instead of at the usual hour, 8 o'clock. On account of it being Christmas, it will be chiefly a song service, with the reading of an article by Mrs. Eddy, "What Christmas means to Me." All are welcome at the services.—Copy.

to hing Eczema's Cause and Cure

THIS DREADFULLY TORTURING AND OBSTINATE DISEASE IS ENTIRELY OVERCOME BY

Eczema is common to rich and poor, old and young, and is neither contagious nor an indication of uncleanness, as some suppose.

Clothing, improper food, indigestion, vaccination, poisoning by clothing or from ivy, etc., are named among the causes.

There is inflammation, redness, heat, swelling, discharge, formation of crust and all the time annoying, troublesome itching and burning, which often becomes so torturing as to be almost unendurable.

This ever present itching is what makes eczema so dreaded, and it is this feature to which Dr. Chase's Ointment gives relief from almost the first application.

Dr. Chase's Ointment is not only delightfully soothing, but is a wonder as a means of healing the skin. It is not long before the raw, itching sores are thoroughly cleansed, the itching subdued and the process of healing begun. Persistent treatment will then bring about a thorough cure.

This great ointment is always beneficial to the skin, making it soft, smooth and velvety, and, besides being the most effective treatment known for the cure of eczema, is useful in every home in a score of ways.

Mr. Hiram Frey, Norwood, Ont., states: "I was troubled for ten years with eczema on one leg. The itching was terrible, and when scratched the blood would come. The doctors could not cure me. Fortunately I heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment and its persistent use has completely cured me. There is now no trace of the disease left.

'My little daughter two years old has also been cured of eczema by Dr. Chase's Ointment. Her face was a mass of sores and we had to bandage her hands to keep her from scratching it. To-day her face is clear of even the scars which the ugly sores made, and she is thoroughly cured. I am glad of an opportunity to let people know what a blessing Dr. Chase's Ointment has proved itself to be."

Mothers use Dr. Chase's Ointment for the chafing and skin troubles of their babies in preference to unsanitary pore-clogging powders; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

LARGE FUNERAL OF YOUNG BUGLER

Remains of Chas. A. Edmondson Laid Away With Military Honours

AN IMPOSING FUNERAL

The late Charles A. Edmondson, son of Mr. Harry Edmondson, Weller street, was buried with military honours yesterday afternoon from the family residence, Weller street. The deceased was a member of the 57th Regiment, and later joined the bugle band. His comrades turned out in fairly large numbers, and headed by the regimental band, the funeral was one of the most imposing witnessed in the city for some time. It was a fitting mark of esteem to the young bugler, who had accompanied the regiment on several trips to camp and on visits to other corps in the Province.

Rev. E. A. Pearson of the George Street Methodist Church conducted the funeral services at the house and at the grave. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Fred Miles, Harry Miles and Romuuls Picard of the bugle band, and three of the personal friends of the deceased, Messrs. W. Bourne, Howard Mallory and Joseph Minicolo. The funeral started at 3 o'clock and proceeded by way of Weller, Hunter and George streets, to Little Lake Cemetery.

The military arrangements were in charge of Sergt.-Major Brittain. The firing party, composed of 12 of the rank and file, under the command of Colour-Sergt. Waterman of No. 4 Company and Sergt. Dummett, preceded the hearse. Following the mourners' cabs, about fifty non-commissioned officers and men, under the command of Colour-Sergt. Harvey Staunton, marched as mourners. The band, under Bandmaster Gliddon, was almost in full strength, and played the "Dead March" in Saul along the way.

Over the grave the firing party fired three volleys in a soldierly manner, and in the intervals Sergt. Hughes sounded the First, Post, Last Post, and Lights Out. The military rites were very impressive and were carried out in the true soldierly spirit.

The late Charles Edmondson was 18 years of age less one day, his birthday being on Sunday, the 22nd. He attended the South Ward and West Ward Public Schools and was well-known among the youths of his years in the city. Up to the time of his death he had been working in the metre department of the C. G. E. Works. As stated, he was a member of the bugle band of the 57th Regiment, and for three years played in the orchestra of George Street Methodist Church, of which he was a member.

The floral designs were very beautiful and many were received. Among them were a large wreath from the employees of the metre department, an anchor from the lamp department, a floral basket from the George street orchestra, and a star from the choir of the same church. The Salvation Army, of which the father of the deceased is a member, also sent a handsome design.

All the members of the family were present and Mrs. Robt. Tedford of Campbellford, sister of Mrs. Edmondson.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HOLD ENTERTAINMENT

Gave Many Offerings for Distribution To The Poor

The members of St. Paul's Sunday School gathered last night in the church for the purpose of giving gifts of Christmas cheer for distribution amongst the poor and needy families of this city. There were many scholars present, the younger ones sat on the platform and sang several times during the evening. A large number of the members of the congregation were also present and the evening was spent in a social manner.

The meeting opened with prayer by the pastor and Mr. Wm. Medill occupied the chair. The first part of the evening was spent in the singing of hymns by the primary class, speeches and recitations by Mabel Pringle and Hugh Carmichael. Rev. Mr. Pogue closed the first part with a short address in which he narrated several very interesting Christmas stories.

The members of the Sunday School both young and old then went into the school room and returned in about ten minutes laden with bags, baskets and boxes filled with good things and placed them on the platform. After which they took their places in the front seats of the church and the offertory was taken up.

The pleasant evening closed with the singing of hymn No. 427, and the prayer by the pastor. Mr. Medill asked the older boys to remain and distribute the goods so kindly given. He also stated that if anyone was aware of families in need to let him know and he would see that they received their share of good things.

BASKET SOCIAL WAS A SUCCESS

Both of the Schools Closed on Friday Last

Lazswade, Dec. 23.—By all appearances the sleighing will be good for Christmas.

We regret to learn of the illness of Mrs. Edward Yeomans, who has been ill for some time.

Miss Katie and Mr. Levi Bullied were guests of their uncle one evening last week.

We are sorry to learn of the illness of Mr. Hugh Nesbitt of Owen Brook, who is well-known in and around Lazswade.

Miss Mattie Bullied and Miss Zella Hales were guests of Mrs. W. McColl Saturday evening.

Mrs. A. Davis was the guest of Misses Fannie and Katie Bullied Friday last.

Both the schools in this vicinity closed on Friday, December 20. The lady teachers who have been in charge will be greatly missed in the village.

The "basket" social held in Grace Church on December 20 proved a great success.

KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM

Or Your Hair Will Fall out Till you Become Bald

Modern science has discovered that dandruff is caused by a germ that digs up the scalp in scales as it burrows down to the roots of the hair, where it destroys the hair's vitality, causing falling hair and ultimately baldness. After Prof. Unna of Hamburg, Germany, discovered the dandruff germ, all efforts to find a remedy failed until the great laboratory discovery was made which results in Newbro's Herpicide. It alone of all other hair preparations kills the dandruff germ. Without dandruff hair luxuriantly. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50c and $1. The Market Drug Store, Special Agents.

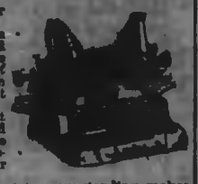
YOU CAN EASILY OPERATE THIS TYPEWRITER YOURSELF



Don't worry your correspondents.

Don't write him anything by hand that takes him time to make out that may leave him in doubt, that he can't easily read.

And don't fill out legal pap record memos—or make out accounts of hotel menus in your own handwriting.

You can write out your letters—make out an abstract—fill in an insurance policy—enter your card memo—make out your accounts, or hotel menus—or do any kind of writing you need, on any kind, size or thickness of paper, and space any way you want on

The OLIVER Typewriter

The Standard Visible Writer

You can write any of these things yourself if you do not happen to have a stenographer.

For you can easily learn with a little practice to write just as rapidly, and as perfectly as an expert operator on the Oliver. Because the Oliver is the simplified typewriter. And you can see every word you write. About 80% more durable than any other typewriter, because it has about 80% less wearing points than most other typewriters.

50% easier to write with than these other complicated, intricate machines that require "tuning-up"—technical knowledge—long practice and special skill to operate.

Than machines which cannot be adjusted to any special space—with which it is impossible to write abstracts, insurance policies, or add-ding documents except you buy expensive special attachments requiring experts to operate.

You can adjust the Oliver to any reasonable space—you can write on any reasonable size and thickness of paper, right out to the very edge, without the aid of any expensive attachment or special skill, and your work will be neat appearing, legible and clear.

For the Oliver is the typewriter for the doctor the lawyer, the insurance agent, the merchant, the hotel proprietor—or any man that does his own writing.

Write us now for our booklet on the simplified features of the Oliver. The Oliver Typewriter Building, Chicago, Illinois.

MR. WM. YELLAND AND THE MAYORALTY

What the Ex-mayor Has to Say About Candidature

A reporter of the Examiner had a talk with Mr. William Yelland on Monday, too late for yesterday's issue, regarding the report that was in circulation to the effect that he was going to be a candidate for the Mayor's chair for the year 1908, when the following conversation took place:

"Mr. Yelland, is there any truth in the rumour that you are going to be a candidate for the Mayor's chair for the coming year?"

Mr. Yelland—"I am not prepared to definitely answer that question at this moment."

Reporter—"When will you be able to give us your intentions?"

Mr. Yelland—"When I have definitely concluded."

Reporter—"In a day or two?"

Mr. Yelland—"No: not so soon. Many of my friends and good citizens are disgusted with the way the city's business is being managed, and I am being requested by all classes to run."

Reporter—"It is altogether likely, then, that you will consent?"

Mr. Yelland—"I will be nominated, anyway, and after I have placed my views of the situation before the electors I will announce my intentions. The assessment has been most unfairly done. The expenditures are creeping up beyond our ability to safely control the city's affairs economically, and the indebtedness to the bank is beyond what good business would call for, and it is time for a change. Ten years ago I was Mayor—in 1896 and 1897—and the business of the town was done in the interest of the people. Now it is different. However, we will see when the time comes. Some of our councillors are all right, but some of them should not try to do public business."

Reporter—"Thank you, Mr. Yelland; when you have anything further to say on this subject let me know. Good-bye, sir, and a Merry Christmas."

Music and Drama

NO MOTHER TO GUIDE HER

In some years Miss Alma Hearn, has won high praise for her work as an emotional actress, but in order to display her wonderful versatility, this season, she will be called to create a character comedy part that is quite at variance with those she has been identified with in the past. The play itself breathes the sweet incense of country life, with its flowers, birds and green fields, tinctured with the hot and fevered breath of the tenements and squalid life in the great cities. The story is one that should meet with a responsive chord in those who are touched with the theme as expressed in the struggles of a young girl sent out to fight the battle of life without the kindly counsel and protecting care of a mother. Two new stage characters are shown in this dramatic vehicle and which are of exceeding interest. The play is of the strenuous sort, filled with exciting climaxes as the result of natural situations. Miss Hearn has been surrounded by a company of unusual strength and cleverness who will afford her much assistance in maintaining the good impressions created by the star in her past endeavours. "No Mother to Guide Her," will be the attraction at the Grand next Saturday, matinee and night.

The Success of a Springville Poultry Fancier—Latest Springville News

Examiner Special

Springville, Dec. 21.—Mr. James Baptie has returned from Guelph where he has been attending the poultry show. Mr. Baptie reports a real good show, and he brings back a long list of prizes for his own exhibit, receiving four firsts, four seconds, and three third prizes, also two specials for silver Hamburgs and two specials for golden Hamburgs. Mr. Baptie has been most successful at the different poultry shows where he exhibited this season, having some very choice birds especially in Hamburgs and bantams. The directors of the Guelph show requested Mr. Baptie to again exhibit next year. His poultry was very much admired, and added largely to the pleasure of those attending.

Mr. F. G. Wilson a few days ago shipped a carload of onions to Montreal. They were grown by Mr. Robert Lockie, who is known here as the "Onion King, and in brief by the "O. K.," and also by Mr. Matthew Clarke. These two men have shipped away this year two carloads of vegetables, the first one going to Toronto.

Six Months in The Central Prison For Smashing Window

Blake Says He Was in Jail Before —Tells Reporter of the Silent System in England

HE WANTED THIRTY DAYS

Because he wanted thirty days in jail, an Englishman who gave his name as Joe Blake, threw a red brick through the window of the Singer sewing machine office last night about 8 o'clock. The window is 3-8 of an inch thick and was smashed into atoms, the brick striking the middle of the pane and alighting on the inside of the office on a new machine, scratching it badly. The glass from the window was scattered over the front part of the office. The local manager was in the office at the time and ran outside to find the man standing coolly on the sidewalk with his hands in his pockets, surveying his work. He asked him if he had broken the window, and the man replied that the brick had slipped out of his hand. When asked why he had done so, he replied that he wanted thirty days.

P. C. McGinty came along at this period and the man was taken to the police station and locked up.

When interviewed in the cells last night by an Examiner reporter he appeared perfectly at ease and was quite willing to talk. He gave his name as Joe Blake and informed the reporter that he had been arrested in London some time ago on a charge, the nature of which he refused to disclose. He received a sentence of 18 months in prison. During the first month he was in prison they gave him the silent system. He saw no one, read no books, and heard not a sound from anyone, his meals being handed him through the bars. During this month the prisoner stated that he nearly went out of his mind and the authorities moved him to another cell, where he had a few comrades.

On the completion of his term he secured a position as assistant fireman on a cattle boat bound for the United States, and arrived in American about a month ago. He "beat" his way to Toronto and remained there three weeks, living from hand to mouth. He came to Peterborough about three days ago and was without money and food. Last night he decided to go to jail, and taking a brick, he walked to the Singer sewing machine office and broke the window. When the man in the office came out and asked for an explanation, the former said he wanted thirty days, and was accreated.

When told that a fine Christmas dinner was going to be served at the jail he appeared to enjoy the prospect, and remarked: "Really, pal, this is more than I expected."

Blake appeared at the police court this morning and when a charge of vagrancy against him was read he pleaded guilty.

The chief told the Magistrate that the man had been using the police station as a lodging house since last Saturday. Yesterday he went to Mrs. King's residence, had a good dinner, and when the time came to pay, he said that he hadn't any cash. The chief also told His Worship about the broken window and asked to have the man sent down for six months.

"This is what comes of advertising plum pudding for Christmas in the jail," said His Worship; and he sentenced Blake to six months in the Central Prison. Blake was removed to the jail until the proper authorities arrive to take him to Toronto.

Why Beauty Fades

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and the nerves become exhausted, beauty fades, wrinkles show themselves, and the glow of health disappears and beauty curves give place to leanness and angles. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative, is woman's greatest blessing from youth to old age. A few weeks' use of this treatment will do wonders for any woman who is pale, thin, weak and nervous.

THE BAND SERENADING THIS WEEK

Will Sacrifice Friday Night to Play at Children's Entertainment

The Salvation Army band begins its serenading on Wednesday night, but will sacrifice Friday night, to assist in the concert in the market hall in aid of the children. The band deserves great credit for giving up such an important serenading evening to contribute to the success of the children's entertainment. The band is in need of assistance, too, and no doubt their street concerts will be appreciated especially by those residing in the outlying districts who do not hear the band very often.

Great preparations have also been made for to-morrow. The finishing of the ship will be seen to-night. The masts and the light houses are already up, and it will certainly present a most picturesque appearance when concluded.

ANOTHER TURKEY SHOOT TO-MORROW

Eagle Lake Hunt Club Holding One at Jackson Park

The Eagle Lake Hunt Club are engineering a turkey shoot for to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock, at Jackson Park. The club has a dozen handsome birds up for competition, so that they will experience some good sport. The shoot is open to any who desire to take part.

DIPTHERIA OVER AT WEDLOCK'S

Many Families Were Quarantined But Danger Has Passed

There has been a general epidemic of diphtheria and scarlet fever in the neighbourhood of Wedlock's Landing for the past five weeks, about the only family in the district escaping being that of Mr. Wm. Pamment.

The quarantine on the several families affected has been raised. Dr. Montgomery of Millbrook, was the attending physician. Mr. Jas. Wedlock's daughter, who was seriously ill has fuly recovered.

Peterborough Lumber Co'y Opens a Repair Shop—County Council

Examiner Special

Apsley, Dec. 23rd. — Mr. John Hull of Lakefield was in the village on business last week.

Mr. W. Darcy of Burleigh Falls, was in the village on Friday.

Mrs William Bullied, Lasswade, whose serious illness was mentioned in a former issue, died on the 7th inst.

A large number of people from the surrounding country were in the village on Friday evening.

A very heavy snow storm set in on Saturday evening and there is now splendid sleighing.

Michael is doing a big freight business at present, and has had to put an extra team on the road to keep up with the rush.

The Peterborough Lumber Co. has started a repair shop in the village where all work and repairs required in their camps can be done. Mr. R. Clifford is in charge of the blacksmithing department.

That the milk of human kindness still flows at least in the lumber camps was shown last week when the men in Mr. Watson's camp, at Jack's Lake, subscribed $45, and sent it out to their comrade, Mr. B. Jones, who was so severely injured by a fallen tree, to help him until he was able to resume his work. Mr. Jones is doing well and it is only a matter of time when he will be up and about.

Council Meeting

A statutory meeting of the Burleigh and Anstruther council was held in the town hall at Apsley, on Monday, Dec. 16th. There were present, C R D Booth, reeve, in the chair, Couns. Tucker, Matthews, Harris and McAuley.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

PRINTERS APPRECIATE THE FAVOURS

And "Benny" Taylor Was Presented With a New Suit of Clothes

"Benny" Taylor, the junior assistant of the news room and of the members of the business and reportorial staffs of the Examiner was last night at 5 o'clock presented with a suit of clothes by the employees in those departments. The presentation was made by Geo. Paxman and the accompanying address was read by A. J. Bidwell. The gift was a token of appreciation of the personal favours to the members of the staffs donating it, during the year by the recipient. "Benny" acknowledged the gift in a brief speech, which was followed by great applause and three cheers.

JUDGMENT DEFERRED IN LOTTERY CASE

Defendants Came Before His Honour Judge Weller Yesterday

The case of the Crown versus Edwards in the lottery case, and also that of the Crown versus the Review and the Examiner came up before His Honour Judge Weller yesterday afternoon, judgment being reserved until January 14. Mr. Edwards, proprietor of the "Crystal," was charged with running a lottery in connection with his business, and the Review and the Examiner were charged with publishing it, both actions being brought up by Chief Ressel.

Yesterday the arguments of Crown Attorney Wood for the Crown and Mr. D. O'Connell of O'Connell & Gordon for the defendants were heard in connection with the case. The evidence in connection with the charges has before been published. After hearing the arguments His Honour deferred judgment until January 14, 1908.

THE McCREA CASE WAS DISMISSED

Husband and Wife are Living Together Again in Toronto

Wm. McCrea and wife have at last "made up" and are living happily together in their home in Toronto. Mr. G. Gordon, counsel for McCrea, appeared before his Worship this morning and asked to have the case dismissed. Mr. Gordon said McCrea had taken to heart the kind words said by his Worship and was going to start life anew. He came here a short time ago and took his wife and child to Toronto.

His Worship expressed his pleasure at this happy reconciliation in which he had played so important a part. The case was dismissed, costs to be paid by Mr. McCrea.

A CHRISTMAS MARKET TO-DAY

Fairly Large and Well Attended by Holiday Buyers

This morning a good market of farm produce resulted from the fine weather, and reasonable prices were offered. The outside market was none too large but the showing around the tables in the hall was very gratifying. This was the last chance to obtain the Christmas fowl and from the large quantity that was brought to the city there should be a general feasting to-morrow.

ADDITIONAL FORMS IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

There Will be Three After Christmas—Commercial Pupils Move

Some alterations will be made after the New Year in the public schools of the city. In the North Ward School there will be two new forms opened, and also one in the new King Edward school in the south end. These will accommodate forty pupils each so that the congestion in the King Edward and Central Schools will be relieved. The commercial pupils who have been attending the King Edward will on the resuming of school after the New Year, on January 6th, attend the Queen Alexandra, or North Ward school.

Miss Pratt has resigned in the south ward so that there will be four additions to the public school teaching staff next term.

ARTICLES MISSING FROM BOAT HOUSE

Mr. Wood Loses Paddle and Reel—Padlock Was Broken

The boat house of Mr. Chris. Wood, situated at the east end of Dalhousie street, was broken into last week and several articles taken, including a valuable reel and paddle. The padlock on the outer door and the lock on the locker, containing the property, were both broken, and also the lock on a boat house below, that of Mr. Wood's. It is not known whether any articles were taken from the latter or not.

USES A DOG SLEIGH TO CARRY CHRISTMAS MAIL

This is What East City Mail Carrier Does—A Happy Thought

The East City mail deliverer has a unique plan of taking care of the abundance of mail incidental to Christmas time. This morning he secured a dog sleigh and dog and piled the mail into two boxes. Many of the parcels were large, but, of course, none are delivered by the mail carriers weighing over three pounds, so the load was lighter than its size would indicate.

Havelock is Building It's Aerial Castles For Next Year

Like Little Nemo in Wonderland The Hopeful Village is Fully Enjoying its Rosy Dreams

GREAT PROSPECTS AHEAD

Examiner Special.

Havelock, Dec. 24th.—The outlook for Havelock is that in the near future the improvements and onward stretches will be greater. Havelock believes in symmetrical development, the secret of all greatness. When it makes an advancement in one particular line, it does not shut down operations in other things. Everyone puts away their self interests and put their shoulder to the wheel with one another to keep the ball arolling.

Havelock grows with the Toronto-Montreal line of the C.P.R., which is a self-proving maxium. Thus if you want to judge the growth of Havelock, keep an eye on the doings of the C.P.R. on this branch.

There is something worth noticing in store for Havelock next year. It is the fact that the C.P.R. are going to double track their line from Toronto to Montreal. This means a growth in Havelock for the double tracking there will be more traffic ovr this line and that means several men and their families will be situated at this place.

Another thing that the people of Havelock are looking forward to is the construction of the grain route from Victoria Harbour, which will mean a great advancement in Havelock, as that small metropolis is quite sure of being the divisional point. If Peterborough was about 25 miles east of its present site, it would be quite likely named as the divisional point, but as the case is it is not and so it falls to Havelock's lot to be the divisional point. Havelock is about 100 miles from Victoria Harbour by direct line, while Peterborough is only 75 and that is much too short for a division while the division to Smith's Falls would be 215 miles and that is too long, and so in all probability Havelock has won their point.

When the line was surveyed last year, it was found that the best route would be to pass a little south of Lakefield, pass near Warsaw, go near Norwood, and join the Havelock-Toronto line a little above Havelock. This route would be the easiest to construct, because it is a much easier grade than by way of Peterborough. The C.P.R. has also purchased a large stretch of land to the south of the yards at Havelock, upon which to lay tracks, as a great many more tracks will be needed on account of the increase in traffic.

When this grain route is constructed it will cause the C.P.R. to station a large number of men at Havelock. It is estimated that one hundred men and their families will be stationed here and perhaps more. There will be need of conductors, brakemen, firemen, engineers, car repairers, wipers, shopmen etc. amounting up to the hundred mark. Havelock with the present railroad line has a population of about 3100 and the new grain route to be erected will need as many men as the present line and thus the population will be doubled. At this rate of going it will only be a little while up til Havelock will be an incorporated town.

In the spring of next year work will be begun on the improvement of the present coal chutes which are much too small. The coal chutes will be built longer so as to hold five cars, while at present they only hold four cars. The sheds will also be constructed so that engines may be coaled on both sides. At present there are only chutes on one side and the C.P.R. find that enough coal cannot be stored in the chutes at one supply all the engines.

Great improvements will be made on the round house, which now is a semi circular building. Next year the whole will be made into a circular building with places for the engines on all sides of the turn table. This is being done to have a repair shop for the engines that will be used on the new grain route. The new addition to the building will be built of brick with a strong cement foundation, and will be the same height as the other part. There will be two openings, one will be at the east end to allow the engines to run down to the coal shutes to be coaled and the other on the west to allow the engines to go out to be filled with water. The turn table will be covered over so that snow cannot cover it in winter. Several devices will also be installed to carry off the steam and smoke given off by the engines. When the new parts are constructed to the round house and coal shutes, the employees in these two buildings will be doubled.

It is rumoured among the C.P.R. men that a new station will be shortly constructed in Havelock. If a new station is erected, the present building will likely be used for freight and express offices.

Another needed improvement is a larger freight shed, as the present one is much too small for the amount of freight that is received at Havelock. Some mornings there is so much freight that it is impossible for some of the merchants to get their freight until others have removed theirs.

It is quite likely that a large number of tracks will be built next year to the south of the present yards, as the C.P.R. have bought land there and large amounts of supplies are being stored in Havelock for their construction.

With the present improvements and the ones that the C.P.R. intend to make during the coming year, Havelock will make great advancement.

Operations are in full swing on the construction of the new water tank, to replace the old one which collapsed a few weeks ago. The new water tank will be a very large round one, extending a little higher than the old one and holding more water. It is being built on a foundation of cement and hooped with iron hoops, so that there will be no fear of collapse.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR MEN AT PAPPAS' TOBACCO STORE

M. Pappas, leading tobacco dealer, will, until after New Year's, give Christmas gifts to men in cigars, tobaccos, pipes and smokers' goods, fully 25 per cent. less than other dealers. Mr. Pappas' stock is brand new and well assorted, having been bought for the holiday trade below the usual wholesale figures. If you want the best goods to select from at the least money, be sure and buy at Pappas' two stores, George street. 4d145

LAURIER'S SOLID FRONT

Three bye-elections yesterday gave the Laurier Government three Christmas boxes—returned three Liberal members. Ottawa, Centre York and Labelle, all return straight government candidates. The great fight was in Centre York, where the Conservative candidate was a son of the late N. Clarke Wallace, who carried this strong Conservative riding by very large majorities from, and including, 1878 to 1900. With the help of the father's memory and his personal popularity it would have been no surprise to have seen him win, but Dr. McLean, the Liberal candidate, captured the seat by a majority of 26. Since the general election of 1904 there have been 42 bye-elections. Of these the Liberals have carried 33 and the Conservatives 9. In three years the Conservatives have not made a net gain of a single seat. They will have to do better than that if they get into power at the general elections. The Liberal Government still presents a solid front.

Popular Cure for Croup

Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, as a cure for croup, will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success. It is wonderfully prompt in relieving the cough, clearing the air passages and soothing the excited nerves. Many mothers who realize the suddenness with which croup comes on keep this great medicine promptly on hand for use in case of emergency.

Waiting to be Tested—Said to Contain Good Percentage Of Gold

There are a couple of samples of ore at the Examiner office which are believed by the owners to contain gold. One of them was secured in the north of Peterborough county, and if it turns out as expected it will be a drawing card for prospectors. The ore is awaiting any person who wishes to test it.

ARRIVAL OF LIBRARY BOOKS

This morning Rev. Dr. O'Brien received word that the new books ordered for St. Peter's T.A.S had arrived at the Customs House. When they have been sorted out and marked in thier different classes the members will have a fine assortment of good new literature to choose from. With this addition the library is in a flourishing condition, and it should be a special encouragement to the members to increase the number of ticket-holders.

FINAL REHEARSAL FOR THE CANTATA

The final rehearsal of the Christmas cantata, "Story of a Star," to be given in St. John's schoolhouse on Thursday evening, December 26, at 8 o'clock will be held in the schoolroom at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. All children taking part must be present. The Sunday school children have worked very hard to get the cantata ready, and hope to see a good attendance at the performance on Thursday.

The above prescription has been found invaluable in the treatment of kidney, bladder and urinary troubles, and diseases arising therefrom, such as rheumatism, sciatica, lame back and lumbago, and we feel that the public are entitled to particulars concerning it.

A prominent physician states that the excellent results that have been obtained from the use of the mixture are due to its direct action upon the kidneys, assisting them in their work of filtering all poisonous waste matter and acids from the blood and expelling same in the urine, and at the same time restoring the kidneys to a healthy condition.

He further states that anyone suffering from afflictions of this nature will find it to be very beneficial, and suggests that it be given a trial.

Their A Frivolity.

By TROY ALLESON.

Copyrighted, 1907, by M. M. Cunningham.

Miss Weston sat looking out the window of the small hotel parlor, her face full of discontent. She fingered the soiled lace curtain unconsciously, and just as unconsciously frowned at the group of schoolgirls standing outside waiting for the sightseeing automobile.

After a week in Jamestown with them she acknowledged that the quiet routine of the school year had its compensations. It could at least be counted to follow its regular groove. On the other hand, fifty schoolgirls on a sightseeing expedition, even under the chaperonage of the music teacher, the professor of psychology and two underteachers, couldn't be counted upon to do anything except break out in unexpected places. They had managed to get scattered all over Jamestown, and after being safely gathered on the boat for Washington half of them had seen fit to get seasick. The other half had taken advantage of the fact that the chaperones were busy looking after the ailing and had got acquainted with everybody on the boat that showed the least inclination to talk.

The professor came hurriedly into the parlor, folding the morning paper.

"We will soon have them where we can keep an eye on them for at least two hours, Miss Weston. Did you ever see such overflowing youth and happiness?" He looked at the chattering group, then suddenly noticed his companion's woebegone countenance. "Anything wrong?" he asked quickly.

"Nothing, except I'm too—young," she said despondently.

He put on his glasses and gazed at her quizzically.

"In all my research among psychic phenomena it's absolutely the first time I ever heard of a woman having such a thought."

"THAT MAN CALLED YOU MY WIFE. IT SOUNDED GREAT."

Miss Weston tapped the floor with her tan shoe impatiently.

"Not in years. I'm painfully near forty, perilously near, but that makes it all the more ridiculous that I want to act young. The enthusiasm of those girls has depressed me. I am envious of them. I feel their reverence and respect until it's oppressive. It doesn't even cross their minds that I am not an old woman, and they show me the exaggerated respect due a teacher and old age. I think this lovely morning has made me restless. I want to go all over Washington, but I want to enjoy it as an individual and not have to take my pleasure with fifty pair of young eyes gazing at me with a to-morrow-ye-die-from-old-age expression."

The professor chuckled.

"Miss Weston, I'm not going to ask by what process you reached the opinion. Doesn't matter whether it was induction or deduction—it's exactly the hazy trouble that has been worrying me. It seems like taking one's pleasure second hand or by reflected light. Let's lose them today and do the town by ourselves," he suggested in a tragic whisper.

"Do we dare?" Her voice was eager, yet doubtful.

"Dare!" scornfully. "Am I such an old fossil because I'm forty-five and a teacher of psychology that I haven't a latent bit of heroism? We are going to play we are exactly twenty-one years old today and to enjoy Washington from that point of view. I'll go tell Professor and Mrs. Bingham that they must do all the chaperoning. That—oh, yes; I'll say—just say, mind you—that you and I want to go to the Congressional library to—er—look up a matter of importance."

"Our lost youth," she suggested, smiling.

"Those girls will be safe enough with two chaperons. They will at least be so high up in these automobiles that there's no danger of street cars running over them."

Miss Weston started to her room with a determination to put on her best white linen coat suit and give a less chaperonish touch to her hair.

"They'll not be run over by street cars," she laughed, "but I'm in mortal terror that two or three of them will come back enchanted with the megaphone man."

They salved their consciences with the thought that they really were going to the library. It was the only public building that they had not seen in previous trips to Washington.

"Where now?" he asked as they came down the bread steps after a little chat in the library cafe and stood on the street corner.

"That car says 'Glen Echo.' It sounds enticing," she suggested.

The professor was sure that at twenty-one he would have felt sentimentally inclined toward a spot called Glen Echo, and he boarded the car enthusiastically.

"We'll chase that echo," he said boyishly.

"Slang, too?" she queried.

"A mere effervescence of youth," airily. "You mustn't be surprised at anything I do or say today, my dear lady—I mean my dear girl. You've no idea what a holy terror I was at twenty-one."

"Me, too"—she began ungrammatically. "Turn your head this way—quick," she whispered. "There's that automobile with all the girls just passing!"

The professor quickly jerked down the shade.

"You needn't tell me that I wasn't born with a soul for adventure, and as for hairbreadth escapes, I positively dote on them." And Miss Weston thought that the professor at twenty-one, his face animated by a boyish grin, must have been attractive.

"I feel," he said as they entered the grounds at Glen Echo, "the awakening of a craving long dormant. That peanut stand is attractive, and the ice cream soda is positively irresistible."

He put a bag of peanuts in his coat pocket for further consideration, and they drank the half warm soda, laughing at each other over the tops of the glasses.

"There is one thing that I dare—positively dare you to do," he said, his eyes twinkling. "You'll never have the courage to—ride on the merry-go-round!"

Miss Weston strangled over her soda, set her glass down, then pinned her hat on firmly.

"I was rather a boldenish girl—at twenty-one. I think I would prefer riding on a white horse. I never cared much for a rhinoceros or a zebra," she said, following him.

After the ride, her hair loosened and blowing in short tendrils about her face, she walked with him down the hill toward the canal. "Is the worst yet to come?" she queried. "For heaven's sake don't tell me that you are going to dare me to do anything less dignified than ride on a merry-go-round! I'm so thankful it didn't cross your mind to suggest that we catch at the rings for a free ride. You must have been a rather energetic boy."

"Regular young devil," he assented amiably. "But the next is real subdued. We are going rowing on this canal."

The man in charge of the boat gave them a good natured send off from the shore.

"Better row down that way!" he shouted. "It's lots shadier. Your wife'll like it better!"

Miss Weston, her face crimson, talked volubly about the luxuriant foliage on the edges of the canal. The professor rowed abstractedly. Finally he rested on his oars and looked at her intently.

"That man evidently thought I was old enough to marry," he said slowly.

"Don't notice him. He seems very ignorant," she said rather dervously.

"I think I like that man," meditatively. "There's only one thing I have against him. I would like to sit by you and ask you what you think of his suggestion, and he has given us a boat with a round bottom. It's so wabbly to move around in."

Miss Weston turned still more crimson, and she remained silent.

The professor, taking his chances, stepped gingerly across and sat beside her. "That man called you my wife. It sounded great. I wish you would tell me you liked it," he said, the youthful look becoming more apparent in his face."

"But the girls would think we were such old fossils"—she commenced.

"Fossils! Who says fossils?" he demanded happily. "We know how young we are. There never was any one so young as I am right this minute, dear girl," he said, bending toward her.

The boat lurched, and she grasped his arm frantically. "I—I think you had better not try that again while we're in this wabbly boat," she said breathlessly.

Burbank's Opportunity.

Luther Burbank's early life in California was attended by many hard experiences. He was very poor and was obliged to take any work that came to hand. He cleaned out chicken coops, helped in market gardens, got an odd job here and another there, passed through a very severe illness, went "on the tramp" for work until finally he was able to start a little nursery on his own account. Then he was on his own ground with a fair start. To outsiders he seemed an honest, hard-working young fellow who might make his living, but not much more. Then all at once he did something that made those who knew about it look at him. An order came for 20,000 young prune trees. Could he fill it in nine months? He hadn't a prune tree on his place, and how was he going to supply 20,000 in nine months? He got together all the men and boys he could find to plant almonds for him. They grew rapidly. When they were ready he had 20,000 prune buds ready for them, and in a short time the prunes were budded into the growing almonds, and before the time was up the trees were delivered to the delighted ranchman.—Circle Magazine.

A good way to get on in the world is to make people think you are doing it.—New York Press.

Full Faith in the Doctor.

A young farm laborer called one market day at the registrar's office to record his father's death. The registrar asked the date of death.

"Well, father ain't dead yet," was the reply, "but he will be dead before morning, and I thought it would save me another journey if you would put it down now."

"Oh, that won't do at all," said the registrar. "Why, your father may take a turn before morning and recover."

"Ah, no, he won't," said the young laborer. "Doctor says he won't, and he knows what he's given father."—Liverpool Mercury.

Irish Wit.

As Sir Walter Scott was riding with a friend near Abbotsford he came to a field gate, which an Irish beggar, who happened to be near, opened for him. Sir Walter was desirous of rewarding him by the present of sixpence, but found he had not so small a coin in his purse. "Here, my good fellow," said he; "here is a shilling for you, but, mind, you owe me sixpence." "God bless your honor!" exclaimed the Irishman. "May your honor live till I pay you!"

BOVRIL creates appetite

BOVRIL added to any dish gives it the delightful odor of roasting beef.

It makes your mouth water—puts your appetite on edge.

Its rich, beefy flavor, starts the gastric juices flowing, helping the digestive organs extract more nutrition from the food you eat.

BOVRIL is not a mere extract. It contains in concentrated form all the essence, substance and flavor of prime beef.

When tired out, try a little BOVRIL in a cup of boiling water, with a soda biscuit. 'Twill refresh and strengthen you.

All good cooks keep BOVRIL always on hand. There's not a day passes that it cannot help make some dish more palatable—more nourishing.

All good grocers sell BOVRIL.

ESTIMATES AND RESULTS

The evidence before the Royal Commission shewed that over 700 SUN LIFE policies had already matured and that in thirty-four per cent. of the cases the amounts originally estimated as likely to be received at the end of the terms, had been realized or exceeded. On all the cases combined the average amount paid had been about ninety-seven per cent. of the estimate. The management may be pardoned for being proud of this record. The estimates now in use since 1900 are lower than former ones, and premiums are higher, so that present estimates should certainly be realized. Statements were also filed showing that $108 is on hand for every $100 required to pay the amounts called for by the present estimates for every deferred profit policy on the books and this without taking into account the Company's great and increasingly valuable contingent fund. Our policyholders are therefore justified in being particularly optimistic in regard to the Company's probable future profits.

Some one has said "the true value of a life assurance policy must be gauged by the security of the protection given; if it proves to be a good investment, all the better: when both are shown, there is nothing on earth to equal it."

The security of the protection afforded by the Sun Life of Canada needs no comment and the profits paid—let our results tell their own forceful story.

High Lifes Meet Strathconas In The City League Opener

And Bridgenorth Will be Introduced To Lakefield—First Games On January 8th—The Schedule is Complete

TEAMS ARE CONFIDENT

The City Hockey League season of 1907—08 will be heralded in on Wednesday evening, Jan. 8th, when the Highlifes cross sticks with the Strathconas and the two suburban teams from the north—Lakefield and Bridgenorth—also meet for the first time. A meeting of the City Hockey League was held last night at the Examiner office when the chief business was the drawing up of the schedule. In the absence of the President, Mr. F. A. Clarke, the chair was occupied by the vice-president, Mr. C. G. Graham. Representatives were there from Lackfield, Norwood, Strathconas and Highlifes, including W W Leonard Quinn, W J Hurl, Fred Doherty, W Metheral and W Ross.

Some discussion took place on the advisability of allowing city league players from any team whether in the city or country to compete in the O. H.A. for a specified number of games without being disqualified from the city league ranks, but no specific action was taken. In any event the city league will stand by its constitution.

The work of drawing up the schedule was then proceeded with. Norwood secured the bye in the first draw so that they will not appear here before the 15th of January. The Highlifes were drawn against the Strathconas for the first game, so that hockey enthusiasts will see a great match as the opener.

The schedule in complete for is as follows:—

Jan. 8—
Highlifes vs. Strathconas.
Lakefield vs. Bridgenorth.

Jan. 15—
Norwood vs. Strathconas.
Bridgenorth vs. Highlifes.

Jan. 22—
Norwood vs. Bridgenorth.
Lakefield vs. Highlifes.

Jan. 29—
Strathconas vs. Bridgenorth.
Lakefield vs. Norwood.

Feb. 5—
Norwood vs. Highlifes.
Strathconas vs. Lakefield.

The question of the appointment of a referee was left over until the next meeting.

CURLING RINKS NOW READY

NO HOCKEY GAME ON FRIDAY

Queen's Men Are on Their Holidays and Team Cannot Come

There will be no hockey match on Friday night as expected. The St George's wanted a guarantee that was prohibitive, so far as Peterborough is concerned. President Graham was in telephone communication with Mr. McLaughlin of Morrisburg, secretary of Queen's University, and endeavoured to have the Collegians play here Friday night. Word was received from Mr. Crawford, captain of the team, that the players were all on their holidays and that it was impossible for them to come.

St. George's have offered the Strathconas $100 to go to Toronto New Year's night, but as Peterborough is playing its first game in Port Hope that night it was impossible to accept.

THE STRATHCONAS TO PRACTISE

Will be Out at Brock Street Rink To-morrow Morning

The Strathconas will practice from 10 to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning in the Brock street rink, and a full turnout is expected. There are only three more practices before the local O. H. A. team clash with Port Hope in the first game, and unless the team is in first class condition they will have no chance to register a win. The management of the rink has kindly consented to get the boys on in the morning instead of at the usual hour, which would be inconvenient on the holiday.

SPORTING NEWS AND VIEWS.....

The Highlifes hockey team will practice to-night between 7 and 8 o'clock and any player wishing to join the club is requested to turn out.

• • • •

The Edmonton senior hockey team turned out last night at Schaeffer's rink for another hard practice. There were about a dozen players out, all working hard. Whitcroft, the manager and captain, led the way. He says that the fancy stickhandling is dropping out of date. Now it is a case of get away and get away quick, pushing the puck before you, and when you come to the opposite defence to rely on a combination to get by. Harold Deeton was practising hard and seems to be in good condition. He is fast and accurate in his shooting. Dick Wilson was on the ice and has the faculty of being where he is wanted. If the puck goes near him you can expect a hot shot or goal. Shorty Campbell was also playing in the same style and was always Johnny on the spot. Billy Bamford got to the rink too late to practise, but will be seen at his old position of point at the next practice. There were a couple of kids playing also who, if they improve accordingly as they grow older, will be playing Stanley Cup hockey some day.—Bulletin.

"Fashion-Craft"

The Artistic View Point

¶ Rightly or wrongly "Fashion Craft" believes that its salesmen should be just as hard to please as its most fastidious customers.

¶ That is, none but men trained in clothes-knowledge can sell "Fasbion Craft" clothes.

¶ They must understand not only Fit, which is elementary knowledge, but color effect and pattern effect, so that their taste and judgement is used to the buyer's interest.

¶ Think what this means ---helping the customer to choose and not forcing him to buy.

The Commercial View Point

¶ The $15 suit has $15 worth of substantial wearing value and the appearance of higher priced garments.

¶ Every suit at whatever price is intended to emphasize one fact, that the "Fashion Craft" Clothing is a distinct type and that the wearer is getting the best a custom tailor can do---plus "Fashion Craft" distinction.

¶ Suit for suit---price for price "Fashion Craft" wins the confidence of good dressers.

Messrs. DAVIS-THOMPSON COMPANY, Limited,
Agents Guardian Assurance Co., Peterborough

Dear Sirs:—

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of cheque for $500.00 in full settlement of my loss by fire to Dwelling House at Garden Hill.

I appreciate the fair and liberal treatment which I have received from the Guardian Assurance Company, as well as from yourselves as Agents. It is a pleasure to do business with Agents who take a personal interest in your Insurance when a loss occurs.

Yours respectfully,

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. Morrow, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $5000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $5000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

NO SKATING AT RINK TO-NIGHT

Skaters Will Have a Chance on The Holiday, However

There will be no skating at Brock street rink to-night owing to the fact that the management has decided to keep the ice in good shape for the Christmas skaters to-morrow. The mild weather is not appreciated by the rink people but the efforts of Caretaker Thirnbeck have been successful in preserving an excellent sheet of ice and the big holiday crowd will find good skating to-morrow afternoon and evening. The rink will be opened in the afternoon at 2 o'clock and in the evening at 8 o'clock, and no doubt there will be an enormous crowd on hand during the day.

THE POOR CHILDREN'S SANTA CLAUS DISTRIBUTED MANY GOOD THINGS YESTERDAY

Mr. Geo. Cochrane, Agent of Children's Aid Society Visits 29 Homes With Baskets

UNINVITING CONDITIONS

Yesterday was a busy day for the Children's Aid Society officials, who look after the distribution of the baskets and presents among the poorer homes of the city. Mr. Geo. Cochrane, the Santa Claus of the poor children, was out bright and early, and lost no time in getting over the city. He travelled as far as Albert street in the south, and as far as Smithtown Hill on the north. East City also contained a number of homes visited, and several homes and many hearts were gladdened by his appearance with the things that make the Christmas dinner and day what it should be.

Mr. Cochrane visited no less than 29 homes himself, supplying baskets. In addition to these supplied from the contributions to the society, by the citizens, three were supplied by employees of the Cordage Company, and three by a private citizen.

Among the eatables distributed, were forty loaves of white bread, and thirty-five loaves of the durant variety.

Mr. Cochrane found a number of homes in need of charity. One home in the south end was particularly so. It contained no less than three men, two women and nine children, and only one of the thirteen has any work to do. He boarded with the two families, and the price of his board was the only means to sustenance in the household. Other homes were found in about the same condition, but of course they were greatly in the minority, taking into consideration the entire population of the city. The citizens of Peterborough, are, generally speaking, in a prosperous condition a fact which we should all be gratified to learn.

Groceries	$18 99
Meat	12 00
Bread	7 90
Six baskets.

How Christmas Day Was Celebrated In Peterborough

No One Went Hungry And The Day Was Quietly but Joyously Spent by the Residents of The City—Public Institutions

MANY RE-UNIONS HELD

Christmas in Peterborough, as usual, was marked by many family re-unions, and the day was spent joyously, if quietly. Many hundreds of Peterborough old boys and girls were home from north, south, east and west, to eat the Christmas turkey, and plum pudding beneath the family roof-tree, and the day brought gladness in the majority of Peterough homes.

There were services in the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches in the morning, and large congregations were present.

At the Protestant Home, House of Providence, and the two hospitals, preparations were made for a celebration of the day, and they were successfully carried out. The institutions were decorated for the occasion, and the poor and the ill were not allowed to forget that it was the time of "Peace on earth, good will to men." All were remembered in the gift giving and a quiet but happy time was spent.

Even the prisoners in the gaol were not forgotten. They had an elaborate dinner, in which plum pudding figured largely, and the Salvation Army sent up nuts, raisins, etc.

The Children's Aid Society brought Christmas cheer into many Peterborough homes which would otherwise have been decidedly gloomy. Many baskets of dainties and necessities were distributed and no one was allowed to go without some remembrance of the festive season. Substantial Christmas dinners being distributed wherver needed.

At the Salvation Army in the evening the annual presentation of gifts to the children took place, and the occasion was a joyous one. The arrival of the ship "Good-will" was greeted by a large crowd and in her cargo no one had been forgotten, and the Christmas spirit was seen everywhere. The army band spent the day in serenading the citizens, and substantial results were met with.

At the Mark street Sunday school the annual Christmas entertainment was largely attended and the presentation of the gifts from the tree brought gladness to the little ones.

The young people who were athletically inclined found several means of spending the day. The largest crowd that ever was present on an afternoon at the Brock street rink, was on hand yesterday and an enjoyable time was spent. The Jackson Park toboggan slide was well patronized during the afternoon and evening, several hundred taking advantage of the opportunity to enjoy this health giving pastime. Although the snow was rather heavy for such sports a number spent the day in snow shoeing and ski-ing.

As a holiday attraction the beautiful play, "Dora Thorne," a thorough favourite with local theatregoers was presented at two performances and both the matinee and evening presentations were greeted by large crowds.

MAN OF EIGHTY MURDERED BY HIS FARM EMPLOYEE

The Old Man in Night Dress Attempts to Stop a Quarrel And He is Shot Dead

MURDERER IN CUSTODY

Examiner Special.

Brampton, Dec. 26th. — James Curry, an old farmer, 80 years of age, was shot and instantly killed by his hired man, who was known as "Jack," about ten o'clock last night. Mr. Curry's son was alone with the hired man when he was threatened by the latter. The old man, hearing the noise, came into the room in his night gown, when the hired man turned the gun on him and shot and killed him. He then threatened the son, who grappled with him, when the second barrel was discharged into the ceiling. The murderer was finally overpowered and the neighbours were notified. He is an Englishman, about 27 years of age, and has been at the Curries a month. His name is unknown.

HAWK USED TALONS ON MAN'S WRIST

And Had to be Killed Before James O'Brien Could Get Released

Mr. Jas. O'Brien, a Dereo farmer, captured a live hawk on his farm the other day, but not before it had left a few marks of its talons on his wrist. The bird was heard creating consternation among the hens and Mr. O'Brien went out with the gun. He shot as the hawk was in the act of flying away with a chicken and and made a wing-wound. He captured the bird and carried it to the house where he had to kill it to get its claws from his flesh.

The hawk was a large representative of its class and also a rare specimen.

WINNERS OF THE DOLL AND TURKEY

The Competition Closed at Mr. Gordon's Meat Market on Tuesday

There was a large number present at Mr. Alex Gordon's meat market on Tuesday evening to witness the weighing of the big turkey, the weight of which had been estimated by scores of buyers at his store. Exactly at 9 o'clock, as advertised, an Examiner reporter lifted the weighty bird off the wall and placed it on the scale. He tipped it at exactly 24 lbs. 3 oz., and was won by Mr B. Larocque of the Montreal House, who had sized up the turkey on three occasions. The one that captured the trophy was 24 lbs. 2 oz.

Several of the estimates were amusing. Many ranged around 35 and 40 lbs., one was up to 85 lbs., but the top mark was arrived at when the estimated weight was placed at 120 lbs. by one of Mr. Gordon's purchasers.

The "naming of the doll" contest proved to be too much for the competitors. "Miss Ontario" was the name in the envelope, but there was not lucky person among the purchasers. Almost every name, including many of those usually attributed to the boys, was there, although the individual neatly dressed and sitting in the baby carriage had every appearance of representing the opposite gender.

The names were then placed in a basket, and the lucky winner of the doll was Mrs. Hall, the card with her name being drawn by little Miss Irene Hoenan.

Mr. Gordon's store is handsomely decorated for the Christmas season and presents a very attractive appearance.

NOMINATION FOR SCHOOL TRUSTEES

The Separate School Board Elected By Acclamation

Nominations of trustees of the R. C. Separate School Board were held at noon to-day at St. Peter's School. As there is no competition in any of the wards, those nominated are therefore elected by acclamation.

The following nominations were made:

Jos. Gosselin, for First Ward.
H. Carveth, Second Ward.
J. R. Burns, Third Ward.
Jos. Hickey, Fourth Ward.
J. Primeau, Fifth Ward.
Wm. Collins, Fifth Ward, who takes the place of Jas. Clancy, resigned.

Only the required number were nominated, hence there will be no election.

OBITUARY

VINCENT EARL CLANCY

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. M. J Clancy will learn with regret of the death of their son, Vincent Earl, aged three months. The deceased child had been suffering only a short time and passed away about noon today.

The funeral will take place to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock from the family residence, 64 Aylmer street to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

PATRICK MEAGHER

At ten o'clock this morning at his residence, 84 Lansdowne street, there passed away in the person of Mr. Patrick Meagher, one of Peterborough most highly respected residents and his demise will be felt with deep regret by all who knew him.

The deceased had been ailing for some two years with heart disease and dropsy. He has not been feeling very well during the last few days, but this morning he got up at his usual hour feeling quite strong. About five minutes to ten he felt tired and went to his bed to lie down. His condition grew worse, and at ten o'clock he passed away.

Mr. Meagher was 68 years of age. He came to this country from Tipperary, Ireland, at the age of ten years. He landed in Montreal, and came directly to Peterborough, where he has remained ever since. He was a Liberal in politics and a member of St. Peter's cathedral.

The deceased leaves behind him his wife, two daughters, Ada, at home, and Mrs. Fred Cook, of East City. He also leaves five sons, John of Chicago, Thomas, of London, Harry of Sudbury, and Patrick and William, Irving at home.

The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

RE-UNION OF THE COX FAMILY

The Largest in History—Women of 90 Present

The largest home coming of children for Christmas, ever held by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cox, was this year, when their seven sons, with their wives and children, and one daughter with her husband and family, of Toronto, formed a happy re-union for the Christmas Day.

The most pleasing feature of the occasion was the presence of Mr. Cox's mother, who is an exceptionally brisk old lady of ninety-three years, who was surrounded by her ten great grandchildren of her sons' family.

A HOUSE BURNED AT HEALEY'S FALLS

Big Loss Sustained by Christopher Keller —It Could Not be Saved

Examiner Special

Harwood, Dec. 25.—On Tuesday about noon the home of Mr. Christopher Keller at Healeys Falls was discovered by fire. Mr. Keller was at the barn when he noticed the house enveloped in flames. The fire had made so much progress that it was impossible to save anything.

THE CITY CLERK WAS SURPRISED

The Court of Revision Made Him the Recipient of a Presentation

The members of the Court of Revision, Messrs. Wm. Langford, A E Dixon and B. Morrow, sprung a surprise on City Clerk Armstrong on Tuesday afternoon when they waited upon him to render a testimony of their appreciation of his efficient and painstaking work in connection with the Court. The many appeals against the assessment this year has made more work for Mr. Armstrong which has been done in his usual careful manner. The City Clerk was presented with a handsome carving set and a smoking set, and acknowledged the presentation with a few suitable words of thanks.

A FIRE WAS AVERTED IN CAVANVILLE

Discovered in Carriage Shop Before Much Damage Was Done

Cavanville, Dec. 26th.—(Special.)— On Tuesday morning fire was discovered in Tenney & Sons, Carriage Works. The fire had started during the night but owing to the fact that there was no draft it did not break into a blaze. A hole was burned through both floors and most of the rigs were slightly damaged by the smoke. The shop was filled with cutters and buggies and the loss would have been very large had the fire been more serious. Among the damaged vehicles are several valuable rubber-tired buggies.

SLOW PROGRESS

There will be millennial conditions of rejoicing when the Conservatives come into power in the Dominion; but it looks as if the event would not come till the millennium dawns, that is, judged by the progress they are making in the bye-elections. As previously remarked, of 42 bye-elections since the last general elections, the Liberals have won 33 and the Conservatives, nine; and, as a matter of fact, the Conservatives have not made a net gain of a single seat. The disruption of the Liberal party is a minus quantity. If the Conservatives ever had a chance for the justification of their claim, that the public were withdrawing their confidence from the Liberal Government, it was in, at least, two of the bye-elections on Monday. The constituency of Ottawa was long a Conservative stronghold. Since Confederation, seventeen contests have been held in Ottawa, and in fourteen of them, Conservatives were elected. Beginning in 1867, with a Conservative majority of 949, the Conservatives held the riding until 1896. If there were anything in the Conservative ghost stories of corruption and graft, of which Ottawa is described as the centre, the effect would be shown here. Centre York has a similar history. From Confederation to 1903 the riding elected only one Liberal—Blaine, in 1872. In all the other elections the Conservative was elected by large majorities, continuously, until 1903, when Mr. now Senator, Campbell, won out by a small majority. The Conservative candidate in the recent election, was the strongest possible, immensely popular, the son of the most popular member of the strongest "Tory" riding in Canada. If the leaven of popular discontent with the Liberal Government, is existent, it should have made a raise in these two constituencies. The third bye-election victory, was in Labelle, formerly represented by Mr. Henri Bourassa, the stormy petrel of Quebec politics. Elected as a Liberal and supporter of the Government, Mr. Bourassa subsequently went "again the Government;" the Conservatives patronized him, and patted him on the back, and he was hailed as the medium of destruction of the Liberal party, and of the triumph of the Conservatives in Quebec. Mr. Bourassa, with a bravado, which his Conservative admirers are slow to imitate, resigned Labelle to contest Bellechasse for the Local Legislature. He went down to defeat, and the Conservatives, far from imitating Mr. Bourassa's courage, in resigning Labelle to contest Bellechasse, failed to put up a candidate, and, as in St. John's, Brockville and elsewhere, allowed the seat to go to a Liberal, Mr. Major, by acclamation. The fates, represented by the electors of Ottawa and Centre York, are against the Government. The people take no stock in Conservative scandal stories. They know when they are well governed, when prosperity attends good government, and they show not the slightest inclination to exchange a certain good for an almost equally certainly evil.

The new Province of Saskatchewan is building parliament buildings of the English renaissance style of architecture. It is hoped that they will not, like Toronto's city buildings, be of the re-nuisance style.

Local Option Ruins Young Men

Mr. J. R. Brown, a leading Owen Sound grocer, says: "Local Option has created more drinking among young men than there ever was under a good license system." Mr. Samuel Lloyd, a large wholesaler of farm produce, says: "Local Option has been detrimental to the interests of Owen Sound, commercially and morally." Mayor Kennedy says: "Property in Owen Sound has been lessened in value because of Local Option." Mark your ballot against the by-law and do your town more justice.

CONCILIATION

In many a long day there has been no better legislation, enacted by the Laurier Government in the interests of both labour and capital, than what is known as the Lemieux Act. It has a very gratifying record of success in preventing and settling labour disputes, to the great advantage of wage earners and the benefit of the capital involved. The same success has attended the British Conciliation (Trade Disputes) Act of 1896.

During the ten years the board, appointed under the Act, has been called on to assist in settling 232 labour disputes and in 168 cases with success. Of these latter 140 were joint applications, 60 came from workpeople only and 22 from employers only. In the early years of the act applications as a rule were made by one side only, but in later years they have been mainly joint, and this is rightly regarded as evidence that the value of official meditation is steadily gaining recognition. There are 209 conciliation boards now in existence in the United Kingdom and they are engaged all the time in adjusting differences affecting the trades they regulate. In 1906 no less than 473 cases were settled through these boards by conciliation and 224 by arbitration.

When the similar, and it is thought better, Canadian Act, shall have had as long a period of operation, it will have, judged by the past short history of the Lemieux Act, a very creditable record of beneficent effect.

What a Joy to Feel Well

To you know what it is to feel well — to feel young, hearty and vigorous—to enjoy work and to look forward with hope to the future? This is the way you will feel if you revitalise your wasted and depleted nervous system by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Not in any miraculous way but when your system has been gradually built up by this great restorative treatment.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Last year there were added to the railway mileage of Canada 723 miles, almost two miles per day for every day in the year, Sundays included.

The Mail and Empire blames Mimico for not electing the Conservative candidate in Centre York. It would appear that the people of Mimico are not quite insane enough to vote the Conservative ticket.

To leave a baby on a doctor's door-step, as was done yesterday in the case of a Toronto doctor, is both an outrageous offence against medical etiquette, and a radical reversal of the stork's proceedings.

It will long be to the credit of the late Hon. J. Israel Tarte that in one clause of his will he was able to compress a prominent feature of his life. He said to his sons: "Remain French and Catholic, and loyal to Queen and Empire."

The Mail and Empire is improving—becoming moderate in statement and fair in argument. In a very temperately worded, short article, it shows that if the Conservative candidate in West York had got enough votes he would have been elected.

The merchants of Peterborough, as a rule, have had the best Christmas trade in years. Yet New York, under the Haman's gallows, high tariff of Mr. Guerney and Mr. Cockshutt, has had the dullest Christmas trade in years. The people are not prosperous—they buy less or buy cheaper articles.

There are good times in many of our manufacturing industries. The Sturgeon Falls pulp and paepr mills, which had, by inefficient management, or otherwise, passed into the hands of a receiver, are to be put into operation again, orders having been offered for the entire output of the mills for an indefinite period.

Judge Taschereau, of Quebec, has, in a recent judgment, decided that a newspaper may be held liable for libel damages by publishing court documents, and that even the libellous statements of a lawyer in open court cannot be printed with impunity. One of two things should be done—lawyers must be civilized, or the law changed.—If newspapers have not to remove to Russia to realize the liberty of the press.

THE IDEAL WIFE

Shapes the Destiny of Men—The Influence of a Healthy Woman Cannot Be Overestimated.

Mrs. Bessie Ainsley

Seven-eighths of the men in this world marry a woman because she is beautiful in their eyes—because she has the qualities which inspire admiration, respect and love.

There is a beauty in health which is more attractive to men than mere regularity of feature. The influence of women glorious in the possession of perfect physical health upon men and upon the civilization of the world could never be measured. Because of them men have attained the very heights of ambition; because of them even thrones have been established and destroyed.

What a disappointment then, to see the fair young wife's beauty fading away before a year passes over her head! A sickly, half-dead-and-alive woman, especially when she is the mother of a family, is a damper to all joyousness in the home, and a drag upon her husband.

The cost of a wife's constant illness is a serious drain upon the funds of a household, and too often all the doctoring does no good.

If a woman finds her energies are flagging, and that everything tires her, dark shadows appear under her eyes, her sleep is disturbed by horrible dreams; if she has backache, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness, or despondency, she should take means to build her system up at once by a tonic with specific powers, such as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This great remedy for women has done more in the way of restoring health to the women of America than all other medicines put together. It is the safeguard of woman's health.

Following we publish, by request, a letter from a young wife.

Mrs. Bessie Ainsley, of 611 South 10th Street, Tacoma, Wash., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Ever since my child was born I have suffered, as I hope few women ever have, with inflammation, female weakness, bearing-down pains, backache and wretched headaches. It affected my stomach so that I could not enjoy my meals, and half my time was spent in bed.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman, and I feel so grateful that I am glad to write and tell you of my marvelous recovery. It brought me health, new life and vitality."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Ainsley it will do for other women who are in poor health and ailing.

Its benefits begin when its use begins. It gives strength and vigor from the start, and surely makes sick women well and robust.

Remember Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for the greatest number of actual cures of woman's ills. This fact is attested to by the thousands of letters from grateful women which are on file in the Pinkham laboratory.

Women should remember that a cure for all female diseases actually exists, and that cure is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have symptoms you don't understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

PRESENTATION AT C.G.E. WORKS

Foreman of The Armature Assembly Dept. Remembered

A pleasant function took place, shortly after six o'clock on Tuesday evening, when Mr. J. F. Morrison, foreman of the armature assembly department of the C. G. E., was presented with a gold chain and locket by the employees who are under his charge. Mr. W. Sayles made the presentation, and Mr. Percy Richardson read the following address:

To Mr. J. F. Morrison, Foreman,

Dear Sir and Friend, — We, the boys of the armature assembly, have met together to express to you in a small degree our appreciation of the kindly feeling and harmony that exists between us. We feel that it is not only a pleasure but a privilege to work in company with a man of such sterling qualities and superior ability.

We wish you to accept this small gift, not on account of its intrinsic value, but as a mark of our high esteem.

We all join heartily in wishing you a very very Christmas and a bright and prosperous New Year.

May you live as long as you want,
And never want as long as you live!

Armature Assembly, Canadian General Electric Company, Limited,
Peterborough, Dec. 24, 1907.

Mr. Morrison made an appropriate reply, thanking the men for this evidence of their esteem, and expressing the wish that their relations would continue to be of the happiest.

A POPULAR TEACHER HONOURED

Miss Hamilton Presented With Jewel Case by Pupils of Her School

On the last day of the term the pupils of S. S. No. 2, North Monaghan, took advantage of the opportunity to show the esteem in which Miss Hamilton, the teacher, is held by them. The popular teacher was presented with a burnished gold jewel case and the following address:

Peterborough, Dec. 16, 1907.

Miss Hamilton.

Dear Teacher—I have been requested by the girls and boys of the school to offer you this slight token of affection and regard.

I cannot tell you how delighted I am to be the means of conveying to you the expression of our united love. What we offer you is a poor symbol of our feelings, but we know you will receive it kindly as a simple indication of the attachment which each one of us cherishes for you in our hearts. You have made our lessons pleasant to us, so pleasant that it would be ungrateful to call them tasks. We know we have often tried your patience and forbearance, but you have dealt gently with us in our waywardness, teaching us by example as well as by precept, the advantages of kindness and self-control. We shall look back to this school in after life, not as a place of pennance, but as a scene of mental enjoyment where the paths of learning were strewn with flowers, and whenever memory recalls our school days our hearts will warm towards you as they do to-day. I have been requested by my school mates not to address you formally, but as a beloved and respected friend. In that light, dear teacher, we all regard you.

Please accept with our little present out earnest good wishes. May you always be as happy as you have endeavoured to make your pupils and nothing better could be wished for them then to be always as faithful as you have been in your duty to them.

Wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

PUPILS OF THE SCHOOL.

PRESENTATION IN NORTH SMITH

Mr. Kennedy and Family Go To Lakefield With Their Time

WERE POPULAR RESIDENTS

On Friday evening, the 20th inst., a most enjoyable time was spent at the home of Mr. A. E. Kennedy, of North Smith, when about fifty of his friends assembled to pay their respects and to bid farewell to the family prior to their prospective departure for Lakefield, where they will reside in future. Conversation, games and music lent wings to the hours, and when the evening was well advanced the members of the family were called upon to occupy chairs at the head of the spacious sitting-room and were presented with a beautiful mantel clock with cathedral gong, accompanied by the following address:

Mr. Kennedy,

Dear Friend,—There are ties and bonds in life which it is hard to break; when hearts are wrenched and the deeper chords of being are smitten with sorrow and regrets, which often find their fitting expression in sighs and tears. Such it is when lives, which have long been linked together in the spirit of brotherhood and helpfulness, which have been ruled by common interests, aims and hopes, are drawn apart.

As the hour of your departure from our midst draws nearer it is impressed upon us more and more clearly what a distinct loss is ours, and that there will be a vacant place amongst us which it will be most difficult to fill.

You have ever been an active force in Wesley Church, one whose counsel was always prized, characterized, as it was, by shrewd foresight and sound judgment. Your motives were always felt to have been prompted by a rare disregard of selfish gain and a strict and staunch adherence to the path of honour and truth. Such sterling qualities of character could not but prove a wholesome and sustaining influence in the church and in the community.

No less esteemed is the modest, unassuming disposition of your helpmeet and daughter, with their readiness to promote the interests of all our undertakings.

As a small token of remembrance and esteem and of our gratitude for your valued services we beg of you to accept this clock, with the hearty wish that it may chime off many happy hours for you all and that God's richest blessings may attend you in your new home.

Signed in behalf of the congregation of Wesley Church,

Stephen Harrison, William J. Pearson, Aaron Davis, Absolom Nrothoy —Stewards.

After all had partaken of refreshments the pleasant occasion was brought to a close by singing, hand in hand, that friendship song, "Auld Lang Syne."

FORGOT TO ASK FOR THE RAILS

Peterborough Boy Has a Telephone Message From Santa Claus

Santa Claus, that magnanimous giver of Christmas gifts to the young made his usual rounds on Christmas eve and gladdened many a heart and home. A true story is told of a conversation he had with a young Peterborough boy of five, by telephone on Tuesday. The little fellow is proud of his ability to talk by 'phone and congratulated himself on this ability when Kris Kringle asked for him particularly the day before Christmas. He was requested by the venerable old man to name his desires—the gifts he wanted placed in his stocking by the fireside—and he was ready with his answer like most boys are at Christmas times.

"I want an engine, a baggage car, a caboose and a whole train of cars along with them," he said. "All right," was the answer, and the boy hung up the receiver. A moment later he informed his mother he had forgotten to ask Santa Claus for the railway track on which to run the cars.

MEETING OF THE GALWAY COUNCIL

Arrangements Made For The Polling — Accounts to be Paid

The council met in December, with all the members present. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

It was decided, on motion of William Hunter, seconded by J. Clark, that the election be held at Mr. John McGee's house for polling subdivision No. 1, and at the house of Mr. John Jackson for polling subdivision No. 2, Mr. Robt. White to be one of the deputy returning officers.

An account was received from the Peterborough Times for furnishing collector's roll and assessment roll. The clerk was notified to ask the Times to send its account to the county treasurer.

A bylaw was passed on motion of Mr. Clark and seconded by Mr. Curtin, appointing John McKinley collector of taxes for the year 1907. He was also appointed assessor for the year 1908.

The following accounts were ordered to be paid:

Daniel Sheehan, salary as collector and assessor	67 50
Dan. Sheehan, attending Court of Revision, $1.50; equalizing schools, and postage	3 00
P. Collins, postage, $2; express on voters' lists and assessment rolls, and attending court, revising voters' lists	6 80
Chas. Coben, taking patient to House of Refuge	11 00
John Clark, council fees	4 50
John Jackson, council fees	4 50
Chas. Coben, council fees	4 50
David Curtin, council fees	3 00
Wm. Hunter, council fees	1 50

Council then adjourned.

THIS BOY WAS BORN WITHOUT EARS

Ten Years Old Now and Listens Through His Mouth

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 26. — (Special.) —Although little John Heltzel, of Jersey City, was born with no ears, he is getting along pretty well without them. He is ten years old now, and the specialists here on deafness are wondering how it is that he can hear. When his lips are closed he is unable to understand, but if his mouth is open it's all right. He was for a time a pupil in the public schools in his native city, but the other youngsters were inclined to make fun of him, so his parents sent him here to the deaf institute, where it is doubtful if he will be allowed to stay, as he is not the genuine deaf article.

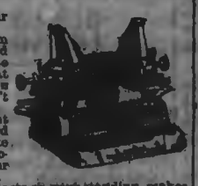
YOU CAN EASILY OPERATE THIS TYPEWRITER YOURSELF



Don't wear your correspondent.

Don't write him anything by hand that takes him time to make out that may leave him in doubt, that he can't easily read.

And don't fill out legal papers or card memos—or make out accounts or hotel menus in your own hand writing.

It looks bad, reflects on your standing, makes people think you can't afford a stenographer, and sometimes ambiguous.

You can write out your letters—make out an abstract—fill in an insurance policy—enter your card memo!—make out your accounts, or hotel menus—or do any kind of writing you need, on any kind, size or thickness of paper, and space any way you want on

The OLIVER Typewriter

The Standard Visible Writer

You can write any of these things yourself if you do not happen to have a stenographer.

For you can easily learn with a little practice to write just as rapidly, and as perfectly as an expert operator on the Oliver. Because the Oliver is the simplified typewriter. And you can see every word you write. Is past 60% more durable than any other typewriter, because it has about 5/6 less wearing points than most other typewriters.

5/6 easier to write with than these other complicated, intricate machines that require "learning"—technical knowledge—long practice and special skill to operate.

Then machines which cannot be adjusted to any special space—with which it is impossible to write abstracts, insurance policies, or odd-size documents except you buy expensive special attachments requiring experts to operate.

You can adjust the Oliver to any reasonable space—you can write on any reasonable size and thickness of paper, send out to the very edge, without the aid of any expensive attachment or special skill, and your work will be neat appearing, legible and clear.

For the Oliver is the typewriter for the doctor the lawyer, the insurance agent, the merchant the hotel proprietor—or any man that does his own writing.

Family Spent Christmas Night In The Police Cells

Caused a Row on Smith Street—Were Taken to The Police Cells in a Cab—Children Cried With Hunger

GO TO BUFFALO TO-DAY

There was a sound of revelry by night at the corner of Smith and Stewart street, known as the "Gypsy Settlement." The inhabitants of the settlement had imbibed a little too freely during the day, and as the night wore on the men became abusive to the women and children. The result was a big row started, and P. Co. Adams and Meharry had to be sent to the scene.

When the officers reached the district, they saw a woman, Mrs. Williamson, flying through the streets with a young child in her arms. She was yelling "Murder!" at the top of her voice, and finally sought refuge in the house of a neighbour. The police went into the woman's house, and found the husband in an intoxicated condition, and raising a big disturbance. The police took Williamson to the police station and sent Mrs. Williamson and her family down in a cab. When the children reached the police station, they were crying with hunger, and meals had to be furnished the whole family, who spent the night in the cells.

At the police court this morning, Williamson appeared on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. His face was badly marked, and his hair was in a dishevelled condition. The mother and children also appeared in court.

Williamson pleaded hard to get off and said that he was going to Buffalo. He said he started off yesterday for the G. T. R. station, and met some friends who had some whiskey with them. He left his valise at the station and went home. He told His Worship that he would never appear again. He said the whole family would leave to-day for Buffalo, if they were allowed to go.

His Worship allowed Williamson to go, but he had to pay $1.75 for the expenses of the cab and the meals provided for the family.

The Trim Ship "Good Will" Reaches Her Port Safely

Arrived at The Barracks Last Night With Santa Claus As a Distinguished Passenger — Cargo of Gifts For the Little Folks

A VERY SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR

The trim ship "Good Will," flying the colours of the Salvation Army, and with Captain Albert Blake at the helm, arrived safely at her moorings at the Salvation Army barracks last night and was welcomed by a large crowd, who watched with interest the discharging of her big cargo. The "Good Will" brought a distinguished visitor, no other than Santa Claus, who appeared to stand the hardships of the weather exceedingly well, and who was given a hearty welcome to Peterborough, with which he appeared to be quite pleased.

The local Salvation Army corps decided to make an innovation in the manner of distributing the presents to the children and the plan carried out last night was a complete success in every way. The ship, which was designed and built by Mr. Arthur Blake, who has been a sailor for over a score of years, was a complete model of a full-rigged perfectly working, sailing craft, which presented a very handsome appearance when flying the national flag and the yellow, red and blue colours of the Salvation Army. When the curtains were drawn back the "Good Will" was revealed in all her glory, while a cleverly designed light house showed her the way into safe anchorage.

Mr. Blake in nautical rig, made a good captain, and the crew was composed of five girls dressed as sailors. They were Miss Naish, the Misses Whiffer, Miss Ethel Card, and Miss Carter.

Santa Claus in the person of Mr. F. Gray, was introduced by Capt. Blake, and the first presentation was to Sergt.-Major R. C. Braund, one of the most popular officers of the corps, who was presented with a handsome travelling case, while an address was read by Staff-Capt. Goodwin. Then followed presentations to the children.

Prior to the arrival of the ship a splendid programme was rendered as follows:

Opening song from War Cry by Staff-Capt. Goodwin.
Prayer, Ensign Webber.
Introduction of chairman, Staff-Capt. Goodwin.
Song by school, "Welcome Christmas."
Recitation, "The Greater," Victor Boorman.
Solo "Robin Red Breast," Willie Leighman.
Dialogue, "Six old Maids," by six little girls.
Recitation, "The Goblins 'ill git ye," Chrissie Montgomery.
Piano duet, Miss Braund and Master Braund.
Vocal duet, "Snowflakes," Dolly Gray and Elsie Northcote.
Dialogue, "The Tramp." Misses Nash and Wiffin.
Drill, "Star drill," six girls.
Dialogue, "Two and Two are Four," Caroline and May Lang.
Drill, "Dumb bells," six girls.
Instrumental duet, brass, Masters Boorman and Richardson.
Recitation, "My Curls," Laura Hedge.

Great amusement was caused during the evening by the reading of a wireless telegram from Captain Blake to the effect that the "Good-Will" had arrived safely at the Lift Lock, with captain, crew and passengers in good health.

The hall was adorned for the occasion with evergreens, Christmas trees and many coloured flags. The work was done by the Peterborough Decorating Company, to whom the corps is very grateful for their kindness.

The affair was most successful, and the cruise of the gift-laden ship, "Good-Will," and her genial captain and generous passenger will long be remembered by the large crowd in attendance.

AN OCTOGENARIAN HAS PASSED AWAY

Death of Robt. Brown, Father of Dr. Brown, a Pioneer of Alnwick

Death suddenly called away one of the oldest and most esteemed residents of Alnwick township, Northumberland county, on Saturday last in the person of Robert Brown, father of Dr. W. E. Brown of Peterborough. The deceased was in the best of health up to the day he passed away, and his death was totally unexpected by his friends, although he had reached the venerable old age of 81 years. Mr. Brown lived in the village of Roseneath, and on Saturday drove out to his farm to visit his tenant with regard to business. It is though he over-exerted himself, and on coming home complained of feeling ill. He retired to his bed, and in an hour had passed away, his death being due to a clot of blood on the heart.

The late Mr. Brown was born in Elgin, Moray Firth, Scotland, in the year 1827. He came out to Canada at the age of five years, and in the early days of his life lived at Cobourg, but spent the greater part of it in Alnwick as a farmer.

He is survived by four brothers and one sister, five sons and two daughters. The sons are George of Ottilia; Dr. Brown, city; A. J. of Duluth, Minn.; Charles of Roseneath and Walter Brown, D.D.S., of Toronto, and the daughters are Misses Eliza and Annie, at home.

The funeral took place on Monday at 2 o'clock to the Roseneath cemetery.

WINDSOR AND PORT HOPE IN RACE

Here Was an Opportunity For Local Council and Board of Trade

Windsor, Dec., 25.—(Special.)— The Champion Rivet Company, a Cleveland concern, has decided to establish a branch in Canada, and Windsor has been highly favoured for a location. It is authoritatively stated that the choice lies between Windsor and Port Hope, Ont. It is given out the company will employ about 500 hands.

Since neither the Council nor the Board of Trade have been successful this year in landing any large industry, the above seems a capital opportunity for somebody to "get busy." Peterborough has a place for a good many large industries and it Pwe reap we must sow—a crop of alert and intelligent effort.

Popular Cure for Croup

Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, as a cure for croup, will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success. It is wonderfully prompt in relieving the cough, clearing the air passages and soothing the excited nerves. Many mothers who realize the suddenness with which croup comes on keep this great medicine promptly on hand for use in case of emergency.

WEDDING BELLS.

HARRISON-HARDING

A pretty holiday wedding was celebrated yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Harding, Bethune street, when their daughter Mabel Beatrice was united in marriage to Robert Harrison, son of Mr. Jos. Harrison, Cavan. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. R. Webb at 2.30 p.m., in the presence of about fifty relatives and friends of the young couple.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was dressed in white organdie and wore a veil. She was attended by her sister, Miss Nettie Harding, who looked very pretty in pale blue. Mr. Arthur Harrison, brother of the groom, was best man. After the wedding a dainty luncheon was served and Mr. and Mrs. Harrison received the congratulations of their friends.

They left on the 5.16 C.P.R. train for Toronto, and after New Years will go to Lamonte, Alberta, where they will reside. The bride's going away suit was of navy blue broadcloth, with hat to match.

Miss Mabel Mitchell, of Lindsay, played a bridal march as the wedding party entered the drawing room. The wedding party entered the drawing room. During the ceremony Miss M. Renwick, of Keene sang in splendid voice, "Oh Fair, Oh Sweet, Oh Holy."

Many beautiful gifts were received testifying to the esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Harrison are held. Among those present were friends from London, Markham, Port Hope and Belleville.

LILLICO-GILGOUR

Among the pretty December weddings celebrated on Christmas Day was that solemnized at the home of Mr. W. G. Gilgour, Water street, when his daughter, Miss Cora, was united in marriage to Mr. Richard Torrance Lillico, son of Mr. Richard Lillico of North Monaghan. The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock p.m. by the Rev. H. M. Manning, in the presence of about fifty guests, the relatives and other friends of the bride and groom. The bride was attired in a pretty costume of crepe de chine over silk. She wore the bridal veil and orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Annie Gilgour, who wore a similar costume of crepe de chine over silk and carried pink roses, and by Miss Gladys Hewic, the flower girl, dressed in allover lace over taffeta silk. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Everett Lillico, while the wedding march was played by Miss Vina Gilgour, a cousin of the bride.

After the ceremony the usual wedding supper was partaken of. The bride and groom were the recipients of many handsome presents, showing the esteem in which they are held by their many friends. The groom's present to the bride was a pearl brooch, to the bridesmaid a pearl ring, and to the pianist a pearl brooch.

Among the out-of-town guests present were Miss Hilda Lillico, trained nurse from Cleveland; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lillico, Toronto, and Miss A. J. Huston, Midland.

Mr. and Mrs. Lillico will reside in North Monaghan.

COMSTOCK-GARBUTT

An exceedingly pretty wedding was solemnized on Christmas Day at 2 o'clock when two of Peterborough's most popular young people plighted their troth. It was the marriage of Miss Edith E. Garbutt, youngest daughter of Mr. John Garbutt, "Brookside," Smith, and Mr. Manson Comstock, manager of the Peterborough Hardware Company, and second son of Mr. Aaron Comstock. The wedding took place at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. E. F. Mason, 740 Water street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. R. Webb, pastor of the Murray street Baptist church.

Punctually at the hour appointed the bride, leaning on the arm of her father, entered the drawing-room and took her place beneath an arch of evergreens, from which was hung a Christmas bell. The parlour was very tastefully decorated, the colour scheme being pink and white. The bride was assisted by Miss Dolly Comstock, sister of the groom, and little Miss Clare Mason, niece of the bride, acted as flower girl. The groom was ably supported by Mr. Harry Morgan.

After the ceremony and hearty congratulations had been bestowed upon the bride and groom, an adjournment was made to the dining-room, where a sumptuous repast was partaken of. The dining-room was also prettily arranged with crimson and holly.

The young couple are very popular among a wide circle of friends, and a large array of beautiful and costly presents was received. The groom's gift to the bride was a sunburst of pearls, to the bridesmaid a gold signet ring, to the flower girl two gold bars set with pearls, and to the groomsman gold cuff links. The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a gold cross.

Mr. and Mrs. Comstock left on the 4.48 C.P.R. train for a trip to New York, Troy and Albany, followed by the good wishes of a host of friends for a long and happy married life. On their return they will reside on Sherbrooke street.

The guests were composed of only the members of the two families represented. The wedding dinner was served by Mr. T. Hooper in admirable style.

PERCER-NICHOLS

Buckhorn, Dec. 25.—One of the prettiest weddings that has been witnessed in this neighbourhood in some time was that celebrated at "Green Oak," Mr. Thos. Nichol's residence in Harvey township. The bride was his daughter, Miss Mary Ethel Nichols, and the groom was Mr. John Purser of Hall's Bridge. Rev. C. M. Farney, pastor of the Anglican church, performed the ceremony in the drawing-room in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. Mr. J. P. Cookson was best man, and Misses Birdie and Ollie Nichols were very pretty bridesmaids. The wedding was performed at 4.30 o'clock, the bride being given away by her father. The wedding march was played by Mr. Dickson Nichols of Peterborough.

The bride's wedding dress was white d'esprit over white silk with applique trimmings and lovers' knots of duchess baby ribbon. She also wore a veil and the conventional orange blossoms.

After a sumptuous wedding luncheon had been partaken of the young couple left for Hamilton and Buffalo on their honeymoon.

They received many presents and the well wishes of their friends in the neighbouring townships. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold harp brooch set with pearls, and to the bridesmaids gold bracelets, and a fleur-de-lis pin to the groomsman. There were many people present from Peterborough, Hamilton and Buffalo.

Mr. and Mrs. Purser will reside at Buckhorn, where Mr. Purser is proprietor of a general store.

ELLIS-RAY

On Wednesday evening a quiet wedding was solemnized when the marriage took place of Miss Annie Ellis, daughter of Mrs. K. P. Ellis, Harvey street, and Mr. Albert W. Ray. The Rev. J. R. Webb officiated, and the ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's mother. The contracting parties were unattended. The bride was handsomely gowned in a travelling suit of blue cloth with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of carnations and roses. The wedding march was sympathetically played by Miss May McDonald of Manilla. The bride received numerous presents, showing her popularity among a wide circle of friends. She received a clock from the Auburn Sunday School, where she has been organist for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray left last night for a honeymoon trip to Niagara and other points, and on their return will take up their residence on Harvey street.

"A TREAT FOR THEATRE-GOERS"

At Grand To-night, Henry Ludlowe in Shakspere's Great Tragedy "Richard III." To-morrow night "The Merchant of Venice"

Music and Drama

ALL NEXT WEEK

W. A. Partello will present his own repertoire company numbering nineteen people, headed by the beautiful young actress and popular favourite, Alice Kennedy, at the Grand Opera House next Tuesday night for five nights, embracing all new plays, which include the following up-to-date successes: "The Railroad King," "The Way of the West," "Fighting Against Fate," "The College Girl," "Under Two Flags," "Lena Rivers," "We Never Sleep," and others. Mr. Partello has spent the entire past summer in gathering these plays together; also procuring new scenery to fit each one. The electrical effects that are used are the latest made, and excite no end of comment. The people selected to support Miss Kennedy have all won favour in their respective line of work. The specialties, moving pictures and illustrated songs, have also been well taken care of, the best have been procured. "The College Girl" on Tuesday night. Special matinees on New Year's Day and Saturday.

LUDLOWE IN RICHARD THE III.

Mr. Henry Ludlowe, one of the premier living exponents of the Shakesperean drama, especially Richard III and the Merchant of Venice, with his supporting company, has arrived in the city with the $60,000 stage settings and accessories carried in two cars. The Montreal press pronounces Ludlowe, who has spent years in the study of these two plays as the superior of Mansfield and Booth. He is supported by a most capable company. The mounting and accessories of the play are pronounced to be the most superb and perfect in existence. Those of the citizens who fail to seen this splendid production of the most sombre and spiritual of Shakspere's tragedies will have missed the chance of a life time. Opera House to-night.

Velvet Skin, Soft and Clear

What one or two applications of Dr Chase's Ointment will do for rough, inflamed and irritated skin is almost as wonderful as the complete cure of eczema by its persistent use. By its healing, soothing and antiseptic influence Dr. Chase's Ointment quickly cures chafing and skin diseases and eruptions and leaves the skin clear, soft and velvety.

MARK STREET CHURCH XMAS TREE

A Pleasant Evening Spent in East City Town Hall

The Christmas tree and entertainment given last evening in the East City Hall for the Sunday school scholars of Mark street Methodist church was attended with great success. The excellent programme, given almost wholly by the children was greeted with a large audience and the several numbers were loudly applauded. In many instances encores were demanded.

Occupying a prominent position on the platform was a large Christmas tree heavily laden with presents for the teachers and scholars of the school.

The pastor, Rev. C H Coon acted as chairman, and after an opening prayer, made a few brief remarks. He was pleased to see so many present. He hoped all had spent a very merry Christmas and that throughout the glad Yuletide season they would enjoy the pleasures and festivities for which it was intended.

The programme rendered is as follows:—

Chorus.
Chairman's address.
Recitation—Gladys Mealey.
Recitation—Violet Wicker.
Recitation—Pearl Brisbin.
Doll Drill.
Recitation—Harry Smith.
Recitation—Gladys Coon.
Song—Marion Cheverill.

TO TORONTO FOR THE WINTER

Mandall Bros. Will Not Likely Return Until Spring

It has perhaps been noticed that the Jews of Charlotte street, Mandall Bros., are conspicuous by their absence these days. About a week before Christmas they left Peterborough for Toronto, and it is expected they will not return until spring. Owing to the slump in the junk business the prices have not been of the best, and nothing can be done until spring.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST CHRISTMAS SERVICES

The following was the programme followed yesterday at the Christmas services of the First Church of Christ, Scientist:

Hymn 179 of C. S. Hymnal, "Christ, My Refuge," by M. B. G. Eddy; sung by congregation.

Scripture Lesson, Matt. 2, 1-11 and co-relative passages from "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures." Preface 1,1-21, by M. B. G Eddy; page 30, 5-19.

Solo, M. Young, "Christmas Morn," by M. B. G. Eddy

Solo, W. J. Todd, "Feed My Sheep," by M. B. G. Eddy.

Reading, R. J. Todd, "What Christmas Means to Me," by M. B. G. Eddy.

Hymn 64 in C. S. Hymnal, "Joy to the World, the Lord Is Come," four young ladies.

For testimonies: six minutes.

Solo, by Miss Grace Todd, "The Birthday of a King."

Testimonies.

Closing Hymn, 178 of Hymnal, by congregation—"Saw Ye My Saviour?" by M. B. G. Eddy.

Christmas Trade This Year Was Fully Up To Average

Merchants Are Satisfied With Volume of Business Done — Reported Scarcity of Money Was Not in Evidence According To Business Men

THE TRADE GOOD AT EVER

"The talk of people having no of times being hard is all wrong," said a George street business man to the Examiner to-day. "They have kept crowding my store for a week before Christmas and they had their money with them too." The prevailing feeling among the local merchants as far as the Examiner has been able to discover is one of satisfaction and many expressions similar to the above have been heard to-day. The Christmas trade this year, according to the merchants interviewed has been in nearly every case up to the highest standard of other years and in some instances even better. One business man stated that his business on Tuesday was $300 better than on the day, before Christmas last year and others have similar tidings to tell of the holiday trade in this city. People seem to have bought freely and there was no signs of money scarcity as indicated by the fact that the different jewellers have done record business, showing that the people have been buying expensive presents.

The splendid weather on Saturday, helped business greatly as it resulted in one of the largest crowds ever in the city on a Christmas Saturday. The result was that a big trade was done with the country people and the two days before Christmas were left for the city residents. The disagreeable weather on Monday was not felt as severely as might have been expected, owing to the fact that the stage had been reached when people had to come out and make their purchases, notwithstanding bad weather.

The merchants of the city are as a whole well satisfied with the Christmas trade and few complaints were heard to-day as the business men exchanged notes concerning the holiday rush.

Another indication that the people at large have not been affected by the money stringency of which so much is said, is the fact that the special charitable funds devoted to holiday benefactions have been unusually well supported. This indicates no scarcity of money and what is vastly more important, no scarcity of the true Christmas spirit, thoughtfulness for others, translated into deeds.

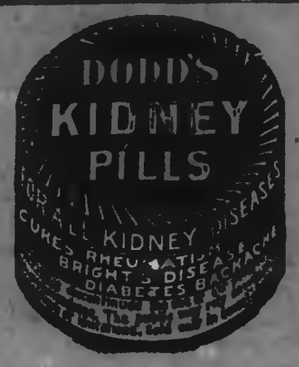
THE SERVICES AT ST. PETER'S

Christmas Day Celebrated in True Spirit

Christmas Day saw many services at St. Peter's Cathedral, it being, perhaps, the most glorious day in the Christian calendar, and was celebrated in keeping with the Catholic spirit. The first mass was a high mass sung at 5 o'clock, and was followed immediately by a low mass. There were several others up to 8 o'clock, then the children's mass at 9.15, and at 10.30 a Pontifical high mass sung by His Lowship Bishop O'Connor. A large number of the congregation received Holy Communion, especially at the early masses. The beautiful Pontifical vespers were sung in the evening. The altar was appropriately decorated by the Sisters of Saint Joseph, and the music by the choir was especially good.



VAGRANT GETS MONTH IN JAIL

Arrangements Will be Made to Have Him Deported

Arthur R. Turner appeared this morning on a charge of vagrancy but pleaded not guilty. The magistrate explained to the man what vagrancy meant, going over each item with him, and at last he discovered that he was guilty of the charge. The Chief said that Turner wanted to be deported. He had been working since his arrival in Omemee with a farmer. About a week ago the farmer discharged him and he came to Peterborough.

His Worship sentenced Turner to one month in jail with hard labour, during which time arrangements will be made to have him sent back to England.

TENDERS FOR STONE OUT TO-DAY

Many Unemployed This Morning Help to Cover Sidewalks With Sand

The unemployed found work this morning in covering the icy sidewalks with sand and shovelling off the snow on the crossings. The men were out early this morning getting the sidewalks in good condition and it is likely that they will be kept busy all day.

The tender for stone was let out this morning and in all probability the breaking of the stone will commence about Tuesday next. This will afford employment to all persons out of work and each man will be paid by the cord.

FEMININE
Foot Copies

"One of the 14"

Lasts are the wooden foot forms over which shoes are shaped. Whatever shape the last, so the shoe.

The shoe is either smart or homely, according to the shape of the last.

Few shoe manufacturers make their own lasts. They delegate it to Last-Making concerns.

Ask any one of these concerns where he gets the shapes for his lasts and you've got him guessing. He's been using the same last shapes for so many years that he's forgot how or whence they came. Each Spring and Autumn he changes the toes to suit the fads and fancies which come out of London and Paris—but that's all.

Nearly all shoes sold today are shaped over ancient lasts.

This condition of shoe making actuated us to build the Dolly Varden shoe. We have displaced the ancient, shapeless lasts with lasts which are exact copies of the most lovely things nature has produced — Perfect Feminine Feet.

The Dolly Varden does not disregard the prevailing shoe styles and fashions. Far be it. But its shapes are exact replicas of famous foot models.

Purchasers or investigators equally welcome. In the States and Canada $4.00 to $5.00. Every pair Goodyear welted.

HOME-MADE MEDICINE

Said to Relieve Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;
One ounce Compound Salolone;
Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mixed and taken in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime, is stated by a prominent physician to give most excellent results in kidney or urinary afflictions, and also in rheumatism and sciatica. The mixture opens the clogged pores of the kidneys, thus assisting them in their work of filtering all waste and poisonous matter from the blood, and expels them in the urine. To allow this poisonous matter to remain means that it will settle in the muscular tissues or joints, and cause the untold misery known to rheumatism.

The mixture is composed of harmless vegetable ingredients which can be purchased at any good drug store, and mixed at home.

CANADA'S ENVOY ON HIS WAY HOME

Hon. R. Lemieux Leaves Japan by Empress of China To-day.

NEGOTIATIONS CONCLUDED

Expect Early Solution of Immigration Difficulties — Terms of Agreement Will Not Yet Be Announced—Similar Arrangement to Be Made With the United States—Insists on Treaty Rights.

London, Dec. 26—A Tokio cable says Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux is leaving Yokohama to-day and expects to return to Ottawa about Jan. 12, traveling via San Francisco. At the last meeting between Mr. Lemieux and Viscount Hayashi on Wednesday morning memoranda were exchanged. It is understood that the Canadian envoy is insisting on Consul-General Nosse's assurance, repeatedly given from the time before Canada's participation in the Anglo-Japanese commercial treaty, that Japanese immigrants to Canada shall be restricted to about six hundred per annum, and that this shall be regarded as a moral pledge given the Dominion Government. The Japanese Government, however, is unable to ascertain that such assurances were ever given, and it holds that if this is really the case a distinct line should be drawn between the pledges given before and after Canada's participation in the commercial treaty.

Early Solution of Difficulty.

Tokio, Dec. 26.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, the Canadian Minister of Labor, who has concluded his negotiations with the Japanese Government regarding the regulation of immigration to Canada, said to the Associated Press yesterday: "My lips are sealed on the subject. Any statement I have to make belongs first to the Dominion Government. My mission will be completed only after my return to Ottawa. My colleagues there will be in a position to fully discuss and consider the whole question in its various phases. I have every reason to believe that a solution of the difficulties will soon be reached, and am pleased to say that my negotiations with the Japanese Foreign Office were conducted in the friendliest spirit. I return with nothing but the most pleasant recollections."

Terms Not Announced.

The Associated Press is in a position to state that the situation is identical with its previous forecast. Mr. Lemieux and Sir Claude Macdonald, the British ambassador, fully agreed with the terms of the memorandum whereunder the Japanese Government outlines its plans for the future control of immigration, the announcement of which will probably be made when a similar arrangement is outlined to Mr. Thomas J. O'Brien, the American ambassador, who, it is understood, has submitted a number of suggestions from the American Government for the consideration of the Foreign Office. The suggestions, it is believed, largely served as a guide to the arrangement submitted to Canada through Mr. Lemieux, and there is reason to believe that the Japanese Government will soon submit to Ambassador O'Brien the details of this plan to control immigration to America, which practically amounts to the prevention of all labor immigration.

Mr. Lemieux and party will sail for home on the Empress of China to-day, the Canadian Government having instructed him to report at the earliest possible moment.

No Funds For Charity.

New York, Dec. 26.—The Federated Hebrew Charitable organization in the United States closed its doors yesterday for the first time in its history because of lack of funds.

January 1st the society again will start operations, and continue its aid until the sum allotted for the month by the directors has been paid out. Then the doors will be again closed until the 1st of February. The suspension is the direct result of the falling off of the support of the society by the Hebrews of the country.

Last year approximately $30,000 was paid out, in benefits and pensions by the society, but this year there is a deficit of nearly $75,000 with an increased number of applications for assistance.

Town In Danger From Fire.

Boulder, Colo., Dec. 26.—For 24 hours the wind has been blowing from 30 to 60 miles per hour here. At times disaster was threatened to the whole town. No less than six fire alarms were turned in, while a forest fire was raging last night two miles up Boulder Canon.

One of the local fires caught from the dry prairie grass and several farmers lost large hay stacks and barns. The fire burned itself out late in the afternoon without damage to the town itself.

A number of buildings in town were more or less damaged by the wind and telegraph and telephone service was demoralized for hours.

An Impudent Absurdity.

London, Dec. 26.—(C. A. P.)—The Leader, commenting on Sir John Colomb's letter in The Times says it is impossible for anyone whose Imperialism is consistent with sanity even to profess to regard the Atlantic or Pacific as British possessions. The pretentious title of all-red route is, at best, an impudent absurdity.

NINETY DEATHS

Bear Silent Witness to the Ravages of Kidney Disease.

An alarming fact—but statistics show that in post mortem examinations as to death from all causes, that in over 90 per cent. of such cases kidney disease is present. This almost incredible statement is borne out by years of comparison by most eminent medical men. A warning to humanity that the percentage of those not cursed with kidney taint is very small. South American Kidney Cure relieves in six hours—is nature's preventive—clears the clogged parts—heals and permanently cures. (1)

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN TORTURED

BY BLINDING HEADACHES.

Who Could Be Well, and Happy, and Free of Pain.

Headaches simply mean poisoned blood. The human body is constantly decaying and being renewed. Dead matter is absorbed by the blood, and should be taken from the blood by the kidneys, bowels and skin and passed out of the system. If one of these organs does not act properly, the blood becomes impure—if two fail, death is certain.

When there are constant headaches, it is always found that the bowels are irregular, the kidneys weak, or the skin sluggish, pale or sallow. The tissue waste is left in the blood—carried to the brain—and irritates the nerves. To treat headaches with cocaine, morphine, phenacetine and the host of "headache powders" is useless. They relieve for the moment, but they clog the system and do harm. They never reach the seat of the trouble, they cannot purify the blood.

"Fruit-a-tives" completely cure Headaches. They stimulate the liver and make the bowels move regularly. They regulate the kidneys. They induce healthy skin action. Thus, all the waste matter—body poisons—are taken out of the blood and there is nothing to cause headaches. "Fruit-a-tives" are the only remedy that really cure.

"Fruit-a-tives" are fresh fruit juices—in which the medicinal action is greatly increased by the special way in which they are combined. 50c a box; 6 for $2.50. At all druggists' or sent on receipt of price.

SCORES ORCHARD EVIDENCE.

Of Small Value In Pettibone Trial Says Judge Wood.

Boise, Ida., Dec. 26.—The state rested its case in the trial of Geo. A. Pettibone for complicity in the murder of Governor Steuenberg.

W. H. Gabbert, justice of the Supreme Court of Colorado, testified that on going from his residence to the capital at Denver he originally crossed a vacant lot, but that on the morning that Walley was killed he took a different route. He said that he heard the explosion an hour after he reached his office, that at noon on that day he examined the place where Walley met his death.

Judge Gabbert also testified that he participated in rendering the Moyer decision and the decision holding that the eight-hour law was unconstitutional. The latter decision was introduced in evidence.

Senator Borah announced that the state rested, and John F. Neugent, for the defence, filed a motion asking that the jury be advised to acquit the defendant. The jury was excused and Judge Wood announced that he was ready to announce his conclusions on the question of corroborative evidence on which authorities were submitted early in the trial. The conclusions were as follows:

"Evidence of corroboration as to the killing of Steuenberg as a separate transaction is not sufficient to warrant a conviction. Conspiracy to commit a number of crimes, which includes as an incident or otherwise, the killing involved cannot be established by uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice. Is there in this case any evidence of a conspiracy to commit crime, as a result of which conspiracy the crime charge was committed, and if so, is there corroborative evidence enough to convict the defendant thereof?"

Attorney Neugent argued the motion to advise a verdict of acquittal only briefly, and then took up the Idaho statutes providing for the prosecution of non-residents charged with crime, under which Pettibone is being tried, arguing that it is unconstitutional.

CRISIS IN HOLLAND.

Dutch Cabinet Resigns Because Defeated on Army Estimates.

The Hague, Dec. 26.—The Dutch Cabinet, the Council of Ministers comprising nine members, by whom the executive authority of the Government is administered, yesterday presented its resignation. It is thought that the dissolution of Parliament is likely to follow.

The resignation of the Cabinet is due to the defeat of the army estimates in the Second Chamber of Parliament. The opposition in the discussion of these estimates contended that the efficiency of the Dutch army was not proportionate to the cost.

The clerics, who are opposed to the Government's plans for universal suffrage, are pleased over the situation created by the Cabinet's resignation, as they prefer that the expected general election which is to follow should be fought out on the military issue rather than on universal suffrage.

$2,000,000 to Cambridge.

London, Dec. 26.—Trinity College, Cambridge, benefits to the extent of $2,000,000 by the death of Lady Pearce Tuesday.

Her husband, Sir William George Pearce, chairman of the Fairfield Shipbuilding & Engineering Co., died on Nov. 20 last. By his will his fortune was bequeathed to Trinity College on the death of Lady Pearce.

THE CHRISTMAS IN OLD ENGLAND

Record Exodus of Holiday Makers From Metropolis.

ROYALTY AT SANDRINGHAM

King Edward and Queen Alexandra Spend Quiet Time in Country Home—Festivities on His Majesty's Estates Well Looked After—New Law For Prevention of Corruption Hinders Giving.

London, Dec. 26.—A Christmas holiday lasting from Tuesday to Friday for everyone engaged in business and extending to the following Monday for many scores of thousands of workers has resulted in a record distribution of Londoners to all parts of the United Kingdom and left the streets of the city more deserted in appearance than ever on the average Sunday.

Nearly a million persons are computed to have taken trains at the various railway terminals in the city during the past 36 hours, bound to the provinces and elsewhere, on visits to relatives and friends. The weather Tuesday was so foggy and resulted in so many minor mishaps to traffic at sea and on land that there was apprehension that it might continue.

Yesterday morning, however, dawned bright, with a bracing atmosphere, thereby contributing toward the Christmas cheer. King Edward and the Queen, with the Prince and Princess of Wales and their children, are as usual spending the Christmas holiday as Sandringham Palace in Norfolk.

All the tenants at Sandringham have been remembered with presents of all kinds, including huge joints of beef, tons of coal and supplies of groceries. The old women of the estate were personally cared for by Queen Alexandra, who herself visited and distributed shawls and warm clothing to them.

The rumors of shortness of money are belied by the reports that there has been a brisk Christmas trade, the only complaints coming from wife and cigar merchants and dealers in turkeys who has been hit by the new "Prevention of Corruption" Act, which forbids gifts of any kind from an agent without the consent of the principal, with the object of influencing the same to do business with the giver.

Many large firms of economical mind, as well as private individuals, whose gifts are beyond suspicion of bribery, have taken advantage of the act to get rid of irksome annual taxation, on the plea that such presents possibly would subject them to penalties provided by the new law.

Artificial Limbs

Whether you have had the misfortune to lose one or both legs—either above or below the knees — our Artificial Limbs will prove perfect substitutes. We can create artificial limbs to suit the requirements of each individual case.

So perfect is the fit, and so exact is our knowledge of what these helps should be, that hundreds of people stand upright, walk and run with the help of our Artificial Limbs.

For 48 years, we have applied brains, ingenuity, and a natural talent to perfecting helps for the afflicted.

We make not only Artificial Limbs—but also Spinal Supports, Trusses, Abdominal Supports, Elastic Stockings, etc. If you are deformed in any way, write us fully about your case, and we will fit you with the proper appliances. 4

ESTIMATES AND RESULTS

The evidence before the Royal Commission showed that over 700 SUN LIFE policies had already matured and that in thirty-four per cent. of the cases the amounts originally estimated as likely to be received at the end of the terms, had been realized or exceeded. On all the cases combined the average amount paid had been about ninety-seven per cent. of the estimate. The management may be pardoned for being proud of this record. The estimates now in use since 1900 are lower than former ones, and premiums are higher, so that present estimates should certainly be realized. Statements were also filed showing that $108 is on hand for every $100 required to pay the amounts called for by the present estimates for every deferred profit policy on the books and this without taking into account the Company's great and increasingly valuable contingent fund. Our policyholders are therefore justified in being particularly optimistic in regard to the Company's probable future profits.

Some one has said "the true value of a life assurance policy must be gauged by the security of the protection given; if it proves to be a good investment, all the better; when both are shown, there is nothing on earth to equal it."

The security of the protection afforded by the Sun Life of Canada needs no comment and the profits paid—let our results tell their own forceful story.

BOWLING BASKETBALL CURLING

THE CURLERS PLAYED YESTERDAY

A Few Interesting Games On Several Of The Rinks

The holiday saw a few quiet games of curling at the Charlotte street rink. The ice in two of the rinks was in mid-winter condition, being hard and smooth. The central rinks are not as good as Mr. McIntosh would like to have them, but with a spell of cold weather the little rough spots will soon be removed.

Speaking of good ice, one of the players said that the ice on the local rink was really too good, and when the players went to outside rinks they usually had to play on poor ice and were thus greatly handicapped.

He says: "I used Herpicide for my dandruff and falling hair and I am well satisfied with the result." Dr. J. WARSAW PASTOR OFF TO PAISLEY

Address and Presentation to Rev. Mr. Steadman Before His Departure

BAPTIST MINISTER THERE

Examiner special.

Warsaw, Dec. 26. — On Monday evening the members of the Warsaw Baptist Church met at the home of their pastor, Rev. L. S. Steadman, when he was made the recipient of a substantial cheque, and Mrs. Steadman a purse, accompanied by the following address:

Warsaw, Dec. 23, 1907.

To Rev. L. S. Steadman.

Dear Pastor,—Knowing that you are about to depart from among us and the tie of pastor and people is to be severed, we gather here tonight to formally say farewell and to attempt to give expression in some small measure to the esteem and appreciation in which you are held.

During the three years you have laboured with us, you, your wife and family have become dear to our hearts, and we can assure you that you carry away the warmest sympathy of every member of the Warsaw Baptist Church. We appreciate your great earnestness and sincerity in all that pertains to His teaching and will, and your strict upholding of the Bible truth.

Your work has been efficient, painstaking and kind, and while we deeply regret that you are called to labour in another field, yet at the same time we rejoice to know that you go to a pastorate of greater opportunity and usefulness.

And now, as a very slight token of our appreciation of your services and as a mark of the esteem in which you are held, we would ask you to accept this cheque and Mrs. Steadman this purse, trusting that, "Though we may asunder part, We'll still be joined in heart."

And not only yourself, but your estimable wife and co-helper holds her place in our remembrance equally with yourself. Her pleasant face and sympathetic personality will be sadly missed. We but meet here to part again, but we all look forward to the time when we meet to part no more, where there shall be no more weeping nor sorrow, but joy and gladness, but Christ Himself shall reign.

ROBT. E. KIDD.
W. J. MOORE.

The address was read by Mr. Walter H. Kidd, while Mrs. Stephen Miller made the presentation.

Mr. and Mrs. Steadman both made replies, showing that the people here hold a warm place in the hearts of both. Mr. Steadman goes to Paisley for his new field.

The Karnots will practice between 7 and 8 o'clock, and there will be skating afterwards.

W. G. MORROW, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $5000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $5000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premiums that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. B. STRATTON.

Music and Drama

DORA THORNE

The well-known and popular play, "Dora Thorne" was presented at the Grand yesterday afternoon and evening and was welcomed back to Peterborough by large audiences, who seemed delighted with the manner in which the presentation was given. "Dora Thorne" is no stranger to Peterborough theatre-goers, and they will always have a warm spot in their hearts for the drama as long as it is played in the clever manner in which it was done yesterday. The parts were all in good hands and the acting was uniformly good throughout.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES IN THE CITY CHURCHES

Many Attend the Communion Services in Anglican Churches

Services were held yesterday in the three Anglican churches of the city as well as St. Peter's cathedral. At All Saints' church Holy Communion was celebrated at 8 a.m., and at 11 a.m., there was Holy Communion and sermon. At St. Luke's Holy Communion was celebrated at 7 and 8 a.m., and at 10.30 a.m., there was Holy Communion and sermon. There were over 200 communicants present during the morning. There were two services at St. John's yesterday, one at 8 a.m. and the other at 11 o'clock. The music at all three churches was of a quiet and special variety appropriate to the commemoration of the birth of our Saviour. The services were well attended, and the three churches were attractively decorated for the occasion.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A VISITOR

Mr. Wm. Sanderson of Smith Township Dies After Coming to City

Without any warning the death occurred this afternoon at two o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. Wm Sullivan, Murray street, of William Sanderson, a visitor in the city, who resides on the Burleigh Road, above Young's Point. Mr. Sanderson came to the city to-day in good health so that his sudden death was entirely unexpected. He died from heart failure, it is believed. He was about 35 years of age.

WEDDING BELLS

NORTHEY-MORRIS

At the residence of the bride's father, in the presence of about seventy-five guests, an attractive house wedding took place yesterday, the contracting parties being Miss Annie May Northey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Northey, Aylmer street, and Mr. Wm. H. Morris, East City. Rev. E. A. Pearson, of the George Street Methodist Church, was the officiating clergyman. The young couple was unattended. Miss Ida Madeline Northey was the winsome little flower girl and carried a basket of carnations. Clayton Kensell's wedding march was brilliantly played by Miss Florence Preston. The bride was gowned in a dress of white silk with chiffon lace and insertion. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome silver tea service.

After the ceremony the bridal party sat down to a dainty spread and the remainder of the evening was spent in social intercourse. The bride, who is popular among her many friends, received a large number of beautiful presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris will reside on Sherbrooke place.

Constable Appointed in The Interest of Havelock

Railway Town Employs Outside Help to Remove the Snow—Miss Maude Wagar in Toronto

THE COUNCIL MEETING

Examiner Special

Havelock, Dec. 24.—Miss Maude Wagar, who leaves this week for Toronto, where her parents have bought a business, was tendered a farewell party Friday evening by a few of her girl and boy friends of town. During the evening's enjoyment a presentation of a very beautiful gift was made to Miss Wagar, which proved a great surprise to her. Miss Wagar has resided in town for the past few years, and her friends will learn with regret of her intended departure.

The immense amount of snow that has fallen the last few days has made work for many idle men around town. The C.P.R. has men engaged both night and day shovelling snow in the yards. The demand for men Sunday was so great that a gang of Italians from Peterborough was sent for. The street snow plow was also kept busy all Sunday.

Miss Leisha Fowler of Peterborough is the guest of her brother, Mr. Jas. E. Fowler, town.

Miss Eva Lancaster entertained a few of her friends to a party given in honour of Miss Maude Wagar, on Tuesday evening, who left for Toronto Wednesday, where she will reside in future.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Neal, Guelph, are guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frost, town.

Miss Grace Foster of Norwood is the guest of Mrs. Jno. Weir.

Mr. George A. Williams passed away Monday morning, having been ailing for some weeks past. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife and one son, Mr. Henry Williams, who resides in town. Services were held at the residence, Oak Street, Tuesday evening, and on Wednesday morning the remains were taken to Carleton, his former home, for interment. Mr. Williams had resided in town the past four or five years, during which time he kept a grocery store and meat shop combined, but his health failing him, he was compelled to sell but about three months ago, and had been confined to his home until his death. The sympathy of all is extended to the bereaved wife and son.

Council met Monday night at 7.30 o'clock. Those present were the reeve, and councillors Knox, Campney, and Young.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Moved by Coun. Knox, seconded by Coun. Campney, that the following accounts be paid:

J. W. Bryans, clerk and treasurer's salary	$100 00
Selection of jurors	3 00
Board of Health	3 00
postage and express	3 50
Jas. Thompson, selection of jurors	2 00
Board of Health	2 00
Dr. Crawford, M.H.O	5 00
Jos. Knox, Board of Health	2 00
W. Mathison	2 00
C. B. Brewster	2 00

Town hall debenture No. 8	280 84
County purposes, 1907	324 60
Interest on park debenture No. 1	65 00
F. C. McMaster, hardware account	22 00
A. C. Denike	2 25

Moved by Coun. Campney, seconded by Coun. Young, that Aff. Spencer be paid for lumber at $15 per M., according to Mr. Morris' and Mr. Backus' measurement.—Carried.

dear teacher, we all regard you.

Jas. Backus, caretaking	3 75
C. W. Coon, caretaking	75
Thos. Wood, repairing hall	7 05

Tenders for snowplowing were received from F. Curtis for $2.50, and W. Holcombe for $2.

Moved by Coun. Campney, seconded by Coun. Knox, that Mr. Holcombe's tender for snowplowing be accepted, and that he employ a man to shovel when necessary, at the expense of the corporation.

Bylaw to hold an election.

1—Knox and Campney.
2—Campney and Young.
Reeve in chair.
3—Campney and Knox.
Bylaw appointing D.R.O.
1—Young and Knox.
2—Campney and Young.
3—Knox and Young.

The clerk was to notify Seabrooke Bros. to pay gravel account before December 28.

Moved by Coun. Young, seconded by Coun. Campney, that the tax collector get a rebate of $2.70 on the Pacy lot bought for park purposes.—Carried.

Moved by Coun. Campney, seconded by Coun. Young, that the tax collector's time for returning roll be extended to first meeting of the new council.—Carried.

Messrs. Armstrong and McNichol addressed the council in reference to appointing a village constable for the protection of the hotelkeepers and to enforce the license law in the village.

Moved by Coun. Campney, seconded by Coun. Knox, that Jas. Brill be employed as constable at a salary of $40 for one month, and if employed longer, the salary to be $35 per month, the constable to go on duty at 1 p.m. and employ his time until 6 p.m. at street work unless he had a call for constable work, and to go on constable work at 7 p.m. and to remain on constable duty until 12 o'clock midnight, all fees from the office to go to the council. Mr. Brill will be subject for constable duty at any time. He will also look after the town hall and collect hall rents, duties to commence at 1 p.m. December 17.—Carried.

Council adjourned.

River Ice Used In Keene Rink

Up-to-date Manager Has Rink Open Earlier This Year

Examiner Special.

Keene, Dec. 24.—Misses Agnes and Jean Campbell arrived home from Kingston on Thursday for the Christmas holidays.

Messrs. Alex. and Daniel Eason returned home from the west last week.

Mr. Percy Skinner, who has been attending Queen's University, is spending the holidays with his parents.

Mr. J. H. Scriver spent Friday in Keene on business.

Mr. Albert Nelson, who has been attending Queen's University, is spending the holidays with his parents in Otonabee.

Mrs. Hewson, Peterborough, visited in the village Wednesday.

Skating commenced in the Keene rink on Saturday evening. Mr. J. R. McIntyre, the popular manager of the rink, as usual, was anxious to get the rink opened as early in the season as possible. The weather not being sufficiently cold to freeze enough ice to make skating before Christmas, Mr. McIntyre cut and drew ice from the river, paving the rink with blocks of ice three or four inches thick, then flooding to level the surface. This novel scheme has proved very successful and in spite of the weather Mr. McIntyre has a nice sheet of thick ice more than a week earlier than would have been otherwise possible.

We are pleased to state that Mr. Wm. Drummond, who was injured about three weeks ago by a fall from a wagon, is much improved and able to be around again.

Nominations for the offices of Reeve, Deputy Reeve and Councillors will be held in the town hall Monday Dec. 30th.

Miss Rose Dorn, Rochester, is spending her holidays in Keene.

Saturday, Dec. 14th was the last day for the payment of taxes. All taxes that were unpaid on that date will be increased by five per cent. About eleven hundred dollars will have to stand the additional five per cent.

Mr William Read of Peterborough spent Friday in the village.

Mrs. Ferguson of Peterborough, is the guest of Mrs. William Moore.

Mrs. Jas. Moore of Asphodel visited this week at the home of Mrs. William Moore.

The school trustees are advertising for a teacher for the junior room of the public school to fil the pace of Miss White, who has resigned.

Misses Edna Wedlock and Susie Moore, who have been attending the Norwood high school are spending the holidays with their parents.

Miss Lightbourne of Toronto, is the guest of Miss Annie Hore.

FUNERAL OF LATE DR. F. J. BRADD

Held Yesterday Afternoon To The Little Lake Cemetery

MANY FRIENDS PRESENT

Yesterday afternoon the funeral of the late Dr. F. J. Bradd was held from the family residence, Stewart street, and the last rites of the religion were performed over the remains of one of Peterborough's most widely known physicians and a gentleman who had always been highly respected by the large circle of his acquaintances.

The general regret that has been expressed throughout the city since Dr. Bradd's untimely death on Monday night was manifested yesterday in an especial way when a large number of people accompanied the remains to the cemetery, where the body was interred in the family plot. The funeral was a large one and was attended by Dr. Bradd's late friends of the medical profession, by his business friends in general, and by many who have received his care and attention during his ten years of skilful practice in Peterborough.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. D. O. Crossley of Whitby, formerly pastor of Charlotte Street Methodist Church, of which the deceased was an adherent. Rev. Mr. Crossley was assisted by Rev. H. M. Manning.

In the course of a short eulogistic address Rev. Mr. Crossley referred to the qualities which had won for the late Dr. Bradd so many friendships. His dealings with the large number of people who had met him in his professional career was in itself a tribute to his character. In his home, in church affairs, and in his dealings with the public, the deceased had won a name that will be recalled with esteem.

Out of respect for the wishes of the family, friends did not send flowers. The pall-bearers were Hon. J. M. Stratton, Messrs. W. H. Robertson, J. J. McBain and Dr. Young, Dr. Carmichael and Dr. King. Among the relatives from a distance were Mr. Devereaux Bradd, brother, and Mrs. W. H. Cochrane, sister of the deceased, both from Colborne; Mrs. H. and Mrs. F. Hardinge of Chicago, sisters of Mrs. Bradd; Mr. and Mrs. English of Omemee, and Mr. Alex. Henderson, Detroit.

A FACSIMILE OF THE SIGNATURES

Mr. Dawson of This City in Possession of Interesting Paper

Mr. J. Dawson, 1 Stewart street, gentlemen's outfitter, has an interesting document in his possession, which is certainly very rarely seen in Peterborough. It is a facsimile of the original signatures to the Declaration of Independence of the United States and bears over one hundred names. Mr. Dawson prizes it very highly as it is a piece of paper not met with every day.

WEDDING BELLS.

RYAN-MacGREGOR.

A happy event of Christmas Day was the marriage of Mr. Thomas J. Ryan to Miss Caroline MacGregor, daughter of Mrs. James MacGregor, 147 Winchester street. The ceremony was performed in St. Augustine's Church, the Rev. Mr. Plummer officiating. The happy couple were supported by Mr. Ernest Joyce as groomsman and Miss May MacGregor sister of the bride, as bridesmaid. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Donald MacGregor, of Montreal. Mr. Roy MacGregor and Mr. Willie McEachren acted as ushers, and Miss Lillie MacGregor made a very pretty flower girl. During the signing of the register Miss Katherine Chattoe Morken sang "Love Divine." After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, 147 Winchester street. Guests were present from Montreal, Ottawa, Kemptville, Bowmanville, Oshawa, Peterborough and Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryan left on the 11 o'clock train for western points to spend their honeymoon.—Toronto Star.

COL. EDWARDS AGAIN IN THE FIELD

Vacancy Caused in Edmonton Council by The Resignation of a Member

RAN SEVENTH IN ELECTIONS

A vacancy has been caused in the city council at Edmonton, Alta., and Col. Edwards one of the defeated candidates last week will again aspire for municipal honours. The Edmonton Bulletin says of the race:—

Two candidates have announced themselves for the aldermanic vacancy in the city council caused by the resignation of Ald. Weaver. Both candidates polled large votes in the municipal elections, Mr. Mosser being the sixth man, and Col. Edwards seventh, the former securing 614 votes and the latter 593.

Colonel E. B. Edwards came to Edmonton about a year and a half ago from Peterborough, where he was born and spent his early life. He is a graduate of Toronto University with the degrees of M.A. and LL.B. He was admitted to the bar of Ontario and practised law with W. E. Scott, brother of Mr. Justice Scott, of Alberta. For twenty years he was city solicitor, of Peterborough, a city which is now sixth in the Dominion for manufacturing output, and has thus a close insight into the management of municipal affairs. Colonel Edwards is now brigadier of the 7th Infantry with headquarters at Moncton. This battalion comprises the 14th, 66th, 47th, 48th, and 82nd regiments. He is a past president of the Ontario Curling Association, one of the largest sporting organizations in the world. He was chairman of the special committee which received the touring Scotch curlers in Ontario two years ago. He has also occupied the office of commodore of the American Canoe Association.

PROUD OF OUR FRIENDS

Dyspepsia of Women

Caused by Female Disorders and Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

A great many women suffer with a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not seem to yield to ordinary treatment. While the symptoms seem to be similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines universally prescribed do not seem to restore the patient's normal condition.

Mrs. Pinkham claims that there is a kind of dyspepsia that is caused by a derangement of the female organism, and which, while it causes a disturbance similar to ordinary indigestion, cannot be relieved without a medicine which not only acts as a stomach tonic, but has a peculiar tonic effect on the female organism.

As proof of this theory we call attention to the case of Mrs. Henry Beaubien, 58 Sparks St., Ottawa, Ont., who was completely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after everything else had failed. She writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"I had been troubled with indigestion and general stomach disorders for nearly a year. I had a soreness in my stomach and was unable to digest my food. I dieted and doctored without success; but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me permanent relief. I used three bottles and it cured me of my stomach trouble and built up my general health. I now enjoy a splendid appetite, can eat all kinds of food, have no trouble with indigestion, and know that I owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

No other meditine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement, or has such a record of cures of female troubles, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia Couple Vow to Meet Death Together.

MAN SHOOTS GIRL AND SELF

Leaves Letter Saying It Is a Love Tragedy — George Green Was Infatuated With Miss Wonderly—Deed Was Prompted by Mother's Refusal to Countenance Friendship—Both May Die.

Philadelphia, Dec. 26.—Leaving a letter that they had died for love, George A. Green, aged 35 years, early yesterday shot and probably fatally wounded Miss Edith Wonderly, aged 23 years, and then turned the revolver upon himself, inflicting probably fatal wounds.

Green is married, but is separated from his wife. In a letter which is addressed to the Philadelphia newspapers, Green attacks his wife, and, among other things, says:

"To-day I am going to kill myself and a true and loving friend, as my letter and hers will show.

"We died for love, which was denied from us by her dear mother.

"This is the only girl I ever loved. We have promised before God we could never live apart. This is our secret."

No letters were found in the clothing of the girl. The mother of Miss Wonderly had refused Green permission to visit her home, and the police believe that Green and the girl entered a pact to die together.

After shooting the girl twice, one bullet entering the mouth and the other taking effect in the cheek, Green walked some distance from her and shot himself in the head. No one witnessed the occurrence, but the shots attracted a policeman, who hurried the couple to a hospital. The police and physicians endeavored to secure a statement from the girl before she lapsed into unconsciousness, but she refused to talk.

The physicians say both are in a critical condition.

TRAGEDY IN QUEBEC WOODS.

Small Boy Lost In Snow — Search Parties Find No Trace.

Quebec, Dec. 26.—News comes from St. Gabriel, County of Rimouski, of the disappearance of a six-year-old boy named Levesque. It appears that the little boy set out from his home with two of his little sisters to join their father, who was at work in a bush a considerable distance from the house.

The two girls, who were younger than the boy, became fatigued, however, and after vainly urging their brother to return home, parted from him and retraced their steps, reaching there safely. Since that time no trace or tidings has been found of the boy.

A general hunt for him was at once inaugurated, some 70 men of the place turning out, but, despite all their endeavors, the boy could not be found. The only thing discovered was the boy's pocket handkerchief, which was picked up in the bush.

The boy is supposed to have become buried in the snow or to have fallen into some crevice, and the parents have lost all hope of ever seeing him again.

Deadly Christmas Box.

Erie, Pa., Dec. 26.—While distributing Christmas bundles in the South Erie sub-postoffice Tuesday night an employe became suspicious of a package, the end of which had broken open, and upon making an investigation the package was found to contain an infernal machine so constructed that the opening of the box would cause an explosion that would have undoubtedly killed all persons near it and set fire to everything in the vicinity.

The package was addressed to Archie Carr, 2,208 Cherry street, and had been mailed in this city. The box was turned over to Postmaster Sobel, who called in Chief of Police Wagner and Detective Pinney. The chief cut out the side of the box and exposed a bottle and contrivances so arranged that the opening of the lid would have pulled the cork and ignited several matches. The following inscription was on the side wrapper:

"You may perhaps find the cover will catch a little when you open the box, but pay no attention to it. Merry Christmas."

The bottle contained a high explosive.

Congress v. Conference.

London, Dec. 26.—(C. A. P.)—Sir Kinlock Cooke, in a letter to The Morning Post, says the object that the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada seem to have in view is to limit, if not stop altogether the flow of immigration from this country to Canada and thereby to nullify the resolution passed at the recent Imperial conference that it is desirable to encourage British emigrants to proceed to British colonies rather than to foreign countries.

City's Firemen on Strike.

Dowagiac, Mich., Dec. 26.—Considerable anxiety has been felt for the past few days because of the resignation of the entire fire department. They became dissatisfied with Ald. Hartsell, a contractor, who persisted in going to the engine house and using the new hose in erecting buildings. They complained to the mayor, but were not given the redress they thought they deserved. They will reorganize the department.

Fire at Chicago.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—The Burton building, 71-81 Van Buren street, was damaged by fire yesterday. The structure was occupied by a number of small manufacturing plants. The total loss is estimated at $75,000.

"ALL-RED" A MISNOMER.

Admiral Colomb Urges Colonies to Share Cost of Navy.

London, Dec. 26.—Sir John Colomb in a lengthy letter to The Times on the All-Red route says the origin of the phase "all-red route" is simple, for on all British school maps British land is colored red, so that particular color has become the popular symbol of exclusive British ownership and absolute British control. In this particular case Sir John Colomb submits it is mischievous because a deliberate misnomer.

He urges that the colonies share in the responsibility and the cost of the maintenance of the navy and as long as they do not, the Mother Country should not listen to the colonies' appeals for "money to multiply their sea routes to facilitate operations of their commerce."

Another Knock For All-Red.

London, Dec. 26.—(C. A. P.)—A correspondent, writing to The Times, says: The "all-red" scheme is an attempt to divert Canadian traffic from its natural channel. It would involve enormous expenditures by the Governments concerned, as huge subsidies would be required to give the proposed service any chance of success in so far as the attempt succeeded it would injure the existing companies, which have invested large amounts of capital in their business, and even if completely successful, such diversion of traffic from the St. Lawrence to another route would confer no advantages on the people either of Canada or Great Britain, in compensation for the great expense involved and the injury to established lines.

As to the suggested west of Ireland port Blacksod Bay, it would be impossible as a terminus, for the simple reason that steamers could not get coal or stores without enormous difficulties, not to mention its want of facilities for overhauling of machinery.

NUN SHOT AND KILLED.

Assassinated at Milwaukee Hospital By Insane Man.

Milwaukee, Dec. 26.—Sister Theresa, a nurse at St. Mary's Hospital in this city, was yesterday shot and killed by Gustav Wirth, aged 32, who is supposed to be insane. The assassin fled after firing four shots into the nurse's body, but was captured after being chased several blocks, and lodged in the police station. Wirth was operated on at the hospital about a year ago and it is said showed signs of insanity at that time.

When Wirth called at the hospital he was admitted by the Sister Superior. He informed her that he wished to see some one else. Shortly afterwards Sister Theresa, who assists in receiving patients, put in an appearance and upon seeing her the assassin began a fusilade. Sister Theresa died in a few minutes.

The prisoner when seen at the police station made a statement in which he said he fired the shots because the hospital officials tried to poison him.

THIEVES GET $50,000.

Daring Robbery From Window of Chicago Jeweler.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—While the jewelry store of David Holtze was crowded with customers Tuesday nigh., two robbers smashed a show window and escaped with two trays of diamonds and jewelry valued at $50,000.

The thieves escaped.

Keewatin at Owen Sound.

Owen Sound, Dec. 26.—Navigation for the season closed yesterday with the arrival of the Keewatin, the second of the big new passenger steamers for the Canadian Pacific Railway. The steamship made the run from Buffalo on Monday morning through heavy weather and without the usual aids to navigation. Capt. E. B. Anderson, commodore of the lake fleet, was in command.

The arrival of the Keewatin brings the value of the steel tonnage in Owen Sound harbor to over $3,500,000, as beside the five fine passenger steamships of the Canadian Pacific Railway there are eight big steel freighters and other craft which will bring the monetary value over the amount named.

Revolution In Ecuador.

Quayaquil, Ecuador, Dec. 26.—A new conspiracy to overthrow the Ecuadoran Government has been discovered at Quito, and Gen. Emilio Maria Teran, the leader in the conspiracy, and several others have been arrested. The Government captured a quantity of arms in the houses of the conspirators.

The officials here state that the conspirators planned to assassinate President Alfaro. Gen. Emilio Teran was the leader of the revolution which overthrew President Garcia early in 1906 in favor of Gen. Alfaro, a former President of the republic.

Why Did Admiral Resign?

Washington, Dec. 26.—Rear-Admiral William Bronson, whose resignation as chief of the bureau of navigation of the Navy Department was announced at the White House on Tuesday, turned over the affairs of his office to Cap. Cameron McR. Winslow, who has been designated to take charge of its work. Admiral Bronson declined again yesterday to discuss the reasons for the resignation. Nothing could be obtained at the White House as to the admiral's resignation.

Out For Dollar Gas.

Windsor, Dec. 26.—McNee, one of Windsor's mayoralty candidates, has come out definitely for dollar gas, and says if elected he will take steps to invalidate the gas bylaw recently passed by the City Council. If the Windsor Gas Co. refuses to give dollar gas at once he will institute expropriation proceedings and try to have gas supplied under municipal operation at $1 a thousand or less.

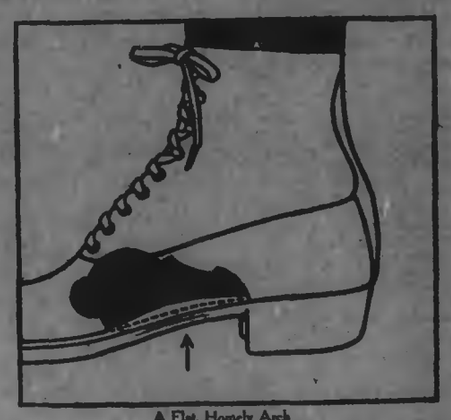
Fun to Kill a Family.

Oshkosk, Wis., Dec. 26.—Milton B. Owen, 19, is under arrest charged with attempting to kill the entire family of his employer, Richard Owens of Algoma, by putting poison in the teapot Sunday night. He said he thought it would be fun to kill the family.

Owen is insane. The poison he used was some liniment which Mrs. Owens had been using. The peculiar odor betrayed its presence, and when Owen was questioned he confessed.

HAS ARTISTIC ARCH

IMPROVEMENT NUMBER SEVEN



A Flat, Homely Arch

A Foot-rite Artistic Arch

Homely thing—a flat arched shoe.

No shoe, whether for man or woman, can be really clever looking without an artistically curved arch.

To make a shoe with a smart arch line costs money. It requires special lasts. The maker can't use stock lasts, ground from a mill by hundreds of thousands, as all stock lasts have flat arches. Ask any last maker. It requires tough heels. He can't use heels made of shoe factory junk. It requires level construction of the heel and sole, and instead of a cheap, weak, wood arch support which falls flat at the first wearing, it requires a stout steel arch.

The Foot-rite Shoe has an artistic arch.

Because it's moulded-over lasts sculptured from the handsomely and ideally formed feet of model athletes. If an athlete hasn't a perfect arch he's not an athlete.

Because of its tough heels which slough off slowly at the back, hence doesn't tip up and jam up into and bend or break the sole line of the arch.

Because of its Plumb-Line Level Heel and Sole which always remain level, leaving the arch line to curve artistically, like a tangent from a straight line.

And because of its strong steel arch support sewed between the inner and outer sole which stubbornly sustains its artistic curve line.

Unique Ceremony Under Opera House at Paris.

Paris, Dec. 26.—There was a unique ceremony yesterday afternoon in the subterranean passages of the opera house. It consisted of depositing in a specially prepared vault a talking machine and a number of discs bearing records of the voices of the greatest singers of the twentieth century.

Tumagno, Caruso, Scotti, Plancon, Patti, Melba, Calve and others are represented in the selection. The discs are in double boxes, each separate from the other. Neither light nor air can penetrate the coverings, and it is believed that they can be thus preserved for a century.

At the end of a hundred years they will be opened and the people of that age will have the opportunity of hearing voices of this era as well as seeing the talking machine as now manufactured.

Clergyman In Trouble.

Boston, Dec. 26.—A. Leonard Parker, who is said to have been an influential clergyman in Canada, where he preached the gospel for years, was arraigned in the Boston Police Court, on the charge of larceny of $250 from Henry L. Houghton. The case was continued until to-day.

Mr. Parker is connected now with a local brokerage firm and sold 50 shares of stock in the Universal Shoe Co. to Houghton for $5 a share, the latter claiming misrepresentation, and that the shares are worth only $2 and do not pay 12 per cent. dividends, as alleged by Parker.

The minister asserts that the stock transaction was bona fide, that his arrest was a mistake and that he will have no trouble in proving his innocence.

Blinded by Putty and Pin.

South Norwalk, Conn., Dec. 26.—A pellet of putty with a pin through it was blown into the eye of little Hanford Foote, two years ago by Harry Bradbury, a playmate. The lad pulled the pin from the centre of his eye and as the wound healed up but with little inconvenience, nothing more was thought of it.

This week, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Foote, the parents, discovered that the boy was totally blind in the eye the pin had entered. He was immediately taken to New York and placed in the hands of an eminent eye specialist that the sight of the other eye may be saved.

Two Killed In Fight.

Missoula, Mont., Dec. 26.—Two men were killed Tuesday night at a railway construction camp near Lothrop. George Morris, an Austrian, killed one of his countrymen in a knife duel, the cause of the trouble being unknown. Morris then started to Lothrop and met Contractor Walter A. Arnold on the bridge where he attacked Arnold with the knife and Arnold drew a revolver and shot him dead. Arnold gave himself up, claiming that he acted in self-defense.

Important Libel Judgment.

Montreal, Dec. 26.—The Court of Appeal rendered judgment Tuesday in the very important case of F. D. Shallow and The Gazette Printing Co.

This was an action by which Shallow claimed $10,000 damages on account of the publication in The Montreal Gazette of the plea in a previous action taken by Shallow, proprietor of The Moniteur du Commerce, against The Nationaliste.

The main question at issue was whether the privilege for newspaper reports of judicial proceedings only applied to such reports when they refer to cases "publicly heard in open court." The Superior Court judgment dismissed the action, but that judgment was reversed by the Court of Appeal Tuesday morning.

Mr. Justice Taschereau held that the written documents of a court house record are not public property, that the privilege of reporting cases extends only to what takes place in open court, and even then any libellous statements made by counsel cannot be printed in the papers with impunity.

The plaintiff was allowed $250 damages. Mr. Justice Bosse dissented.

Whole Family In Jail.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 26.—With the arrest of Harry Lamphere, aged 21, and his conviction on the charge of being a highway robber, the last member of his immediate family was sent to jail. Monday, Grace Lamphere, his sister-in-law, was sent to jail for 60 days for shoplifting. Later, Garfield Lamphere, a brother, was also convicted and sentenced for stealing a chicken and some meat. Florence Hall, a sister of the men, is now serving a sentence on the charge of shoplifting.

Skin Grafting on Engineer.

Ottawa, Dec. 26.—Engineer Herbert Reynolds, badly injured in the C.P.R. wreck at Plantagenet, Sept. 11 last, was up yesterday at the hospital for the first time since that date. The operation of skin-grafting, when ten of his fellow-employes gave up portions of their skin for him, was eminently successful.

Reynolds, when fully recovered, will testify for himself at the inquest on the fireman killed in the Plantagenet wreck. Until then the enquiry stands adjourned.

Huge Ruined Monastery.

Algiers, Dec. 26.—Albert Ballu, under whose supervision the historical researches at the ruined city of Timgad are being conducted, announces the discovery of a large monastery covering 11,000 square yards, surrounding a Christian basilica. The monastery encloses four chapels, a cloister with well-preserved cells, and a Christian burying ground.

Dead Section Man Had $3,723.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—Killed with $3,000 sewed in the lining of his working coat. This was the fate of David Ehlert, 30 years old, who was employed as a section hand by the Chicago and Northwestern Railway.

FIGHT THEIR FATHER

Young Children Prevent Him From Killing His Wife.

BOTH SLASHED BY KNIFE

Man, Aged Sixty, Insanely Jealous —Tried to Murder His Wife With Poker and Knives—Had Only Been In Canada Few Months — Disarmed by Neighbors and Passersby and Handed to Police.

Cornwall, Dec. 24.—Joseph Ashworth, aged 60 years, made a vicious attempt on the life of his wife, aged 53 years, here yesterday morning.

The Ashworths and their family of eight children came to Cornwall from Lancashire, Eng., four months ago. The eldest sons, two fine young men, say that their father has been causelessly jealous for many years and often threatened to kill his wife.

Yesterday morning when attacked, Mrs. Ashworth ran out and into a neighbor's yard, pursued by her husband with a stoveshaker. He knocked her down and pounded her head with this weapon, but she apparently wrenched it away and struck him in the face. He then, kneeling on her, pulled out his pocket-knife and slashed her face.

At this moment the 12-year-old son Jack was attracted by his mother's screams and attempted to pull his father off. The little girl, who was helping, said that the father threw the pocket-knife in her face, which is cut in three places.

Ashworth endeavored to take a butcher-knife from the boy, who hung on desperately, having his hand badly cut in the struggle. Neighbors and passers-by disarmed Ashworth.

MUTINY SURVIVORS GATHER.

Reviewed by Lord Roberts—King Edward Sends Telegram.

London, Dec. 24.—The remnant of that "desperate host," as Kipling described the veterans of the Indian mutiny, gathered yesterday in Albert Hall to the number of more than 700 to commemorate the golden jubilee of the struggle which ended in the Indian empire being saved to Great Britain.

On the pension roll in the War Office are the names of 1,200 survivors of the mutiny, to each of whom an invitation was sent for the reunion, but old age prevented many from attending. Those who could travel, including officers and men, came from every corner of the United Kingdom, and with breasts covered with medals made a brave showing as they drew up outside the hall to be reviewed by Lord Roberts.

The youngest among the veterans was 65 years of age, he having been a drummer during the fighting, and even to-day looked no younger as compared with his companions, bowed with the weight of years.

The review was brief, as the infirmities of the veterans prevented them from standing long in line, so behind the field marshal they marched to Albert Hall, the galleries of which were filled with cheering crowds, and sat down to a banquet.

Lord Roberts, who presided, read a telegram from the King, who expressed the appreciation of the whole Empire of the services rendered by the army of which the veterans were members.

Lord Curzon, chancellor of Oxford University, gave the toast, "The Survivors of the Indian Mutiny," and Lewis Waller, the actor, recited verses especially written by Rudyard Kipling.

Funeral of Lord Kelvin.

London, Dec. 24.—Under the shadow of the monument of Sir Isaac Newton and close to the choir in Westminster Abbey, the body of Lord Kelvin, the noted British scientist, was buried yesterday in the presence of a great gathering of scientists. Among the twelve pall-bearers were John Morley, Lord Rayleigh, Admiral Sir Edward Hobart Seymour, Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal and others. A dozen clergymen were associated in reading the service.

Champlain Memorial.

London, Dec. 24.—(C. A. P.)—Lord Strathcona asked the French ambassador to receive contributions to the Champlain memorial. The ambassador, wiring from Paris, said he was pleased to inform Lord Strathcona immediately that he should be happy to accede to his request in connection with the Champlain memorial.

FIGHT TO A FINISH

McLean Has Majority of Nineteen In Centre York.

CONTEST WAS STIRRING ONE

Strong Liberal Constituency Maintains Its Allegiance—Result Received With Cheers—Liberals at Woodbridge Have Big Celebration—Wallace at Midnight Claimed a Majority of One.

Woodbridge, Dec. 24.—This peaceful village went to bed last night in the firm belief that its family physician had been elected member of the House of Commons for Centre York. A few anxious ones sat up long enough in Capt. Tom Wallace's store to hear the welcome news that Capt. Tom had pulled out with a majority of one. The doubt about the result arose from belated returns from two divisions of Markham Township. In No. 9 the early figures gave McLean 51, whereas it is now stated that he had but 32, while in No. 5 Wallace is said to have 96, not 25.

Capt. Wallace made substantial gains all along the line, except in Richmond Hill, which converted a Conservative majority of 36 into a Liberal majority of 16, and in Woodbridge the turnover in Richmond Hill is accounted for by the fact that Pugsley, who was the Conservative candidate in 1904, lives there. In Woodbridge, where both the candidates of yesterday reside, Wallace had 29 majority, a loss of two from the figures of three years ago.

Both candidates received the returns here, the Liberals gathering in Temperance Hall, whither Dr. McLean went when the figures indicated his victory; but he had no idea the run was so close. The Purpleville majority of 18 for Wallace was put in the Liberal column, and Chairman D. Norton announced the triumph of the doctor by a margin of 57. The cheering when the news was announced was vigorous, and McLean wedged his way to the platform. Mr. Norton said he would have been pleased if the majority had been greater, but notwithstanding the efforts of three leaders of the Conservative party—Borden, Foster and Sproule—they had won anyway, and Centre York had not given Sir Wilfrid Laurier the slap in the face that was promised.

Dr. McLean modestly acknowledged the homage of his supporters. They had a short, sharp and decisive campaign, and he thanked them from the bottom of his heart. "You did not do it for me alone," said the doctor, "but because you were satisfied we have a good Government." He had been only three weeks in the field and did not do any mud-slinging or indulge in any personalities. He promised to ascertain the needs of Centre York and to support legislation in the interests of the electors.

Capt. Wallace was disappointed, but not discouraged. His supporters, he said, had made a splendid fight against great odds, and they had done remarkably well in reducing the majority to 19.

Listless Election at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Dec. 24.—Little interest was manifested in the bye-election here yesterday, owing to the fact that there was no Conservative in the field.

J. B. T. Caron, Liberal, was elected by 1,519 majority over his opponent, W. D. Morris, Independent.

DIVORCED WIFE'S EVIDENCE.

Case Against Count Von Moltke Takes Favorable Turn.

Berlin, Dec. 24.—The hearing of the Harden-Von Moltke case was resumed here yesterday, the morning session being behind closed doors, but in the afternoon the court was reopened to the public after the examination of Frau Von Elbe, the divorced wife of Count Von Moltke, during the course of which she modified her former testimony to such a surprising degree as to influence the position of the defence to a considerable extent, many of Herr Harden's assertions against Von Moltke being based on her previous declarations.

Frau Von Elbe withdrew some of her statements derogatory to Count Von Moltke's character and gave to other statements she had made an entirely different meaning than previously implied.

Detectives who also were put on the witness stand gave evidence to the effect that nothing definite was known against Count Von Moltke relative to any abnormality.

The case was adjourned until Friday.

J. Israel Tarte's Will.

Montreal, Dec. 24.—La Patrie of last evening publishes a copy of the will made by the late Hon. J. Israel Tarte at Neuilly, near Paris, the 23rd of July, 1899, a few hours before undergoing a very grave operation.

"My sons," he said, "you have a newspaper. See therefore that it wounds no one's feelings and blackens no one's reputation. Do not quarrel with the clergy. Remain French and Catholic and loyal subjects of the Queen and the Empire. Fulfill your religious duties as well as those of good citizens."

Captain Suspended.

Toronto, Dec. 24.—Suspension for six months for Capt. J. B. Forest is the penalty awarded by the wreck commission for the loss of the Government fisheries patrol yacht Lurline in Goderich harbor on Sept. 26.

Capt. Forest had not acquainted himself with changed conditions in Goderich harbor, which he had not entered in 20 years.

KIDNAPPED OVER BORDER.

Canadian Citizens Seized by U. S. Official at Emerson.

Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 24.—There was an information laid yesterday afternoon in the Attorney-General's Department against Geo. Foulke, an officer of the secret service department of kidnapping Isaac Casson and Albert Tolton, two citizens of Emerson. The alleged crime was committed on Dec. 3 at 9 p. m.

The two men were driving east along International avenue, Emerson, which is very close to the boundary line between the United States and Canada. Just across the railway track a stranger rushed out of the watchhouse and seized their horse by the bridle. In reply to the stranger's question they told him their names. The stranger was Foulke, and he at once informed them that he was an officer of the secret service department at Washington and that he wanted them to get out of the rig and go with him across the line to Noyes.

Both refused to go, saying they were British subjects and refused to consider themselves under arrest. They wanted to drive their horse ahead, but Foulke threatened to shoot the animal if they did so. He then appointed Robert Rossal, signal man on the railway, special constable, and ordered him to assist in the arrest. In rather strong language Rossal refused on the ground that he was a British subject, and that the officer had no power on this side of the line. Foulke declared that he was on neutral ground, and a struggle occurred between the men, but neither of them could be induced to leave the rig.

The stranger then backed the horse and by a quick move secured the reins and whipping the horse a smart blow he had the rig across the international boundary in an instant. There the two men were placed under arrest and taken to Noyes station.

On arriving at the station Casson and Tolton were compelled to sign a paper in order to be released and allowed to return to Canada. The reason given for their arrest was that it was desired to implicate them with others in a charge of smuggling grain into the United States.

SITUATION IN PERSIA.

Shah Comes to Terms But Hostility Still Remains.

London, Dec. 24.—The latest official advices received at the Foreign Office from Teheran indicate that the Shah and the Persian Parliament have come to terms. On the other hand, a diplomat who has been intimately associated with affairs in Persia, and who recently returned from that country, said yesterday in an interview:

"It would be too sanguine to hope for an immediate change in the situation, the causes for the hostility between the two parties being too deep-rooted. At the same time, we may expect, with the reorganization of the finances now being seriously undertaken under the advice of a competent French financier, that the Government will be in possession of the means necessary to secure the efficient operation of the civil and military forces."

Cheer Up, Wage Earners.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—"Now look here, the rich man is getting h--- these days. He's getting it coming and going. The poor man does not need to have any very keen jealousy of the rich man for this Christmas, at any rate," says Stuyvesant Fish.

"Yes, the so-called poor man is pretty well off, taking it altogether," he went on. "The wage-earner is getting good and steady pay, the commodities of life necessary to his existence are decreasing in price, and generally he should be pretty well satisfied with himself this Christmas.

"The amount of money some of the big fellows have lost might be called appalling—if one were easily appalled. They have been experiencing some nasty shrinkages of values in securities. This dwindling process has at least spared the wage-earner."

Italians Fight on Train.

Montreal, Dec. 24.—A party of Italians who got on the Brockville "Moocasin" train yesterday at The Cedars, for Montreal, had a lively trip. One man had a revolver, and all had knives. A row began on the train and two shots were fired, and knives flashed quite freely. The fight lasted till Montreal was reached. At St. Henri, however, the man with the gun jumped for it, and got away.

At Montreal police surrounded the car. One Italian was sent to the hospital, and on his complaint and that of the train hands three were placed under arrest.

Liquor Charges at Brampton.

Brampton, Dec. 24.—Two violations of the Liquor License Act were investigated here yesterday before Police Magistrate Crawford, when W. Hutchinson of Sandhill and Nathaniel Brown of Cheltenham were charged with selling liquor unlawfully. The cases lasted all day.

Hutchinson was found guilty and fined $50 and costs, while the charge against Brown was dismissed without costs. The information was laid by Provincial Inspector Ayerst. The evidence in the latter case was very contradictory.

Switch Tampered With.

Tallapoo, Ga., Dec. 24.—A train on the Southern Railroad, bound from Atlanta to Birmingham, ran into an open switch at this point last night, killing Engineer Downey of Atlanta and injuring two firemen.

The switch had been tampered with and detectives are at work in an effort to run down the miscreants.

Dispense With Costly Ceremonies.

Copenhagen, Dec. 24.—A telegram received here from Stockholm says that Gustave, who became King of Sweden on the death of his father, King Oscar, Dec. 8, has decided to dispense with the customary costly coronation ceremonies. This decision will be extremely popular in Sweden.

FIRE CHIEF INJURED

Fell From Top of Building During Blaze at Chatham.

OTHER FIREMEN BADLY HURT

Alexandria Block Burned Out—Owned by Stringer & Co., Grain Merchants—Loss $7,000—Tenants Had Narrow Escapes—Had to Flee In Their Night Clothes—Nothing Saved—Several Other Fires.

Chatham, Dec. 24.—The Alexandria block, situated in the main business section of the city, was completely gutted by fire at an early hour yesterday morning. The building is owned by J. B. Stringer & Co., grain merchants, and the loss in the building will amount up to about $7,000, and the total loss will run well up into the thousands.

The fire started at 4 o'clock in a cafe on the ground floor. The lower floor was occupied by business houses and the two storeys above were fitted up for tenants. There were six families in the apartments above and many of them had difficulty in getting out of the building. Several were nearly suffocated by the smoke, which was very dense. Nothing was saved from the building. All of the tenants were forced to make their escape in their sleeping apparel. Those who suffered loss were: Ross Hickan, Dr. D. E. Bassell, T. Wanganheim, O. S. Sheldon, Mrs. Dobson and J. M. Stover, all tenants, and J. B. Stringer & Co.; McLeod, gents' furnishings, and restauranter and a barber.

Several of the firemen were injured, and a few of them are now in a very serious condition. Chief Pritchard, in trying to find a fire escape, fell from the top of the building. Both of his wrists were fractured, a nail ran through his hand, both knees were bruised and cut, the toes of his right foot broken and his left ankle badly sprained. He is at present in the hospital in a precarious condition.

Firemen George Pritchard, George Forsyth and Keeley were also badly injured and are laid up as a result of their night's work. The building was a metal one, and on this account the work of fighting the flames was very difficult. Messrs. Stringer & Co. will rebuild at once.

Nine Firemen Injured.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Dec. 24.—Nine firemen were injured and damage to the extent of $250,000 was done by a fire which originated in the Globe drygoods store of Langfield yesterday.

Fatal New York Fire.

New York, Dec. 24.—Frederick Koenig, aged 24, was killed while trying to save his sister and several other persons seriously burned in a fire in a five-storey tenement house at 221 East 110th street yesterday. Acting Battalion Chief Poling fell three stories and his recovery is said to be doubtful.

"Little Pete" Confessed.

Wellsville, N. Y., Dec. 24.—"Little Pete," who shot and fatally wounded Excise Inspector Dardano of Albany and seriously wounded Inspector Matico, made a full confession to District Attorney Rice and Detective Neaf of the excise department yesterday.

"I am glad I did it," said "Little Pete," whose real name is Guiseppi Sanduchi.

One Hundred Miners Escaped.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 24.—It became known yesterday that about 100 men were in the Schoenberger Mine, near by Monongahalia Sunday, when fire broke out, and that all had narrow escapes from death.

No Ability To Digest Food

NERVOUS SYSTEM SO EXHAUSTED THAT THE VITAL ORGANS ARE FEEBLE IN ACTION

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

The digestive system is a wonderful piece of machinery, but power is necessary to make it effective.

Overwork, worry, anxiety and excessive mental effort exhaust the nervous system at a tremendous rate.

In this case the power in the nerve force contained in the body, and if the nerve force is lacking the digestive system becomes crippled and there is suffering from indigestion, nervous headaches, neuralgic pains, dizzy spells, weakness and discouragement.

Strength cannot be regained from the food you eat so long as digestion is so imperfect, but you can be restored by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which contains in condensed pill form the very elements of nature which add repair must be made before some dreadful form of nervous disease sets in. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food invigorates the nerves which control the digestive fluids, sharpens the appetite, is slightly laxative, so as to encourage the action of the bowels and strengthens every organ of the body.

You can use this treatment feeling certain that every dose is doing you at least some good, and can prove it by noting your increase in weight.

Mrs. M A Sharp, 246 Dublin street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "For some years I was troubled with indigestion which developed into nervous dyspepsia and besides suffering from nervousness, dizzy spells would come over me. Hearing of the good results obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I decided to try it. After a pretty thorough test of this medicine I can say that I never used anything that did me so much good. It seemed to be the very treatment that I needed, and as a result of the use I am quite restored to health."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

W. G. Morrow, Esq.
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $5000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $5000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

Investing In Fame.

By TAYLOR WHITE.

Copyrighted, 1907, by Homer Sprague.

Miriam, her arms full of flowers, stepped through the little door leading from the stage to the auditorium. Her eyes still sparkled with the excitement of the evening, and the clear skin glowed brightly pink as the little groups, still lingering in the hall, hurried forward to compliment the leading lady.

To John Temple, lingering in the background, it seemed as if Miriam had never looked so lovely, and he pressed forward to take his place in the little crowd.

"Take the flowers, please, Jack," she said as he caught her eye. "Every one has been so kind to me. I feel that I do not deserve it all. You should have heard what Mr. Stanley said. He wants to speak to Mr. Belasco about me. He is sure that he can place me with his company after a little technical instruction."

Temple dutifully took the flowers and stepped into the background. He hated these private theatricals at which his wife shone so brilliantly. Still more, he hated Stanley, the professional coach, who had played the lover. Of course the love was all a pretense, a sham of the stage, but just the same he did not like to see his wife in another's arms.

For half an hour Mrs. Temple held her little court while the janitor waited impatiently to close the hall. Then Stanley joined the group, and Mrs. Temple moved toward the entrance.

"I have asked Mr. Stanley to have a bite of supper with us," she explained over her shoulder to her husband, and it was Stanley who helped her into the carriage and took his seat beside her, leaving the front seat to Temple and his load of flowers.

It was over the table that Stanley sprang his mine. For an hour he argued in favor of Miriam's determination to go upon the professional stage, and in the end he prevailed. Temple, worn and exhausted with the struggle, pushed his chair back and rose from the table.

"It may be as you say," he said wearily. "If Mrs. Temple is destined to become an ornament to the American stage, I suppose I am selfish in withholding my consent."

"My dear fellow," cried Stanley, with offensive familiarity, "I tell you Mrs. Temple can't help being one of the stars of next season. It's in her, and it's bound to come out."

Temple made no reply as he moved away from the table and crossed to the library for a cigar. This was what he had feared from the time Miriam had scored her first success. Perhaps it was as well to have it over with.

A week later Mrs. Temple was established in New York with her mother, and daily she worked at her lessons in the dingy cavern of an unlighted stage, taking delight in the fact that she was treading the boards that nightly served as the pedestal of one of the foremost actors of his day. Stanley was a coach of no mean skill, and he worked with a will to earn the large fees that were paid him. By spring he was able to place Miriam in a small part in a Broadway production. The cost of the costumes was double that of the salary to be paid for the entire engagement, and the manager was glad to get some amateur who would dress the part artistically, while at the same time he was shrewd enough to realize the advertising possibilities of the wife of a millionaire almost nationally famous.

Encouraged by her success, Miriam gave up her summer to study at the suggestion of Stanley, who was glad to move to the Temples' country home and drive the Temple horses when lessons were not in progress.

He had obtained an offer of the same part for the coming season, but Miriam was not content to continue in a minor role, and Stanley, seeing that the end was near, suggested an invitation performance.

"Mrs. Temple can play small parts to the end of her days," he pronounced ponderously. "What we want to do is to force the issue—to show people what she is really capable of. We'll hire a theater, get a good cast and put on, say, 'Romeo and Juliet.' That will make the managers sit up and take notice."

"Very well," said Temple quietly. "Get the best company you can and do the thing right."

Miriam, to whom Stanley had already broached the proposition, stared at her husband. Temple was a multimillionaire, but the ten or twelve thousand dollars that Stanley had declared the experiment would cost was a large sum to venture on a single matinee. Impulsively she sprang from her seat and ran to kiss him.

Temple smiled gently. It was the first voluntary kiss Miriam had given him since her greeting at the station. She did not realize in her absorption in her work how little attention she paid him.

Once assured of the success of his scheme, Stanley went up to town, leaving Miriam with her husband for a week. He wanted to be free to make arrangements for the theater, and Miriam, in her intervals of study, found it very pleasant to sit in the cool evenings with her husband and watch the boats glide by on the river far below. Not until Stanley had left had she noticed how pleasant it was to be freed from his exuberant presence. She was sorry when her tutor wired her to return to town.

For six weeks she was drilled in her new part. Every line was gone over carefully and the exact accent studied. She began to loathe the lines. From the companies playing in town and from those players not under engagement Stanley had made up an excellent cast. He had intended engaging cheaper people that his own share of the money might be greater, but for the first time John Temple took an interest in his wife's career and gave personal supervision to the formation of the supporting company.

Some few papers made half contemptuous advance mention of the performance, and the critics gleefully sharpened their pencils, but Miriam, unconscious of everything but the play, did not even see the half jesting allusions to the new star.

Then came the matinee. Stanley had seen to it that a claque was present, but in spite of the uproarious applause Miriam felt the insincerity of it all, and this added to the depression already induced by her knowledge of how poorly she appeared beside these well trained players.

At home among friends and amateurs whom she outshone the knowledge of superiority had buoyed her up. Now the veil was rudely torn from her eyes, and she beheld her limitations with the clearness of an outside observer. To complete her lesson she overheard a conversation between two of the lesser members of the cast.

"Stanley stands to clean up $5,000 off this show alone, besides what he made off his coaching lessons," said the first. The other laughed.

"I never saw a man with such luck at catching suckers," he said. "I wish I had the trick. They tell me he's made"—

Miriam's call came, and she lost the rest. She lay upon Juliet's bier with the words ringing in her ears. In a flash she saw it all. Stanley, playing upon her love for the stage, had encouraged her in the belief that she could make a great actress solely for the sake of the money she would pay him for his services as a coach, and Jack, her Jack, had been called a sucker.

The odious word bit into her brain, and it was with difficulty that she took up her lines when her cue came. The tomb scene was mercifully short. She bowed and smiled to the perfunctory applause as the curtain rose again. Most of the audience was heading for the entrance. The claque alone remained faithful.

Stanley as the curtain fell turned to offer his congratulations, but she roughly pushed him aside. Temple had come on to the stage, and she went straight to him.

"Jack," she sobbed, "take me away from here. Take me home. I don't want to act. I want just you, dear."

And Temple, writing a final check for Stanley, laughed softly to himself. His investment in fame had yielded ripe returns, as he had foreseen.

The Lion in Africa.

Of the way a lion roars Agnes Herbert, in "Two Dianas In Somaliland," says: "The dawn is the time when lions roar most. They occasionally give tongue when actually hunting, often after feeding. The sound varies with the age and lung power of the animal and has many gradations, sometimes sounding as though the pain of doing it at all hurt the throat. Sometimes the sound comes in great abrupt coughs, and again one hears even triumphant roars."

On his native heath the lion is not easy to recognize. "One of the most extraordinary features about lions to me is the way animals so large can obliterate themselves. They simply blend into the landscape. Their brownish yellow skins, so similar in color to the burned grass, and their agile bodies, which can crouch and wriggle like any lizard, play parts in the scheme for invisibility."

Lightning Calculator.

The expert bridge player's little daughter was a model Sunday school scholar. Toward the close of the year her teacher said:

"Susie, if you continue to know your lessons so well you will have a good conduct card for every Sunday in this year."

"My," said Susie, "that'll be a whole deck, won't it?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

IRISH M. P.'S MEET.

Redmond and O'Brien Agree on the Principles For Party Benefit.

Dublin, Dec. 24.—The series of conferences which have been held with a view to bringing about the reconciliation of William O'Brien, Nationalist member of Parliament for Cork, and the Parliamentary party, of which John E. Redmond is chairman, resulted yesterday in an agreement on certain propositions. In an official report of the meeting, which was given out, both Mr. Redmond and Mr. O'Brien say they see no reason why the Nationalists should not unite in a pledge-bound party on the following principles:.

(1) No man or party has authority to circumscribe the inalienable right of Ireland to the largest measure of national self-government it may be in her power to attain.

(2) Pending the attainment of an Irish Parliament and a responsible Irish Minister, with full control of all purely Irish affairs, which, in our belief, can alone be accepted in full satisfaction of the national demands, it is the duty of the Nationalists, while striving incessantly for home rule, to devote themselves earnestly to working for every measure of amelioration which it may be possible to obtain for her people from either of the English parties, and, as especially urgent matters, for a university settlement acceptable to the Catholics of Ireland, for the complete abolition of landlordism and for financial redress.

Mr. Redmond would not agree to the immediate calling of a national convention, saying that a convention would be held after the Government bills had been introduced, probably about Easter.

CHILDREN GO HUNGRY.

Pitiable State of Affairs Revealed In Great City of Berlin.

Berlin, Dec. 24.—The municipality is face to face with a very serious problem in connection with the supply of food to thousands of virtually starving children attending the primary schools in Berlin, whose numbers have been greatly augmented this year in consequence of the industrial inactivity.

Hitherto the Children's Canteen Society has been able to cope with the task in a fairly satisfactory way by means of subscriptions from private sources, but the call on its funds are this year so great that it will be unable to supply many of the children. In the first week of December, according to official statistics, from 245 out of the 286 primary schools, no fewer than 11,947 children attended school in most cases without breakfast, and in all cases without the prospect of obtaining a midday meal at home. Of those 4,496 receive a simple daily meal from the 14 canteens belonging to the above-mentioned society, the other 7,449 are totally unprovided for.

The question of the city's responsibility for the children has now been raised by the Socialists in the municipal council, who propose that the council should in future undertake the task.

Irish Member Arrested.

Dublin, Dec. 24.—The police yesterday afternoon arrested Laurence Ginnell, Nationalist member of Parliament for the north division of Westmeath, at Kilbridge. He was brought here and placed in jail at Kilmainham last night. Ginnell was sentenced to six months imprisonment last Friday for contempt of court in urging cattle raids.

Since his conviction he has repeatedly appeared at meetings and addressed the people, but always he was surrounded by his supporters, and the police were unable to reach him. Whenever an effort at arrest appeared about to succeed Ginnell, protected by his followers, slipped away and disguised himself, later reappearing within a few hours in some other section and urging the people to persist in the cattle-driving.

Voecks Pleaded Guilty.

New York, Dec. 24.—Hume C. Voecks, brother of Elsie Voecks, in whose behalf charges were brought against Raymond Hitchcock, the comedian, pleaded guilty to an indictment alleging extortion before Judge Rosalsky yesterday, and was remanded for sentence. Voecks is accused of obtaining $1,000 from Hitchcock for keeping quiet concerning the charges brought against the actor.

Ex-Governor Sentenced.

Berlin, Dec. 24.—Ex-Governor Horn of Togoland was yesterday sentenced to a fine of $75 and costs and to be transferred to another post for the ill-treatment of a native of Togoland in 1903.

The charge against Horn was that he caused the death of a native named Zeus by having been bound to a flagstaff and leaving him there without food or drink for 24 hours.

Lemieux Coming Home.

Ottawa, Dec. 24.—In response to an urgent cable from the Premier requesting his return to Canada immediately, a reply was received from Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux yesterday, stating that he would sail from Yokohama on Jan. 3, and travel via San Francisco. Mr. Lemieux had intended to visit India and travel home by the Mediterranean.

Deported a Hundred.

Montreal, Dec. 24.—H. & A. Allan state that over a hundred able-bodied men have been deported from the port of Halifax arrived by the steamers of that line, because they had not the requisite sum of $50 in their pockets, or because they had not secured situations before leaving Europe

Reorganize House of Peers.

Lisbon, Dec. 24.—Premier Franco purposes, before Jan. 1, to issue a decree reorganizing the Portuguese House of Peers. The Premier believes that as the House is at present constituted it is a stumbling block to the political regeneration of the country.

Chinese Womans' Death.

Pittsburg, Dec. 26—Sang Foon Wah, the only Chinese woman in Pittsburg, dropped dead at the home of her cousin here last night. It is thought she had indulged excessively in opium, which affected her heart. Her sudden death was followed by a panic among several Chinamen, who were in the room and who were terrorised by what they considered a visitation from Joss, their god.

Urges British Emigration.

London, Dec. 26.—(C. A. P.)—The Secretary of the Empire Education League says there is no need of any man or woman, with a little patience, to be idle or unemployed in Canada, and that in view of the hundreds of starving men striving to sell penny toys in Holborn, it would be criminal to throw any damper on emigration.

Killed by a Trolley.

New York, Dec. 26.—While on his way to the home of his son with a Christmas present, with which he hoped to bridge over a quarrel of long standing between himself and the young man, James Rhind, an aged civil war veteran, was run over and killed by a Third avenue trolley car at Sixty-Fourth street yesterday.

Rhind was partially blind from an old bullet wound and did not see the car until too late.

LONDON'S DAY OF DARKNESS.

Black Fog Blots Out Daylight Over Great Metropolis.

Daylight was blotted out in London on a recent occasion by the blackest fog-pall seen for many years. During the greater part of the day the whole metropolitan area was plunged into a darkness worse than night.

If, instead of hovering at a height of three or four hundred feet in the air, the lowering banks of pitch black vapor had descended and settled in the streets, the result would undoubtedly have been the densest and most disastrous fog within living memory.

Luckily there was just sufficient wind overhead to keep the fog-banks gently on the move. Instead of having to fight through the densest fog on record, London merely had to kindle its myriad lights to illumine a midday midnight. Most of the railways were able to work with their ordinary signal lamps.

The only trace of fog in the streets was in the form of misty distances, a little denser in some streets than others, just as ordinarily distinguish a November night. But, comparatively clear as the atmosphere was below the fog-banks, the outlook was so intensely dark that London's full lighting capacity had to be requisitioned, and even then the day was not so bright as a normal night.

On the expert estimate that the cost to the metropolis for extra illuminants alone during a dense fog averages $10,000 an hour, the darkness resulted in a loss of not less than $50,000.

Apart from the weird unfamiliarity of blazing shop windows, flashing street lamps and electrically illuminated advertisements and the constant hurrying stream of brilliantly lighted motor-omnibuses at midday, there were many eerie phases of the darkness.

It was at all times possible on the Embankment to see the dim outlines of buildings on the other side of the Thames, but it was an altogether novel experience to see a busy daytime traffic of barges and tugs up and down the river with lights flashing out in the worse than midnight darkness.

The pitchy blackness overhead made the Thames a river of ink, in which the seagulls floating on the tide literally shone out whiter than snow. They were just as intensely white when they took wing and had the fog-pall itself for background.

Something of the same effect was seen in the streets. The white rain-washed sides of the Law Courts' pinnacles, the towers of St. Paul's, the spire of St. Clement Danes Church and parts of other stone buildings, rising into a sky of the hue of ink, stood boldly out as though shaded with drifted snow.

The upper floor of the British Museum was closed on account of the darkness.

Sparrows could be seen moping by scores in the boughs of the Embankment trees, but in the pigeons' sacred haunts at St. Paul's, the Guildhall and elsewhere not a bird was visible all through the hours of darkness. The pigeons had evidently gone to roost in the belief that night had come. Only the seagulls seemed undisturbed by the gloom.

The fog prevailed in some of the suburbs, but in others, as, for instance, in the Crystal Palace district, there was clear daylight.

PROPHECIES FULL OF EMPIRE.

General Baden-Powell Compares Great Britain With Ancient Rome.

A cheery soul is the hero of Mafeking, Major-General Baden-Powell. He has been prophesying the downfall of the British Empire just in the same way that the Roman Empire fell of old. He was lecturing to a big gathering of boy scouts in the Regent street Polytechnic, and here is a bit of what he is reported to have said:—

"Great Britain is to-day just about the same as the Roman Empire was two thousand years ago. We know the latter's history and all her faults. We should take care we do not fall into the same errors. Rome, too, had a municipal council, which ran up the rates and which was always making squabbles on party grounds, which seems to be just what is happening now in this country.

"Rome, too, had a question of free food. Rome had games, but gradually gave up the playing of them and paid others to do it. They didn't mind killing a few gladiators, because they could quite easily buy a few more. But I don't suppose it could be done in the same way now, because I understand that the football players cost about £2,000.

"By giving up playing the Romans became puny. The foreign manning of their ships was another reason for their fall, but I could keep on giving comparisons between the Romans at their fall and the Britons at the present time."

All this, of course, was merely a preface to encourage the boy scouts to grow up with determination to do their duty.

World's Noisiest Street.—

London's Strand is the noisiest street in the world. It has been for years London's boast that it was noisy. The roar of traffic and humanity can be heard above the mere rattle and bang of the thoroughfares, and it sounds to the acute sense of hearing much like the roll of thunder. Begin once to notice it and the nerves quiver. It never ceases, for during the one unworking hour, from 3 to 4 a. m., the echo of a million of London sounds will still reverberate in space. London is never silent. Paris, however, has spasms of quiet in its more respectable quarters, though when it recommence it fairly shrieks itself hoarse.

What He Meant.

A young man of Boston who had failed to pay his laundry bill endeavored to turn his Chinaman aside from inquiry by an attack upon the Celestial's manner of speech.

"Why do you say 'Fliday,' John?" he asked.

"Say Fliday because I mean Fliday," replied John stoutly. "No say Fliday and mean maybe week after nex', like Melican man."

Original or Not?

Great aches from little toe corns grow—
Has this been said before?
It's just as true to-day, if so,
As ever it was of yore.

LONDON'S NOTABLE CLUBS.

Marlborough Most Celebrated of Them, the King Being Member.

London's most important club from the social point of view, is no doubt the Marlborough, which is situated in Pall Mall, not very far from Marlborough House. It owes its prestige to the favor of the King, who still visits it on occasion and has his favorite seat in the dining room, which, it need hardly be said, no one would ever dream of occupying. Membership is practically confined to the people whom the King regards with favor or who are in the more exclusive court set. Should His Majesty by any chance visit any of the clubs to which he belongs, he is at his own request treated like any other member, but it need hardly be said that no one would ever dream of approaching him unless special permission were given for the purpose, and the King always speaks first to any one with whom he desires to converse.

One of the most expensive clubs is the Naval and Military, founded in 1863. It is frequently spoken of as the "In and Out" Club, because of the two words placed over the gateway. Entrance to it is obtained by a fee of 40 guineas, and the annual subscription is 10 guineas.

Much older, however, are the Guards' and the United Service, which opened their doors within two years of each other, the former having been started in 1813 and the latter in 1815, the year in which Waterloo was fought. The Guards' Club has a strict rule against the admission of strangers, and it forbids the playing of round games of cards. The United Service Club, which moved from Charles street to the premises it now occupies in Pall Mall in 1828, the change having cost close upon £100,000, is commonly called "The Senior," and it has some of the most famous men living on its books, the Kaiser and the Czar being among its honorary members, while such great soldiers as Lord Roberts, Lord Kitchener, and Lord Wolseley, are members. The other service clubs include the Army and Navy, the Junior United Service, the Cavalry and the Junior Naval and Military.

Among the political clubs the most important are the Carlton, for the Conservatives, and the Reform, which is strictly Liberal in its principles. The entrance fee to both is £40 and the annual subscription 10 guineas. Contrary to what many people believe, however, the membership of the Carlton and the Reform is not limited to politicians, for many men whose lives are spent far removed from the excitement of the political world belong to them.

The largest of the political clubs is the Constitution, which is housed in Northumberland avenue. It has a membership of 6,500, who pay an entrance fee of 10 guineas or 15 guineas and an annual subscription of 7 guineas or 4 guineas, according as they are town or country members.

The National Liberal runs it close in membership, with 6,000, while the Junior Carlton, in Piccadilly, has 5,000 members, and the Junior Conservative 3,500.

At the head of the scientific and literary clubs stands the Athenaeum, which was founded in 1824 for the association of persons of scientific and literary attainments and artists, and noblemen and gentlemen, patrons of learning, etc. Those who originally came together for the purpose were the Marquess of Lansdowne, the Earls of Liverpool and Aberdeen, Faraday, Chantry, Sir Thomas Lawrence, Davy, the inventor of the safety lamp; Moore, and seven men who were afterwards to be Prime Ministers of England. The club, which stands on the site of what was formerly Carlton Palace, is of Grecian architecture, and the frieze is an exact copy of the procession which formed the frieze of the Parthenon at Athens.

The social clubs are exceedingly numerous, among the leading ones being the Bath, which combines society with swimming and other sporting accomplishments; the Windham, with the curious entrance fee of 31 guineas, and the Wellington, which admits women as visitors, as does the Bachelors'.

Among the other famous social clubs are Boodle's, the Cocoa Tree, the Oriental, the Orleans, the Saville and the Thatched House.

For those interested in the theatre there are the Garrick, in Garrick street, where famous actors can often be seen lunching as they sit at the tables by the windows; the Green Room, where the less exalted members of the theatrical profession fraternize, and the Savage, which numbers among its members lovers of music, literature and art, and includes no less a personage than the King himself.

Followers of art, literature and science have the Arts Club, where Royal Academicians and associates of the Royal Academy meet in friendly intercourse. For men who have travelled there is the Travellers', while 'varsity men are to be found at the Oxford and Cambridge, the New Oxford and Cambridge and the New University.

To satisfy the growing clubbable instincts and desires of women there are close on thirty women's clubs. The one with the largest membership is the Empress, which numbers 3,600 women of social position, but the oldest is the Alexandra, which was established in 1884, for "ladies of position" only. In many respects the most interesting is the Lyceum, every member of which must have done some original work, and for this reason it stretchbes out its hands across the sea and has branches in the leading capitals of the world.

Your Humble Servant.

The use of "your humble servant" and of "your most humble and obedient servant," which have given way to the curt "yours truly," came first into use in England in conversation and later in correspondence, on the marriage of Queen Mary, daughter of Henry IV. of France, to King Charles I. The usual salutation before that time had been "God keep you," "God be with you"—this among the gentry. With the common people it was "How dost thou, Hodge?" with a thump on the shoulder.

Bricks Made of Coal Dust.

Russia has many streets paved with bricks made of coal dust combined with resin and treacle. The combination is said to make a very fine pavement.

FREAK OF THE TIDES.

At the Mouth of St. John River, Where Water Flows Up Hill.

Speaking of freaks of the tide, there is nothing in this world to equal the phenomenon at the mouth of the St. John River, where water flows up hill and down twice daily. These reversing falls are in a class by themselves in the world's natural curiosities.

The rise of the tide in the Bay of Fundy, which ranges up to sixty feet, averages at St. John harbor twenty-eight or thirty feet.

At the mouth of the St. John River the great body of water is forced through a deep and narrow gorge. On the one side of this gorge the harbor opens; above it the St. John River, nearly 500 miles long, stretches away into the province of Quebec.

When the tide in the Bay of Fundy is on the flow, the waters rise with such rapidity that the level in the harbor becomes in less than an hour considerably higher than the level in the river.

The water is forced through the gorge at such a rate that it literally falls up into the river, the height of this fall reaching at times fourteen feet. So great is the area of the river, so great is the amount of water rising in the harbor and so narrow is the gorge that it would take hours longer than the interval of any tide to bring the river level up to that of the harbor at high water.

As a consequence, after the tide has turned and is on the ebb in the harbor, the level is still so much higher than the river that the tide in the river continues to rise for two or three hours, the water still falling upward.

The same force works in the flow. After the water in the harbor has fallen until the level in the harbor and in the river are the same the fall downward begins. During the next few hours the harbor recedes until the drop from the river to the harbor is as much as sixteen or seventeen feet at the very lowest tide. Once more the tide turns inward and comes up quickly, but over three hours elapse before it is sufficiently high to counteract the downward flow from the river.

At half tide there is a period of something less than an hour when navigation is impossible.

Another For Canada.

At the Gravesend Police Court, England, Ernest Burnett, described as a wood-reeve, was charged with threatening to shoot Miss Eadie Heaver, his former sweetheart, with a revolver.

Prosecutrix, a pretty young girl, stated that she had sent the accused replies to three threatening letters. Before they separated on the last occasion, she saw a revolver in his hand. He wrote under the heading, "Vengeance":—

"Do you think the man you are going with is better than me? I must have it out. I will fight him for you if you like, and give him the first hit. I am very hot."

In his last letter the prisoner said: "I shall meet you to-morrow (Saturday) at the gate at half-past nine. I cannot get there soon enough to meet you. If he wants to get back to Scotland the best thing he can do is to bolt as soon as you see me; then he will be lucky. If I don't 'cop' you to-morrow night, I shall on Sunday. So you know what it is—lights out quick. . . . Make your mind up quick, as time is getting short. I don't care what becomes of me." Several x's and a heart design were added to the letter. The third person referred to was "a member of a Highland regiment," with whom Miss Heaver admitted she was now keeping company.

In cross-examination the accused asked her in a supplicating way if she had not loved him and come to him after previous quarrels, "Yes," she answered.

"And you were going to jump into a pond one night only I stopped you?"

Miss Heaver replied that she did not remember threatening to drown herself for his sake, but admitted that one of their tiffs did take place near a pond.

The prisoner, sobbing bitterly asked the magistrates to accept his solemn undertaking that he would never again write or speak to Miss Heaver. He had no intention to shoot her, and it was his intention to go to Canada if allowed to depart.

The magistrates said the case was a most serious one, but prisoner had given his undertaking as a sacred thing, and they would let him go on payment of costs.

Couldn't Get Used to It.

British Columbia is vain of her fruits. As you glide down the mountains towards the Pacific the train pulls up at a station and you are made aware of the resources of the country when urchins come to the car steps offering apples and plums for sale. After having seen so many snow-capped peaks you cannot resist the fruit.

In some parts of the province the rich soil of the valleys extends quite a distance up the slopes or "benches" of the mountains, and those who dwell on the level amuse themselves at times by making jests about those who have hanging gardens on the hill sides. A story is told to the effect that two members of the Alpine Club of Canada were bravely climbing a mountain that they supposed had never been scaled, when they were astonished to hear a noise above them, and to see a man go sprawling past them down the declivity, scraping with his toes and clutching with his hands. Peering after him they saw him cleverly arrest his fall by grasping a shrub, and soon he labored up to where they stood, pale and shaking. His face was not pale like theirs, but red, and wore a look, not of fear, but of injury and disgust.

"That's the third time," he said, "that I've fallen off my orchard, and if it happens again I won't climb back. There's no use talking—I can't get used to it."

Quite Probable.

Howell—These ocean liners are getting pretty speedy.

Powell—That's right. The time will come when a man can go to Europe to spend Sunday.

THE CRIME OF OBEAH.

New Act Leading to Extinction of Degrading Customs.

The annual report on the Leeward Isles, issued by the Colonial Office, contains some interesting information regarding the gradual extinction of one of the most repulsive customs practiced by African heathens. The Obeah Act, 1904, it is reported, has now been in operation for three years, and it is very pleasing to be able to record that the act has been a marked success, and that the degrading and dangerous crime of practicing Obeah has received a check from which it is never likely to recover. "Obeah," "Voodoo," or "Juju," is, in the West Indies, the survival of the whole body of primitive beliefs and customs of fetichistic African tribes. Its great danger is the power which a belief in its practices places in the hands of some degraded but sharp-witted scamp, who with no belief in it himself terrorises over the community he visits or resides in.

The act referred to makes the possession of any "instrument of Obeah" a proof of the crime of practicing Obeah unless the contrary be proved, and provides for the whipping of males and for police supervision. Whipping is never ordered for a first offence. The police were encouraged to take energetic action under the new law, and several Obeah men quickly discovered that the Leeward Islands were no longer a fitting place for abode. The Obeahman now finds it a difficult and dangerous thing to keep his stock-in-trade by him, and deprived of his paraphernalia of human skulls, cocks' heads, bones, etc., his fame has vanished. When, as in the case of a well-known Obeahman ordinarily resident in Monteerrat, but whose operations extended over the colony, a flogging is added to some wholesale detention, ridicule of his practices takes the place of the dread which they formerly inspired.

Up to the very last the peasants believed, in the case referred to, that the threatened degradation of a flogging would be warded off by some magic influence. It is probable that Obeah, in this colony at any rate, is responsible for very few cases of poisoning. It would not appear that any knowledge of African bush poisons survives in these islands, and any attempts to use the ordinary poisons that would be within his reach are too dangerous for the average Obeahman. Though it is perhaps too much to hope that the ignorant portion of a race that has only been in its new environment some four or five generations will completely lose yet awhile the beliefs that its African ancestors held for perhaps thousands of years, yet the spread of education and repressive measures of the kind here referred to have worked a marvellous change for the better in a very short space of time.

FIRST STREET GAS LAMPS.

Appeared In London Thoroughfares In August, 1807.

Most of the streets of London were lighted with oil lamps one hundred years ago, but in one little corner on a night in August, 1807, an experiment was made in lighting the public highway with gas. It was private enterprise that made the experiment, the proprietors of the Golden Lane brewery, Aldersgate, erecting and maintaining seven lamps in Golden lane and four in Beech street at distances of about twenty yards.

The distillation of inflammable gas from coal had been known for 70 years before, and as an illuminant it had been used in mines, in foundries, and in shops. In London the first experiments with gas as an illuminant for private purposes were made at the old Lyceum Theatre by Mr. Winsor, a German, about 1803 or 1804. He endeavored to get a company together to supply London with gas for lighting purposes, but the necessary Act of Parliament could not be obtained.

In January, 1807, J. R. Planche records walking down Pall Mall and seeing "the first lamps lighted with gas in London," but this is not correct. The lights were private ones, probably those at Winsor's shop, which adjoined the garden wall of Carlton House. He had been very successful in lighting large places of business, and we read of him illuminating his premises on the King's birthday with thirty-two lights, a Prince of Wales' feathers in gas, and an illuminated transparency. The work was most successfully carried out, which led the chronicler to say: "Hopes may now be entertained that this long-talked-of mode of lighting our streets may at length be realized."

His hopes were more than justified. The examples of Golden lane was quickly followed by Finsbury square, and others came into line rapidly, though it was not until 1812 that a gas supply company was formed.

The last thoroughfare in London to adopt gas lamps was Grosvenor square, which clung affectionately to its oil illuminations until 1842.

Light Humor.

In the latter half of the 18th century one of the members of a little scientific society in Liverpool laid a curious wager. He bet a brother scientist that he would read a newspaper by the light of a farthing dip at a distance of 30 feet. The B. S., finding the feat difficult at even a sixth of the distance, cheerfully accepted the wager.

The layer merely coated the inside of a shallow wooden box with sloping pieces of looking-glass, so as to form a concave lens, placed behind his farthing dip, and readily deciphered the small print at the stipulated distance.

The experiment was witnessed by a Liverpool dockmaster. He was a thinking man and saw great possibilities in this learned jest. He straightway adapted the principle to lighthouse requirements, and forthwith the modern reflected light, with its miles of reflected range and untold life-saving powers, sprang into being.

It Is Presumption to Say You Haven't a Mind of Your Own, yet that is what is practically said to you when you ask for an advertised article and are offered a substitute by a dealer. He would give you what you made up your mind you wanted but for the fact that a substitute pays him a larger percentage of profit. Such a dealer's interest lies only in making as much money out of you as possible. The first class dealer would have given you what you asked for, by that course admitting that you had a mind of your own and were capable of exercising it. SHE WAS KILLED BY ARSENIC

Poison Found in Exhumed Body of Mrs. Rochette.

JURY BLAMES THE HUSBAND

Coroner's Verdict of Murder In Death of Quebec Woman — The Husband Married a Few Days After Wife's Death—Is Now on Honeymoon Trip — The Police Are Now Looking For the Murderer.

Quebec, Dec. 27.—The coroner's inquest on the body of the deceased, Mrs. Omer Rochette, whose death and subsequent exhumation has caused so much comment and so many different stories took place yesterday. Dr. Marois and Dr. Vallee, who made the analysis of the stomach, stated that it was found deceased died by arsenic poisoning.

At 3.30 yesterday afternoon the jury rendered a verdict to the effect that deceased died of arsenical poisoning, criminally administered by her husband, Omer Rochette, who is held criminally responsible.

Ten days after his wife's death Rochette married a young girl named Marceau. The newly-married couple left immediately on a honeymoon trip to Montreal.

A nephew of the husband stated that he was present during the two last days preceding his aunt's death at Rochette's house, and that any medicine given to the deceased was almost always given to her by the husband.

When last heard of, Rochette and his second wife were in Montreal, but he is supposed to have left that city on the 9th instant. Chief McCaskill has the matter in hand, and it is expected that Omer Rochette will soon be captured. Rochette was formerly proprietor of the Merchants' Club here.

AUSTRALIA'S FAST SERVICE.

New Contract With Line Plying From British Ports.

Ottawa, Dec. 27.—Australia has made a new steamship arrangement with the line now plying between that colony and Britain, according to a report received here yesterday from Mr. Ross, Canadian Trade Commissioner, at Sydney. The new arrangement is for a period of ten years from 1910. It is for a fortnightly service as at present, but the boats are to be larger and faster, 11,600 tons and 17 knots being required, with ample cold storage facilities. There is a special freight rate as a new feature. It is provided that on butter not more than a cent a pound may be charged and on fruit not more than $14.60 a ton. The new subsidy is for $850,000 a year, an increase of $250,000.

The sailing of the new steamer Den of Ruthven, from Sydney to Vancouver has been cancelled. The boat has to carry coal to Honolulu and bring a return cargo of lumber from British Columbia.

Famine In Turkey.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 27.—The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions has received advices from the interior of Turkey, showing unusually severe famine conditions.

Teachers in the villages near Erzroom, whose salaries average $79.20 in American money, are obliged to pay $62.80 for a year's supply of wheat.

Mr. Herd, the British consul at Bitlis, reports that several hundred persons in the Moushplain and Bularik will probably starve to death before the winter closes unless relief reaches them soon.

Jumps In Front of Train.

New York, Dec. 27.—Ernest G. Stedman, vice-president and a director of the J. C. Lyons Building & Operating Co., against which a petition in bankruptcy was filed last Friday, committed suicide yesterday by jumping in front of a subway train at the Fourteenth street station.

The fatality occurred during the rush hours, precipitating a panic among the hundreds of waiting passengers. Women became hysterical and it was with difficulty that the crowd was controlled by the subway police.

Killed by Mistake.

San Jose, Cal., Dec. 27.—Bertram Somers early yesterday shot and killed his 5-year-old boy, having mistaken him for a burglar. The child, it is believed, was walking in his sleep.

PARTICULARS OF THE MURDER

William Curry Brutally Murdered Near Brampton.

HIRED MAN THE ASSASSIN

Fatal Row on Christmas Night—Aged Victim Was Going to the Assistance of His Son Who Had Been Threatened—Murderer Was Overpowered After a Hard Fight and Lodged In Brampton Jail.

Brampton, Dec. 27.—John Terrace, an English immigrant of 25 years, is in Brampton jail charged with one of the blackest murders in the annals of Peel County. His victim was William Curry, one of the most esteemed farmers of Toronto Township, while a son, County Councillor James Curry escaped death only after a desperate fight for his life.

A special despatch gives the following details of the murder:

Toronto Township, in which so many tragic deaths have taken place in the past few years, was the scene on Christmas day of a brutal and apparently premeditated murder. The victim was William Curry, an old and very well-known farmer living at lot 5 in the 6th concession. The murderer is John Terrace, a young Englishman of about 25 years of age, who was employed as a farm hand with Mr. Curry's son, James Curry.

The facts, so far as can be ascertained, are as follows: Mr. Curry and his son had been spending Christmas day with Mrs. Black, a daughter, who lived near by. They came home in the evening, and after doing the work at the barn sat about the table for a time reading. The old gentleman had gone to bed.

Terrace said to a boy, who was also employed on the farm, "We had better go to bed."

Instead of doing so, however, he secured a double-barrelled shotgun and turning to Mr. James Curry said to him, "You had the laugh on me yesterday, but I have it on you now."

It appears the day before a Brampton pump man had been doing some work on the farm and there was a general laugh about the awkwardness of the Englishman.

Curry said to him: "Your fooling me," to which Terrace replied, "No, I'm going to shoot you."

Curry replied, "The gun is not loaded."

"Oh yes it is," answered Terrace, "I loaded it this afternoon."

Hearing the conversation Mr. Curry, Sr., who was in the adjoining room, came out to the door and enquired what was the matter.

Terrace said to him: "You take another step and I'll shoot you." Almost immediately he discharged one barrel, the shot entering the old gentleman's left breast above the heart. He staggered back and was able to get into bed.

James Curry at once seized Terrace, and in the scuffle the lamp was knocked from the table and went out. The gun was discharged a second time without effect. Terrace then took from his pocket a heavy iron crank belonging to a self-feeding stove and with this he struck James Curry on the head. Finally, however, he was overpowered. Curry securing the iron with which he struck the murderer a blow on the head, rendering him unconscious. Meanwhile the boy had gone for assistance.

Although in an apparently dying condition Terrace was securely tied and attention given to the wounded man. Dr. Aikens was soon in attendance, but the wound was of a character to make assistance impossible. After four hours suffering, death relieved his agony.

County Crown Attorney McFadden and County Constable George Brodby have arrived and taken charge of the case. At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the prisoner was brought to Brampton jail, where he is still in a semi-unconscious state, but will no doubt recover in a day or two. He is a young man between 25 and 30 years of age, about five feet eleven inches tall, and weighs about 175 pounds. He had only been in the employ of Mr. Curry for three weeks, being engaged in Toronto for one month only. He is an Englishman and came to Canada recently from Newcastle.

Coroner Heggie viewed the remains and arranged for an inquest to be held at Elmbank on Monday next.

Mr. Curry was 59 years of age, and was a well-known and highly respected farmer, and lived for many years in Brampton. He had been living with his son and daughter for the past three years. The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon.

Among the articles found in Terrace's effects is a photo of himself, a woman and child. Presumably, therefore, he leaves a wife and child in England.

It will come out in the evidence that Terrace secured cartridges from James Carry's room, and that the day before the murder he had been out shooting. A neighbor named McKay heard the gun discharged that afternoon. Two cartridges which fit the gun were found on the prisoner's person.

The prisoner has told a somewhat remarkable story, which has little value, however, owing to his condition as a result of the blow from the iron crank.

Presentation to Police Chief.

Cobalt, Dec. 27.—A deputation of 25 leading citizens waited on Chief of Police George Caldbick at his home Christmas night and presented him with a silver service in recognition of his efforts to preserve the moral welfare of Cobalt. His assistants, McKay and Woods, received carving sets.

Noose Returns to Japan.

Ottawa, Dec. 27.—Mr. Tatsugoro Noose, the Japanese consul-general, who has held that post in Ottawa for the past six years, left Ottawa last night to return to Japan on six months' leave of absence. The impression prevails that his return is announced.

BLOODY CHRISTMAS IN TENNESSEE

Holiday Season Is Marked by Several Murders.

REVOLVERS FREELY USED

Policeman and Special Constable Killed—Two Brothers-in-Law Shoot One Another to Death—Man Murders His Wife at Church Door —Sheriff's Man Shot While In the Act of Making an Arrest.

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 27.—Christmas week in the eastern section of Tennessee has been an unusually bloody one. Tragedies reported thus far are:

At Newport, Tenn., Robert Knowles, a special policeman, tried to arrest William Allan for drunkenness. Knowles shot Allen through the body. Allen lived two hours.

Near Del Rio, Tenn., Ike Murray and Norton, brothers-in-law, shot each other to death, using pistols and shotguns. Norton, it is said, while drunk, went to Murray's house and created a disturbance.

Near Strahl, Tenn., Alexander Wright, who had returned from Missouri to visit his wife, who has been living with her parents near that place, called her from church and emptied his pistol in her body. She cannot live. Jealousy was the cause. Wright is still at large.

At Isabella, Polk County, John Hall, it is charged, shot and killed his brother-in-law, William Crowder. A woman is mixed up in the case.

Luther Wallace, aged 20, shot and killed Lee Eldridge a prominent man at Hotstone Valley, using a shotgun. Wallace had broken into the post-office at Harris, Tenn., yesterday morning. A warrant was placed in the hands of Deputy Sheriff White, who deputized Eldridge to assist in making the arrest. Wallace surprised the two men, and after killing Eldridge, made his escape.

REFUSE TO PAY RENT.

Thirty Thousand Families In New York Resist High Rates.

New York, Dec. 27.—As the result of a movement which has been under way for more than a month, thirty thousand families on the lower east side will refuse to-day to pay rent, and if their demands for a reduction are not met, wholesale evictions will follow. The Socialist party, with headquarters in the eighth, fourth and second assembly districts, is directing the revolt against the landlords, claiming the present industrial conditions do not warrant the same rentals that tenants were able to pay a year ago. Four hundred women, organized by Miss Pauline Newmann, have made a house-to-house canvass to obtain written pledges that a reduction of from 20 to 30 per cent. in rent would be demanded, and if this was refused, that no rent would be paid.

Sold Fraudulent Shares.

Denver, Col., Dec. 27.—Promoters, mining engineers and other persons convicted of using the mails with intent to defraud in connection with the sale of stock in the Lost Spanish Bullion Mines Co. were sentenced yesterday in the U. S. District Court here as follows:

George S. Dubers, Lee Dubers and C. L. Blackwell, 30 days in jail and $1,000 fine each; William H. Wilson, W. B. Cameron, A. E. Keebler and Arthur Lawrence, 15 days' imprisonment and $500 fine each; Arthur Levan and E. W. Sebben, $100 fine and costs amounting to $200; R. C. Hunt and Danton Pinkus, $50 fine and $150 costs.

Boy Read Dime Novels.

Winnipeg, Dec. 27.—Edward Smith, a 14-year-old boy, has been missing since Saturday and his parents believe he has committed suicide, as he had frequently threatened. Sensational literature of the dime novel class is held responsible.

JAPS CONTROL SITUATION.

Refuse to Recognize Pre-Treaty Assurances Regarding Immigration.

Ottawa, Dec. 27.—The point about which there is most interest and speculation in Ottawa, in connection with the Japanese treaty, is whether article one of the Japanese treaty, with its sweeping permission to Japanese to enter Canada on the same footings as Canadians, does not override the right of the Canadian Government to impose conditions as to immigration. This view is held by Conservatives, and was expressed by Mr. Monk on Dec. 12 last. According to it the Japanese have absolute control of immigration situation, we cannot pass an alien labor law directed against Japanese, we cannot keep out undesirable Japanese to the same extent as we can keep undesirable British immigrants out.

The reply made is that expressed by Duncan Ross on Dec. 16; it is that by international law every nation has an indefensible right to control immigration into it. The Conservative rejoinder is that Canada, by the sweeping terms of article one, signed away this right. The rejoinder is strengthened by the fact that the United States Government thought it necessary, when negotiating a similar treaty, to include a clause containing an express reservation of its rights over immigration. Further, it is understood that Mr. Nosse, the Japanese consul-general, takes Mr. Monk's view.

The recent despatches from Tokio seem to indicate that the Japanese Government not only takes the view that it control the immigration situation, but also takes the view that its undertakings on the subject prior to the conclusion to the treaty are null and void. Should this latter prove to be the case, a serious blow will be dealt to the position assumed by the Liberal members from British Columbia, who assert that they were induced by these pre-treaty assurances to acquiesce in the ratification of the convention. They will be in the position of having been tricked, and so, if their account of the attitude of the Government is correct, will the Government of Canada.

CREW PLACED IN CHAINS.

Mutiny on Steamship Lonsdale Leads to Thrilling Adventure.

Mexico City, Dec. 27.—Details of a thrilling adventure in which a handful of determined officers and a well-known member of the British colony held in subjection and placed in chains a full complement of sailors of the steamship Lonsdale, who had mutinied on the high seas, just reached this capital. When the ship arrived at the port of Salina Cruz she was manned only by her officers, the crew being in irons.

According to the captain, quick action was taken upon the development of the first signs of mutiny, and assisted by his under officers and a passenger, A. W. Donnelly, all of whom were heavily armed, they mounted the bridge and covering the discontented crew, forced them into subjection. The officers then bound them hand and foot and kept them in captivity until they were delivered to the port authorities.

The Lonsdale is one of the Mexican Pacific liners and plies between Canada and West Coast points.

PETERBOROUGH FRIDAY DECEMBER 27 1907

HE BECOMES MANAGER

Mr. N. G. Somerville Has Accepted a Position With The Birrell Separator Co., Brockville

ONE MORE VISIT HERE

Mr. N. G. Somerville of Brockville, who is well known throughout the country as a prominent dairy lecturer, has accepted the position of manager of the D. H. Burrell "Simplex" Separator Works, at Brockville, to succeed the late Mr. A. B. Rabb, who death was reported in the Examiner a couple of weeks ago.

Mr. Somerville will probably make one more visit to the Peterborough district before confining himself to his new duties. He has now been on the Dairy Commissioner's staff of the Dominion Government for over five years, four of which were spent in connection with the Cool Curing movement, and one with the formation of the Cow Testing Association. His last jouney through here will be in January.

CANADA'S RESOURCES VS. UNCLE SAM'S

Havelock Debaters Discuss This Important Problem in Public

Examiner Special.

Havelock, Dec. 27th. — The Library Society of the High School of Havelock gave a grand treat to the citizens in the town hall last Friday night, December 20th, the important feature being a debate among the high school pupils, "Resolved, — That the resources of Canada are greater than those of the United States," was the bone of contention. During the evening assistance was given by the pupils of the public school and songs, choruses and recitations added to the enjoyment of the evening, and as a grand finale, several members of the school board gave addresses. Ex-reeve S. S. Joyce was the principal speaker. Messrs. Jas. Black and Herrington also gave addresses. The president, Master H. Patterson, made a lively chairman.

Jas. Knox, Ray Williams and Albert Armstrong argued the negative side of the debate while Russell Joyce, Harold Patterson and Clarence Holderoft supported the affirmative.

It speaks well for the future of politics in East Peterborough riding when the lads of Havelock are old enough to take a hand in the ruling fo the land. The speakers for Canada were well fortified with figures and general information and surprised the audience with the facts and figures which they presented of Canada's resources in minerals, grain, waterpowers, railways and finance, while those for the United States, the negative, although not so well fortified with details, by their native wit and general argument, helped much to undo those for the affirmative.

The judges for the debate were the rector, Rev. H. Caplau, Mr. T. Pase, and Mr. Culverwell of Port Hope, who, after consultation, gave judgment for the affirmative, also adding a rider that the palm for native wit and argumentative combativeness be given those for the negative.

The decision was pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Caplan, who added a forceful and pleasing address.

LEAGUE CONVENTION OF THE QUINTE CONFERENCE

Being Held in Lindsay on Jan. 21-23—Great Preparations

Great preparations are in progress for the Bay of Quinte Conference Epworth League Biennial Convention to be held at Lindsay, Jan. 21-3, 1908. A very strong programme is provided and in addition to those within our Conference we have secured the services of Rev. J W Graham, Associate Secretary of Education, Rev. T Albert Moore, General Secretary Lord's Day Alliance, Dr. Crews, General Secretary Epworth Leagues, Rev. George Jackson, of Sherbourne street Church, and Rev. R Embarson, of Joseph, who will also have a large missionary exhibit. The Lindsay friends are well organized in committee to attend to every comfort and pleasure of the delegates, and the Conference executive is sparing no pains to make this the best in the history of the Association.—Christian Guardian.

Ill Temper From a bad Liver

Carlyle justly attributes the ill-temper which made him a monster in the eyes of the world, to a bad liver. Nothing makes one feel more miserable, or more gloomy and discouraged, than liver complaint, and consequent biliousness and dyspepsia, and nothing so promptly and thoroughly sets the liver right, and overcomes these ailments as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the great family medicine.

A YANKEE COUPLE SKATE INTO THE ARMS OF MATRIMONIAL BLISS

Pittsburg, Dec. 27.—(Special)—Surrounded by five hundred persons on skates, the Rev. C. L. Thurgood, pastor of the Central Christian church, himself on skates, with a bride and bridegroom facing him, also on skates a unique marriage ceremony was performed at the Homewood skating rink last night.

The bride was Miss Beulah Smith, the groom Wilbert Schandres. Mr. Thurgood at first declined to don the rollers because he feared the floor was too smooth. The management powdered the spot on which the ceremony was to be performed, and the preacher then consented. He stood the test all right, but the bride, just as she was about to reply to the words, "Honour, love and obey," shifted her foot, and sat down amid the screams and roars of the hundreds of witnesses. The minister reproved the guests for their unseemly mirth, and to punish them preached a wedding sermon thirty minutes in length.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH WITH A RACE TRACK ERECTED ON IT'S ROOF; IT COST $300,000

Peterborough People Were Married in The Original Structure in Seattle—Nursing Rooms In Its Vast Interior

ORGAN WITH 5000 PIPES

Mr. Lambert Lynn, the well known civil engineer of Peterborough, has received a copy of the Seattle Post-Intelligence, containing an account of the completion of a palatial new Presbyterian church, in that western city. The fact that the church cost $300,000, is enough to command attention, but when it is stated that on top of it is a race track, that there are nursery rooms, where women may take their children during services, when they begin to get unruly, that the auditorium seats 3,000 persons, and that the organ has 5,000 pipes, it commands attention.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn were married in the church some years ago when it was but a small structure, so that its existense has a special attraction for them.

The Post-Intelligencer in speaking of the completed edifice says:

One of the most completely equipped church buildings in the western part of the American continent will be declared open this morning when the new edifice of the First Presbyterian church, at Seventh avenue and Spring street, will be formally dedicated. A special programme has been prepared for this morning's service the culmination of which is expected to be the formal announcement of the dedication of the building.

At both morning and evening services there will be a choice musical programme under the direction of Dr. Frank Wilbur Chace, the organist recently selected to preside at the splendid new pipe organ which has been installed in the church. Dr. Chace will be assisted by a choir of forty-three voices, which will sing in public to-day for the first time, and by a solo quartette.

The new church building as it stands completed occupies over 20,000

A CHRISTMAS BOX THAT WAS NOT APPRECIATED

An unappreciated Christmas box was that received by the firm of Duncan and Doupe, in the form of a letter on Christmas morn. It bore the postmark of December 14th, and was posted in Peterborough, so that it took eleven days to reach them. The letter was one offering a particular job to the firm, but, as no reply was sent back, to the writer, another party secured it. A member of the firm states that there were five different places in the city where the letter might have been delivered, but it came to none during the first ten days of its journey.

A CANINE LOST FROM BOBCAYGEON

Owner Would Like Some Information—Believes The Hound is Here

Some time ago an article appeared in the Examiner referring to the returning of a lanky hound which apparently had wandered afield and untied from the north, as far as Peterborough. A Bobcaygeon gentleman has written to Peterborough to find out where this dog is as he believes him to be a hound that was taken from that village during the hunting season.

He is described as being a good sized dog, well formed, like a hound except that his coat was somewhat wire-haired and the tail had something of a droop. The collar was of brown leather, the name "Barber" being engraved on the tag. He answers to the name of "Point." The Bobcaygeon resident will be much obliged if any information can be given about the canine.

DIED

SANDERSON. — In Peterborough, on Thursday, Dec. 26th, 1907, William Sanderson, of Burleigh, aged 54 years.

Funeral from the residence of his brother, Mr. D. Sanderson, Lakefield, on Saturday, December 28th, at 2.00 o'clock p.m., to the Lakefield Cemetery.

EAST CITY BOY INJURED IN AN ACCIDENT WHILE TOBOGGANING

Walter Beavis, the little son of Mr. Robt. Beavis, East City, met with an accident yesterday afternoon while coasting on Ludgate's hill. The little lad is only about nine years of age and sustained a severe shaking up by the collision of his toboggan against a tree. His left hip was badly bruised and he was unable to walk home. He was taken into a neighbour's house and cared for. He was wrapped in a blanket and taken to his home on his toboggan.

Dr. Scott was called, and found the little fellow bruised and sore about the back and hip. Otherwise no bones were broken.

The boys who are now enjoying their holidays should be careful in their sports, as accidents are generally due to a little carelessness in their games.

"A STORY OF A STAR" CANTATA WAS SPLENDIDLY RENDERED

The children of St. John's Sunday school presented a Christmas cantata entitled "A Story of a Star" splendidly last night in their schoolroom under the direction of Mr. R. J. Devey. The singing and recitations were good and amply repaid the time spent on careful training. Groups of children appeared in costume, representing nations of the earth, telling what the star had done for them. Europe, Asia, Africa, Islands of the Sea, and Canada were represented, and a very pretty scene with libretto and song was given by Ada Graham—India; Grace Dobson—Japan; Arthur Horefield—China; and Cyril Devey—Turkey. Other beautiful numbers were "Beautiful Star" by Isabel Morphet, and an echo chorus sung in an adjoining room by Mrs. R J Devey, Mr. T Baylis, Mr. Geo. Chandler and Mr. N. Greenhalgh. Six girls, Misses Pierce and Clement—red; Misses Whiteroft and Horfield—white, and Misses Dutton and Stevenson—blue, gave a fine rendering of the part representing "Canada," concluding with a pretty drill, braiding strands of red, white and blue. Jessie Spence and Hazel Peters scored a success in the pretty duet, "Norway and Sweden," Reggie Stanton, with his gayly decorated Christmas tree, told the story of how the little German children keep Christmas, and Master Rogers was equally good in quaint Polish dress.

The audience testified its appreciation in frequent hearty applause, and Rev. Canon Davidson spoke appreciatively of the children's work and of those engaged in its preparation, especially mentioning Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Devey, Miss English and Mr. A. E. Poe, the Sunday school superintendent, who arranged the pretty and effective star. Mr. Devye briefly replied, and the performances concluded with a nicely arranged scene of all the groups to sing the final chorus.

The cantata will likely be repeated early in January.

SUNFIELD IS HUNG

Dies This Morning For Taking a Life on July 12th—Walked Unfaltering To The Gallows

NECK BROKEN IN THE FALL

Hamilton, Dec. 27.—Jake Sunfield, of Hamilton was hanged this morning for the murder of Andrew Rusyk on July 12. Sunfield walked to the scaffold with unfaltering steps, smoking a cigar. After climbing on to the platform of the gallows he turned to those present to witness the execution, and coolly remarked, "Good-bye, gentlemen; I have been told not to say anything." Without further ceremony Hangman Radcliffe placed the black cap over the condemned man's head and adjusted the noose about his neck, and as Rev. Mahoney repeated the Lord's Prayer the trap was sprung. Sunfield's neck was broken by the fall, and when the body was cut down twelve minutes later, life was extinct. Dean Mahoney handed out a statement signed by Sunfield, in which the latter solemnly declared his innocence of the crime which he has been called upon to suffer the death penalty for.

A WHOLE FAMILY WIPED OUT BY DISASTROUS FIRE

House of John Clarke of Boston Also Completely Destroyed

Examiner Special.

Boston, Mass. Dec. 27. — Five persons were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the house of John Clark, at Watertown, a suburb, early this morning. Every member of the Clark family met death in the flames.

MR. WM. McLAREN IS OUT OF CITY

Appearing in a Concert At Newcastle To-night

Mr. William McLaren's ability as an entertainer is reaching beyond the limits of the city. To-day he left on the noon G. T. R. train for Newcastle, where he will appear this evening at a concert given by the Catholic parish of that place. Mr. McLaren has frequently lent his aid to various church and charity concerts, and his many friends will be pleased to learn that his efforts are being more widely appreciated. Not long ago Mr. McLaron appeared at St. Peter's school hall in the charity concert given by the Catholic Order of Foresters. He was recalled there several times, and a member of the Newcastle parish who was present, was greatly pleased with his work. Mr. McLaren was accompanied by Rev. Father O'Leary, and Mr. W. J. Bennett. The latter will play the piano parts for Mr. McLaren's numbers.

STONY LAKE ARTIST HAS PASSED AWAY

Warsaw, Dec. 27.—(Special.)— Summer visitors to Stony Lake and particularly those in the northern section of the lake will regret to learn of the death of James E Clague at the advanced age of 87 years. The deceased man resided in a cabin at Mount Royal, Stony Lake, and near the residence of Mr. A L Dunford. For many years, summer tourists have visited his home and admired his paintings, for he was an artist of some ability. His wife predeceased him 14 years ago. He had no children, but Mrs. A. L. Dunford is an adopted daughter.

Mr. Clague was born in England. For 20 years he was a sailor on the seas, but the last 45 years of his lengthy life he lived in Dummer township. The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock to St. Mark's Cemetery, Warsaw. Rev. Mr. Creighton, of Lakefield, will officiate.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC AT ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL

On Christmas morning at St. Peter's Cathedral, St. Louis' Mass by La Hache was rendered in excellent style by the full choir, every one being in excellent voice. Solos, duets and quartettes were sung with much effect and expression by different members of the choir. As an opening number a quartette, composed of Misses L. Halliban, J. Delaire, Messrs. J. Weyer and E. Keon sung with much brilliancy the old Christmas Hymn "Pastorde," by Lambelotte, in which the soles were taken both morning and evening by sopranos, Misses L. Halliban, A. Simons, E. Primeau; altos, Misses J. Delaire, A. Primeau, N. Simons, A. Milloy; tenors, Messrs. E. Keon, J. Moher; bass, Messrs. J. Wyer, F. Pope, A. Haines, N. Quinlan and J. Mercier.

At Musical Vespers in the evening "O Salutaris," by Wiegand, was rendered, the sole being taken by Miss L. Halliban, who certainly excelled herself, both morning and evening. Her clear soprano voice was heard to great advantage and Tantum Ergo duet was sung by Miss A. Simons and Mr. E. Keon, whose voices harmonized excellently. Miss Doherty presided at the organ.

ACTOR AND ACTRESS TREATED TO A REALISTIC SCENE WITH A LIVE WOLF

Rome, Georgia, Dec. 27.—(Special.)—During the performance of "Daniel Boone" at the opera house, Miss Leona Leslie and Oscar O'Shea, who take leading parts, were badly injured on the stage by a huge wolf. The actress and actor were in the scene where Daniel Boone rescues his sweetheart from the den of wolves, into which the Indian, "Blackfish," had thrown her.

When Miss Leslie was thrown into the den, the great wolf attacked her and tore her arm and side. The girl screamed, and O'Shea leaped into the den and tore the girl from the wolf. The animal then turned on O'Shea and tore his leg.

Bob Harris, a Catawaba Indian, who was standing near, rushed to their assistance and drove the animal back into his den. The audience witnessed the scene and was stampeded when it realized that the attack of the wolf was a real one.

NEWMARKET BANK CLERK LOST THE SIGHT OF ONE EYE IN ACCIDENT WHILE SHOOTING

Nephew of Architect Blackwell Met With a Serious and Painful Mishap Yesterday—Eye Removed At Nicholls' Hospital

IS DOING WELL TO-DAY

Francis Blackwell, son of Mr. Jas. Blackwell of Omemee, and nephew of Mr. William Blackwell, architect, was very painfully injured yesterday morning in a shooting accident, which cost him the loss of one eye. Mr. Blackwell is a clerk in the Newmarket branch of the Bank of Montreal and was spending the holidays at his home in Omemee. Yesterday morning with a couple of companions he was amusing himself shooting. In pulling the trigger, and owing to the faulty mechanism of the gun, or to a bad cartridge, the shell of the cartridge was blown back, striking the young bank clerk in the eye.

It was at once seen that he was badly injured, and he was brought to Peterborough, where the eye was examined by Dr. T. P. McCullough. The latter after examining the wound decided that an operation was necessary, and had the patient removed to the Nicholls Hospital, where it was found necessary to remove the injured eye. The operation was successfully performed, and the patient is doing as well as could be expected stances to-day, according to information received this afternoon.

TARRED AND FEATHERED FOR ATTACKING A GIRL

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 27.—(Special.)—Charged with attacking Dora Fetters, a girl of 13 years, Charles P. Calven, aged 50, was taken from the office of Justice Markham at Wyatt, led to a secluded spot and given a horsewhipping and a coat of tar and feathers. Calven was arrested by a posse of citizens, organized by the father of the girl, and taken to the office of the justice to be arraigned. He refused to plead to the charge, and this so angered his captors that the horsewhipping followed.

ANOTHER LIQUOR CASE IN COURT

On a charge of selling whiskey to an Indian, John George, Walter Head appeared in police Court this morning, Mr. W. H. Moore conducted the prosecution and Mr. G. Gordon appeared for Walter Head. The evidence of the Indians appeared to be very contradictory and the magistrate had to warn them several times that they were liable to be punished for perjury.

His Worship after hearing the evidence of all the witnesses, found Head guilty, and adjourned the case until to-morrow morning.

STILL ANOTHER DISASTROUS COLLISION IN UNITED STATES

Examiner Special.

Camden, N.J. Dec. 27.—A rear-end collision occurred at 3.30 o'clock this morning on the Camden and Amboy division of the Pennsylvania Railway here. Eight persons are reported killed and two more injured. Several persons are locked in cars and have yet to be released. The cars took fire and the fire department is now at work. Fourteen persons are pinned under the tender, which was driven under the smoking car. The work of rescue is still proceeding.

FLOCKS OF CROWS STILL HOVER AROUND THE RAILWAY STATION

There are more signs of mild weather than leaking eaves over the George street pavements, or flooding gutters on the main streets. The soft snow is useless for the snow-shoe club or the shoot the chutes, and beneath the tall pines last summer's grass is said to be taking on a green hue, bespeaking the return of spring. Not only are there little streamlets running along the inside of the street car rails, but the early risers, those who are up with the break of dawn, stated to-day that the crows are quite numerous. Just think of it, almost mid-winter, and the first harbingers of the approach of April still in this northern land.

A gentleman said that this morning as he was walking along the C. P. R. tracks he heard a number of crows to the west of the city cawing and generally "kicking up," as if it were the first day of April. Santa Claus and crows are not usually in company, but this season is an exception to the rule, and it is said that as the old fellow drove his deers over Morrow's hill, west of the city, he was greeted with a crow chorus of "caw, caws." However, they crowed before they were out of the woods, for winter is bound to blow this way before the new moon cuts its teeth.

THE PUBLIC IS INVITED TO OPENING OF NEW FIRE HALL

The members of the fire brigade wish to re-echo the invitation they have already extended to the public to be present on the occasion of the formal opening of the new fire hall which will take place on New Years day and for the expenses in connection with which the council has made a grant of $100. The hall will be open to the public throughout the day and an opportunity will be given to inspect the new apparatus.

A special invitation is given to the public officials of the city, the Mayor and Council, the members of the Board of Education and the Water Commissioners to be present and also to the old firemen who formerly were connected with the brigade. Refreshments will be served and there will be speeches in the afternoon by the Mayor and other officials.

In the evening the firemen and some of their invited friends will hold a dance in the large hall on the second storey of the building and an enjoyable time is expected.

HE SECURED WORK

How One Willing Individual Got a Job In The Woods—Went Back With Lumbermen To-day

HE DIDN'T HAVE A DOLLAR

This morning about 9 o'clock, 80 lumbermen gathered at the American House and were driven back to the shanties. The men belong to Patterson's Camp which is north of Burleigh. They left the shanties about a week ago and are now going back until spring. Many of their friends were gathered there to say good-bye.

One individual in the crowd on the sidewalk, who was out of work, looked envious at the jolly crowd. He wanted a job bad but could not get it.

"Is there any work in your camp?" he asked one of the lumbermen.

"All you can stand."

"Well, I should like to go."

"Have you got a dollar?"

"No I haven't got a cent. I have been around the streets for two days and have not had my breakfast yet."

"Jump in and we will see you through," was the reply and the happy fellow jumped into the 'bus and was soon on the way to the woods in the north.

MISS DOHERTY WAS REMEMBERED

Presented With Ring and Address On Christmas Morning

A happy event occurred on Christmas morning at St. Peter's Cathedral, after one of the masses, when Miss M. Doherty, the efficient organist, was the recipient of a ring and address. The members of the choir gathered in the choir loft and Miss Annie Simons read an address referring to the goodwill that was fostered among the choir members by Miss Doherty and wishing her the compliments of the season. Mr. Frank Pope presented Miss Doherty with the ring.

GIVEN GOLD HANDLED PARASOL

Presented to Mrs. H. P. Kennedy On Christmas Eve

Mrs. H P Kennedy received a handsome parasol on Christmas eve from the Junior Young Men's Bible Class of the Charlotte street Methodist church as a mark of their appreciation for her efforts in their behalf. The parasol is of the finest silk and the gold handle is inlaid with pearls and suitably engraved. Mrs. Kennedy desires to express her thanks to the members of her class for the handsome gift.

TAKES $36 FROM HIS ROOM-MATE

Left on the Mid-night Express Christmas Night—Supposed to be in Montreal

After the disappearance of the sum of $36, belonging to a room-mate, a boarder at the house of Nicholas Renzetti succeeded in getting out of the city and eluding the police.

The theft happened on Christmas night, when everybody in the house was retiring for the night. This young Italian is supposed to have stolen $36.00 belonging to an old man who roomed with him, and then quietly got out of the house.

The old man went to his bed-room and found the drawer in which he stored his gold, lying open, and the money which he had worked hard for during the summer months, missing.

He immediately went down stairs and told Mr. Renzetti about his loss and asked him about it. His room-mate was missing and the finger of suspicion was naturally pointed to him. Mr. Renzetti, in company with several other roomers, started off for the C. P. R. station, thinking he might go away and sure enough they found the alleged thief sleeping on one of the benches. Mr. Renzetti woke him up, and asked for the money, but the man said that he knew nothing of it, and that he was going away on the midnight. He had never said anything around the house and Renzetti's suspicions were increased, and he phoned for the police.

Just then the midnight express came into the station and the man broke away from his captors, and jumped on the train. The express did not stop long and the police arrived in time to see it going over the bridge.

Mr. Renzetti told the Examiner to-day that he thought the man had gone to Montreal, where he was well known. He wrote a letter to-day to the city to a friend of the alleged thief and if he arrives there he will be arrested by the Montreal police.

TELL-TALE COMPARISONS

The following cogent comparisons between the results of the financial administration of the late Conservative Government and the present Liberal Government is found in the London Advertiser:—

In 1897, after the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier had been in office about nine months, Hon. Mr. Fielding, as Finance Minister, introduced the new tariff, embracing the British preference and the Opposition critics predicted industrial demoralization. Instead, however, under the general scheme of reduction of duties, the country entered upon an era of prosperity such as it never before knew, and which has continued during the whole period of eleven years of Liberal administration. Now these same critics are turning to the national debt and charging the present Government with the most reckless extravagance.

What are the facts? In the last eleven years of Conservative government the aggregate surpluses amounted to $9,594,000, against which were deficits totaling $12,340,000, which meant an annual deficit over the eleven years of $249,000. In his first budget speech Mr. Fielding announced the first and only deficit during the eleven years the Liberals have been in office, amounting to $519,000. Since then the record has been one of surpluses, and substantial ones, too, every year, the total amounting to the enormous sum of $94,145,000. If from this is deducted the one solitary deficit of $519,000, there remains the total for ten years of $93 620,000, or for the whole eleven years an average annual surplus of $8,511,154 during the Liberal regime. Is it any wonder that the comparison with the annual deficit of $249,000 during the preceding eleven years is anything but palatable to the Opposition critics?

Of course, there are expenditures which have to be made on capital account, and it has been the policy of the present Government to devote these surpluses to meeting such necessary capital expenditures, and thus prevent them from becoming an addition to the national debt. As Mr. Fielding pointed out in a recent speech in the House, these special expenditures in the last eleven years of the Conservative Government amounted to a little over $80,000,000 above the ordinary charges. The Conservative Government had to provide for these moneys, and did so by charging $62,000,000 of the $80,000,000 to the public debt account of the country, and left that $62,000,000 to bear interest for future years. In its eleven years of office, the present Government has had larger charges of that character; it has had to provide for capital and special expenditures amounting to $127,000,000 out of the sum over and above the ordinary expenses of the country, and it has provided out of its daily receipts every dollar of that except $5,000,000. When the Conservative Government with $80,000,000 of capital expenditure had to charge $62,000,000 to the public debt, and when it is found that the present Government with $127,000,000 capital expenditure has only added $5,000,000 to the public debt, it must be admitted that the record is one to which the Liberals may reasonably refer with pride.

THAT $100,000 CORRUPTION FUND.

The Conservative leaders are in a noble quandary over the matter of the corruption fund of one hundred thousand dollars, part of which was thrown into New Brunswick, in the Conservative interests, on the eve of the late general election, and in their chagrin they are trying to lay the blame of the facts leaking out on a bank manager — they can no longer deny the facts. The Ottawa Free Press furnishes a satisfactory exposee of an unfair attack. It says that some of the Conservative newspapers are giving currency to a statement by the celebrated Mr. David Russell, of Montreal, that the general manager of a bank had been guilty of breach of faith in divulging to Hon. Mr. Pugsley the name of the maker of the note for $100,000, which was discounted by that bank on the eve of the last general elections, and which formed part of the fund which Mr. Pugsley asserts was thrown into New Brunswick, in the dying hours of the campaign.

The bank manager is well able to defend himself, but the circulation of the story is proof that those responsible for it are not aware of the means by which the Liberal party became cognisant of the now notorious transaction.

The Liberals of New Brunswick, indeed of the whole Maritime Provinces knew at the time that this large sum of money was going into the first named province. They had suspicions as to where it came from but it was not until a few months ago that they were able to get in touch with the facts.

And their illumination was not due to any breach of faith by a bank manager, or anybody else. It was the direct result of an order of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia under which the bank was compelled to submit its books to examination by a commissioner appointed by that court in connection with the contested election cases in Halifax. The bank dare not refuse to obey that order and once its books were opened to inspection the "high finance" of the Conservative party could no longer be concealed.

The conspirators cannot lay the blame for the exposure at the door of either the bank manager, Mr. Russell, or of any other person. They should have realized before they began their campaign that there are such things as rogatory commissions, and that when the machinery of the law once gets started somebody is liable to get caught in the wheels.

Meanwhile, it is interesting to note that the Minister of Public Works, in an interview at St. John, states that while he will not pay attention to such political mosquitoes as Mr. Kemp or Mr. Bennett, "whenever Mr Borden is ready to discuss the matter with me, either in Parliament or elsewhere, I am ready to meet him in debate."

That should be definite enough for anybody and should make it quite clear that, when Parliament reassembles, if the Opposition want to get at the facts the way will be open to them.

LACK OF APPRECIATION OF CLASSIC PLAYS

Is Peterborough's Taste Wanting?—A Contribution by Theatre-goer

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I think you might draw the attention of the Peterborough public to the small attendance at the Opera House to see "King Richard, III." Frequently statements have been made that the Opera House management does not provide good plays. Here was a play which was given in a real artistic style; the characters of the great tragedy were masterfully interpreted and yet only a handful of people were present. Plays of less reputation or of no reputation at all are met by "a full house." What a reflection upon the taste of Peterborough people. Business men are not in business for the fun of it. They want their business for profit. Therefore if the ordinary and vulgar shows attract the people more, one cannot blame the management if they try to suit those people. But let people stop criticizing the quality of plays and the efforts of the management, if they do not wish to support the best that can be given.

Faithfully yours,
"THEATRE-GOER."

Peterborough, Dec. 27, 1907.

Troubles of an Amateur.

"I thought you had gone to raising bees," said the man from the city. "I don't see any sign of them around here."

"I had half a dozen colonies of the finest bees I could get," answered the suburbanite, "and a whole library of literature on bee raising, but they swarmed one day, and while I was looking through my books to find out what was the proper thing to do when bees swarmed the blamed things flew away, and I've never seen 'em since."

In Nameless Graves.

Not far from Hamburg, on the island of Westerland, is a small graveyard to which pathetic interest attaches. Here the bodies of those washed up by the sea—bodies unrecognized and unclaimed—are buried. The cemetery was dedicated to this use in 1855, and from then up to now over sixty nameless ones have found their rest. In 1888 a stone was raised bearing the dedication "The Home of the Homeless," and each little mound is further marked by a simple black cross.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH WITH A RACE TRACK ERECTED ON IT'S ROOF

square feet. In some parts it is four stories in height. The land on which the church has been built was purchased by the church authorities about three years ago, before the advance in real estate values. It has been recently appraised at $150,000. The building itself, with its furnishings, has cost over $300,000. All but a small amount of this sum has already been raised, so that but a few thousand dollars are needed to complete the entire payment for the construction of the church and its furnishings.

Church Has Novel Features

In addition to an exceptionally complete equipment for the more usual church purposes, the new building is provided with many features providing the machinery for a most diversified church activity. A running track measuring 350 feet in circumference, around which the athletically inclined may sprint, located on top of the church, is one of these novel features. But it is one of many, for throughout the building provision has been made, seemingly, for every kind of activity in which the church of today, with its widely varying interests, may participate.

The spirit of broad religion entering into all kinds of human activity seems to have governed the very foundation of the plans on which the church has been constructed. In making ample provision for the more secular activities, however, the needs of the church as a place of worship and devotion have been in no way neglected.

Auditorium Seats 3,000

The auditorium in which will be held all the principal Sunday services and other large meetings, has a seating capacity, including the balconies, which extend around three sides, of 3,000. Entrance may be had to this, the principal room in the building, by three main entrances opening from Spring street, from Seventh avenue and from the intersection of the two.

Even in this room, designed especially for devotional purposes, provision has been made in a most practical manner for the needs of all classes who may wish to worship here. For instance, six rows of pews with seats for about sixty persons, have been equipped with a special apparatus designed for deaf persons by the use of which even those most deaf may be able to hear the sermon, music, and other parts of the service.

Furthermore one of the balconies has been arranged especially for women who may be in delicate health, or with young children, and who yet wish to attend church service. For such persons there is a balcony on the north side of the auditorium to which there is a special entrance from other parts of the church. This balcony will accommodate 300. Adjoining it is a nursery to which may be carried obstreperous infants. Here there are couches, a lavatory, and other similar accommodations.

Organ Has 5,000 Pipes

In the auditorium is the great pipe organ, with nearly 5,000 pipes ranging in size from the monster pipes thirty-two feet in length and larger than a man's body in circumference, to the tiny pipes smaller than a lead pencil. This instrument is the second largest on this continent not in the number of its stops, but in power and variety of tone.

It has sixty-four stops and sixty-four mechanical accessories. Attached to the organ is a self-playing device by means of which a roll of music may be inserted in the proper device and the mechanism will then play through the entire selection, much in the manner of a pianola attachment on a piano. This attachment alone cost about $1,500. The organ itself has been installed at a cost of about $30,000.

Echo Organ

The echo organ situated at the opposite end of the church from the main organ and console and connected by an electric cable 250 feet in length contains the softest stops and also the cathedral chimes. The organs are capable of multifarious combinations, and every grade of power from a whisper to the thunder of the tempest. More than a million and a half different combinations of tone are possible.

Throughout the church are installed 125 intercommunicating telephone connections. Sitting in the pulpit the pastor may communicate with practically every part of the church.

The heart from which will emanate the directions and energy for the work of the church is located on the fourth or top floor. Here are the pastor's study with a large library adjoining, which in turn opens on to a large room to be used for executive purposes by the assistant pastors, stenographers and clerks. The library alone contains over 8,000 volumes.

Housekeeping Suite in Church

On the same floor are the janitor's suite of five rooms completely equipped for housekeeping, with a front yard constructed on the very top of the church. In still another corner of this same floor is a room designed for a public art room. This room has abundant strong, clear light, and is admirably adapted for the showing of paintings.

Down in the basement floor of the building are the large Sunday school room, a kitchen equipped for the preparation and serving of meals, a gymnasium accommodating 500 persons, six shower baths and three tubs, a suite of three rooms for the Japanese-Chinese mission, where school will be held every day and night in the week for the members of these races, and other small rooms for various purposes.

On the floors above are suites of rooms to be used as women's parlours, men's parlours, for funeral services, and a large number of other diversified purposes. All are planned fitted particularly for the kinds of service for which they are expected to be used.

In various parts of the church are fourteen different lavatories, several of which are provided with bath tubs. There are over two and a half miles of plumbing, five miles of electric wiring and three miles of conduit for the effectual protection from fire. The church is equipped with over 600 lights of an average power of 32 candle each.

Local Option Fosters Crime

To-day, with Local Option, Owen Sound has SIXTY places where liquor is sold. Under license, there were only ELEVEN places. Yet, despite the best efforts of a capable license inspector, no one has been sent to jail in Owen Sound for selling since Local Option came into force. Last year, with five months of license and seven months of Local Option, OWEN SOUND had 362 police court cases. This year, in eleven months of Local Option, there have been 510 police court cases there.

Do you want this state of things?

Mr. Matthew Kennedy, Mayor of Owen Sound, who has lived there fifty years, said, Nov. 27 last:

"I have seen Owen Sound under indiscriminate license, under restricted license, under the Duncan Act, and under the Ontario Liquor License Act, and finally under Local Option: and I have no hesitation in saying that Local Option has NOT lessened drunkenness, has not improved business nor the financial position of the people generally. Neither has it improved the moral tone of the citizens as a whole, but, on the contrary, Local Option HAS INJURED LOCAL TRADE, and lowered the moral well-being of very many."

Local Option substitutes the "blind pig" for the decent bar.

DEEP SEA FISHING.

Quite as Much a Game of Chance as Politics or Poker.

You let down a heavy lump of lead and two big hooks baited with clams into thirty, forty or sixty feet of water. Then you wait until something nudges the line or until you suspect that the hooks are bare.

Then you give the line a quick jerk and pull in hand over hand, with more or less resistance, and see what you have drawn into the grab bag.

It may be a silly but nutritious cod, gaping in surprise at this curious termination of his involuntary rise in the world, or a silvery haddock, staring at you with round, reproachful eyes, or a pollock, handsome, but worthless, or a shiny, writhing dogfish, whose villainy is written on every line of his degenerate, chinless face.

It may be that spiny gargoyle of the sea, a sculpin, or a soft and stupid hake from the mud flats. It may be any one of the grotesque products of Neptune's vegetable garden, a sea cucumber, a sea carrot or a sea cabbage, or it may be nothing at all.

When you have made your grab and deposited the result, if it be edible, in the barrel which stands in the middle of the boat, you try another grab, and that's the whole story.

It is astonishing how much amusement apparently sane men get out of such a simple game as this. The interest lies first, in the united effort to fill the barrel, and, second, in the rivalry among the fishermen as to which of them shall take in the largest cod or the greatest number of haddock, these being regarded as prize packages. The sculpin and the sea vegetables may be compared to comic valentines, which expose the recipient to ridicule.

The dogfish are like tax notices and assessments—the man who gets one of them gets less than nothing, for they count against the catcher. It is quite as much a game of chance as politics or poker. You do not know on which side of the boat the good fish are hidden.

You cannot tell the difference between the nibble of a cod and the bite or a dogfish. You have no idea of what is coming to you until you have hauled in almost all of your line and caught sight of your allotment wriggling and whirling in the blue water. Sometimes you get twins.—Scribner's.

Norwood Bids Farewell To Departing Principal

Made of The Old Pupils There For The Occasion—Given a Cabinet Of Silver

OTHER INTERESTING NEWS

Examiner Special.

Norwood, Dec. 26.—On Friday evening, December 20, a large number of pupils and ex-pupils of the Norwood High School and others gathered in the town hall to bid adieu to Mr. and Mrs. Davidson before leaving for their new home in Sudbury. After a number of musical selections had been rendered Mr. Davidson was called to the platform, where he was presented with a handsome cabinet of silver, accompanied by an illuminated address. Some weeks previous letters had been sent to over 700 former pupils, asking them to send letters of their appreciation of Mr. Davidson's services. A great many answers were received, some of which were read during the evening, which are to be bound in book form and given to Mr. Davidson.

In the absence of Prof. H B Anderson, chairman of the committee, who was unable to be present, Prof. G W Tupper of Boston read the following address:

John Davidson, M.A., LL.B.,
Head Master of Norwood High School from 1883 to 1907.

Sir,—In 1882, a vacancy having occurred in the head mastership of the Norwood High School, the Board of Trustees, after careful deliberation, selected you from among many applicants to fill the position. Although at that time the youngest man in the Province to occupy such a post, the record of the school during the quarter of a century of your principalship affords the most ample proof of the wisdom and foresight of the Board. During that time you have honourably discharged the onerous duties of the position, and by your high character, lofty ideals, conspicuous ability and untiring efforts you have endeared yourself to the successive classes of pupils who have passed under your instruction. Of the thousand students who, during your principalship, have graduated from the school, ninety-six have obtained university degrees, and of these many now hold high places on the staffs of the universities and colleges, in the church, in medicine, in law, and other responsible positions. Without exception you have bound your pupils in ties of indissoluble attachment to the old school, so that its memories both within and without the class room are cherished in their hearts. To you, as teacher, it must afford some compensation for the long years of labour and struggle, to know that your work has been appreciated. Your old students, by unanimous consent, think the good fortune which placed them at the plastic period in their lives under one whose enthusiasm, ability and personal attraction stimulated the imaginations, awakened ambitions, and gave direction to energies which made for their future success in life. Now, that in recognition of your services and the high place you have attained as an educationist, you have been called to another and wider sphere of influence, your students, both graduate and undergraduate, scattered over the continent, feel that this is a fitting time to give expression to the deep obligations under which you have placed them, of the love and esteem they bear you, and of the nobility of nature and devotion to duty which have characterized your every act throughout the long period of our association with the school.

As an expression of these feelings we beg you to accept the accompanying cabinet of silver, and unite in wishing that you may be ably assisted your life, who has enjoy the fruition of lives spent in doing good.

DRAGGED FROM PULPIT.

Remarkable Scene In Manchester Cathedral on Christmas Day.

New York, Dec. 26.—A cable to The American from Manchester, England, says:

A great sensation was caused in Manchester Cathedral yesterday morning by the action of Stewart Gray, the famous advocate and land law reformer, who until recently was superintendent of the Manchester Poor Farm Colony. He entered the pulpit of the cathedral and protested against the birth of the Saviour being celebrated when there were so many poor and starving people in England whom society could not help.

"It is blasphemy!" Mr. Gray shouted, "and in the name of God I protest."

Mr. Gay's unexpected address against the prevailing social conditions, made to the fashionable and wealthy Manchester congregation, created a great stir. The service was stopped, ushers seized Gray in the pulpit, forcibly removed him and ejected him from the cathedral.

While the newspapers give columns to describing how lovely everything is throughout England, this occurrence sheds a bright sidelight upon the real conditions of the great cities in England, where the poverty of the people was never so great.

DIED FROM BLOOD-POISONING.

Peculiar Fatality at Kingston Resulting From Blow With Hammer.

Kingston, Dec. 27.—A very peculiar case which has just ended fatally was that of John O'Brien, a farmer of Wolfe Island, whose death occurred from the direct result of blood poisoning.

About nine days ago Mr. O'Brien, while working with a hammer, struck the back of his hand with considerable force. At the time the bruise occurred the skin was not broken, but was very painful. The next day it was apparently better.

During the week following Mr. O'Brien felt poorly when a consultation was called, but too late to save his life. Slowly the bruised part had become poisoned and it was all through his system before medical aid was summoned.

Mrs. Orford, an immigrant of several months standing here, took 12 capsuls of morphine yesterday in an effort to end her life. Medical aid was summoned quickly, and she may recover. She was deserted some time ago by her husband and five children, and was keeping house for a man on Victoria street.

WAS NOT THE FIGHTER.

J. L. Sullivan Shot Through the Head at Binghampton, N. Y.

Binghampton, N. Y., Dec. 27.—John L. Sullivan, a switchman employed on the Erie at Susquehanna, Penn., was murdered at noon yesterday by an unknown strike-breaker. Sullivan was shot in the ear. The ball passed completely through the skull and the injured man lived less than an hour. The man who did the shooting escaped.

Sunfield Awaits Execution.

Hamilton, Dec. 27.—The execution of Jake Sunfield will take place about 8 o'clock this morning. Hangman Radcliffe arrived yesterday afternoon and will officiate. Dean Mahony has been spending several hours each day with the condemned man, who seems to be losing his nerve. Mrs. Radzyk, the wife of the murdered man, when told that Sunfield would hang, said: "My heart is broken." Sheriff Middleton is too ill to be present, and his deputy, Major Zealand, will take his place.

Passing Confederate Bill.

Quebec, Dec. 27.—Detective Tom Walsh effected the arrest of three Swedes, who gave their names as Mat Hill, Hack Kullis and Ed. Hill, on the charge of passing confederate $10 bills.

The men were taken in charge in a house on St. Cecile street, which they had entered on Saturday night, and in payment for refreshments one of the trio tendered what was purported to be a $10 bill, but turned out to be confederate currency.

Killed In Strike Riots.

Valparaiso, Dec. 27.—According to a statement issued officially the recent encounters at Iquique between nitrate strikers and the police resulted in the killing of 210 men and the wounding of about 50. During one of the engagements, the troops fired particularly at the leaders of the strikers, but their aim was poor and the men were not hurt. The president and the vice-president of the local strike organizations, who are Spanish anarchists, have disappeared.

ASKS TO BE KILLED.

Lockjaw Expert Wants His End Hastened.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Dr. Joseph Peasden, a scientist occupying one of the foremost positions with a large packing firm, Wednesday night indicated by signs to physicians at his side in the Chicago Baptist Hospital, that he realized that the attack of lockjaw from which he is suffering would prove fatal, and urged them to end his life with a drug. He is probably more skilled in the effects of the disease which had seized him than any other man in the county. He had fallen down a short flight of stairs and struck his nose on a board. The hurt caused an abrasion of the skin, and the germs of tetanus infected it.

Cock Fight In St. Catharines.

St. Catharines, Dec. 27.—Ten lads, ranging in age from 12 to 18, were summoned to the Police Court yesterday, to answer a charge of running a cock-fight on the streets of the city. Three of the lads did not appear, and warrants were issued for their arrest. The cocking-main took place under an electric light on St. Paul street, on the way to the G. T. R. station Sunday night last. The cases were adjourned until Monday.

Tragedy Within a Tragedy.

Roxie, Miss., Dec. 27.—While returning home near here Christmas night, James Temple and J. J. Campbell were waylaid and Campbell killed and Temple shot through the arm. Campbell was shot in the stomach and had his head almost blown. Campbell was out on bond, having killed a young man named Grover in May last. Temple was his main witness in the case.

Daring Robbery In Station.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Five men, one of whom carried a revolver, yesterday robbed two men of $15 in the waiting-room of the Lasalle street railway station, which is situated in the heart of the business section of the city. Two of the robbers were arrested within a few minutes after the attack and a third two hours later. The others escaped.

Three Children Drown.

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 27.—A grown up daughter and two young sons of Eno Pinso, Lower Northfield, eight miles from Bridgewater, were drowned Christmas Day when their parents were in church. They had gone on thin ice on a lake near their home and fell in.

Death of a Millionaire.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 27.—Leopold Vilsack, 68 years old, millionaire banker, brewer and property owner of this city, died of heart failure at his home yesterday.

Minister Is on Trial.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 27.—Rev. Dr. William H. Shaffer, presiding elder of the west district in the Philadelphia conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church was placed on trial before the ecclesiastical court here yesterday on the charge of conduct unbecoming a minister.

An anonymous letter which the former landlady of Dr. Shaffer declares she found in the wastepaper basket in his room, figures prominently the case. It is charged the letter was sent Dr. Shaffer by Mrs. Martha J. Deichley, a widow, and postmistress of Morgantown, Pa. The defence claims the letter in question is a forgery.

Entombed, But Had a Feast.

Ely, Nev., Dec. 27.—Three miners entombed in the Alpha shaft ate their Christmas dinner 1,000 feet below the surface of the earth. Through the six-inch water pipe were sent turkey, cranberry sauce, oysters and delicacies.

The entombed men asked that the rescue work be stopped long enough for the rescuers to go home and enjoy their Christmas dinner, but this the men refused to do. Conversation is carried on by a telephone wire that escaped destruction.

Banks May Unite.

Quebec, Dec. 27.—An official of the Union Bank in this city, when asked yesterday morning as regards the accuracy of the amalgamation deal between the Quebec and Union banks being declared off, said that the matter could not be so considered. Although there was cessation of the merging just at present, it did not mean that negotiations were definitely set aside.

Son Shoots His Father.

Buffalo, Dec. 27.—Charles Schroff, aged 44 years, proprietor of International Hall, a saloon and bowling alley, was shot and instantly killed yesterday afternoon by his son Charles, aged 20 years. Schroff, Sr., had been drinking heavily of late and quarrelled with his wife, and, it is said, struck her yesterday, when she called upon her son to protect her.

Fighting In Armenia.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 27.—A despatch from Urumiah, in Persian Armenia, which was brought out by a detachment of Russian troops, states that for the last eight days that town has been entirely surrounded and isolated by bands of Kurdish raiders, who have attacked caravans and driven hundreds of loaded camels to the mountains.

Murder and Suicide.

"Father John" Very Ill.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 27.—Father John of Cronstadt is seriously ill with the recurrence of an old malady in an aggravated form. He is unable to eat and, on account of his great age and debility, his recovery is problematical.

He has thousands of followers in St. Petersburg and the provinces, but the sect of late years has attained an unenviable notoriety owing to the charges of immorality and drunkenness brought against the chief satellites, who exploited Father John's reputation for sanctity to great financial advantage.

Mine Fire Extinguished.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 27.—The fire in the Scheenberger coal mine at Baird's Station, near here, which suddenly broke out last Sunday, endangering the lives of one hundred miners, was extinguished yesterday. The mine was heavily damaged and extensive repairs will be necessary before work can be resumed.

Became Human Torch.

Olinda, Essex County, Dec. 27.—While temporary insane because of the death of her child some time ago, Mrs. Oliver Orton saturated her clothing with coal oil yesterday and set fire to herself. The clothing was completely burned from her body and her life is despaired of.

Found Indian's Body.

St. Thomas, Dec. 27.—Michigan Central sectionmen yesterday found the mutilated body of John Summers, an Oneida Indian, at Lyle's Lane crossing, and brought the remains to the city. There may be an inquest.

Trains Collided.

Ashtabula, Ohio, Dec. 27.—A passenger train on the Lake Shore road collided with a light freight engine two miles north of Franklin, Pa., yesterday. Fireman William J. Daly of Ashtabula was killed.

Animal Trainer Drops Dead.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 27.—William Bell, an animal trainer, known to circus men throughout the country, dropped dead here Wednesday night of heart disease. Bell was known as "Texas" and was 56 years old. He was one of the few men who could control "Rajah," the famous mankiller elephant.

Journalist and Author Dead.

Paris, Dec. 27.—The death is announced of Jean Joseph Carnely, the journalist and author.

Raised Tug Escort.

Port Dalhousie, Dec. 27.—The wreckers were at work yesterday at the sunken tug Escort, and at 9 p.m. returned, having raised the tug and towed her about a quarter of a mile closer to port. They had to leave her on account of the heavy sea that was beginning to roll.

They will return again the next favorable day, and will probably land her in the harbor the next trip.

Budding Revolution Nipped.

Washington, Dec. 27.—A cablegram received at the State Department yesterday from its representative in Quito, the Ecuadorian capital, is to the effect that an attempt at revolution there was quelled by the arrest of General Toral, formerly Ecuadorian minister to Great Britain, and twenty of his adherents, who were charged with attempting to overthrow the Government.

Safeguard For Submarines.

Paris, Dec. 27.—Following elaborate experiments to prevent the recurrence of accidents to submarine vessels, the Minister of Navy has issued orders that all submarines be fitted with detachable telephone buoys, which, in case of accident, will prevent the cutting off communication with the surface.

Triumphal Arches.

More than 400 triumphal arches were built by the Romans, twenty-one in the city of Rome.

The Japanese Bride.

The Japanese bride affects great timidity as she is about to be married and shrinks as if she were in deadly peril. She strives to show that she goes to the altar unwillingly.

Forgery Museum.

There is a room in the British museum set apart exclusively for forgeries. In the time the museum has been in existence many spurious articles have come into its possession. In some cases the object has been on view for some time before the forgery was discovered. The public is not admitted to the room in which the articles are kept.

The Umbrella.

The umbrella was first introduced into Europe from the east. Its application as a defense from rain was an afterthought, as it was first used to protect from the rays of the sun.

The Fork.

The English clergy was at first very bitter against the fork, one declaring that its use was impious.

Piano Polish.

Four tablespoonfuls of sweet oil, four tablespoonfuls of turpentine, a teaspoonful of lemon juice and ten drops of household ammonia. Shake well and apply with flannel cloth No. 1. Rub briskly with No. 2. Finish with No. 3.

Ireland's Eggs.

Ireland is the greatest egg producing country in Europe. And in point of flavor and nutriment there is no egg, European or colonial, to beat the Irish egg.

Drowning Persons.

It is the air in the lungs that causes the body to rise to the surface of the water—not necessarily three times, however—and when the air in the lungs is replaced by water the body refuses to rise.

The Circus.

Gilded Book Covers.

Gilding on book covers is done by means of engraved brass or electrotyped patterns, heated and pressed over the gold leaf, which is fixed by an albuminous size—white of eggs.

A Chair That Grew.

An odd triumph has been achieved by a gardener in Korea in the shape of an armchair of natural growth. It is formed of a vine which the gardener had bent or twisted so as to produce a chair. After the chair was fashioned in this way it was cut from the ground, dried and polished until it resembled mahogany.

Bank of England's Suspensions.

The Bank of England has suspended payment twice in its history. The first time was in 1696 and the last in 1797.

Butter Eaters.

Game In East Africa.

All kinds of game are plentiful in British East Africa. Thanks to energetic administration of the protective laws, the indiscriminate slaughter of antelopes and other species has been checked, and travelers on the Uganda railway may see from the carriage windows zebras in thousands, hartebeest, wildebeest and gazelles and even on occasion the lion, giraffe and rhinoceros, a sight unique in the world.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN

Al. W. Martin's perennial production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" returned to the Majestic Theatre last night for the rest of the week with a Saturday matinee. The drama is so well known to require review, as it is doubtful if there is a man, woman or child in the teens who has not either witnessed the stage version or read Harriet Beecher Stowe's story. Mr. Martin has placed the production in rather stronger hands than have been seen in the parts in several years, and has given it an almost new scenic investiture.

Frank L. Lewis appears as Uncle Tom and Charles W Longstaff has the part of Phineas Fletcher, the whilom Quaker. Carrie Dale, impersonates Eliza; Edna Clara is Topsy, David H. Boyer is Marks, and Baby Elsie Sutliff, a precocious child actress, is Eva.

Besides the play there are a number of specialties which would put to shame many vaudeville acts. Baby Elsie Sutliff does a specialty in which she introduces a number of character dances, assisted by a little dog not larger than a good sized rat. The Dales in their musical act are very good. Besides these there are the the Magnolia quartete, Miss Louise Lewis in whistling solos, Miss Grace Le May in songs dances, Miss Edna Clare, coonshouter, and a coterie of buck and wing dancers.

The transformation scene closing the play entitled "Eva in the Golden Realms," is particularly striking.—Grand Rapids, Mich., Herald, Nov. 1.

RICHARD III.

Now is the winter of our dramatic discontent made glorious summer by the sun of Henry Ludlowe, who gave a splendid presentation of one of Shakspere's greatest of historical tragedies in the Opera House last night. No doubt the reaction from Christmas Day festivities affected the attendance, which was not very large, but all those who were present enjoyed with the highest appreciation one of the greatest, if not greatest, dramatic treats ever given in Peterborough. While Mr. Ludlowe's supporting artists were all excellent, some of them exceptionally so, "Richard was himself" all the way. No one can want or expect a more graphic, more repulsively attractive, picture of the villainously great and sanguinary prince of the House of York. Ludlowe seems to have steeped himself in the spirit and character of the man and the play. He was superb on all occasions, and overdid nothing. His "make-up" and carriage were all that the lover of Shakspere would expect to see, and his action and declamation such as one would expect a man in Richard's position, and of his character, to employ. His reading of the lines, "Now is the winter," was an artistic treat, though it is hardly fair to specify any particular feature of his great work, which was a metaphysical, as well as personal, portrayal of Richard III., not only in the "multiplying villainies" of his career, but in the superb subtlety of his ambitious hypocrisy, as painted magnificently in his wooing of the royal widow on the Chertsey road. Mr. Ludlowe is a consistent, and, perhaps, unsurpassable, interpreter—if not counterpart of the cruel Duke of Gloucester, and the crueller King Richard. His support was good, too. No one would ask a more faithful assumption of Gloucester's mother, in figure, manner and action, than that taken by Miss Eva Benton. The parting scene with the princes in the tower was one of the most effective of the scores of effective scenes of the play. The mounting of the play was superb—Irvingesque in the sumptuous perfection of detail, historical fidelity and splendid effectiveness. The costuming was an exact replica of that of the age, and in every possible way Ludlowe's presentation of Richard Third was not only artistically, emotionally and critically satisfying, but a baring of the heart and mind of Shakspere, which but few great tragedians have achieved. If to-night he plays the Merchant of Venice as well—he certainly cannot do it better—the Grand Opera House should be crowded with lovers of Shakspere who wish to witness an unsurpassable production.

IDEAS FOR ONTARIO FARMERS

Some Reasons Why Farmers in Eastern Provinces Should Grow Their Own Wheat

NOW ASSISTING THE WEST

In the old days, when practically all our farmers planted wheat as their principal crop, and our local millers were grinding this wheat into good Ontario flour, bran and shorts sold for about half what they do now. These feed stuffs were cheap because the mills had plenty of them to sell. When Manitoba flour pushed its way into Ontario our farmers saw only the "big loaf of bread." They bought western patent flour, stopped raising wheat, and made the Manitoba farmers rich. Naturally our millers had little wheat to grind. Bran and shorts had to be brought from the West. Freight rates were, and are, high. And our stockmen and dairymen, and farmers, too, are paying for this folly.

The remedy lies with the farmers. They should refuse to buy Western flours at any price. The blended flours, milled right here in our own Province, of Ontario wheat and a little Manitoba wheat, are better—both for bread and pastry—than any Western hard patent flour. By raising more wheat and buying blended flours made of this same wheat, our great farming population would not only keep their money at home, but also keep our flour mills busy grinding wheat. With plenty of wheat to grind there would be plenty of bran and shorts for sale. And big quantities mean lower prices.

This does not mean any hardship on the part of the farmer. As a matter of fact, when he buys blended flour he will be getting a better flour than he has ever bought before. These Ontario blended flours contain Ontario wheat and a small quantity of Manitoba wheat. Ontario flour, while perfect for cake and pastry, does not contain enough "strength" (or gluten, as the chemists call it) to make a big loaf of bread. Now, our millers have found out just how much gluten Ontario flour needs, and they add the gluten by adding a little Manitoba flour, which is high in gluten. So, in these Ontario blended flours, we get both a bread flour and a pastry flour, and the best of each kind.

Certainly, when our farmers can get a better flour, and at the same time create a new market for Ontario wheat, and so restore wheat-growing to its former favour among our agricultural population, there seems no reason in the world why every farmer in Ontario should not use Ontario blended flour.

PRESENTED WITH SET OF SHAKSPERE

The German Conversation Club's Christmas Gift to Dr. Langfeldt

Dr. E. A. Langfeldt, rector of St. Luke's, was made the recipient of a handsome set of Shakspere on Christmas eve. The donaters were the members of the German Conversation Club, in which Dr. Langfeldt has been the leader since its inception. The set consisted of twelve volumes, handsomely bound, and it is a Christmas gift highly appreciated by him.

A Prominent Social Event

The dance that was held in the Conservatory of Music Hall last night, under the auspices of the Peterborough Club, proved to be the most successful social event so far held this season. The hall was magnificently decorated for the occasion; the floor was perfect for dancing, and the arrangements generally were most complete. The music was supplied by Gionna's orchestra, of Toronto, and certainly surpassed anything in this line that has been heard in Peterborough for some time.

The guests were received by Dr. and Mrs. Boucher, and Mrs. John Crane, there being about one hundred in number. The committee in charge of the affair were Mr. John Crane, chairman; Mr. E. S. Clarry, Hon. Secretary; Messrs. W. Harold Clutton, W. S. Davidson, Dickson Davidson, W. H. Denham, G. M. Hamilton, W. McIlroy.

Refreshments, consisting of a buffet supper, were served on the stage under the direction of Mr. F. H. Hooper.

One of the delightful features of the affair was the pretty new gowns that were worn by many of the ladies. The committee in charge received many compliments for their untiring efforts to make the evening one of the most enjoyable that has been held this season.

SHOOTING MATCH AT PARK

Stony Lake Hunt Club Will Hold One On January 1st

The members of the Stony Lake Hunt Club are making arrangements to hold a big shooting match at Jackson Park on New Year's Day, and will offer some very fine poultry as prizes. As splendid assortment of turkeys and geese has been secured for the occasion. A cordial invitation is extended to the gun experts of the city to attend, and the match will be made open to everyone. Shooting will commence at 9 o'clock on the holiday, and there promises to be a big crowd present.

ELECTION TALK AROUND HASTINGS

Four Reported To Be Out For Reeveship Of Asphodel

There is likely to be a live contest for the reeveship in Hastings. Reeve Learmouth, Thomas Howard and A. E. Chapman are mentioned as candidates for that office. In Asphodel also there is likely to be a lively time. No less than four are said to be getting on the war paint. The parties mentioned are Warden McNulty, the present reeve, and Messrs. Wm. Oakman, W. H. Comstock and John Welch.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound, or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube resored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

TROUBLE IN POLICE COURT OVER NON-APPEARANCE OF WITNESSES

Stanley Gorman, who was remanded last week, on a charge of theft, appeared again this morning at the police court. He was accompanied by his father and mother. Mr. G. Gordon appeared for the prisoner and Mr. R. E. Wood for the Crown. Two witnesses who had been served, were not in court, and the chief said that they had left the city.

Mr. McAllister, the joint proprietor of the steamer Monarch, was the first witness. He said that on July 21, 1906, he put a cash box in a locker shortly after they left Gore's Landing. The locker was in the cabin of the boat, and the passengers had access to that part of the boat. They arrived at the Wolf street wharf, and after the passengers got off the boat all the hands went to dinner. He returned at 1.30 and went to the locker; he found it open and the box gone. He asked his partner Harris about it, but he did not know anything concerning it. The cash box contained about $45, some receipts, paid checks and also a mining certificate valued at $1,000. Finding the box gone he went in search of the thief but failing to find any trace informed the police.

To Mr. Gordon he said that an ordinary door key would fit the locker.

After his evidence was taken Mr. Wood asked to have the case adjourned for a week, and the prisoner confined in jail. There were three subpoenas issued, and only one boy had appeared to give evidence, the other boys had left town as soon as they had heard of Gorman's arrest. The circumstances were extraordinary and he would have the case adjourned from week to week until every witness was present, and would also have Gorman confined to the jail. He thought this would be a means of bringing the witnesses back.

The police believe they are on the right track and it is likely that they will have all the witnesses present the next time the case comes up.

Mr. Gordon, counsel for the prisoner, said that this course was extraordinary and unfair. Gorman had not tried to evade the police; if they had wanted him his address would have been forthcoming at any time, but the chief said this course would be expensive.

Earl Downie, one of the witnesses subpoenaed, was present; he said he knew nothing of the whereabouts of the other two, Fred Sullivan, and Joseph O'Toole. He knew they were out of town.

His Worship decided to adjourn the case for a week and wanted all witnesses to be present without further notice; in the meantime Gorman was to be confined in jail.

Mr Gordon was quickly on his feet again, and stated that under those circumstances he would have the prisoner committed for trial in the judge's criminal court, and he would make a new application for bail. He wanted to avoid having his client remain in jail for a week.

It may be stated in connection with the report previously published that young Gorman was not implicated in the theft from the National 'bus.

BIG EVENT FOR POOR CHILDREN IN MARKET HALL TO-NIGHT

The market hall has been thoroughly prepared for the big Christmas tree entertainment which will be given to-night under the auspices of the Children's Aid Society. The affair promises to be one of the happiest that has been arranged by any society for the children of the city. Not only one tree but two of the largest that would be suitable for this occasion, have been secured, and have been decorated in a beautiful manner, with all the Christmas tree accessories.

The society wishes it to be understood that the affair is for the children, preferably for the poorer children of the city. The officers have prepared many presents for the young folks, who will have the time of their lives.

The Salvation Army band has promised to be present and play during the evening. Mr. Edwards of the Crystal, has offered a film of moving pictures, and the street railway company has lent a lantern, so that moving pictures will be an amusement.

The officers of the society will be present, and all the children are invited to attend.

WEDDING BELLS

PETERS-RANNIE

On Wednesday evening a quiet wedding took place at the residence of Mr. M. Edwards, Ottawa street, when Miss Gertrude Rannie, daughter of Jas. Rannie, of Belmont township, was married to Mr. E Howard Peters, of Harvey street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. O H Coon in the presence of a small company of guests. Mr. and Mrs. Peters will reside on Harvey street.

WEATHERSTONE-STEVENSON

Campbellford, December 27th. — (Special.) — One of the happy events of Christmas Day was the marriage of Miss Ethel Stevenson, daughter of Mr. William Stevenson, Campbellford, to Mr. George H. Weatherstone, son of Mr. William Weatherstone of Peterborough, at the residence of the bride's father, Sebastopol street.

Promptly at noon to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, played by Miss Bertha Stevenson, a sister of the bride, the bridal party entered the tastefully decorated drawing room. The bride was given away by her father, but otherwise there were no attendants. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. O Reeves, beneath a canopy of evergreens and holly. The bride looked dainty in cream crepe de chine with cream lace trimmings.

After the ceremony a reception was held at which a sumptuous dinner was partaken of by the many friends and relatives who were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Weatherstone left left on the 3.05 p.m. train for Montreal. The travelling dress of the latter was of becoming brown cloth with taffeta hat to match. She also wore a fine set of sable furs. A large number of handsome gifts testified to the popularity of the couple. On their return from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Weatherstone will reside on Water street, Peterborough.

WEBB-DUVALL

A very quiet but pretty wedding took place at Young's Point at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Duvall, Dec. 26th, when their only daughter, Pearl, was united in marriage to Wm. Webb, also of Young's Point. The parlour was beautifully decorated for the occasion with evergreens and flowers. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Bedford of Lakefield, the bridesmaid being Miss Eva Mae Heard, of Young's Point, and the groomsmen, Mr. Wm. Meloy, a cousin of the groom, of Lakefield. The groom's present to the bride was a very pretty toilet set, and also a toilet set to the bridesmaid; to the groomsman, a shaving set. The bride received a beautiful water set from the bridesmaid, and from the groomsman a silver berry set. After the ceremony the guests sat down to dinner, after which the happy couple drove to Lakefield to take train for Peterborough, Toronto, Hamilton and other points, on a honeymoon trip, after they will return to Young's Point for the winter.

The Examiner Newsboys' Competition

There is but a short time left for the Boys to hustle and get new subscribers for the Daily Examiner, in order to win a prize which will be given on the 1st of January for the boy who secures the greatest number of new customers at that time. Every boy should hustle hard from now on. The first boy will win $25 the next boy $20, the third $15, 4th $10, 5th $5, 6th $4, 7th $3, 8th $2 and 10 other prizes of $1 each. Every boy should get his own customers and buy all his own papers, as he will be entitled to receive a prize if he looks after his subscribers and has gained sufficient since the competition commenced. Every boy should hustle and sell the Examiner from now until the end of the year. Give it your attention and you will be sure to win a prize.
